The Mahatma Is Arrested and Spirited Away to Jail as Staff Sleeps.

LONDON BACKS THE VICEROY

Wealthy Bengalese Pledge Their Loyalty—Action Expected to Rally Other Moderates.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, Monday, May 5.—Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign, was arrested early this morning at Surat. He was taken by train to Borivli on the Bombay-Baroda Railway and thence by automobile to Poona, where he will be detained.

Within a few minutes of the arrival of the Bombay-Baroda mail train at Surat station, the police called at Mr. Gandhi's bungalow. He was hurried to the station and placed in a reserved compartment and was en route to Poona even before his sleeping staff was aware that he had left the building.

Any demonstration at Poona was avoided by the Mahatma's transference to a closed automobile at Borivli and it swept along roads through deserted villages and into the Poona jail before news of the arrest had spread beyond the dusty streets of Surat.

Strategic points in Bombay were heavily guarded this morninig and reports from other centres show that the military are prepared for an emergency.

Held Under 1827 Ordinance.

The Indian Government censor has permitted the cryptic statement that Mr. Gandhi was arrested "under Ordinance 25 of the year 1827" and has left it to constitutional lawyers to determine what the charge implies. One interpretation placed upon this ordinance this morning is that the Mahatma can be held indefinitely in Yerroda jail in Poona without trial.

The news that the police had at last taken action reached Bombay when those outside the government's immediate circles had begun to think that the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, had changed his mind and given Mr. Gandhi a fresh lease on liberty. It was under this impression that the committee of the Bombay European Association decided yesterday to press upon the Governor, Sir Frederick Sykes the urgency of taking a firmer stand.

Cable messages from London had placed it beyond doubt that the Viceroy last week had consulted the MacDonald Government over the question of Mr. Gandhi's arrest and that the British reply was one of full support for the Viceroy in any action he cared to take.

The decision as to whether to arrest the leader of the civil disobedience campaign was left entirely to the Viceroy, as were the time and place of such an arrest if it were considered advisable.

Police Plans Well Laid.

The police plans were well laid and there was no evidence of hurried action, even though it was well known that the Viceroy had the backing of the British Government. As day after day passed and the Mahatma was allowed to pursue his campaign, it seemed that the Viceroy had decided that either the time was unripe for action or that the reaction to such an arrest, which was bound to be felt throughout the length and breadth of the Indian Empire, would be too violent to be coped with.

Scattered in distant stations far from the reach of troops or the protection of the government are isolated groups of Europeans with their wives and children, on whom would fall the first attack in any revolt. There is ample evidence that the chief centres of disaffection are well provided for in the matter of troops, but it is understood that the protection of the scattered European elements gave the Viceroy the greatest concern. There are no means of getting them within forts in the event of a sudden general uprising.

Last week-end was in the nature of a test. The disturbances were in-

Model Airplane Champions To Fly Craft Before Hoover

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Three boys who won championships as builders of model airplanes will fly from Detroit to Washington tomorrow on a two-day visit to demonstrate their planes for the President and other high government officials at Bolling Field, on the Capitol Plaza and in the rotunda of the Capitol itself. They will exhibit their craft in the annual national model contests in Detroit, June 30 and July 1, with 500 contestants from the United States, Canada and Hawaii.

They will be accompanied by Mitchell V. Charnley of The American Boy, which is giving them the trip; Merrill Hamburg, secretary of the Airplane Model League of America, and R. T. Walker of the Ford Motor Company.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS FACE STATE INQUIRY

COMPLAINTS CAUSE SURVEY

For the purpose of a study and comparison of the business operations of investment trust companies, questionnaires listing nineteen questions will be mailed to 250 New York City concerns today by Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn in charge of the State Bureau of Securities. Mr. Washburn is instituting the survey, he said yesterday, because of complaints against certain investment trusts.

The questionnaire calls for information concerning the character and condition of each corporation's portfolio, the manner in which investments are acquired and other data. Each questionnaire is to be accompanied by a summons directing the recipient to file the answer with Attorney General Hamilton Ward at the bureau's offices at 74 Trinity Place within a specified time. Mr. Washburn explained that the Attorney General's office is empowered to send out questionnaires by authorization of the State laws of 1921.

"The findings will be studied for the purpose of comparing the operations of the sound trusts with those trusts against which complaints have been made at our office," Mr. Washburn said. "No questionnaire has been sent from the Bureau of Securities for two years. We desire to ascertain whether certain practices engaged in at the time of the last questionnaire are still followed."

The forms sent out include a statement of the Attorney General's authority in seeking such information. They require the recipient to state whether his company's business is done as a corporation, or under a deed of trust or other form of trust or association. All replies must be sworn to before a notary.

Other questions require the names,

WOMAN LEADS FIGHT ON LAUNDRY GANGS TO END TERRORISM

Mrs. T. H. Whitney Is Chosen as Dictator in Move to Clean Up Brooklyn Industry.

AIMS TO WIPE OUT "RACKET"

Wife of B. M. T. Director Will Serve Without Pay as a "Civic Responsibility."

FIGHTS $250,000 TRIBUTE

Sum Paid Annually to "Masquerading Racketeers," She Says—Believes Drive Will Lower Prices.

In an attempt to break the grip of the Brooklyn underworld on a legitimate industry, Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, wife, mother and lawyer, took office yesterday as dictator of the destinies of the Neighborhood Laundry Owners' Association of Brooklyn, an organization said to include in its membership about 95 per cent of the laundry owners in the borough.

Mrs. Whitney, who is the wife of Travis H. Whitney, a director of the B. M. T. lines, chairman of the board of the United Shares Corporation and former Public Service Commissioner, has been endowed with absolute power by the members of the association in an endeavor by them to relieve their organization of the payment of tribute to gangsters, gunmen and "racketeers" who have been mulcting the owners of huge sums for many years past.

She is said to be the first woman to hold a post as dictator of an industry. Mrs. Whitney accepted the position without pay, holding it a "civic responsibility" to combat this "nefarious practice."

Aims to Build Up Morale.

"Obviously the first thing to be done," she said, "is to increase the morale of the laundry owners so that they will no longer fearfully accept every demand of the racketeer. I want them to realize that I am absolutely back of them and that they shall not have to ask for any private protection. We'll call on the police when and if necessary."

Mrs. Whitney was one of the first women lawyers admitted to the bar in New York. She was connected with the Legal Aid Society for many years, is prominent in the National Women's Republican Club and in local Republican circles, and is chairman of the Republican Educational Council.

A short time ago she was appointed secretary of the Brooklyn Economic Conference Board by Meier Steinbrink, Republican leader. Jacob Mellon, formerly executive director of the Laundry Owners' Association, which is still under investigation by Deputy Attorney General William M. Brouillard, asked the aid of the conference board and Mrs. Whitney was appointed to make an investigation. Later, after Mr. Brouillard had held his last public hearing and he had been told by some of the plaintiffs interested in the dissolution of the association that a "compromise" was being effected, the association by unanimous vote authorized a committee to select a prominent public person to act as a dictator of the industry. Mrs. Whitney was asked some time ago and definitely accepted yesterday. She has been officially named as a "director" of the association.

Murder Shed Light on "Racket."

The history of the metropolitan laundry business has been closely interwoven for years with the life of the underworld, but general attention was not directed to the extent of the Warm Sun Finds Roads and Resorts Crowded; 50-Mile Wind Raises 'Sandstorms' Along Shore

New Yorkers took to the road and the beaches yesterday under a warm sun that was tempered by a strong wind. Highways leading to the country and to the seashore bore unending streams of traffic.

At Coney Island the crowd was put at more than 500,000 and several hundred persons tried the surf. Others were content to stroll on the boardwalk, watching the whitecaps froth. Concessions were open the length of the resort and a midsummer atmosphere prevailed.

Motorists heading into the Rockaways had to proceed cautiously through miniature sandstorms that swept the Beach Channel Drive and other shore highways, but the boardwalk crowd was estimated at more than 50,000. Fishermen bobbing wildly in the choppy bay held the attention of those ashore.

The wind was strong all morning and reached its maximum velocity of close to fifty miles an hour at 2 P. M., when it began gradually to abate. The highest temperature for the day was 75 degrees, recorded at 5:30 P. M., and the day's average was 63, 9 points above last Sunday's.

At Grand Central Flying Field in Jackson Heights the dust clouds raised by the wind compelled officials to call off a parachute jumping contest and cut short the dollar rides. Pilots found it difficult to take off and land because of the driven dust.

Westchester drew thousands of visitors, more than 74,000 cars passing over the Hutchinson River, Bronx River and Saw Mill River Parkways. Playland, Rye and Oakland beaches accommodated 50,000 guests. Extra policemen kept traffic moving.

Atlantic City and Asbury Park reported busy week-ends, all outbound New York and Philadelphia trains carrying extra coaches to the resorts. More than 55,000 cars passed through Holland Tunnel.

1,028 Economists Ask Hoover To Veto Pending Tariff Bill

Professors in 179 Colleges and Other Leaders Assail Rise in Rates as Harmful to Country and Sure to Bring Reprisals.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Vigorous opposition to passage of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill is voiced by 1,028 economists, members of the American Economic Association, in a statement presented to President Hoover, Senator Smoot and Representative Hawley by Dr. Claire Wilcox, associate professor of economics at Swarthmore College, and made public here today. They urge the President to veto the measure if Congress passes it.

Economists from forty-six States and 179 colleges, among them Irving Fisher of Yale, Frank W. Taussig of Harvard, Frank A. Fetter of Princeton, Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia, J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago and Willford I. King of New York University join in the statement.

Arguing against increased tariff rates they declare that the pending bill will raise the cost of living and injure the "majority of our citizens," that under it the vast majority of farmers would lose and that American export trade in general would suffer.

Asserting that America now faces the problem of unemployment, the economists challenge the contention of high tariff proponents that higher rates will give work to the idle. Employment, they state, cannot be increased by restricting trade, and American industry, in "the present crisis, might be spared the burden of adjusting itself to higher schedules of duties."

They urge the administration to give regard to that "bitterness which a policy of higher tariffs would inevitably inject into our international relations."

The text of the statement is:

"The undersigned American economists and teachers of economics strongly urge that any measure which provides for a general upward revision of tariff rates be denied passage by Congress, or if passed, be vetoed by the President.

"We are convinced that increased restrictive duties would be a mistake. They would operate, in general, to increase the prices which domestic consumers would have to pay. By raising prices they would encourage concerns with higher costs to undertake production, thus compelling the consumer to subsidize waste and inefficiency in industry.

"At the same time they would

Senate Group, Led by Borah, Still Insists on Plan, Twice Rejected by House.

FAILURE IS PREDICTED

Conference Report Reaches Upper Chamber Today—New Parley With House Coming.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Western farm bloc, headed by Senator Borah of Idaho, is preparing to put up a stout fight to retain in the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill the Senate amendments for export debenture payments to agriculture and depriving the President of the power to make changes in duties under the flexible tariff provision.

Despite the fact that both proposals were rejected by overwhelming votes in the House, the Republican insurgents, aided by Democrats, will attempt soon to have the Senate go on record again in favor of debenture and the Simmons amendment, which would require the Tariff Commission, in recommending either reductions or increases in duties, to report directly to Congress instead of to the President as at present.

The conference report on the tariff bill will reach the Senate probably tomorrow. The House, in rejecting the amendments, asked for another conference with the Senate.

Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee will seek, either Tuesday or Wednesday, to have the Senate agree to conference, and his motion probably will be adopted without opposition. It is known, of course, that a further disagreement will be reported on debenture and flexible tariff, and this will bring up both proposals for discussion in the Senate.

The administration forces appear to be confident that the next time the debenture amendment is voted on by the Senate it will be rejected. There is a possibility of a compromise on the flexible tariff amendment, but administration spokesmen have stated frankly in cloak rooms that, if the tariff bill reaches the President with the debenture amendment he will veto the measure.

In the forthcoming conference there will be at least a perfunctory effort to persuade the House conferees to yield on lumber and silver. The House put lumber on the free list, but the Senate made it dutiable at $1.50 a thousand board feet. The House rejected the Senate amendment. It yielded to the Senate amendment admitting shingles duty free, thus scrapping its own proposal that shingles should bear a duty of 25 per cent ad valorem.

The House refused to accept the Pittman amendment, adopted by the Senate, imposing a duty of 30 cents an ounce on silver. All these propositions will be considered again, but none is likely to be long debated.

The heavy House votes on the debenture plan and the flexible tariff amendment are said to have discouraged some farm bloc Senators. The provisions were adopted by the Senate at a time when the Democratic-insurgent coalition was in good working order. Before the tariff bill was

HALE POSTPONES TREATY HEARING

Naval Committee Chairman Agrees to Defer to Foreign Relations Group.

ADAMS WAS TO BE HEARD

Stimson Is Now Expected to Make First Statement on Naval Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The hearing on the London naval treaty, which had been scheduled to begin tomorrow morning before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, with Secretary Adams as the first witness, was suddenly called off tonight by Senator Hale, chairman of the committee.

No reason was given for the change of plans, but it was supposed that Senator Hale finally gave way to the view expressed among Republican leaders that the treaty should be fully explained by Secretary Stimson and other members of the American delegates to the London conference before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in advance of any examination into its technical details by the Naval Affairs Committee, such as was proposed by Chairman Hale.

Regarding the postponement Senator Hale made the following announcement:

"Secretary Adams will be the first witness to appear before the Naval Affairs Committee of the Senate in its investigation of the naval aspects of the London treaty. He will be called upon to explain the treaty to the committee.

"In view of the fact that the treaty is now before the Committee on Foreign Relations, it has seemed best, after consultation with Secretary Adams, to defer the meeting called for tomorrow until Secretary Stimson shall have had an opportunity to make a similar explanation, should he be called upon to do so, to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

"Immediately after this has been done the hearings of the Committee on Naval Affairs will be started."

Hale's Taking Lead Resented.

Even before Senator Hale issued his statement it had become known that members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee were vexed over what they declared was an attempt on the part of the Naval Affairs Committee to steal the limelight.

Members of the Foreign Relations Committee, while not opposed to the inquiries proposed by Senator Hale and Representative Britten of the House Naval Committee, asserted that there was nothing so technical in the treaty provisions that it could not be comprehended by the Foreign Relations Committee. They also said that two of their colleagues, Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Robinson of Arkansas, who were delegates at London, were perhaps more familiar with the technical aspects than most naval officials.

Therefore, in the opinion of members of this committee, there was no need for the inquiry proposed by Senator Hale, although their chairman, Senator Borah, discussing it recently, said that he saw no reason to object to the Naval Committee's holding hearings.

Secretary Stimson will appear on Wednesday before the Foreign Rela-

ROOSEVELT SUBMITS LONG-RANGE PLAN TO AID EMPLOYMENT

"CORNER NOT YET TURNED"

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—Declaring that "we have not yet turned the corner toward greater employment in industrial activity," Governor Roosevelt, prior to his departure for Warm Springs, Ga., sent letters to the Mayors of cities of the State and to chairmen of the various boards of supervisors, urging them to begin work at once to improve the unemployment situation during the Fall and Winter.

The Governor stated that in some cities successful relief measures had been applied and that in the next few months there would be further improvement, but not enough to restore normal employment or to effect a return to stable business. He submitted a five-point program to deal with the situation.

Full Stability Not in Sight.

In his letter, made public here today, the Governor said:

"A recent inquiry made by me of public officials and chambers of commerce all over New York State, conferences with responsible labor leaders and conferences and correspondence between the Industrial Commissioner and experienced industrialists of this State reveal the fact that we have not yet turned the corner toward greater employment in industrial activity in the State of New York.

"We are suffering from unemployment because of three causes: first, seasonal fluctuations which have become chronic in some industries; second, technology unemployment or displacement due to the amount of labor-saving machinery and methods and, third, depression due to business cycle which is an economical phenomenon occurring with some irregularity throughout the nation as well as in this State.

"There is, of course, likely to be some easing of the unemployment situation with the coming of Spring and the opening of some construction activity and the development of agriculture. This will not be sufficient to restore the normal employment necessary for stable business.

"Public officials everywhere should make plans now so that the outlook for the Winter and Autumn of 1930-31 will be less distressing. Concerted action of all elements will do much to remedy existing unemployment and prevent further depression. Action should be taken in full knowledge of the facts, but without hysteria or exaggeration.

Measures Proposed.

"In some of the cities of this and other States successful enterprises for relief of emergencies have been instituted and I recommend to Mayors, Boards of Supervisors, public officials in every county of this State immediate adoption of the following program, which is based on the best experience of American communities in dealing with this unfortunate situation:

"1—The collection locally by responsible agents of complete local figures on the number of unemployed in each city and town; the Department of Labor is prepared to suggest forms and methods for such an enumeration.

"2—The cooperative organization and supervision of public and private philanthropic activities for the

DANVILLE, Va., May 4.—About 9 o'clock last night residents of Virginia and North Carolina viewed a giant meteor which caused fright in many communities. A large ball of fire was seen to pass through space apparently close to the earth, which was bathed for several seconds in a brilliant white light.

In many instances persons calling newspaper offices for information said their houses trembled during the passage of the meteor. At Yanceyville, N. C., near here, it was said that a "roaring sound of terrifying proportions" alarmed that neighborhood. Other descriptions of the meteor's passage recounted a heavy thunderclap.

One weird experience was that of Gene Brown, an air-mail pilot, who, while south from Greensboro, N. C., suddenly became aware of a bright light behind him. He banked sharply, being for the moment afraid that the rear of his plane had caught fire. As he veered off his course, he said, he saw "a huge ball of fire" traveling toward the northeast.

Motorists said that State highways for a few seconds were lighted up as clearly as by daylight. Others said that the meteor changed in color from white to gold and then to light green.

In this section uncolored vertical bands of the aurora borealis were observed at about 30 degrees above the horizon just after 11 o'clock last night. The display stood out plainly against the northern sky as the bands shifted in slow movement and then slowly faded. This is an uncommon sight in New York at this time of the year, as ordinarily the aurora borealis is observed here only in the Fall.

Jersey Farmer Takes His Horse Into Kitchen to Escape Flames

Special to The New York Times.

DACOSTA, N. J., May 4.—Firemen and volunteers fighting the grass and brush fires near here entered the farmhouse of John Cole late today. They dashed into the building to get a brief respite from the terrific heat of the burning brush.

In the kitchen they found Cole and his plow horse. The farmer said he had rescued the animal from the barn, which had burned, and had been forced into the house because of the heat. The firemen saved Cole's home.

FIRE SWEEPS NASHUA; OVER 1,000 HOMELESS

200 Homes and Three Industrial Plants Destroyed With $5,000,000 Loss.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHUA, N. H., May 4.—At least 200 homes, two churches and a parochial school and the buildings of several industrial plants were destroyed by a fire which swept the southeastern section of this city this afternoon, leaped across the Merrimack River at the southern city limits and, still fanned by a forty-mile northwest wind, was raging southward out of control through heavy timberland tonight. The damage will reach at least $5,000,000.

More than 1,000 persons were homeless in the city proper. Local National Guard units were mobilized and with every available policeman were patrolling the streets to prevent looting and provide aid and shelter for the homeless.

Tents, army cots, cooking utensils and other army equipment had been gathered in the city and were also brought from the State capital at Concord.

Every fireman in the city, with organized firefighters and volunteers from twenty other cities and towns within a radius of thirty miles, was battling the flames to the south of the city as they swept toward Hudson, Tyngsboro and the Massachusetts State line.

State Officials on Scene.

Governor Tobey, the Adjutant General and other State officials drove here from the Capitol as soon as the seriousness of the situation was revealed and conferred with Mayor Sullivan and other city officials over caring for the homeless.

The fire started from a cause still undetermined in a covered wooden railroad bridge over the Merrimac River and, driven by a stiff breeze which increased as the afternoon wore on, spread to a lumber yard fronting the river. Thence the flames raced down a two-mile stretch of timber piled on the river front, spreading fanwise into the Crown Hill residential section back from the river.

So fast was the spread of the conflagration the fire department was powerless to check it and block after block of houses were quickly reduced to embers.

Terrified residents, warned to leave the threatened area, piled their belonging in the streets, carried off what they could and returned later

SCORES OF HOMES BURNED

SPREAD ON LONG ISLAND

DAMAGE PUT AT $2,000,000

Regions Swept Also Up-State, and in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Spurred by high winds to redoubled fury, fires swept yesterday through dry grass and tinderlike undergrowth or leaped to houses or trees on Long Island, in New Jersey and on Staten Island, causing damage tentatively put at more than $2,000,000. Firefighters in the metropolitan area were worn down to the point of exhaustion by the battle to check the flames.

Meanwhile, outside the metropolitan limits other extensive brush and timber fires were threatening homes and government tree preserves. The worst of these blackened an area of approximately fifty square miles between Ladentown and Suffern, in the Ramapo foothills on the western side of the Palisades, before 500 men from a dozen villages and towns brought it under control.

Reports last night from the fire zones indicated that many towns were encircled by blazing vegetation, with their fate resting solely with the wind. It was estimated that at least forty communities were threatened by flames. Scores of homes were destroyed, and only a shift of the wind in the late afternoon saved 3,500 bungalows at South Beach and Oakwood Beach on Staten Island. As it was, 82 of the Summer houses were burned and 200 scorched.

Although the burning areas on Long Island and in New Jersey constituted constant danger threats, the fires at the Staten Island beaches caused a master alarm to be flashed over the wires of the Fire Department for the first time in twenty-five years. Three ferryboats carried Manhattan apparatus to the beaches, where in one instance hose had to be stretched for a half mile before the water was ordered turned on.

Smoke Pall Over Island.

The burning grass gave off a dense and pungent smoke. At times the cloud over Long Island, as viewed by aviators, rose 4,000 feet, mushrooming into a widespread pall that hung gloomily in the sky. Great gusts of the smoke broke away and drifted oceanward as the eccentricities of air currents were encountered at high altitudes. Tens of thousands of persons viewed the fire battles and their weird sky effects.

The firefighters of Jersey, Long Island and Staten Island departments or fire houses were aided by thousands of citizens, in many cases whole families turning out to battle the flames as they sped along the ground. Despite the extent of the fires and the numbers engaged in combating them, only one person was reported seriously injured, although scores were exhausted or singed.

The damage on Staten Island, where brush and tree fires near five towns were added to the fires at the beaches, was estimated at about $500,000. Over the week-end, fires in South Jersey caused damage of more than $1,000,000, while Long Island losses were calculated at about $500,000. Six fires in Queens were listed at $50,000. During the day eighteen fire alarms were turned in from the Brownsville and East New York sections of Brooklyn, but none of them was of any consequence.

Master Alarm Sounded.

The sounding of the "master signal" alarm, which followed the sounding of a five-alarm or borough call for apparatus sent twenty pieces of Manhattan fire-fighting apparatus to Staten Island. Engine companies, hook and ladder companies and other apparatus was shifted from various points to downtown Manhattan to take the places of the companies ordered down the bay.

The call was sent in at 4:15 P. M., when all of the Staten Island firefighters were busy trying to subdue grass and timber fires near Princes Bay, Sandy Ground, Annandale and Rossville. The fires there had been reported under control at 1 A. M., but at 9 A. M. the high wind had revived them to greater force than before.

When the summons was received the municipal ferries were notified and three boats were waiting when the firemen reached the South Ferry slips. The ferryboat Mayor Gaynor got away first with three pieces of apparatus aboard. Then the Manhattan went out with seven, followed quickly by the Brooklyn with ten companies aboard.

Brush Fires Spread in Suburban Areas, Menacing Towns

Arriving at St. George, the fire apparatus was raced to South Beach, where a grass and brush fire was being carried toward 2,500 bungalows. The Manhattan firemen had considerable difficulty in reaching the burning area, and hose had to be stretched for half a mile before they could go to work on the fire. Once the water was turned on, the firefighters made short work of the blaze.

They were preparing to return to their Manhattan stations when a three-alarm call was turned in from Oakwood Beach, which is only a half-mile down the shore from South Beach. The firemen, however, because of intervening meadow land, were forced to take a circuitous way.

The wind was at fifty-five-mile intensity when the firemen reached Oakwood. The fire was burning briskly and was rapidly approaching more than 1,000 of the bungalows, most of them of light construction. Fully one-third of the houses were tenanted yesterday by owners who had gone down to prepare their habitations for the Summer. All of the owners were ordered out of the area, and in the excitement and smoke two women fainted. They were revived quickly.

The Oakwood fire had considerable headway and the land firemen, reinforced by the fireboat Zophar Mills, were just about holding their own at 6:30 P. M., when the shift of wind swept the fire away from the bungalow colony. Shortly before the shift Manhattan Police Headquarters had dispatched three emergency trucks, each manned by a crew of fifteen, to aid the Staten Island trucks in handling the crowd.

Fully 10,000 persons watched the flames and the columns of smoke spiraling skyward, but the emergency crews, aided by policemen sent from St. George and New Drop, had little trouble maintaining lines. The smoke could be seen at Coney Island and at Sandy Hook.

Change of Wind Helps

After the change of wind had helped the firemen they soon succeeded in getting the fire under control, and many of the spectators then motored down to Rossville, where the reborn fire was stubbornly refusing to yield to the fire-fighters. Elsewhere on the island nineteen grass or brush fires started up, but only one caused much damage. This was a fire that spread to the lumber yard of William S. Van Clise at 1,281 Richmond Terrace, Port Richmond. The damage was estimated at $25,000.

When the fire at Rossville and Princes Bay flared again, fifteen companies were dispatched to cope with it. The wind during the morning and early afternoon was stronger than it had been on Saturday and the fire crept within a quarter mile of the village limits of Pleasant Plains. More than 1,500 families were packing up to evacuate their homes when the shift of wind, as it had saved the homes at Oakwood, saved them.

Two cottages were caught in the flames at Sandy Grove and were quickly burned to the ground. Next the fire swept up to a haystack containing 150 tons. The fire ate into this quickly and then ignited a garage containing fifty second-hand automobiles. The garage and the stack were on the property of Hiram S. Turner of Rossville. Three barns were claimed next. As the fire burned the garage, gasoline in the tanks of the stored machines exploded. Twenty-five explosions were counted.

More than 500 citizens joined the firemen in their work at the five towns. Most of them were armed with brooms with which they beat out small fires which started up after the fire-fighters had passed with their drenching streams.

Late in the day Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman went to Oakwood Beach and later to Rossville and the other towns. He said the fires were the worst in twenty-five years on the island. Many trees were burned and toppled to break electric light and telephone wires. For a time the police wires at New Dorp and St. George were affected.

Long Island Towns Threatened.

Meanwhile Long Island was fighting fires at many points, with the wind, which had changed from the west to northwest, sending the fires toward towns on the South Shore. By 2 P. M. more than 150 acres had been burned over at Bohemia, L. I., north of Sayville, and on the easterly limit of the village the fire was sweeping around to encircle the town. Firemen fighting the fire were tired, after hours of struggle.

Pine Aire, on the main line of the Long Island Railroad, reported that grass and brush fires were sweeping due south, threatening the town and Brightwaters, which adjoins it. In the path of the land fire was the partly constructed new Pilgrims State Hospital. Sporadic grass and brush fires started in Brightwaters itself, but firemen from Bay Shore soon put them out.

Fire started between Deer Park, L. I., north of Babylon, and the motor parkway. The fire burned strongly all day and last evening it was so close to the village that the roof of the firehouse took fire. It was soon extinguished. This was scarcely out of the way before fire began at West Babylon and at 5:30 P. M. it was burning steadily toward Babylon, with the wind speeding it on. This blaze had consumed two houses and the firemen were fighting desperately to hold it back from fifty other structures.

North of Lindenhurst, near Great River and northeast of Sayville areas of burning grass were potential danger spots as the wind fanned the flames toward the South Shore villages and towns. Volunteers were back-firing in an effort to stay the march of the flames.

Epidemic of Grass Fires.

Near Farmingdale an epidemic of grass fires was reported. Airmen from Roosevelt, Mitchel and Curtiss flying fields, flying over the section, reported that the ground seemed to be dotted with puffs of smoke, each a small fire. The most serious of the fires in this territory appeared to be in the vicinity of Melville, where the fire was burning on a ten-mile front, southeast of Huntington. The smoke from the fire which had its centre at Melville could be seen for forty or fifty miles, due to the extreme visibility of yesterday afternoon.

The streets of Farmingdale were for a time fogged with the smoke. From a distance the town itself appeared to be on fire. Joseph Post, deputy fire warden at East Farmingdale, reported the fires in the Deer Park section had burned over fifty-five acres and had at one time approached close to the estate of the late August Belmont. The estate, however, escaped all damage.

Late in the day, as the usual throng of Sunday motorists clogged the Long Island highways, commercial airplanes began taking passengers up for a view of the fire zones. The planes were forced to attain an altitude of 5,000 feet to give a clear picture of the ten-mile front at Melville.

Patchogue Has Hectic Time.

Firemen at Patchogue had a hectic time of it. They were out in force fighting a grass blaze on the edge of the town when another fire call came. The apparatus was divided and both fires were soon put out. The second fire, however, did considerable damage before it was under control.

The fire was discovered in a two-story warehouse at the rear of the three-story department store of Swezey and Newins, Inc., at Main Street and Ocean Avenue. The Bellport Fire Department was called on for aid, but before the fire was extinguished the warehouse, part of the department store, a confectionery store and a small department store next door were damaged.

After the two fires were out another was reported. The third blaze attacked garages and storehouses owned by Joseph Wilson, a building contractor. The storehouse was destroyed. After this, the fire swept down Swan Creek and threatened two dwellings before burning itself out.

Clarence Dare, chief forest ranger, reporting for the area near Port Jefferson, said six grass fires had been fought during the day. He said that he had reports that several chicken farms near Centre Moriches had been claimed by the flames in underbrush there.

The forest fire which started at West Hampton, L. I., on Saturday was burning so briskly yesterday that a call for fresh forces of fire-fighters was sounded by the big fire siren of Riverhead. The regular and volunteer firemen, numbering in all twenty-five men, manned the town's chemical engine and two hose carts and hurried to West Hampton, where they aided more than 100 regular and volunteer firemen of that village. By night it was reported that they had the fire at West Hampton under control. It was believed that they would save several small houses occupied by Negroes in the path of the fire.

Paul Schorse, a member of the volunteer fire company at Southampton, L. I., was injured when a fire truck on which he and three others were riding was in collision with an automobile near Southampton. Schorse's right leg was broken i ntwo places and the three other firemen were bruised. They were returning from a brush fire at North Sea.

One of the most stubborn fires on Long Island was that near old Camp Upton, at Yaphank, where the sand dunes are thickly overgrown with dwarf pine and underbrush. The area on fire near old Camp Upton is north of Mastick, L. I., and covers several square miles. The fire is reported to have spread there from Manorville, where it started on Saturday.

A third fire was eating its way along the Bald Hill Range, the so-called backbone of Long Island, and was visible last night to villagers in Riverhead, Manorville, Calverton and other Long Island towns seven miles away.

Two miles north of the section that was afire at Camp Upton a fourth forest fire at Wading River was being fought. In an effort to save cottages and other structures threatened by the advancing lines of flame, the volunteers and other fire brigades were "back firing" or burning the inflammable underbrush and grass around the buildings they hoped to save.

Fierce Blazes in Jersey.

New Jersey reported fires burning fiercely at many points in the southern part of the State. From Atlantic City came the news that six fire departments and 500 volunteers, all under the direction of State Fire Warden Joseph Brown of Port Republic, fought all yesterday one of the worst forest fires in the history of Atlantic County and at nightfall the fire was still raging, after having laid waste more than 1,500 acres of scrub oak and pine underbrush, sent families fleeing from their homes and destroyed several small houses, all in the vicinity of Absecon Highlands.

The fire started at noon along the White Horse Pike, about midway between Pomona and Absecon, sent motorists along the pike scurrying for safety, and, fanned by a stiff south wind, spread along a width of half a mile in the direction of Absecon.

As it approached the White Horse Village, a subdivision on the outskirts of Absecon, the wind veered to the southeast, and sent the flames in the direction of Absecon Highlands and Oceanville, cutting a swath a mile wide.

Meanwhile apparatus from the Atlantic City, Absecon, Oceanville, Pomona and Egg Harbor Fire Departments was summoned to the scene. Backfiring was resorted to south of Oceanville in an effort to prevent the flames from sweeping down upon that town, which has a population of nearly 1,500. Toward the middle of the afternoon the fire swept over a huge cedar swamp near Absecon Highland and, according to State troopers, destroyed several small houses in the highlands.

Save Gasoline Stations.

Part of the efforts of the fire fighters was directed to saving numerous gasoline stations, along the White Horse Pike, and New York road. When the flames veered in the direction of Oceanville and Absecon Highlands, they licked up everything in their path, and reached the borders of the New York road, along which they spread, west of the Pitney Road. Traffic was suspended on the latter highway, and motorists over the New York road picked their way with care, but at no time were in danger.

A heavy pall of smoke hung on the air for a distance of thirty miles completely obscuring the sun, and filling the air with the oder of burning wood. Sparks from the fire were flying in all directions, and Warden Brown notified his deputies to be on guard against fires starting in new localities.

500 Fight Flames in Ramapo Foothills; Fires Laid to Campers; Smoke Blots Out Sun

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., May 4.—Tremendous clouds of smoke rising from about fifty miles of burning timber and brush blotted out the sun this afternoon in the foothills of the Ramapos, between Suffern and Ladentown, while 500 firemen from more than a dozen towns and villages fought with chemicals, water and brooms to halt the flames' advance.

The fire started in several places, almost simultaneously, about 1 P. M., and it seemed to be the general opinion here that campers and hikers out for a holiday in the hills might have been responsible; that fires used to cook the noonday meal had not been properly extinguished and had rapidly spread through the dry grass and timber, blown by the strong wind.

Seven companies from Nyack, five from Spring Valley, three from Haverstraw and apparatus from Stony Point, West Haverstraw, Garnerville, West Nyack, Suffern and other towns in the vicinity were called out as the sky began to darken. The dense, thick clouds of pungent smoke rolled into the valleys, drove farmers from their homes and emptied Summer cottages.

Fire captains, aided by farmers and fire wardens, kept shifting the forces as the flames tacked, threatening homes and other property. By skillful manoeuvring of men and apparatus the leaders managed to confine the damage to barns and other outhouses. Creeks were used for water supply wherever available, but in many places only chemicals and brooms could be used.

Letchworth Village, the vast farm for the feeble-minded, had natural protection against the flames, because all the buildings are of stone and wide tracts of cultivated land gave the fire no hold, but the smoke was dense and disturbed the tenants. Senator Copeland's estate at Suffern was close to the fire wall, but hard work by the volunteers and paid forces prevented any damage there.

The 500 men seemed to have control of the situation by nightfall. At this time the flames still raced over valuable acres of government-planted timber owned by the Interstate Park Commission and wide areas of brush still flamed, but they were not menacing any outside property. Guards were detailed, nevertheless, to watch through the night, and apparatus remained in the vicinity.

The man who, apparently, was the only serious casualty of the flames in the metropolitan fire zones, was Paul Tushik, 32 years old of Mays Landing Road, Pomona. He was on a small truck in a wagon path in the scrub pines back of Absecon when the wind veered and trapped him. He fell to the ground after a short effort to make his way against the terrific heat and through the smoke to the main road.

State Trooper Edward Metterman saw the man. Metterman shielding his face ran through a wall of flame from flaring undergrowth and carried Tushik, who was unconscious, to safety. The man was taken to the Atlantic City Hospital where his condition last night was described as fair. Last Sunday, a sister of Tushik, Miss Julia Tushik, while driving a car along the English Creek Road, near Absecon, ran the machine into a tree when grass fire smoke obscured her vision.

The Absecon fire early tonight was raging off the Pitney and New York roads, about three miles from Absecon and about a mile from Oceanville. At 7 P. M. it reached Smithville, on the New York road, where several small houses were burned.

All Fire Apparatus Out.

Practically every fire department in Southern New Jersey was out fighting the fires. The blaze, which started on Saturday at Cecil, spread through Newtonville and Folsom, and yesterday was close to Weymouth. The total length of this fire was estimated at twenty-four miles, while the breadth varied from one to three miles. The blaze destroyed four houses at Cecil and another near Cedar Lake and sent hundreds fleeing from their homes.

After leaving Cecil the flames spread to Folsom and ignited several houses there, but these were saved by the quick work of firemen. A bridge on the Cedar Lake-Cecil Road was ruined by the flames, preventing firemen from going to Cecil to save property there.

Fire Warden Leonidas Coyle continued to direct the efforts of the fire fighters from an airplane, dropping messages to the district wardens, and maps of the burned areas. All available State Troopers were out, either helping fight the fires, or pressing motorists into service. Two of the latter were reported to have been arrested for refusing to help fight the fires, but this report was not confirmed.

Another fire started during the afternoon off the Mill Road between Pleasantville and Northfield. It was reported to be close to the Somers Company brick yard, endangering that plant, as well as several houses.

Motorists Still Drafted.

A fourth fire, which started near Newfield on Saturday, continued to burn yesterday near Mizpah, N. J. Residents of all near-by towns, firemen from ten communities and motorists along the Harding Highway were drafted to fight this blaze. The population of Gigantic City, located in the heart of the burned area, fled with their valuables when they saw the flames could not be controlled. Firemen hurried to the town to save what homes they could. Many roads were impassable because of the flames and dense smoke. Nearly 1,000 volunteers fought the flames throughout the night, assisted by firemen from Mays Landing, Belcoville, Mizpah, Richland, Minotola and Landisville, and while the outbreak appeared to be checked for a time yesterday, it was still burning furiously last night.

A forest fire which started late in the afternoon in the vicinity of Forked River, Ocean County, destroyed fifteen structures in that town, including the Presbyterian church. Hundreds fled from their homes, leaving their valuables behind.

Among the homes burned at Forked River was that of Carl B. Updyke, collector of the town. All of the town records and $10,000 in cash were burned. The home of Major C. Mathis, superintendent of schools at Florence, N. J., was destroyed with a loss of $6,000.

The fire which started southeast of Freehold had burned a path twelve miles long to a point near Lakehurst late last night. Part of the town of Bassville, which has a population of about 500, was burned down by this traveling fire.

Ten homes were destroyed in Laurelton, while firemen were concentrated in an effort to save the hamlet of Waletown in the Barnegat Bay section of Ocean County. At Allaire, near Manasquan, De Lisle's Inn was razed by the fire and some damage was done to the home of Arthur Brisbane, editor. The home is of fireproof construction and cost $250,000. Siloam, a Monmouth County village, was saved by fire companies from Highstown, Allentown and Adelphia.

The fire was still burning last night and was moving in the direction of Lakewood and Barnegat. Every available piece of fire apparatus for many miles around, as well as several hundred men, women and boys were trying to check the march of flames. They were making good progress, as the wind began to die down after sunset.

Northward from Forked River to Atlantic Highlands firemen had a busy day. In Oakhurst, in Ocean Township, two seven-room cottages were destroyed, a garage was burned out and another cottage was badly damaged. Burning brush was blamed for the fires.

Two Hamlets Wiped Out.

Caught in the path of the brush-fires, two small hamlets in the heart of the Ocean County pine belt were wiped out yesterday. They were Lacey, midway between Forked River and Whitings, where fifty families dwelt, and Bamber, three miles south of Lacey, where twenty homes were burned. There has been no rain in the pine belt for six weeks.

While firemen were fighting these fires, Tinton Falls, a hamlet near Red Bank, asked for apparatus. It was sent from Red Bank and Shrewsbury. The fire destroyed a garage in Water Street but was held within its original limits. Two planes from the airport at Red Bank hovered over the fire as the apparatus pumped water on it.

Deer, squirrels, birds and rabbits were driven out by the grass and brush fires. They scurried across roads heedless of the traffic. Thousands of the smaller animals perished in the fires.

More than 100 acres of timber land was burned clearly by fires at Shark River, between Asbury Park and Freehold. Allenwood, fourteen miles west of Asbury Park, was menaced by a fire which started on Saturday night but which apparently was under control last night. More than 500 acres had been burned over.

Another grass fire, traveling on a thirteen-mile front and from a mile to 500 yards in breadth, started at Clarksburg and continued to Jackson's Mills, west of Lakewood. Last evening it was approaching the naval air station at Lakehurst, but no apprehension was felt as the station is isolated in a great clearing.

The fire was close to the naval air reservation late last night, but was being held at a distance by the open clearing of the station grounds. The fire lookout station atop the lofty hangar, where the Graf Zeppelin was moored and which is the permanent home of the Los Angeles, reported that he was enveloped in smoke. The pall was so heavy the lookout reported his post useless.

Yet another fire started by burning brush destroyed a big barn on the estate of William B. Taylor, near Hightstown, N. J. Several head of cattle died in the blaze. The damage was put at $25,000.

Several Blazes in Queens.

Coming closer to this city, grass fires were responsible for several blazes yesterday in Queens. Three alarms were turned in for men and apparatus to fight a fire in dried grass at 61-10 Juniper Avenue, Middle Village, and at 3 P. M. a barn burst into flames. Apparatus was called from Jamaica, Richmond Hill, Woodhaven, Newtown and Brooklyn. The firemen fought the blaze for an hour and a half.

Two alarms were sounded for a fire at 82-06 Woodhaven Boulevard, which spread to three adjoining dwellings. Before it was brought under control damage of $8,000 had resulted. The origin of this fire was undetermined.

Grass again, however, was the fuel which fed a fire which burned a one-story dwelling at 224-19 147th Street, Rosedale. The loss was $17,000. Four other fires were subdued by the Queens firemen, none of them started by grass or brush.

HECKSCHER PARK DAMAGED.

Much Game Destroyed in Long Island Blaze—Only Buildings Saved.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ISLIP, L. I., May 4.—Fire almost completely devastated the Heckscher State Park here this afternoon and evening, destroying hundreds of deer, quail, pheasants, rabbits and other game which had flourished in the reserve. It was still burning strongly late tonight despite the efforts of 500 men.

The blaze started along the Merrick Road about 3 P. M. and fanned by a strong wind swept steadily southward across the nine square miles of the park. Only a narrow strip about a quarter of a mile wide at the eastern boundary of the park was untouched. Late tonight the fire was close to the shore of the Great South Bay and there seemed no hope of stopping it short of that point.

With the help of tractors the fire-fighters were able to dig fire-lanes about the buidings in the park which served to divert the flames from them, but otherwise their efforts were useless. Deer and other game which had been driven out of the park abounded along the roads and in the countryside near by this evening.

Special to The New York Times.

ISLIP, L. I., May 4.—A brush fire swept over an area of almost three square miles just north of the railroad station here this afternoon, but as far as is known tonight no one was injured and no homes were destroyed.

PENNSYLVANIA AREAS ON FIRE

Picnickers Caught in Blaze in a Philadelphia Grove.

A serious fire broke out at the edge of the Pennsylvania Chautauqua Grounds at the head of Lake Conewago, near Mount Gretna, the military reservation. Fire companies from seven communities laid several miles of hose and succeeded in halting the flames before they reached the government storehouses at Mount Gretna and several hundred Summer cottages on the Chautauqua and camp meeting grounds at the lake head.

Twenty-three fires in the Wyoming Valley district yesterday and today kept fire wardens sleepless and on the move continually. The worst fire in that region was along the Mehoopany Creek in Wyoming County, where firemen had to walk two miles to reach the scene. Other fires were reported from various parts of the State, and as evening approached the glare in the burning areas became visible for miles. High winds caught up showers of sparks and carried them long distances, adding to the danger.

Even Philadelphia entered the rapidly growing fire area late this afternoon when a large picnic grove in Fox Chase, in which about 400 persons were enjoying an outing, caught fire. The flames spread so rapidly that several persons had to run through them to safety. Firemen had to lay hose lines for two miles to reach the grove. Some of the picnickers were slightly injured.

INVESTIGATE $200,000 FIRE.

Amityville Officials Believe Lumber Yard Blaze Was Incendiary.

AMITYVILLE, L. I., May 4.—Fire which started at 1:15 A. M. in the Woods Lumber Company's yard, covering a square block, continued to burn today with loss tentatively estimated by Herbert H. Pinkham, president, at between $150,000 and $200,000. One house across the street from the lumber yard was destroyed and five others in the vicinity were damaged.

District Attorney Alexander G. Blue started an investigation and questioned several persons while the fire was still burning. Herman Muller of Sterling Place, Amityville, returning to his home shortly before 1 A. M., said he saw a man passing behind a parked automobile near the lumber yard carrying a huge can which he dumped in a vacant lot across the street. The District Attorney said that the automobile had been identified and that in the rear seat of the car had been found a length of rubber hose containing gasoline. A Sheriff's jury was picked to sift all evidence concerning the fire which the District Attorney may produce.

Almost simultaneously with the breaking out of the fire in the lumber yard fire was discovered in the New Point Hotel, a few blocks away, but was extinguished quickly. Investigators believed that both fires were started by the same hand with the idea of splitting the fire-fighting force of the village so that the lumber yard fire might gain considerable headway.

Bowdoin Students Help Salvage Furniture of Dr. E. N. Lippincott.

BRUNSWICK, Me., May 4.—The Summer residence of Dr. Edmund N. Lippincott at North Harpswell, one of the most attractive on Casco Bay, was destroyed by fire this afternoon with a loss of $35,000, partly covered by insurance.

The fire started in the roof, sparks from a fireplace fire evidently igniting the shingles. Fanned by a high wind the flames spread rapidly and by the time th Brunswick fire department had made the seven-mile run the entire upper part of the building was blazing. Neighbors and about a hundred Bowdoin College students aided the firemen in removing practically all the furniture from the lower floor. The pumper threw two streams of water on the flames until the duck pond from which water was being taken went dry.

NASHUA FIRE-SWEPT; OVER 1,000 HOMELESS

Five hours after the fire started it had covered more than three miles to the edge of the city and into the country beyond and had mushroomed out to a mile-wide front. Many sections of the burned area within the city could not be entered owing to the heat from the smouldering ruins and the smoke pall.

In some instances the flames acted with the freakishness of lightning or a tornado. Blocks or part of a block of houses were skipped or only slightly damaged before firemen got in from behind and checked the spread. There were more than 500 houses in the area through which the conflagration raged, but a police check early tonight showed that not more than 200 had been destroyed, although many others were badly damaged.

Probably the heaviest individual loser were Proctor Brothers & Co., lumber dealers, through whose yards the fire raced from one end to the other, leevling everything before it. The Infant Jesus Church and the parochial school building adjoining were leveled, as was the large plant of the White Mountain Ice Cream Freezer Company.

Priests Prove Heroes.

NASHUA, N. H., May 4.—Father Isadore Janelle and Father Ubalde Simoneau of the Church and Convent School of the Infant Jesus (French Roman Catholic) were heroes during the fire here today. Six hundred children were sitting in the parochial hall watching a play when some one came to the door and cried "Fire." Father Simoneau calmed the youngsters and led them all out safely. Ten minutes later the hall was a mass of fire.

As the church also caught fire Father Janelle ran in and out carrying the sacred vessels. After saving them all he collapsed and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Before firemen brought the fire under control tonight an area of approximately a square mile had been left a mass of ruins. At the armory the homeless gathered. Five hundred cots were provided and Elliott A. Carter, chairman of the local chapter of the Red Cross, took charge of providing them with food and bedding. A canteen was set up and relief workers ministered to elderly couples, little children and the others. The Salvation Army at Boston dispatched a truck and crew to aid in the work.

Those hardest hit, perhaps, were the employes of Proctor Brothers' barrel factory and the White Mountain Freezer Company, who lost their places of employment as well as their homes. These two plants, employing about 400 persons, were razed, as were the Hill Coal Company plant, the Nashua Building Company and the lumber yards of the large American Box and Lumber Company, thousands of feet of wood being destroyed.

In addition to the Church of the Infant Jesus, the Crown Hill Baptist Church was destroyed. Among the cities and towns which sent fire apparatus were Manchester, Merrimack and Milford in New Hampshire, and Lowell, Lawrence, Hudson and Woburn in Massachusetts.

MANY FIRES IN BAY STATE

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 4.—Four serious forest fires were raging, out of control, in Rhode Island late tonight after having destroyed a number of homes, injured several persons, caused tremendous property damage and left a wake of impassable roads and blackened areas of large extent.

Several towns and villages are in the paths of the fires and State troopers and fire-fighters believed that part or all of Perryville was doomed. Fires were burning on the outskirts of East Greenwich, North and South Kingston, Kingston, Usquepaugh, Hope Valley and other places.

Several firemen have been injured by débris and a suffocated girl was carried from a burning farm house near East Greenwich.

Sweeping along a fifteen mile front one fire advanced south and east from Hope Valley and Noosneck Hill toward Watch Hill, Green Hill and other Summer resort towns.

Six houses and a number of barns and other buildings near East Greenwich were destroyed. One thousand acres or more near the Rhode Island State College at Kingston were swept over, while firemen from three towns, aided by scores of students, fought to save the college buildings.

The East Greenwich fire was headed for Narragansett Bay, with no prospect tonight that it could be stopped. Much valuable property and a number of manufacturing plants are menaced.

1,400 Acres Swept.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 4.—Boston sent two pieces of fire apparatus twenty-five miles to Sudbury to aid the firemen of ten other cities and towns in that district to check the forest and brush fire which raged today over 1,500 acres of heavy timber in Marlboro, Sudbury and Wayland before a band of 300 department and volunteer fire fighters checked it within 1,000 yards of Henry Ford's famous Wayside Inn at Sudbury.

Besides Boston, help was sent from Wayland, Weston, South Framingham, Hudson and Southboro, while the State fire patrol, a State police and Henry Ford's own private apparatus from the inn grounds were called into the battle.

The Southboro firemen, aided by students from the exclusive St. Mark's School in that town, bore the brunt of the fight to keep the flames from the inn grounds.

The fire started within the Marlboro limits, spread through Sudbury and into Wayland before it was brought under control. A northwest wind that ranged from 25 to 35 miles an hour swept the fire along with terrifying rapidity while the firemen were unable to attack it anywhere but in scrub growth as the high wind and tinderlike condition of the woods sent the flames crackling through the tree tops.

The Marlboro fire was the worst of more than a dozen which laid waste thousands of acres of woodland in the State today, climaxing two hectic weeks in which fires have been reported at the rate of seventy-five a day because of an abnormally dry Spring.

Salem, Swampscott and Lynn firemen fought all day on a general alarm which swept over three square miles of timber in that district. More than a thousand acres of valuable pine were destroyed in Woronoco and Russell, near Springfield, while firemen successfully kept the flames from the Springfield water-works there; and more than twenty fires were reported within a 25-mile radius of Worcester in the centre of the State.

Connecticut Areas Burn.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4 (AP).—Forest fires in several sections of Connecticut tonight had destroyed several buildings, including a shed containing seven tons of tobacco, two dwellings and a number of farm buildings. Thousands of dollars of damage also was done to standing timber.

The most serious of the fires started this afternoon beside the New London-Hartford Highway, near the Marlborough-Glastonbury line. Nearly 1,000 men, including students from the Connecticut Agricultural College and a National Guard detail, were fighting to check the blaze tonight along the East Hampton-Marlborough Road, where back fires were being set along a four-mile front.

Cottages along the New London Turnpike at Lake Terramuggus in Marlborough were in danger and goods were being removed from several farmhouses.

In Windsor one of the most destructive fires in that section in years was subdued after it had destroyed valuable pine trees on the watershed of the Windsor Locks Water Company.

Another fire involving about four square miles on the outskirts of New Britain, Southing and Plainville was entinguished. Three fires were burning in Bristol.

In North Stonington, eight barns were destroyed, while several hundred acres of woodland were damaged in Mystic, Groton and Montville.

In Meriden, a fire was checked as the flames were approaching Merimer reservoir, located a short distance from Undercliff State Sanatorium.

Fires in Poughkeepsie Region.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 4 (AP).—Three forest fires were raging tonight in Columbia and Duchess Counties. One covered the southern end of East Mountain, near Wingdale, and was threatening a hotel and a Summer camp of about 100 cottages. Firemen from four villages were battling it. Another had swept nearly three miles at Fishkill Mountain, seventeen miles south of here. One hundred men were fighting it.

A third was burning near Copake, in the Taconic range of the Berkshire Mountains.

WILLIAM DE RUBRUQUIS, the great French friar, traveled through Asia during the thirteenth century. In writing of koumiss he says: "It makes one's inside feel very comfortable, and it also intoxicateth weak heads."

Today, in Acidophilus Milk, medical science has developed a new health-beverage. This non-intoxicating milk contains favorable bacteria which are the deadly enemies of the harmful putrefactive germs which inhabit the intestines. Unless neutralized, these dangerous organisms may weaken the whole body.

To establish the health colony of acidophilus bacteria, it is necessary to drink Acidophilus Milk thrice daily for a month at least. When you order, ask for Lederle's. It is prepared under rigid laboratory control.

KHUNZA, Nepal, April 23, via runner to Darjeeling, May 4.—My last dispatch was hammered on a portable typewriter with numbed fingers below Kang Pass. This is written in very different circumstances at Khunza in Nepal.

In my ears is the sound of yak bells, like Alpine cowbells, and the undertone of glacier torrents. I am sitting on a boulder amid a perfect grassy sward such as mountaineers dream of. Close by are the clustered chalets of Khunza, with wide-eaved stone-weighted roofs like Alpine chalets. Only the numerous prayer flags fluttering high from poles destroy the illusion that this is not an Alpine village back in the '60s unspoiled by tourists.

The people eye us curiously, for we are the first Europeans they have seen, although the headman, aged 43, says he remembers Douglas Freshfield's passage in 1899. Around us giant peaks sweep into the afternoon mists, their blue glacier tongues seeming to mock the invader of these primitive solitudes. Not one peak has known the foot of man. A cool, moisture-charged breeze blowing up the valley fans faces tortured during the last week by the fierce sun reflected from the vast snow fields.

A Bearded Band.

We are very different from the trim crowd of mountaineers that left Darjeeling. All are bearded save Herr Hoerlin, who retains his babyish complexion. Dr. Richter's growth is reminiscent of Dickens's Bill Sikes, but Professor Dyhrenfurth, our leader, and M. Duvenal rival him, while your correspondent has produced a fierce red affair scarcely concealing the sunburned ruin that once was his face.

If we are now only three easy marches from the base camp, the way has not been easy. No Himalayan expedition has experienced more transport difficulties than we. We got through only due to the splendid efforts of Wood Johnson and the sirdars and porters who remained faithful in every adversity. The difficulties were due to a late Winter plus a snowstorm which had deposited snow at low levels.

At Jongri a blizzard, resulting in the desertion of fifty Nepalese porters, was a serious setback as we were forced to leave many loads behind and traverse the 17,000-foot Kang Pass with a reduced and weakened party. Had it not been for Wood Johnson instilling spirit into the porters, it is doubtful whether we would have gotten across at all. Owing to the possibility of another snowstorm Professor Dyhrenfurth deemed it advisable to double-march over the pass, a severe test for the porters.

We left camp above Jongri in good weather. Herr Hoerlin and Herr Schneider went ahead, making a track up the long slopes of snow leading to Kang Pass. Many of the porters had not been provided with boots, as these had not been thought necessary ordinarily, and many hours of trudging in the snow proved a most severe trial, even for their toughened, leathery feet.

Scenery Gains in Grandeur.

The scenery gained in grandeur as we ascended. Behind us rose Narsing and several nameless summits with jagged ridges and torrential glaciers. To the right was a square-topped mountain with knifelike ice, Aretes, a spur of Kabru. Behind us blue waves of foothills merged imperceptibly into the translucent haze of the plain of Bengal. Glaring expanses of new snow and a sun almost vertically overhead combined to strip the skin from our face cream.

As we neared Kang Pass we were surprised to see Hoerlin and Schneider climbing the 19,000-foot Kang Peak. Slowly they moved up the merciless snow slopes ribbed and fanged with rocks, but they did it, making probably the first ascent, a fine effort from such a low camp. Seeing them put heart into the tired porters, who advanced with renewed confidence up the last weary slopes to Kang Pass. The usual cloudy counterpane billowed up from Nepal, meeting us on the pass and shutting out the view.

Save for Hoerlin and Schneider, Kang Pass was the highest point any of us had yet reached, and even at that height, 11,000 feet lower than Kanchenjunga, heart and lungs worked uncomfortably fast, while several suffered from headaches. Frau Dyhrenfurth, however, accomplished this effort, which would exhaust many men, splendidly.

Porters Stumble Down.

Easy snowslopes of broken rocks led down to the camp on the Nepal side. Wood Johnson remained behind to get the porters over the pass, and in the evening I returned to meet him. The last glare of sunset saw a sorry little band of exhausted porters stumbling down the snowslopes. Wood Johnson had a very hard time getting the men over the pass and tired himself out carrying loads.

The camp was aroused and the porters were assisted down the last ice-glazed rocks. Despite their goggles several of the porters were snow-blind, while one old man who had gallantly refused to part with his load until he was utterly exhausted, had frost-bitten feet. The porters' feat was indeed wonderful, for they were carrying loads of sixty pounds plus twenty pounds of personal equipment, more than twice the load of an Alpine porter, over a pass 1,000 feet higher than Mont Blanc.

The following day we descended to Tseram. I tried skis, tying them on with an odd-pieced string, a feat occasioning much amusement among the porters. We arrived at Tseram a dilapidated party, giving plenty of work for Dr. Richter.

News came by runner that the porters of the Hannah-Wieland party, one march behind us, had refused to start for Kang Pass. We sent back all the available boots and goggles and thirty-seven picked men under Lobsang, the chief sirdar, whose work renders him invaluable, to mop up the abandoned loads and help the second party.

Gurkha Sent for Aid.

At Tseram we learned that the subadar appointed to help us by the Maharajah of Nepal was some distance down the valley. As it was absolutely essential to obtain the food and porters promised by the Maharajah, we sent Tikaram Thapa, a Gurkha non-commissioned officer, with a local guide to search for him. Thapa marched twenty-two miles over difficult country at night before finding the subadar, and during the journey he fell and cut his leg. Meanwhile Wieland arrived, saying his men were coming over Kang Pass, but that Hannah was left with his, who would not move without boots.

Tseram was a delightful place and we camped at the same spot as Freshfield, a grassy alp set amid noble peaks. At the request of Mrs. Farmer, the mother of the young American who disappeared up the Yalung Glacier in attempting a solitary ascent of Kanchenjunga, the expedition visited the Decherol Monastery, but found it an uninhabited ruin. The Yalung Glacier moraine is large and a two-day march was necessary before the ice was trodden. Kadru was superb from this side, with enormous hanging glaciers and ice walls 1,000 feet thick, which break away and crash down in enormous avalanches, shaking the ground for miles.

Porters Threaten to Strike.

From Tseram we had expected it would be easy to get across to Khunza, but when we saw the wall of snow-clad peaks we had to cross we realized that more hard work lay before us. Perhaps the porters realized it, too, for they threatened to strike. An ugly disturbance was ably quelled by Wood Johnson. Actually the labor troubles were initiated by a few labor agitators, for the best porters are Sherpas, Bhutias and Tibetans, and these give no trouble. We weeded out the agitators, sending them back to Darjeeling.

With the arrival of the Nepalese subadar our troubles came to an end, as he arranged for food to be sent from Khunza and also told the porters that the Maharajah took a personal interest in the expedition and that any one giving trouble would be arrested. The porters have nothing to grumble about, for they receive good food and a daily free issue of cigarettes. The subadar also promised us fifty local Sherpa porters, thus enabling some to be sent back to help Hannah and Colonel Tobin.

We left Tseram for Khunza with lighter hearts. A local yak herder, a picturesque old fellow, guided us over Mirgin Pass. The deep, soft snow was most wearisome for the porters, but all were now cheerful and free from the influence of the labor agitators. We saw Makalau rising magnificently above a sea of clouds, and later Everest. We camped at a dreary and desolate spot in a snowstorm, tired after our wade through interminable snow, but left the next morning in perfect weather for Khunza.

A Superb Sight.

The scenery was magnificent and, as our path crossed Sinon Pass, we had the finest view any of us had seen, looking up the unexplored Yamatari Valley, at the head of which stand some amazing peaks dominated by the 25,300-foot Jannu, one of the most superb of all Himalayan peaks. Straight out of the glacier rose nameless peaks of terrific aspect, with their thin, keen edges of glittering ice fluted and carved by the wind into biscuit-like edges, ridges and peaks that look hopelessly inaccessible, save only to the gods reputed to dwell on their fairylike summits.

After two days on snow it was a relief to descend to the green glades, yellow primroses, moss-draped pines and budding rhododendrons of our delightful camping ground at Khunza. There we found that the subadar, who had preceded us, had arrived snowblind. He had given orders to the headman for the food, but nothing had been done, so on recovering he tied the unfortunate headman to a post, threatening dire penalties should the food not be forthcoming. We now confidently expect it.

Three Days From Base Camp.

We are now three days from the base camp at the foot of Kanchenjunga, and it has been an expedition in itself getting here, teaching us many lessons. Himalayan climbing is incidental compared to transport. Without the help of the Maharajah it would be impossible to attempt Kanchenjunga from Nepal as enough food could not be carried.

Most important of all, it is essential to have some one understanding porters, who like children, must be humored and treated accordingly, and without Wood Johnson the expedition would be in a sorry plight. Lastly, there is no country more capable of producing the unexpected or defeating the most elaborate plans than Himalaya, and he who would climb and explore must be capable of improvisation at short notice, scrapping choice plans.

It is great to think that we have enough food and equipment to attack Kanchenjunga. True, there are many important items, such as rum and whisky, behind with Hannah and Colonel Tobin, who have arrived at Yokham with seventy-five mule loads of food, and whether it will be possible to get them all over Kang Pass and Mirgin Pass remains to be seen. It will be a hard task, one no less worthy than the assault on Kanchenjunga. The expedition is lucky to have such men for its transport.

FALL FATAL TO MISS SAUL.

Washington Girl Dies of Injuries Received as Horse Stumbled.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP).—Frances Saul, young Washington society girl, died last night from injuries suffered last Wednesday in a fall from a horse.

It was first reported that Miss Saul had suffered only a broken leg, but later it was found she had been injured internally. Her mount had stumbled, throwing her to the ground, while she was training him for entry in a horse show held here yesterday.

Miss Saul insisted the horse be entered in the show despite her inability to leave her bed. He won a blue ribbon. Her death came only a few hours afterward. She was the daughter of B. F. Saul.

DISCOVER NEW COMET OF NINTH MAGNITUDE

Schwassmann and Wachmann of Hamburg Say It Is Brightest Sighted Recently.

COPENHAGEN, May 4 (Science Service).—A ninth-magnitude comet has been discovered by Drs. Schwassmann and Wachmann of the Hamburg Observatory at Bergedorf, a suburb of Hamburg, Germany.

This new arrival in the sky is brighter than any other comet that has come within view of telescopes in recent months, but it will take further observations and astronomical computations to determine whether there is a chance that it will become visible to the naked eye.

When discovered on May 2 it was in the area of the sky between the constellations of Hercules and the Crown, directly east in the evening sky and practically overhead at about 1 o'clock in the morning. Its right ascension is sixteen hours one minute and forty seconds, while its declination is north 35 degrees and 57 minutes. It has no tail and is moving at a fair heavenly gait of 32 minutes of arc as seen from the earth.

The names of Drs. Schwassmann and Wachmann are often connected with comets, since they have observed and reported to the International Astronomical Bureau here at least one comet each year for the past few years. Observatories in America and elsewhere are expected to make observations of the new comet in the next few days.

DROPS CHARGE AGAINST BOY

Jeweler Won't Prosecute Messenger Missing Two Years.

William Stewart, 16 years old, who disappeared from his home, 627 Columbus Avenue, in December, 1927, after he had failed to deliver a $300 necklace given to him by his employer, Albert Welsh, jeweler, of 687 Columbus Avenue, is being sought by the Missing Persons Bureau, it was announced yesterday, but there is no longer any charge against him.

Three days after he disappeared the boy wrote to his mother that he had lost the necklace but that he was "all right." The jeweler asked for his arrest at the time, but on Saturday he wrote to his mother, who has heard no further word of her boy, saying that he would not prosecute the boy.

WOMAN LEADS FIGHT ON LAUNDRY GANGS

Brooklyn "racket" until the murder of Frankie Yale, who was popularly supposed to have had a share in the "graft" which was mulcted from the owners by gangsters and terrorists.

Early this year steps to end the laundry "racket" were taken when the Marcy Wet Wash Laundry, Rochester Avenue and Dean Street in Brooklyn, filed a petition with the Attorney General's office at 51 Chambers Street, requesting the dissolution of the Neighborhood Laundry Owners' Association, of which the plaintiff was a member.

At hearings before Mr. Brouillard charges of duress and intimidation against the officials and representatives of the association were made. Witnesses alleged that members of Frankie Yale's old gang had become associated with the organization and their names used as threats which forced the owners to join, to pay weekly dues of from $15 to $40 and to sign promissory notes for $10,000 payable on demand to the association. Several instances in which drivers or owners had been threatened or "beaten up" by "Barney Schlag of the association and his men" or other representatives were cited.

Mrs. Whitney said yesterday that all of the old officers had severed their connections with the organization before she took office.

Mr. Mellon is now an honorary director, without salary, she said. Barney Schlag now has no connection with the organization, nor has Joe Lawrence, head of a private detective agency, who was formerly retained at a large salary by the association to fight off "racketeers."

B. Eisenstein of the Erasmus Laundry is the new president, she said, and all of the present officers are serving without salary. The notes have been or will be returned to the various owners and the dues have been decreased to an amount just sufficient to pay for overhead expenses. These, she estimated, amounted to $500 a week during the last three weeks.

Tribute $250,000 a Year.

Mrs. Whitney estimated that the owners, members of the old association, had been mulcted out of $250,000 to $300,000 a year by "racketeers masquerading as detectives" and by gunmen.

"I believe that eventually this association will effect an improvement of service for the public and will result in a lowering of prices. If I didn't believe that I wouldn't have anything to do with it," she declared.

"The fight of the laundry trades is in reality a first step in the community's fight against a nefarious system which has been preying on the country only because of the public's lethargy. It is the obligation of every citizen to enlist in the crusade. I feel that in accepting this responsibility I am only fulfilling my duty and I cannot accept compensation for doing that."

The objects of the association, she said, will be to raise the standards of the industry, and to transmit to the individual owners the results of new research to better their methods of conducting business.

The number of owners belonging to the association was estimated by Mr. Mellon at the beginning of the hearings as 176, but subsequently some members resigned.

Economists of All Sections Oppose Tariff Bill

force him to pay higher rates of profit to established firms which enjoyed lower production costs. A higher level of duties, such as is contemplated by the Smoot-Hawley bill, would therefore raise the cost of living and injure the great majority of our citizens.

"Few people could hope to gain from such a change. Miners, construction, transportation and public utility workers, professional people and those employed in banks, hotels, newspaper offices, in the wholesale and retail trades and scores of other occupations would clearly lose, since they produce no products which could be specially favored by tariff barriers.

"The vast majority of farmers also would lose. Their cotton, pork, lard and wheat are export crops and are sold in the world market. They have no important competition in the home market. They cannot benefit, therefore, from any tariff which is imposed upon the basic commodities which they produce.

Predict a Double Loss.

"They would lose through the increased duties on manufactured goods, however, and in a double fashion. First, as consumers they would have to pay still higher prices for the products, made of textiles, chemicals, iron and steel, which they buy. Second, as producers their ability to sell their products would be further restricted by the barriers placed in the way of foreigners who wished to sell manufactured goods to us.

"Our export trade, in general, would suffer. Countries cannot permanently buy from us unless they are permitted to sell to us, and the more we restrict the importation of goods from them by means ever higher tariffs, the more we reduce the possibility of our exporting to them.

"This applies to such exporting industries as copper, automobiles, agricultural machinery, typewriters and the like fully as much as it does to farming. The difficulties of these industries are likely to be increased still further if we pass a higher tariff.

"There are already many evidences that such action would inevitably provoke other countries to pay us back in kind by levying retaliatory duties against our goods. There are few more ironical spectacles than that of the American Government as it seeks, on the one hand, to promote exports through the activity of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, while, on the other hand, by increasing tariffs it makes exportation ever more difficult.

"We do not believe that American manufacturers, in general, need higher tariffs. The report of the President's Committee on Recent Economic Changes has shown that industrial efficiency has increased, that costs have fallen, that profits have grown with amazing rapidity since the end of the World War. Already our factories supply our people with over 96 per cent of the manufactured goods which they consume, and our producers look to foreign markets to absorb the increasing output of their machines.

"Further barriers to trade will serve them not well but ill.

Affect on Investments Abroad.

"Many of our citizens have invested their money in foreign enterprises. The Department of Commerce has estimated that such investments, entirely aside from the war debts, amounted to between $12,555,000,000 and $14,555,000,000 on Jan. 1, 1929. These investors, too, would suffer if restrictive duties were to be increased, since such action would make it still more difficult for their foreign debtors to pay them the interest due them.

"America is now facing the problem of unemployment. The proponents of higher tariffs claim that an increase in rates will give work to the idle. This is not true. We cannot increase employment by restricting trade. American industry, in the present crisis, might well be spared the burden of adjusting itself to higher schedules of duties.

"Finally, we would urge our government to consider the bitterness which a policy of higher tariffs would inevitably inject into our international relations. The United States was ably represented at the world economic conference which was held under the auspices of the League of Nations in 1927. This conference adopted a resolution announcing that 'the time has come to put an end to the increase in tariffs and to move in the opposite direction.'

"The higher duties proposed in our pending legislation violate the spirit of this agreement and plainly invite other nations to compete with us in raising further barriers to trade. A tariff war does not furnish good soil for the growth of world peace."

passed, however, the coalition was split and the Old Guard organization, headed by Chairman Smoot and with the aid of Senator Grundy, got control.

Some Western Republicans believe there is a possibility that on the final roll call the tariff bill may be defeated in the Senate. Among them is Senator Borah.

These Senators say that the combination that displaced the coalition did a lot of trading on lumber, silver and other items which were rejected in the House and are not likely to be in the bill as finally whipped into shape. Disaffection on this account, they assert, may even lead to the defeat of the bill.

As to the length of the Senate debate on the conference report, Western Senators say it will run at least two weeks, and possibly longer. Senator Watson and other administration spokesmen say they are confident the bill will become a law on or about June 1.

Collier Assails the Measure.

In a statement issued through the Democratic National Committee tonight, Representative Collier, Democrat, of Mississippi, who had charge of the tariff bill for the House minority, said it was going back to the Senate carrying "the highest rates of any bill ever enacted by the American Congress." All of the fifteen schedules had been materially increased over existing law, he asserted.

"The Congress was called primarily for the benefit of agriculture," he continued, "and while in most instances the rates on agricultural products were immaterial, and the rates have been raised, yet the real substantial raises have all been on manufactures of steel, cotton, wool, flax, hemp, jute and rayon.

"Four schedules have been raised higher than the average rate in either the House or the Senate bills, woolen, cotton, rayon and flax manufactures.

This bill will tremendously increase the price of everything that is now sold in the hardware store, the dry goods store, the grocery store, the millinery store and even the five-and-ten-cent stores, for the tax on imitation pearl beads has been increased 6,000 per cent, on mechanical pencils, at one time 5,200 per cent but afterward reduced to only 200 per cent.

"In addition, the President, if he sees fit, on the recommendation of the Tariff Commission, can increase by 50 per cent and double the rate on every one of the thousands of prohibitive rates in the most indefensible tariff bill ever presented to the American public."

CUBAN HAILS TARIFF ACTION.

Sugar Rate of 2 Cents Called Lower Than Had Been Expected.

HAVANA, Cuba, May 4 (AP).—Word reaching here today that American importation of sugar from the Philippines might be restricted to 500,000 tons annually was greeted with satisfaction by Cuban sugar operatives, who see in such a measure the salvation of the Cuban sugar industry.

Benjamin Garcia, one of Cuba's leading sugar authorities and president of the Garcia Beltban Company, said that limitation by the United States of Phillipine sugar imports to such a figure would "be most desirable" here.

"The recent 2-cent tariff adopted by the United States was lower than we had expected," he asserted. "Every one here thought there would be a compromise not lower than 2.20 cents, and the lower rate had the effect of re-establishing confidence.

"Cuba feels that the United States is not endeavoring to discriminate, and producers expect a stronger market now that uncertainty in the tariff situation has been eliminated. There is a new feeling of optimism.

"Up to April 30, Cuba this year produced 4,200,000 tons of sugar, and some 350,000 tons more will be produced before the end of the season. The total probably will be 600,000 tons less than last year, a factor which may incline to a bullish market.

"The prevailing prices are the lowest in the history of sugar, and the salvation of the industry on this is from the Philippines. Of the two things, a lower tariff in the United States or a restriction of imports from the Phillipines. Of the two, most Cuban producers would, I believe, prefer the latter."

VETERANS OBSERVE BIRTHDAY OF GRANT

RED TEACHINGS DENOUNCED

Major Curtis Says Union Square Was Rededicated to Memory of Admiral Dewey on May 1.

War veterans, including a few members of the Grand Army of the Republic, gathered yesterday afternoon to commemorate the 108th anniversary of the birth of General Grant before his tomb on Riverside Drive. A parade was followed by Americanization exercises, during which General Grant was eulogized as a true American, an example to those who would spread a new propaganda of sedition, the speakers addressing themselves particularly to the youngsters who had marched past.

"I am happy to see so many young ones here today," said Major Leonard J. Harmon, O. R., U. S. A., "to warn them against the insidious propaganda of aliens who are attempting to influence them and to sow the seeds of sedition in this country."

There was general applause when Major Monroe Curtis, commander, department of New York, Veterans of Foreign Wars, declared: "A few days ago, on May 1, Union Square was rededicated to the memory of Admiral Dewey of Manila Bay."

The memorial parade and exercises were held under the auspices of the New York County Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the fine weather attracted thousands to attend the ceremonies. The parade consisted of a detachment of the Sixteenth United States Infantry, sailors and marines from the Brooklyn Navy Yard and seven detachments of the New York National Guard, veterans' organizations and boys' military groups. Army and navy officers reviewed the marchers.

The colors of Australia, Great Britain, France, Italy and America were lined up along the façade of the monument. Following the speeches and other ceremonies, including the benediction pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Wesley Megaw, a wreath was placed on the tomb by Joseph M. Klein, New York commander, V. F. W.

The speeches, broadcast over WOR, were made by Major Leonard J. Harmon, Brig. Gen. Otto B. Rosenbaum, commanding First Infantry Brigade, First Infantry Division; Brig. Gen. Peter Traub, who commanded the Thirty-fifth Division, A. E. F.; Colonel Robert Starr Allyn, commanding 607th Coast Artillery Regiment; Alderman Patrick Dowd and Major Monroe Curtis. The invocation was made by the Rev. Dr. Emanuel J. Jack, chaplain of the V. F. W. of New York.

Among the organizations that participated in the ceremonies were the Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish-American War Veterans, the Disabled American World War Veterans, Military Order of Foreign Wars, Military Order of the World War, the Overseas League, Jewish War Veterans, Sons of the Revolution, United States Junior Naval Guard, Boy Scouts of America, Columbus Volunteers, British, Italian and French war veterans.

SAVES FAMILY OF FOUR IN EAST SIDE BLAZE

Fireman Leads Panic-Stricken Group From Fire-Escape—'Smoky Joe' Returns to Duty.

A panic-stricken family of four, trapped yesterday afternoon on a fire-escape in the rear of the four-story tenement at 1 Hamilton Street when flames from a blazing shack made descent by the fire-escape impossible, was rescued by a fireman off duty, who ran into the house and led the family safely down the stairway.

Although the rescuer turned in an alarm immediately afterward, the fact that so much apparatus had been sent to fight forest fires in Staten Island caused a delay in getting engines to the scene, and by the time they arrived the flames had spread from the shack not only to the Hamilton Street house but to two three-story buildings just behind it, at 67 and 69 Catharine Street.

The fire in the Hamilton Street tenement was soon extinguished, but the fire in the Catharine Street buildings made such rapid headway that a second alarm was turned in. When additional apparatus arrived it brought with it Assistant Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin, who has been confined to his home since April 14 when he became ill at a fire in East Thirty-third Street.

"There have been so many fires today," Chief Martin explained, "I just could not stay at home any longer. Besides, I've helped fight so many down here on the east side that when I heard two alarms I had to turn out."

The fireman who discovered the blaze was Charles Rosenson of 141 Davison Street, who acts as chauffeur for Deputy Chief John McElligott. Those whom he rescued are Natale Creaco, 40 years old, his wife and their two small children.

The upper floors of the two Catharine Street buildings were used by Sam Solerwitz, a second-hand furniture dealer, to store furniture and mattresses. The furniture burned like tinder and by the time additional apparatus arrived the two buildings were already gutted. The shack in which the fire started also was used to store furniture. It is believed that small boys smoking behind it unwittingly started the fire.

Talks on Flood and Noah's Ark.

Nationalism, skepticism and unbelief are making great inroads into the Christian Church today, said the Rev. Alfred J. Orphal, pastor of the Leverich Memorial Church, Thirty-second Avenue and Tenth Street, Corona, Queens, in his sermon last evening. The Rev. Mr. Orphal spoke on "Is the Biblical Account of the Floor and Noah's Ark, Folklore or Mythology, as Some Would Have Us Believe?"

CATHOLICS OPEN DRIVE FOR CHARITY

Canvassers Will Start Today for Funds to Carry on Work Among Needy and Aged.

TO CONTINUE FOR A WEEK

Pastors in all the 373 parishes of the archdiocese of New York announced yesterday at all the masses that beginning today volunteer canvassers would call upon parishioners for subscriptions to the eleventh annual appeal of Cardinal Hayes for Catholic Charities.

The canvass will continue for a week. The clergymen preached special sermons on the obligations of charity and the need for generous support of the cardinal's organization, which coordinates the efforts of more than 200 agenceis engaged in family care, together with the care of the homeless and the aged.

The archdiocese has been divided into twenty-two districts, each in charge of a priest designated by Cardinal Hayes to act as district manager. One priest in each parish has been assigned to serve as local director. Report meetings will be held in every parish each night this week.

No goal has been set, but Cardinal Hayes has urged the need for greater funds this year because of the unusual demands made upon the organization. The total contributions from the parishes last year amounted to $1,082,070.17. The number of persons who contributed totaled 283,591.

At St. Patrick's Cathedral Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, the rector, devoted part of his monthly letter to the parishioners in the May Cathedral Bulletin, distributed yesterday, to the forthcoming canvass.

"This spiritual joy," wrote Mgr. Lavelle in speaking of the feeling which should follow Easter, "implies naturally an intensification of practical gratitude to our Lord—a desire to give Him something in return for His unspeakable generosity to us.

"This spirit of gratitude brings out all that is best in human nature and makes us able to perform every duty as well as to conquer every temptation with facility and real enjoyment.

"No better opportunity to exercise our thanksgiving to the Lord was ever presented to human beings than the charity campaign which begins today. I hope all of you have read and studied the letter issued by his Eminence, the Cardinal Archbishop, last Sunday. If you have not, please give yourself that grace and pleasure at once. It gives in glowing terms the whole state of the case.

"Ask your own hearts, honestly, can anything more noble or practical be conceived. It aims to reach eventually every corporal and spiritual want. And it gives every one of us opportunity to become guardian angels for God's dearest children, the needy and the poor. Apart from the good done to others and the supernatural merit acquired for ourselves there are few thrills in human life superioir to the joy of giving.

"One of our prominent philosophers makes this cogent remark: 'In giving, a man receives more than he gives, and the more is in proportion to the worth of the thing given.' If you have been generous you know this truth by experience. If you have not, you have kept much fine joy out of your existence. Try it. In case you don't find the statement verfied you will be entitled to the return of your gift. Furthermore, if you want the best results give personal service as well as money."

ASSAIL TRUANT OFFICERS.

Socialists Ask Investigation of Action at May Day Celebration.

An investigation by the Board of Education of the activities of truant officers who descended on the joint Socialist-trade union May Day celebration at the New York Coliseum last Thursday to check up on children who absented themselves from school to attend the celebration was demanded yesterday in a letter addressed to the board by Louis Waldman, co-chairman of the Socialist party's committee on public affairs.

Mr. Waldman assailed the activities of the truant officers at the celebration as "an unwarranted invasion of the rights of parents and calculated to provoke a breach of the peace."

Progressive laborites and Socialists consider May Day an important holiday and their children have as much right to take part in such celebrations as are arranged on that day as the children of those who observe other holidays, Mr. Waldman told the school authorities.

It was announced at Socialist party headquarters, 7 East Fifteenth Street, that parents who have received notice of any hearing based on the alleged truancy of their children on account of the May Day meeting will have Socialist lawyers assigned to defend them.

Scientists Tell How to Live Longer

In the United States Registration Area there were reported in 1927—the latest available statistics—1,236,949 deaths.

	Deaths
Heart and Circulation	240,412
Cancer	103 578
Kidney Disease	103,304
Apoplexy	90,316
Tuberculosis	87,567
Diabetes	18,937
Total	644,114

Inasmuch as this Registration Area represents but 91.3% of our population, the total number of deaths from these chronic troubles throughout the country is more than 700,000 annually.

Span of Life Is Shortening

Although it is probable that 50% of these deaths are preventable or postponable, they are increasing each year. This is reflected in a rising death rate at middle-life and later, as shown by the latest census figures given below:

Loss in Expectation of Life at Certain Ages
(U. S. Registration States)

Age.	1921.	1927.	Loss.
37	32.86	31.47	1.39 years

The rational measure of correction in connection with this life-waste is the periodic health examination designed to detect the early signs of trouble in time to check or cure it.

Overwhelming Scientific Endorsement

There is probably no measure for the benefit of both men and women generally that has received such overwhelming scientific endorsement as that of a yearly health examination. Men and women who ignore this simple measure of protecting their health are passing up the best means they could employ to insure themselves a long and pleasant life.

By such an examination minor defects that would otherwise develop into full-fledged diseases can be detected and corrected Faulty living habits that cause organic strain can be noted, and the various types of infection that constantly injure the tissues and cause organic disease can be located and attended to.

The Life Extension Institute was organized in 1913 to interest men and women in these periodic health examinations and in more healthful living habits. At its Head Offices in New York City, Boston and Chicago the Institute has assembled every scientific facility necessary to the making of these critical and searching health surveys.

Sixteen Rules of Health

If you will send in the coupon below, the Institute will send you many interesting free reprints on this subject, including the "Sixteen Rules of Health" and the free booklets, "How to Live Long" and "Hygiene at Middle Life." Your inquiry involves no obligation of any kind.

The Institute offers two forms of health examination services—one known as the "Standard" and the other as the "Unlimited." The Standard Service covers a period of one year and includes a standardized survey of your whole life and body, together with adequate health literature and other features. This service is available at the Institute's Head Offices and at the offices of its medical examiners in all the different cities of the United States and Canada and in several foreign countries. There are a number of women physicians on the Institute's Head Office staffs.

The Unlimited Examination includes all the details of the Standard Service, together with many other valuable tests as a regular part of the service and, in addition, any needed X-ray examination, laboratory test or special examination which it is within the power of the Institute to furnish at its Head Offices.

Only registered and ethically accredited physicians, highly trained and experienced in this work, are selected by the Institute to examine its members. The Institute renders no treatment, performs no operations, but makes a scientific survey of your whole life and body to determine the need for medical treatment, for correction of defects, or better regulation of the ways of living. Every man and woman should be examined at least once a year, either by their own physician, through the Life Extension Institute, or by any other accredited scientific agency where the work can be competently done. GARVIN CALLS FEAR CHIEF BAR TO PEACE

HAILS THE LONDON TREATY

Sees World-Wide Adoption of "Anglo-American Method"—Finds "Power" in Kellogg Pact.

"The anxious survival of pre-war mentality" was characterized yesterday by James L. Garvin, editor of The London Observer and one of England's leading political authorities, as the greatest obstacle to disarmament. He spoke from London on "Two Ways to World Peace," his address being broadcast in this country and Canada over the Columbia network of stations.

Describing the Kellogg past as "the greatest modern conflict between faith and fear that has ever been fought in human minds and hearts," Mr. Garvin said that since this pact had become practically the universal engagement there had been two ways of looking at the future of the peace movement.

"The old idea, still very strong," he said, "was based upon fear, upon the old sense of fear in pre-war Europe; upon the theory that you must think of war when you talk of peace.

"There is a new way. It is no longer untried. It has been followed up and followed out by the statesmen and delegates of the English-speaking peoples. It has led from the Kellogg pact through the Hoover-MacDonald colloquies on your side, and through the London naval conference on our side, to the achievement in these very last weeks of an Anglo-American settlement which I believe to be no mere ordinary and temporary thing but an epoch-making event and the everlasting foundation of Anglo-American friendship."

Calls London Results Unique.

Referring to the moral results of the London conference as "priceless," he continued:

"The old notion of supremacy on the part of the British Empire has given place to the full establishment of Anglo-American equality. In all history this stands alone; it is the only change of the same magnitude which has been brought about not by war but by peaceful agreement, and not only without detriment to friendship but with the assurance of full and entire friendship resting on you and me. Well may we say that parity and charity have kissed each other like peace and righteousness in the Bible."

Saying that the London Conference not only had made war between Britain and the United States unthinkable, he contrasted the results of the last conference with the failure at Geneva and declared that while a full five-power treaty had been made impossible at London by the very doctrine of security, a three-power treaty had been achieved by the full and wise concurrence of Japan with the Anglo-American belief in the ultimate triumph of the factors of good-will.

"One of the very best things about the London conference," he said, "was that the failure to reach a five-power pact did not make for bitterness of feeling. On the contrary, bitterness was banished, recrimination was suppressed and all the delegations parted with a deeper understanding of each other's point of view.

"I am convinced that the doctrine of security by armed sanctions and guarantees has reached its limit in Europe and that it will give way by sure degrees to the Anglo-American method of strengthening good-will and securing reduced preparations for war with increased confidence in peace.

Kellogg Pact No "Idle Paper."

"The Kellogg pact is not the idle paper that it was supposed to be two years ago when speculation upon eventual Anglo-American hostilities was universal in Europe. The Kellogg pact is recognized at last as not only a document but a power, a power which already exercises an invisible influence, an atmospheric pressure, upon all the world thought and councils.

"Up to now the doctrine of security by sanctions depended vitally upon maritime and economic sanctions to be applied by Great Britain. That chapter is closed by Anglo-American parity at sea. Without agreement between Britain and the United States, those maritime and economic sanctions can never be put into force. Yet, there is no kind of security on any large scale without knowing what will happen to your overseas supplies and those of the other side.

"Wrat does this mean? It means no important nation or group of nations who are not parties to the absolute renouncement of war can dream of making war without consulting Washington as well as London. It means time gained for impartial mediation and for delay instead of a wild, unchecked sweep to catastrophe as in the mad month of 1914.

"The Kellogg pact has led straight to a three-power treaty which, with all its new maritime implications, has a steady and far-reaching effect."

Carolina Ex-Illiterates Call on the President; He Tells Them He Also Went to Night School

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Hoover received yesterday one of the most unusual delegations that has visited Washington in some time, a group of South Carolina night school children and adults, who, under intensive study in government schools, have overcome illiteracy.

Led by Miss Wil Lou Gray, State Supervisor of Adult Education, they came here to thank the President and Secretary Wilbur for the support they were both giving to the education of adult illiterates.

Miss Gray, who was introduced to President Hoover by Representative Fulmer of South Carolina, delivered to the President a letter from a 65-year-old Negro woman, the first letter she ever wrote. This woman was illiterate three months ago.

Addressing the President, Miss Gray said:

"We are grateful for your children's bill of rights. If we had had this forty years ago we would not have to be teaching illiterates in night school now."

After she had introduced the night school pupils, President Hoover said:

"I sympathize with the night school pupils, for I was once a night school pupil myself."

A mammoth basket of naturally iodized fruits and vegetables was presented to President Hoover and a smaller one to Secretary Wilbur by the delegation. Fred M. Robinson, a school trustee from a rural section of Union Count , who learned to read and write last Summer, made a brief presentation speech.

The basket for the President, containing huge bunches of asparagus, boxes of strawberries, cabbage, peas and radishes, was so heavy that it took two men to carry it.

On the basket was a card with the words "To my President," written by a Negro of 70. When Miss Gray commended the neat writing on the card, he replied: "Yes, but if you only knew how many I spoiled before I got it to suit me."

In the recent drive on illiteracy, conducted all over the nation by the National Illiteracy Crusade, of which Secretary Wilbur is chairman, South Carolina was one of the banner States, teaching 40,000 to read and write.

URGE KELLOGG FOR COURT.

Minnesotans Propose Him for Hughes's Place on World Tribunal.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 4 (AP).—Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, co-author of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact and former Ambassador to Great Britain, today was recommended for nomination as a judge of the World Court by the faculty of the University of Minnesota School of Law.

A resolution embodying the faculty action will be forwarded to Newton D. Baker, George W. Wickersham, John W. Davis and Roland W. Boyden, representatives at The Hague Tribunal for the United States.

The judgeship for which Mr. Kellogg is recommended was vacated by Charles Evans Hughes on his appointment as Chief Justice. The term expires Dec. 31, after which a new panel of fifteen judges will be elected for nine-year terms.

The temporary headquarters is to enroll members or give information.

SIX APPEAR TODAY IN COOLEY INQUIRY

Mrs. Lawler's Physician to Be Heard by May Grand Jury Regarding Her Illness.

Six or more witnesses are scheduled to appear today before the May grand jury which is to consider evidence that Mrs. Marguerite F. Lawler, sister of Edwin J. Cooley, chief probation officer of General Sessions, was on the payroll of her brother's bureau while a school teacher in Buffalo. In addition this jury as well as the April grand jury which has been investigating the retention of Mrs. Lawler is to consider evidence regarding the handling of funds in the Probation Bureau.

Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings, who has been in charge of the inquiry, explained that the April grand jury is making a general investigation into the Probation Bureau situation while the new grand jury is to consider specific evidence developed before the April grand jury.

Mr. Hastings said that he would ask the May grand jury to return three indictments. The indictments he said would be based on the alleged fraudulent payment of $1,077 to Mrs. Lawler as provisional chief clerk of the Probation Bureau while she was still on the payroll of the Buffalo School Department.

The witnesses who are scheduled to appear before the grand jury today are Arthur Penfold, principal of Public School 77 at Buffalo, who is alleged to have received a telegram from New York stating that Mrs. Lawler was ill; F. Wadleigh, a clerk at the Western Union offices at 40 Walker Street; May Curran, telephone operator in the Probation Bureau; Eugene Tully, in charge of the payroll division of the office of Controller Berry; Mrs. Belle Fine, former cashier in the Probation Bureau, and Dr. John Lo Pinto, physician at the Hotel Carteret here, who at one time attended Mrs. Lawler.

To Form Old Age Pension Bureau.

The American Association for Old Age Security will establish a free information bureau for applicants for pensions under the new New York State old-age pension law, beginning Sept. 1, it was announced yesterday. The association sponsored the new law, and the information bureau, it is felt, will be needed when the law becomes operative. The bureau will be at 22 East Seventeenth Street.

tions Committee, which will then open its formal study of the treaty in executive session. At this meeting the committee will probably decide upon a schedule of hearings at which navy officials, Ambassador Morrow and the two Senatorial delegates to the London conference will be among the witnesses.

There is a possibility that the hearings of the Foreign Relations Committee may be so thorough as to include all of the technical points desired by the members of the Naval Affairs Committee. In that event there may be no necessity for the separate examinations that were proposed by Senator Hale and Representative Britten.

The Republican leaders desire to have thorough hearings and prompt action on the treaty so that Congress may adjourn not later than early in July. It is feared that if separate investigations are held, duplicating in large part the work of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and thus delaying action on the treaty in the Senate, adjournment would be carried into mid-Summer.

Consequently, friends of the Administration are hopeful that the Senate and House Committees on Naval Affairs will not interpose any obstacles to early ratification.

It is understood, however, that Chairman Britten of the House committee, intends to introduce a bill providing for the construction of light cruisers as contemplated by the treaty, with the object of laying the groundwork for hearings before his committee airing the terms of the treaty for the benefit of the House. It is explained that while the House itself has no jurisdiction over the treaty, it is concerned in appropriations for the maintenance and expansion of the navy.

Senator Hale and Mr. Britten are said to be in accord in the view that the treaty proposes a sacrifice of cruiser strength by this country and that this would be prejudicial to its interests and policies. Senator Hale takes the position that if it was necessary to limit the ratio of 10,000-ton, 8-inch gun cruisers the treaty should have allowed the United States twenty-one ships in this category instead of eighteen.

Navy as a Whole Backs Treaty.

It is regarded as doubtful whether navy officers will show any definite opposition to the treaty, although in response to questioning, some information may be brought out bearing upon the controverted issue as to the relative importance of 6-inch gun as compared with 8-inch-gun cruisers.

All indications have been that the Navy Department as a whole stands for the treaty, particularly because of the conviction on the part of officers that it establishes the principle of parity with Great Britain in all categories of vessels.

There are differences of opinion among naval officers, however, on the technical side of the treaty.

The treaty permits the United States to build up to 143,500 tons of light cruisers. This government now has 70,000 tons of ships in this category. Chairman Hale and Britten are understood to be opposed to any authorization for additional cruisers of this class.

Some critics of the treaty profess to see in it a provision that partakes of the nature of a consultative pact. This, they say is to be found in language in Article 21, following an arrangement under which any one of the three powers may exceed the treaty limitations if it regards its security as threatened by an outside power, and reading as follows:

"And the said other powers shall promptly advise with each other through diplomatic channels as to the situation thus presented."

Administration spokesmen are prepared for any attacks that may be made on this ground. They deny that the clause contains, in any sense, a commitment of a political character.

Some Western Senators are said to have construed the language in Article 21, known as the safeguarding clause, as binding the United States to consult with Japan respecting any British-French controversy which might arise out of a plea by Britain that her security was threatened by France. These Senators profess to believe that compulsory consultation concerning European affairs is provided.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who was a delegate at London, is a member of both Senate committees about to undertake studies of the treaty. He is expected to defend the safeguarding clause.

Senator Borah is "friendly" to the treaty, and although he has not yet formally committed himself to it, the indications are that the treaty will have his support. The administration looks for early ratification.

NEW BYRON LETTERS MADE PUBLIC HERE

Series of 17, Out in Book Form Today, Were Suppressed in England About 1872.

WRITTEN TO A "MISS L."

Her Identity Called Mystery—Prof. E. C. Smith Said to Regard Missives as Authentic.

Seventeen letters by Lord Byron to an unidentified woman, which were suppressed before publication in England in 1872, will be published today by Covici, Friede, Inc. So effective was the suppression that only four copies of the edition of 1872 are known, according to the present publishers. The text of the limited edition, which will be issued here today, is taken directly from one of these four old volumes.

Walter Edwin Peck, who edited the volume, says in the introduction that the letters were considered authentic by Professor Earle C. Smith of Cornell University, whose special studies in Byron have brought him into contact with the holograph originals of most of the Byron letters on this continent.

The letters, which are all of a personal nature, are addressed to a "Miss L." and are characterized by self-pity, cynicism and vaunted regret for his foibles in the past, but are often vigorous and spirited. The identity of "Miss L." the editor calls an unsolved mystery.

In the final letter of the series, dated Venice, Aug. 1, 1917, Byron wrote:

"I am far from being happy, as you know, and wish that I could recall my life again, for I have little hope of happiness on earth, and no expectation of attaining it hereafter. I do not experience what you pathetically call remorse, for I have known that with a score of other meditations, and have no wish to live in any state but the present, and in no condition but my own. God forgive me and them all: I am misunderstood, flattered by women, pestered, cursed, hated, reproached, and forgotten to such a degree that I am most grateful for the night and hail the morning with disappointment."

On Oct. 19, 1815, Byron wrote:

"I am married at last, and mean no disrespect to Lady B., who, though she may be a seraph to her friends, and really is, I believe, a good woman, is a devil to me. We have nothing in common, except disquiet, and heaven knows how much ennui."

7 NATIVES KILLED IN SOUTH AFRICA

CAPE TOWN SENDS AID

Two of Constabulary Badly Hurt in Riot Following Attempt to Arrest Negro at Meeting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAPE TOWN, May 4.—Racial troubles again flared up at Worcester, a small town about sixty miles from here, when natives this afternoon drove armed policemen to the shelter of their barracks. Seven Kaffirs are known to have been killed and thirty wounded. Two policemen were critically injured. The mob is still in possession of the area in which the fighting occurred.

Worcester for a long time has been the centre of native disaffection. At about noon today, while Negro natives and "colored people" [mulattoes] were holding a meeting outside one of the native compounds, Major Thomas of the Cape Town detective force, with other constables, arrested a native in possession of a rifle.

The crowd immediately attacked the police, and there was a ten-minute pitched battle in which Captain Barter, Police Commandant of Worcester, was felled with an axe and critically injured. The police were forced to retire, firing as they retreated.

Europeans Gather at Barracks.

WORCESTER, South Africa, May 4 (AP).—Late today the native quarter here still was in a state of turmoil after the riot which had occurred. The police did not venture into it, but with bandaged heads stood guard in the European section. Crowds of Europeans gathered outside the police station to aid the authorities and protect themselves.

One constable had a remarkable escape from death. Stabbed over the heart, he was saved by a stout pocketbook, which was transfixed by the knife. His skin was merely scratched.

Innumerable offers of assistance from European civilians have been refused by the police in the fear that this would lead to greater resentment among the natives and a spread of the trouble.

This town has seen many affrays between the authorities and Africans. The last was on April 5, when the police raided the headquarters of local bootleggers.

WE'VE come to the conclusion that getting around this city is hard on clothes. The men who work in New York are constantly moving somewhere—on buses, subways, the "L," surface cars, ferries, taxis, elevators—yes, and even escalators.

This constant sliding on seats or hanging on straps, jamming and rubbing elbows, provides no merry life for a suit. It takes a man with a rugged constitution to stand the strain in New York, and the same goes for suits.

The Sackville $37.50 is the result of long study and consistent effort to make a suit with stamina, to sell at a popular price. Take the fabrics themselves. Periodically we have them ripped, rubbed, and pulled apart in the Macy Bureau of Standards to be sure that they'll wear as well as we say they will. Similar tests are made of workmanship. ENVOY OF PARAGUAY LEAVES FOR BOLIVIA

SEE END TO CHACO DISPUTE

Both Are Confident Direct Parley Will Succeed—Uruguayan Officers on Way to Forts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MONTEVIDEO, May 4.—This week will find the new Ministers of Bolivia and Paraguay en route to Asunción and La Paz to renew diplomatic relations, which were broken in December, 1928, after the skirmish at Fort Vanguardia in the Chaco.

In accordance with the agreement signed here after the long negotiations held under the good offices of Foreign Minister Dominguez, Bolivia and Paraguay formally renewed diplomatic relations on May 1 by an exchange of cordial telegrams. Immediately afterward each country announced a new Minister was departing at once, accompanied by diplomatic secretaries, to reopen the respective legations.

The new Paraguayan Minister to La Paz, Rogélio Ibarra, left Asunción on Saturday for Buenos Aires, en route to La Paz. Louis Fernando Guachalla, the new Bolivian Minister to Asunción, will leave La Paz by the international train on Wednesday for Buenos Aires, en route to Asunción.

Ministers Stress Sincerity.

Señor Ibarra has announced he will remain in Buenos Aires until May 17 and it is expected that the two envoys will meet there and establish a personal acquaintance. Both of the new Ministers, in interviews, have emphasized the sincerity of the reconciliation between their countries and have expressed confidence in the successful outcome of the direct negotiations which will soon begin for a definite solution of the territorial dispute in the Chaco, which for fifty years has been the cause of much hostility.

Dispatches from Asunción indicate that the Minister for Foreign Affairs will head Paraguay's delegation to Washington in case the negotiations take place there under the observation of the five neutral governments which brought about the reconciliation.

Public opinion here, supported by the leading newspapers, is urging Señor Dominguez to take the initiative in seeking to have the negotiations conducted at Montevideo. El Pais says Montevideo is the logical place for any conversations between Bolivia and Paraguay regarding the frontier settlement in view of the success with which Señor Dominguez guided the negotiations which led to the modus operandi for exchanging Forts Vanguardia and Boqueron and to the fixing of a date for the renewal of diplomatic relations.

Officers Proceed to Facts.

The newspaper argues that as three frontier treaties have been formally drawn up between Bolivia and Paraguay in the last fifty years, there evidently exists a basis upon which a definite agreement can be established, despite the fact that the treaties were not ratified. It adds that the Chaco territory in dispute is so vast and unexploited that there is plenty of room for Bolivia and Paraguay to develop it together, instead of wasting time and money in carrying on frontier disputes.

The Uruguayan army officers who are to supervise the exchange of the forts, after spending a week in Asunción, left on Saturday in a Paraguayan gunboat for the up-river ports, where they are to disembark en route to the forts.

It is expected here the forts will be formally exchanged within two weeks, thus closing an incident which for more than a year seriously threatened the peace of South America.

Germany Hails Hedwig Heyl, 'Hindenburg of Kitchen,' at 80

BERLIN, May 4 (AP).—Hedwig Heyl, known as Germany's "Hindenburg of the kitchen," celebrated her eightieth birthday today.

Countless messages and editorial tributes testified to the veneration in which the woman who "Hooverized" Germany during the World War is held. The rôle she played in public life was most unusual for the time when Emperor William held that woman's realm consisted of the "Three K's"—kinder, kirche and kueche (children, church and kitchen).

She was a pioneer in the movement to provide sanitary and comfortable working conditions for laborers. Through her efforts, domestic economy was introduced into German schools and her cookbook is still a classic.

INQUIRY BOARD CLEARS THE BRITISH LEGION

Finds Dishonesty Confined to One Official, Though Poppies Net $194,000 Less Than Value.

LONDON, May 4 (Canadian Press).—"The fullest inquiry has failed to reveal any serious blemish in the British Legion," is the conclusion in the report of the committee of investigation appointed in February by the Earl of Jellicoe, the Legion's president, to make a searching inquiry into the affairs of the organization.

The appointment of the committee was made, in the words of Lord Jellicoe, "in consequence of criticism from various quarters of the administration and work of the Legion." The criticism was caused largely by the discovery of dishonesty on the part of a paid official.

This discovery, states the report, gave rise to "certain" unworthy suspicions of the staff, and these suspicions are found to be devoid of any justification in fact, and the one lapse is described as an isolated one.

The committee, however, considers the expenses of the Legion unnecessarily heavy and believes they could be cut down by closer control and collaboration. Among its many recommendations the report proposes the virtual amalgamation of the United Services Fund and the Legion and the eventual amalgamation of all societies concerned with the well-being of ex-service officers and men.

The committee found that receipts during the last four years from the sale of poppies on behalf of returned service men were £40,000 (about $194,000) less than the stipulated value of the poppies and recommended a closer checking of collection boxes. As to the allocation of funds it urges that a larger proportion should be devoted to constructive schemes and the obtaining of employment for those out of work.

AMERICAN ART SHOW OPENED AT VENICE

CONTAINS FOUR GALLERIES

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VENICE, May 4.—The first permanent American pavilion for the exhibition of modern American art was inaugurated here today in the grounds of the famous Biennial Exhibition of Contemporary Art by the Duke of Bergamo. Ambassador and Mrs. John W. Garrett were hosts for the Duke and showed him around the pavilion, explaining the exhibits to him. The Duke congratulated his hosts on the remarkably fine showing made by American arts in competition with ten European nations.

The American pavilion was erected through the efforts of the Grand Central Art Galleries of New York as a permanent home for American art at Venice. Walter L. Clark, president of the Grand Central Art Galleries, has been here several weeks superintending the construction.

The pavilion is built in Colonial style of red brick with marble trimmings. Its central feature is four Doric columns supporting the architrave. A low dome stands over the main entrance. The space inside is divided into four galleries of about equal size.

For years it has been the practice of America to import works of art from Italy and other European countries. This year the process has been reversed, America having permanently taken her place among European nations at the Venice Biennial Exhibition, which is one of the most important in Europe. Many critics judged the American exhibits the best of all, together with those of Spain.

Many Schools Represented.

About ninety paintings and a dozen pieces of sculpture are exhibited. They were carefully selected by Mr. Clark on recommendation of the directors of fifteen leading American museums. They were so chosen as to represent no particular school or any special phase of American art, but to give an adequate presentation of what is being done today in America in the artistic field.

When the Duke of Bergamo arrived he was met at the door by Ambassador and Mrs. Garrett, Mr. Clark and the staff of the American Consulate at Venice. His attention was especially attracted by a portrait of Mrs. Garrett by Carl Melchers, a portrait of Colonel Driscoll by Max Boehm, "A Southern Girl" by Hector Caser, a portrait of T. S. Hardin by Lilian Westcott Hale; "Sunday in Main Street," by Edward Hopper; astudy of poinsettias, by Ofelia Keelan; "Spanish Sisters," by Abraham Poole; "Mary," by Julius Holshoven; Winter scenes by Joseph Pollett, Eugene Savage and Elmer W. Shofield, and "In the House of Lazarus," by Henry Tanner.

Ofelia Keelan, who was the only one of the artists present, was introduced to the Duke, who expressed his compliments.

Preceded by Pageant.

The inauguration of the exposition was made the occasion for a display of beautiful pageantry. The Duke of Bergamo, wearing a brilliant uniform of a Royal Piedmont lancer and surrounded by his aides similarly attired, proceeded down the Grand Canal in an open gondola propelled by eight gondoliers dressed in varied colors. A score of other gondolas, also glowing with color, followed the Duke down the canal. Fine weather brought out a large crowd, which cheered the Duke warmly as he floated past.

Some attention was attracted in the Italian exhibition by a bust of Maestro Ottorino Respighi by Don Gelasio Gaetani, former Italian Ambassador to Washington, who has recently taken up sculpture.

Island of Elba to Pay Honor To Napoleon's Reign Today

By The Associated Press.

PORTOFERRAIO, Island of Elba, Italy, May 4.—The memory of one of the shortest reigns in history—that of the deposed Napoleon the Great over this island—will be honored here tomorrow, the 109th anniversary of the soldier-statesman's death at St. Helena.

A solemn mass of requiem will be sung in the principal church, and at its conclusion there will be a distribution of bread to the poor people of the port. The annual commemoration is provided for by the will of Prince Demidoff, an admirer of the Emperor.

The Little Corporal, his army reduced to some ninety old guardsmen instead of the half million he led into Russia, began his exile here on May 4, 1814.

BRITISH TORIES OPEN EMPIRE DRIVE TODAY

Baldwin to Lead Trade Campaign—Pledges Will Be Given to Those at Meetings.

LONDON, May 4 (Canadian Press).—The Conservatives will open tomorrow their campaign for "Home and Empire." All over the country speakers will expound the Conservative policy of safeguarding industries and explain Stanley Baldwin's proposed referendum. Mr. Baldwin will make several addresses.

At each of the meetings the audience will be asked to subscribe to this pledge:

"Believing that national prosperity and increased employment for British workers can be secured only by vigorous extension of the safeguarding of industry against unfair foreign competition and by trade agreements with the dominions subject to the condition that, if they should involve taxation of foreign foodstuffs, they shall be submitted to a referendum of the people before being put into operation. I hereby pledge myself to do everything within my power to further the policy of the Conservative and the Unionist party for home and empire."

The campaign will conclude on Empire Day.

The free-traders also will be active in the next few days. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, will address a series of meetings beginning at Manchester, the traditional home of free trade. Throughout the industrial circles of the midlands and the North there will be an intensive free-trade campaign.

And as the new battle on tariffs opens the fight in West Fulham's by-election concludes. It is the first by-election in which empire free trade has been an issue. In all the checkered history of British politics it is probably the first by-election in which a Canadian budget played a part in the campaign.

PROTEST GENEVA PROPOSAL

LISBON, May 4 (AP).—The colonial authorities today protested in the press against a policy, said to have been urged by certain powers on the League of Nations to exact from Portugal the settlements of her foreign colonists, especially Angola, West Africa.

The protests allege this policy would imperil the loss of Portuguese autonomy if permitted before colonization by her own citizens is intensified.

The Premier declared they displayed the morale and discipline of veteran Fascisti. The youths were chosen from "Avanguardisti" groups in every part of Italy and spent a week here for drilling and other military training.

MEXICANS DEPLORE MORROW'S ABSENCE

WANT HIS FINANCIAL ADVICE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 4.—Regret is heard here at the news that Ambassador Morrow will not return to Mexico City until after the New Jersey Senatorial primaries.

Some even consider it a short-sighted policy that he should not return immediately to clear up those Mexican problems which have remained pending since his departure for the London Naval Conference. It is believed Ambassador Morrow would have preferred to remain here until his tasks were completed.

From the time of his celebrated breakfast with President Calles there has developed a feeling of mutual trust between Washington and Mexico City.

Since Mr. Morrow left for London the embassy affairs are said to have been marking time. His departure coincided with a change in the government, but now President Ortiz Rubio and his advisers are ready to face their pending international problems.

Financial, railway and other experts have been studying Mexico's economic and industrial capacity with a view to a new international debt agreement. Such an agreement is imminent, and Mr. Morrow's presence, as an experienced financier, is desired. Throughout the world there are about 300,000 holders of Mexican bonds, and they look for protection in the form of a debt agreement that Mexico will be able to live up to without a repetition of such cancellations as were found necessary in the Lamont-de la Huerta and the Lamont-Pani pacts.

Another of Mexico's problems, although not of such extreme financial importance, is the agrarian question, and Mr. Morrow is known to be vitally interested in the solution of that question, which is basic in the local revolutionary development. The expropriated land owned by Americans and other foreigners has long been a source of friction here, due largely to the lack of funds in the Mexican budgets to pay for the land.

It is true agrarian bonds have been authorized, these bonds have regularly paid interest, and their periodic amortization has been faithful, but their market value has never been more than twenty cents on the dollar. President Ortiz Rubio has been authorized to issue another 50,000,000 pesos in agrarian bonds, although only one-third of the former issue has been used.

There is general stability in Mexico. The oil, church and political crises have passed, and the possibility of revolutionary movements seems remote. Mexico wants peace and economic stability, and she feels that Mr. Morrow's presence would be of the greatest assistance.

MORROW BACK HOME; TO MAP CAMPAIGN

Returns From Washington and Will Prepare Statement on Senate Campaign Issues.

Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, returned to his home in Englewood from Washington yesterday to prepare for the opening of his campaign against Joseph S. Frelinghuysen for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from New Jersey.

While in the capital Mr. Morrow conferred with President Hoover and administration leaders and announced that he would not enter the Senate now by appointment nor return to Mexico City until after the primary election on June 17.

Mr. Morrow is expected to pay a brief visit to Amherst during the week to see his son, Dwight Jr., but for the remainder of the time he is scheduled to devote himself to preparation of his statement on the campaign issues, which he will deliver in his first speech, probably early next week.

Mr. Frelinghuysen is due to begin his heavy oratorical firing this week. He has already made several speeches, but due to the absence of Mr. Morrow he has refrained from advancing too rapidly with his drive.

Mr. Frelinghuysen has declared himself a "wet" in this campaign after having run twice before as a "dry," and Mr. Morrow is also expected to announce himself on the "wet" side in his initial statement.

The Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations in the State have frankly admitted that they face a dilemma in the Republican primary situation. In a letter sent by the Rev. Dr. James Shields, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, to trustees of the league he stressed the necessity for a series of conferences to adopt a formal "dry" stand on the race for the Senatorial nomination.

The first of these, a meeting of the headquarters committee of the league, will be held tomorrow in Newark. Dr. Shields pointed out that even though the drys might wish to oppose both candidates should both be "wet," there were many practical difficulties in the way of an effort to nominate a straight "dry" candidate. He suggested that the "drys" might decide instead to support the less unsatisfactory of the two "wet" candidates. He also suggested the calling of a State-wide protest meeting to call attention to the "dry" attitude.

REPAIRS TO R-100 PROGRESS

Final Trials Before Flight to Canada Will Follow Completion.

CARDINGTON, England, May 4 (Canadian Press)—The work of repairing the starboard elevator of the R-100, the giant dirigible which was injured when the ship was taken from her shed in preparation for a trial flight ten days ago, is still in progress.

When the job is completed, the final trials must be made before the R-100 will be able to leave on her flight to Canada. The actual date of the flight will depend on weather conditions. It had been generally assumed the start would be made toward the end of May and no information of a postponement is obtainable.

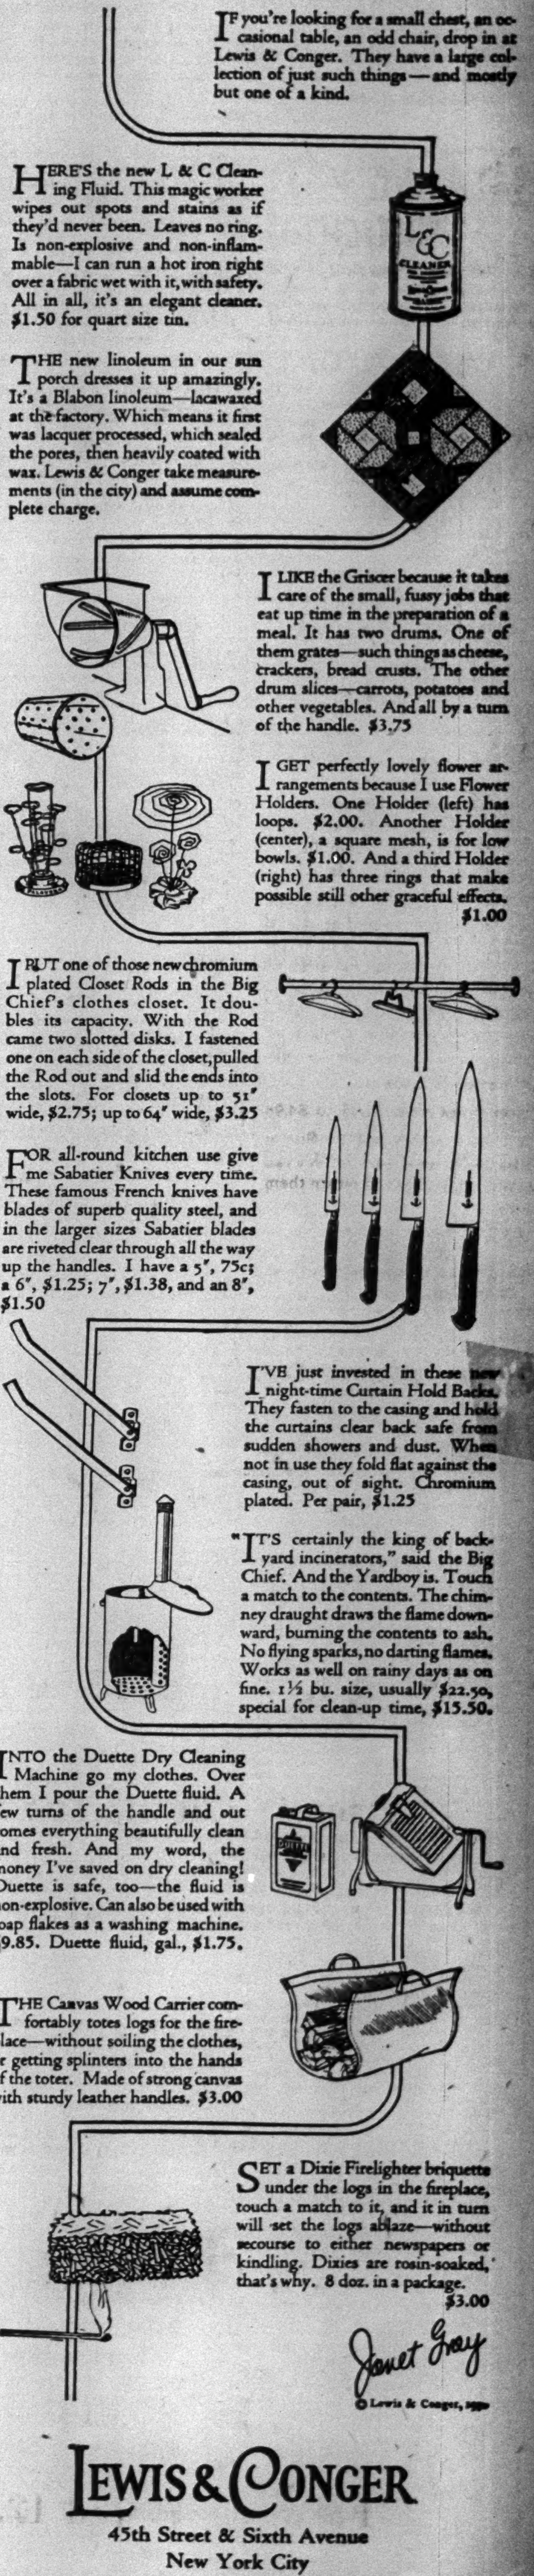
SHOPPING WITH Janet Gray AT LEWIS & CONGER



IF you're looking for a small chest, an occasional table, an odd chair, drop in at Lewis & Conger. They have a large collection of just such things—and mostly but one of a kind.

HERE'S the new L & C Cleaning Fluid. This magic worker wipes out spots and stains as if they'd never been. Leaves no ring. Is non-explosive and non-inflammable—I can run a hot iron right over a fabric wet with it, with safety. All in all, it's an elegant cleaner. $1.50 for quart size tin.

THE new linoleum in our sun porch dresses it up amazingly. It's a Blabon linoleum—lacawaxed at the factory. Which means it first was lacquer processed, which sealed the pores, then heavily coated with wax. Lewis & Conger take measurements (in the city) and assume complete charge.

I LIKE the Griscer because it takes care of the small, fussy jobs that eat up time in the preparation of a meal. It has two drums. One of them grates—such things as cheese, crackers, bread crusts. The other drum slices—carrots, potatoes and other vegetables. And all by a turn of the handle. $3.75

I GET perfectly lovely flower arrangements because I use Flower Holders. One Holder (left) has loops. $2.00. Another Holder (center), a square mesh, is for low bowls. $1.00. And a third Holder (right) has three rings that make possible still other graceful effects. $1.00

I PUT one of those new chromium plated Closet Rods in the Big Chief's clothes closet. It doubles its capacity. With the Rod came two slotted disks. I fastened one on each side of the closet, pulled the Rod out and slid the ends into the slots. For closets up to 51″ wide, $2.75; up to 64″ wide, $3.25

FOR all-round kitchen use give me Sabatier Knives every time. These famous French knives have blades of superb quality steel, and in the larger sizes Sabatier blades are riveted clear through all the way up the handles. I have a 5″, 75c; a 6″, $1.25; 7″, $1.38, and an 8″, $1.50

I'VE just invested in these new night-time Curtain Hold Backs. They fasten to the casing and hold the curtains clear back safe from sudden showers and dust. When not in use they fold flat against the casing, out of sight. Chromium plated. Per pair, $1.25

"IT'S certainly the king of backyard incinerators," said the Big Chief. And the Yardboy is. Touch a match to the contents. The chimney draught draws the flame downward, burning the contents to ash. No flying sparks, no darting flames. Works as well on rainy days as on fine. 1½ bu. size, usually $22.50, special for clean-up time, $15.50.

INTO the Duette Dry Cleaning Machine go my clothes. Over them I pour the Duette fluid. A few turns of the handle and out comes everything beautifully clean and fresh. And my word, the money I've saved on dry cleaning! Duette is safe, too—the fluid is non-explosive. Can also be used with soap flakes as a washing machine. $9.85. Duette fluid, gal., $1.75.

THE Canvas Wood Carrier comfortably totes logs for the fireplace—without soiling the clothes, or getting splinters into the hands of the toter. Made of strong canvas with sturdy leather handles. $3.00

SET a Dixie Firelighter briquette under the logs in the fireplace, touch a match to it, and it in turn will set the logs ablaze—without recourse to either newspapers or kindling. Dixies are rosin-soaked, that's why. 8 doz. in a package. $3.00

CANNON AT ALGIERS GREET DOUMERGUE

SAHARAN FESTIVAL GIVEN

Spectacle as Brilliant as That Arranged for Napoleon III on His Visit in 1860.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 4.—More than eighty vessels, including dreadnaughts, cruisers, destroyers and submarines, and four squadrons of airplanes participated in a great naval demonstration of the French Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets off Algiers this morning on the arrival of President Doumergue for the celebration of the centenary of Algeria as a French colony.

Amid salvos from battleships drawn up in review formation, the President debarked from the cruiser Duquesne and received an ovation from the colonial population, gathered in the white city of the Mediterranean from all parts of the colony.

One of the first official ceremonies was a greeting from the tribal chieftains who had been camped at Algiers for a week awaiting the President. Gifts and tokens of fealty presented to M. Doumergue included a thoroughbred Arabian saddle-horse with rich accoutrements. The meeting took place in the Summer palace, which 100 years ago was occupied by the Dey of Algiers, who surrendered in 1830 to the French invaders.

In the afternoon M. Doumergue inaugurated a statue of René Viviani, French statesman and former Premier, who was born in Algeria. In his speech the President touched upon M. Viviani's visit to the United States with Marshal Joffre in 1917 and his rôle of encouraging the United States to enter the World War as well as his vigorous defense of France's interests at the Washington naval conference.

Saharan Festival Given.

ALGIERS, May 4 (AP).—After greeting Algerian officials today, President Doumergue drove to the monument erected in honor of soldiers who died in the World War. He was attended by a cortège splashed with color furnished by the bizarre costumes of the African troops and the flowing purple robes of Arab chieftains. The chiefs, mounted on beautiful Arabian horses, exhibited much gold embroidery on their garments.

The Saharan festival arranged in honor of President Doumergue was the greatest attraction for the public. It was held on the city's race course, overlooking Algiers Bay. When M. Doumergue walked into the brilliantly decorated Presidential box he looked down upon a sight as picturesque and impressive as that staged for Emperor Napoleon III and the Empress Eugénie when they visited Algiers in 1860. The vast hippodrome was packed by thousands of spectators, while other thousands, unable to gain admission, stood outside seeking some view of the pageant.

On the racing field were assembled contingents of the principal tribes, Berbers and Arabians, who form part of France's African army. The mysterious Touaregs, veiled tribesmen from the distant Hoggar, who journeyed almost 2,000 miles for the ceremonies, won the greatest attention. Mounted on swift racing camels, they sat immobile, holding long lances of wrought iron in their right hands and shields made of antelope skin in their left. At a given signal the camels raced down the field, giving a marvelous exhibition of speed.

Algerian Expedition Reconstituted.

In return for the gift of a superb Arabian horse the President presented a poignard studded with diamonds to Chief Amenocal of the Hoggar, leader of all the tribesmen present.

Another feature of the remarkable celebration was the reconstruction by troopers of the Algerian expedition of a hundred years ago in the uniforms of the time. The soldiers paraded behind the band of the French Foreign Legion.

At the moment the President was setting foot on Algerian soil a lively discussion was provoked by the publication in local newspapers of reports that both Premier Mussolini of Italy and Pope Pius would visit the forthcoming Eucharistic Congress at Carthage, Tunis. According to dispatches from Tunis, these reports caused a sensation there, though it was added that they had not received wide credence among the authorities.

Fascist Demonstration Reported.

A dispatch, printed under a Rome date-line in the Presse Libre of Algiers, asserted that a mammoth Fascist demonstration was being prepared secretly at Carthage to welcome Il Duce. Italian settlers have flocked within recent years into Tunisia, which in general is more fertile than the neighboring Italian colony of Tripolitania.

It was remarked here among the French officials gathered for the celebration that the Franco-Italian negotiations about the status of Italian residents in Tunis and the rectification of the frontier with Tripolitania, which Italy has been pressing, have not been settled.

Italy desires a permanent right for Italian residents of Tunis to maintain their Italian nationality, and wants the boundary south into the desert more definitely marked.

Nationalist Demonstrators at Gdynia Irritate Pilsudski Followers.

WARSAW, May 4 (AP).—Gdynia, Poland's new seaport, had its first political disturbance today when 800 youthful members of the Nationalist organization, which opposes Marshal Pilsudski's government, clashed with citizens loyal to the Marshal.

Three persons were seriously injured and several others suffered minor hurts. Gdynia, which has grown from a fishing village to a modern port in four years under Marshal Pilsudski's government, is extremely loyal to the dictator.

Gdynia is a seaport and naval base on the Bay of Gdynia, opening out into Danzig Bay, on the Baltic Sea. It is twelve miles northwest of Danzig, with which it is connected by railway.

MAWSON AGAIN TO HEAD ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION

Sir Douglas Plans to Leave Tasmania in November to Resume Scientific Survey.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ADELAIDE, Australia, May 4.—Sir Douglas Mawson announced tonight that with the necessary funds in sight he was now organizing a second Antarctic cruise. He expects to leave Hobart, Tasmania, early in November with members of the staff of the ship Discovery.

He intends to resume the scientific survey of the Antarctic and to cover an expanse of 1,500 miles lying between the meridian of 160 degrees east and the point farthest east which was reached on his last voyage. Part of this field came within the scope of his expedition of 1911-14.

On the forthcoming voyage particular attention will be paid to fishery potentialities, including edible fish, seals and whales.

ROCKEFELLERS' GIFTS ALLAY FRENCH FEELING

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 4.—The philanthropic activities of the Rockefeller family in recent weeks have had the effect of allaying the friction in Franco-American relations inspired by tariff differences and certain aspects of the American diplomatic policies.

"Incompatibility frequently manifests itself between the French and the Americans," writes La Liberté, "but their good points always intervene to prevent any permanent rift in their natural affection. If a Borah disturbs their friendship, a Herrick intervenes and re-establishes good feeling.

"And just at the moment when the French are beginning to meditate upon the extreme differences in mentality that separates the two races, we are obliged to take off our hats before some unexpected act of spontaneous generosity. Just when we are thinking what egoists those Americans are, we are obliged to change our thoughts into an exclamation of what generous fellows they are."

Similar reflections appearing in other newspapers say the gift of John D. Rockefeller Jr. to University City, and another gift from the Rockefeller Foundation, announced by S. M. Gunn, for the preservation of the manuscripts in the French National Library, prove absolutely false the often heard declaration that the Americans are materialists and are not interested in intellectual things.

"In reality our differences are all due to misunderstanding," says La Liberté. "What is really needed is some kind of permanent organization which will explain Frenchmen to Americans and Americans to Frenchmen."

BARLOW LOSES CUBAN SUIT.

Appellate Court in Havana Rejects Land Confiscation Charges.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 4.—Charges of confiscation of real estate, valued at $5,000,000, in and near Havana, and sold by Joseph E. Barlow and Lewis Warner, Americans, to prominent Cuban and American corporations and individuals, were denied yesterday in the Court of Appeals.

The ruling was made in connection with a suit settled by the courts of Marianao in favor of Abelardo Auja and Juan Francisco Rodriguez of Havana.

The plaintiffs demanded the cancellation of more than 100 deeds, the restoration of the property involved and the cancellation of several hundred legal registrations of the property in the courts of Marianao in favor of many American and Cuban citizens. Ignacio del Valle, wealthy real estate owner, one of the many involved in the suit, submitted evidence to the judges purporting to show the illegality of the claims of Messrs. Barlow and Warner to the property.

Mr. Barlow is now in Washington pursuant to his claim for several million dollars against the Cuban Government for alleged seizure of his property.

STUDIES 2 FAMILIES OF 32.

Mexican Paper Investigates to Ascertain "Mother Queen" of Country.

MEXICO CITY, May 4 (AP).—Efforts by the newspaper Excelsior to find Mexico's most prolific mother, who will be crowned "Mother Queen of Mexico" on Mother's Day, has brought to light the existence of some remarkably large families.

The choice of a queen is still undecided pending investigation of the families of two mothers, each said to have thirty-two living children. Mothers' Day in Mexico is on May 10.

Twenty-two mother queens of States, whose names were announced today, have a total of 319 children, an average of fourteen each.

Angela Varona of the State of Mexico and Juana Barrena de Chavarria of the State of Chiapas are each said to have thirty-two children. Their claims are being investigated, for the rules specify that all children must be living, must have had the same father and must have been nursed by the mother.

DR. PHILLIPS AND LIGGETT'S RECOGNIZE THE MENACE TO HEALTH OF THE PUBLIC DRINKING GLASS

UNSANITARY EATING PLACES

An article elsewhere in these columns calls attention to the fact that the Health Department is troubled with cases of "Vincent's infection" better known as "trench mouth", which is breaking out sporadically in the undergraduate body. Dr. PHILLIPS of the Health Department believes that the contagion is spread through unsanitary drinking glasses used at some of the local restaurants and soda-fountains. He has repeatedly urged the shops in question to supply paper drinking cups in place of glasses, but they have so far refused to cooperate. In view of the fact that students are thus exposed to infection, and that every year a number of cases do occur, it is time something be done.

The shops will not use paper cups because they say it would be an increased expense. All in all the situation is a difficult one. But from an impartial point of view, the maintenance of good health should be the deciding factor. Whatever practice endangers the health of the college community is wrong, no matter what financial interests are concerned. Moreover, even if the restaurants and soda-fountains are not compelled to sterilize their drinking glasses, and even if paper cups do cost them more, in the long run they would find that a guarantee of cleanliness and sanitation is to their advantage. At present two courses of action are open. Either the city should require the shops to sterilize their glasses, or the shops should of their own initiative bring paper cups into vogue. If neither of these things is done, the identity of the unsanitary places should be made public. It is practically certain that a boycott would result.

STOCK INVENTORY

Our stock inventory as of March first was unusually large, for the reason that after Congress started tariff-tinkering a year ago with a guess that woolen duties would go up, we took no chances, but bought our usual quota of foreign cloths, as well as the best that our home mills could produce, had them delivered, and here they are in new Spring clothes to wear.

DESCRIBES DEFEAT OF ABYSSINIAN CHIEF

DENIES KING POISONED AUNT

Empress Zaudita, Ill With Typhoid, Renounced Foreign Doctors for a Sorcerer, Bousschere Declares.

Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.

PARIS, May 4.—The first detailed story of how a squadron of French-trained fliers smashed a revolt against Ras Tafari Makonnen, former King and now Emperor of Abyssinia, about three weeks ago, reached here today. Flying low, the pilots used machine guns on the rebels, killing their leader, Chief Gouksa (also known as Ras Wali Guga), and several hundreds of his followers, according to Henri de Bousschère, editor of a newspaper in Madagascar, who happened to be in the French port of Djibouti when the outbreak occurred and who has just arrived in France.

"Numerous Abyssinian chieftains consider the present Emperor an usurper and maintain allegiance to the memory of his great-uncle, Emperor Menelik," said M. Bousschère. "About the middle of April Chief Gouksa, with more than 1,000 warriors equipped with rifles and machine guns obtained from the Italian protectorate of Eritrea and Somaliland, began a march on Emperor Tafari's capital. The ruler possessed only minor forces, as no national army exists, the warriors being split up among the various tribes. A former French officer, M. Maillet, commanding four airplanes, ordered an attack on the assailing column, which the planes met about thirty-five miles from Addis Abeba.

"Following tradition, Chief Goukas was surrounded by a brilliant escort of mounted warriors in scarlet tunics and with waving plumed head-dresses. These made an excellent target for the aerial machine gunners.

"Swooping straight toward the rebels, the planes opened fire, the machine guns slaughtering several hundred and scattering survivors. Chief Goukas himself was wounded, and when the planes landed in an adjacent field the Abyssinian mechanics leaped out and, in accordance with Ethiopian custom, dismembered the wounded chieftain, but carefully preserved his head and face without injury for identification.

"M. Maillet rescued the remains and placed them in his plane and flew to Addis Abeba, where King Tafari gave the mutilated fragments an elaborate funeral and a royal sepulchre.

"The decisive defeat of Chief Goukas struck fear into the other chieftains, who surrendered large stocks of arms and ammunition.

"The day after the rebels had been crushed Empress Zaudita, heiress of Menelik, died, and the King was immediately accused of poisoning her.

"An investigation revealed that Empress Zaudita had been suffering from typhoid and had wearied of the long treatment by a French doctor and had renounced the foreigner's scientific treatment for an Abyssianian sorcerer's practice. The native doctors ordered a sacred bath for the Empress, who fainted in the icy waters and died without recovering consciousness."

Bull Tosses Franklin in Air, But American Escapes Injury

By The Associated Press.

CEUTA, Spanish Morocco, May 4.—Sydney Franklin, Spain's only American bullfighter, fighting for the second time since he was severely gored at Madrid two months ago, was tossed by a bull in the arena here today, but was thrown clear and escaped unharmed.

The young Brooklyn matador, who killed two bulls at Jerez, Spain, Wednesday, won the applause of a large and enthusiastic crowd. Performing brilliant cape-work, luring the bull close to him but dodging its lunging horns, he disposed of his first bull in the classic manner.

With the second bull, he did almost as well, but narrowly missed an accident similar to that at Madrid. In dodging the animal while making a rapid pass with the cape he caught his clothing for a moment on the horns. He was tossed into the air, but picked himself up unhurt and returned to the attack.

He killed the bull soon after and marched from the arena to great applause.

MARINE PLANES ROUT NICARAGUAN BANDITS

Undetermined Number of Marauders Slain in Two Clashes in Northern Provinces.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, May 4.—The Nicaraguan National Guard and the United States Marine headquarters here report a clash between bandits and the National Guard occurred Friday and marine planes materially assisted the ground forces.

The bandits were found near the top of Jicote Hill, five miles from the Honduran border. The guardsmen advanced and seven marine planes dropped fifty bombs on the bandit camp, which was immediately deserted, but the National Guard patrol effectively cut off a retreat in Nicaragua territory. It is understood the bandits headed for Honduras and crossed the border, thus eliminating the possibility of further pursuit.

The bandit camp was completely destroyed and a number of the bandits were killed. There were no casualties among the guardsmen or marines.

Yesterday marine planes dropped several bombs on a bandit group in the Department of Jinotega. Details of this contact are not yet known.

These clashes seem to indicate a slight increase in bandit activities in the northern provinces as a result of the reductions in the marine force here, but none of the bandit attempts have been successful, and the National Guard has the situation well in hand.

Killed on His 173d Parachute Jump.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 4 (AP).—George "Frosty" Dambach took his 173d and last parachute leap today. Jumping as an "added attraction" for a baseball crowd, Dambuch saw his parachute disabled as it struck t strut and fought in vain to pull it open as he shot toward the ground. It partially opened, but too late, and when spectators reached his body the silken folds had settled over it.

RIVAL GROUPS FLOUT SCHOBER PROMISE

Chancellor, Back in Austria, Sees Parades of Factions He Plans to Disarm.

10,000 HEIMWEHR IN MARCH

By JOHN MacCORMAC.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 4.—Chancellor Johann Schober, whose government has assured the League of Nations that Austria will disarm its private armies, passed, on his return today from London, through the industrial town of St. Polten just as it was affording an object lesson of the need for the fulfillment of this promise.

Ten thousand uniformed members of the Heimwehr marched through the streets of the town during the day, while 16,000 uniformed members of the Socialist Defense Corps stood by in their quarters ready to throw themselves on the Heimwehr men should any clash take place.

Any actual violence was prevented by armed gendarmes, 700 of whom were posted in St. Polten yesterday, their number being increased by another 800 during the night, after the Heimwehr member had complained they would have to protest the Socialist's action in breaking the "gentlemen's" agreement not to march through the streets of St. Polten last night.

In addition to the gendarmes, military forces under the command of Major General Janda were summoned and threw a cordon around the town. Machine guns were placed in position and military posts were established to keep the Fascist and the Socialist forces apart.

Similar precautions were taken in various towns south of Vienna, such as Laxenburg and Moedling.

Both the Socialists and the Fascists today treated Dr. Schober's promise to disarm them with scant respect. Socialist newspapers condemned it as pure "eye wash" aimed to delude bankers into granting a loan to Austria. These papers jeered at the suggestion that the Schober Government would be really willing to disarm its Heimwehr supporters.

The Reichspost, the organ of Mgr. Seipel, also flouts the idea that disarmament is possible.

Dr. Pfrimer, one of the two chief Heimwehr generalissimos, in a speech at St. Polten today, said the Heimwehr would wait until it saw what form Dr. Schober's disarmament law would take. "Our movement, which feels itself the guardian of national thought in Austria, cannot, without betraying itself, agree to measures which are directed against these sacred conceptions of a free people," he said.

RATIFY YOUNG PLAN TODAY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 4.—The Young plan for the payment of wartime reparations will be ratified officially by the British and Italian Governments tomorrow. As the French and Belgian Governments already have set their seal on the document, this will complete the number of ratifications stipulated by The Hague agreement, in addition to the German ratification.

The plan, therefore, will become effective from tomorrow, and the Bank for International Settlements in Basle at the same time will acquire legal status, according to a convention between the Swiss Government and the powers signatory to The Hague agreements.

GANDHI ARRESTED; TROOPS HELD READY

Suddenness Causes Surprise.

BOMBAY, Monday, May 5 (AP).—MahatmaGandhi's arrest, following a week of comparative tranquillity since the riots at Calcutta, Karachi and Peshawur, which were disavowed by Mr. Gandhi, had been heralded by many rumors but finally came with a shock of surprise.

Upon his followers, its effects were not immediately visible., The Government, in the face of his overt provocation inviting arrest since he first violated the salt monopoly at the village of Dandi on April 6, played a cautious waiting game. Many of his assistants were taken into custody and imprisoned after summary trials, while with regard to Mr. Gandhi the "Raj" bided its time.

Poona is a British military stronghold and the headquarters of an army command. Elaborate precautions were taken by the authorities to prevent violence or attempts to release Gandhi. He will be detained without trial.

Aides Arrested Earlier.

The arrest of several important Gandhi leaders yesterday indicated that the British authorities in India intended to take more rigorous steps against the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign.

M. Gadgill, president of the Youth League of Poona, and Shankarrao Dev, the Maharashtra war council chief, were taken into custody. Mr. Dev was tried almost immediately and sentenced in the afternoon to a year's imprisonment and a fine of 100 rupees (about $36).

In a serious explosion near Poona, an important British military centre and the headquarters of an army command, six Indians were injured. Apparently they were carrying a large detonator that they had stolen from a munitions factory and dropped it.

SIMLA, May 4.—A declaration of loyalty to the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, was published tonight by ninety of the largest Bengal landowners, headed by Maharajah Sir Prodyot Kumar Tagore of Calcutta. This is expected to be a salutary example to those leaders of moderate opinion who have been "sitting on the fence" during Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign.

The subscribers to this declaration assure the Viceroy of the united and whole-hearted support of the great majority of the people of India in "any measures the government may adopt to maintain unimpaired the reputation of the British paramount power throughout the Indian empire." They describe the letter which Mr. Gandhi addressed to the Viceroy on the eve of his civil disobedience campaign as "a conglomeration of loose ideas" and the Viceroy's reply thereto as "rightly terse and straight to the point." Tributes are paid to the Viceroy's "brilliant services to India."

The Viceroy replied to Sir Prodyot that the Indian Government in behalf of Great Britain has "more than once announced its determination to do everything it can to promise constitutional progress in India, and has further announced its desire as early as possible to meet the representatives of India in a conference for consideration of the means which this progress may most rapidly be accomplished.

"That policy stands firm," the Viceroy said, "but in the meanwhile Mr. Gandhi and the Congress leaders have deliberately pursued a course of action which could only lead to the deplorable consequences that recently occurred in several parts of India, and at the very moment when the prospect of a free conference lay within their grasp I find it hard to imagine conduct more reckless or more damaging to India's interests."

Asks Ghandi to Attend Meeting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 4.—Further plans to stir up trouble, according to a Daily Mail dispatch from India, are indicated by the fact Pandit Motilal Nerhu, who has been president of the All-India National Congress since his son, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru was imprisoned, has asked Mahatma Gandhi to attend a meeting of the congress executive at Bombay May 12. Mr. Gandhi suggests a meeting at Jalalpur, near Surat, that day.

Several arrests were made today at Viramgam and Ahmedabad for infringements of the salt laws.

Because of the critical situation in India, a message was sent to all Quaker meetings in Great Britain today, asking the Friends to pray for Lord Irwin, the Viceroy, "that he may be enabled to maintain a spirit of forbearance"; for Wedgwood Benn, Secretary of State for India, "that he may strengthen every influence for good will between the two countries," and for Mahatma Ghandi, "that in his struggle for the freedom of his people he may be true to his own high principles of non-violence."

Approval Indicated in London.

LONDON, (Monday), May 5 (AP).—The arrest of Mahatma Gandhi caused little surprise in view of the persistence of recent reports that the Government had decided the civil disobedience movement was causing mischief to the peace, outweighing all other considerations.

The government's view semi-officially is that the time had come to terminate what was regarded as a long indulgence to the civil disobedience agitation and the campaign for "Swaraj," or independence, led by the Mahatma. His reputation for sanctity among the Indian masses appears to have been the chief reason for his escape from arrest during more than a month of open infraction of the salt laws in the Gujerat district.

The government, which has been closely following developments in India, feared imprisonment of a man who urged non-violence upon his followers would react unfavorably upon the moderates of other faiths and creeds. The latter, while disapproving Mr. Gandhi's methods, greatly respect his personality.

The government is believed to have devoted much anxious thought to this problem, at last endorsing the view of the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, and the Indian authorities that the time had come to put an end to the "Stayagraha" or civil disobedience movement by striking at its very head.

GANDHI'S THIRD ARREST.

Campaign of Passive Resistance Was Begun by Him in 1907.

The arrest early today of Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi is the third in the career of the Hindu barrister, who by his unyielding championship of the aspirations of his race has won the appellation of "Mahatma" or "Great Soul."

Born in 1869, the son of the Dewan or Prime Minister of the Indian State of Perbander, Mr. Gandhi was well educated and won admittance to the bar in England. He began practice in Bombay. After making a local reputation he went to South Africa to uphold the rights of Indians there against discriminatory racial legislation.

When the Boer War broke out, one of the announced aims of the British was the amelioration of the status of the Indians in South Africa. Mr. Gandhi aided the British by every means in his power, selling war bonds, advocating enlistment and recruiting an Indian Red Cross Service which he led himself. He was cited for gallantry under fire.

Nevertheless he failed to win the ends that he sought in South Africa for his fellow-countrymen, and in 1907 they began under his leadership a campaign of passive resistance. He was arrested and imprisoned for two months, but the government was forced to free him in fear of violence by his followers.

Aided Britain During War.

When the World War broke out Mr. Gandhi was active in keeping India loyal to Britain, and for his services he won the Kaisar-i-Hind medal. At its conclusion he was once more disappointed in the failure of the authorities to make the concessions to his people that he had expected. After the Amritsar massacre he denounced the British for "brutality."

On Feb. 8, 1922, he addressed an ultimatum to Lord Reading, then the Viceroy, giving him eight days in which to change the government's "repressive" policy. He was arrested the following month, charged with sedition, and arraigned in Bombay. When he entered the court every person in it, including Judge Broomfield, rose as a mark of respect to him.

Mr. Gandhi pleaded guilty, and the judge suggested that he name his own sentence, adding that Tilak, another Indian leader, had been given six years for the same offence. Mr. Gandhi replied that he would be proud to suffer as Tilak had done. In pronouncing the sentence, the judge said:

"I hate to have to do this. You are indeed a strange prisoner, and I cannot refrain from saying that you belong to a category different from any person I have tried or am likely to try again."

After serving a little less than two years Mr. Gandhi became ill and the doctors said that continued imprisonment might mean his death. He was released in February, 1924, and renewed his campaign of educational and spiritual leadership of his people.

His present campaign of "civil disobedience" has for its avowed purpose "not for the immediate establishment of independence, but as a preliminary step to a conference that must take place if independence is to be established peacefully, and to remove certain grievances, chiefly economic and moral," according to a statement he gave to The Associated Press.

NEW INDIAN COMMANDER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 4.—There has been a quick change of military commanders in India and a new Chief of Staff has been appointed, as well as a new Chief Commissioner of the northwest frontier province. General Sir Philip W. Chetwode, present Chief of Staff, who is on his way to England, will resign on July 3 and will be succeeded by Lieut. Gen. Sir C. J. Deverell, now Quartermaster General.

General Chetwode's appointment to succeed Field Marshal Sir William B. Birdwood as Commander-in-Chief in India was recently announced. General A. E. Wardrop will be the new Quartermaster General. S. E. Pears, now political resident in Mysore, will succeed Sir Norman Bolton as Commissioner of the northwest frontier.

BRITISH NAVY STUDIES FIRING BY COMPASS

LONDON, May 4 (Science Service).—Gunfire in future naval engagements may be controlled by reference to compass direction instead of by the gunners or fire-control officers laying sights directly on the target.

In the periodical, Engineering, the efforts of British naval authorities to solve this problem are described. They have found that the ordinary magnetic compass is unreliable for the purpose of directing fire accurately, but that there is considerable promise in the gyroscope compass, which is not influenced by the masses of steel in the ships' hulls and armor or by the numerous motors and other electric appliances with which modern ships are filled.

Artillery on land, both field and coast guns, long since adopted the method of "indirect fire," by which the gunners never see their target but set their sights according to the directions of officers in observation posts or in aircraft. This was done in order to conceal the guns and thus protect them.

The introduction of smoke screens and other concealing devices in naval tactics, together with the greatly increased ranges of modern naval guns, make it increasingly difficult for a ship's battery to be directed from the ship itself. It is expected that in possible future naval warfare most, if not all, of the gunfire and even the torpedo discharges will be directed by officers in observation aircraft high above the battle.

SUBMERGED

IT RUNS UNDER WATER

IN A SPECTACULAR nation-wide exhibition, General Electric is dramatically demonstrating that the "On Top" refrigerating unit cannot be harmed by dirt, air, moisture and rust. Amazed crowds gather day after day in front of General Electric display windows in hundreds of cities—witnessing an astonishing demonstration. Completely submerged in a tank of water, a General Electric Refrigerating Unit operates with quiet, smooth, unfailing efficiency.

Only a General Electric—born of years of exhaustive research, built for trouble-free service and sealed in steel—could withstand this grueling test.

Here is the only unit hermetically sealed in steel—oiled once and for all at the factory. Efficiency is sealed in—trouble sealed out. The simple, flawless mechanism is protected forever from dirt, air, moisture, rust and heat by a permanent wall of steel. This impregnable barrier of metal repulses the ravages of time and wear.

An engineering triumph—built to run through the years without a thought.

General Electric Refrigerators are modern in principle and appearance, fast in freezing performance, greatest in food storage capacity and by far lowest in cost per year. They embody every desirable convenience and advantage from ready movability and quiet, unfailing operation, to a handy, accessible freezing control. Cabinets are all steel—white porcelain lined.

Not one of hundreds of thousands of owners has ever spent a cent for service.

Why not consider the advantages that have made this refrigerator the first choice of the world's buyers? A telephone call will bring a refrigeration specialist to your home.

BUILDING GAIN SEEN IN A SURVEY HERE

CLOTHING OUTLOOK GOOD

Better conditions in the building trades reflected in a slight improvement in those metal industries affiliated with it, and "encouraging" developments in the clothing industry were reported yesterday by the subcommittee on unemployment of the industrial relations committee of the Merchants' Association of New York.

The report summed up the results of an inquiry made by the committee of employment conditions in the four leading industries of this city—building, clothing, metal trades and printing. In the printing industry the committee saw cause for optimism in the maintenance of high wage levels.

The report also set forth an outline of various employment and wage guarantee plans which have been brought to the attention of the committee. The committee believes that a study of some of these plans may be of interest to many employers. Louis K. Comstock is chairman of the subcommittee, which includes among its members Ernest G. Draper and Henry Bruere of Governor Roosevelt's committee for the stabilization of unemployment.

Metal Industries Holding Up.

"The building trade is beginning to feel the effect of the new work which was announced earlier in the year," the report said. "Better conditions in the building industry have been reflected in a slight improvement of those metal industries which are allied with building, while the other branches of the metal trades appear to be holding their own. The reports from the clothing industry are on the whole encouraging, although the April employment in this field was apparently below that of March. April is normally a dull season and the April record is reported as only a little below that of last year. The printing trades report that although there has been little if any increase in employment since March a high wage level has been maintained."

The report added that it is becoming increasingly apparent that, as the committee suggested in its statement of April 6, the main problem is the general regularization of industry to remove the necessity for irregular periods of unemployment. The report showed that some concerns had already made notable progress along this line through changes in selling methods that had tended to create demand in slack seasons.

Further inquiries by the committee show that many other concerns have taken steps to give their employes a considerable degree of protection against lay-offs. The inquiries of the committee reveal that various progressive concerns have followed the lead of the Procter & Gamble Company in guaranteeing its employes forty-eight weeks of employment every year.

Lists Guarantee Provisions.

"The committee feels that certain individual employers in New York City might be interested in studying what other concerns have done along this line," the report added. "The committee, therefore, lists the provisions of certain guarantees that have been brought to its attention. These plans are particularly interesting because they are dissociated from unemployment insurance in the generally accepted sense."

Following are the employers listed by the committee as guaranteeing employment and their methods:

Columbia Conserve Company, Indianapolis—Salaried workers guaranteed full salary the year round including vacation. Wage workers guaranteed fifty hours a week while employed.

Deering Milliken & Co., Duchess Bleachery, Wappinger Falls, N. Y. —Fund established out of earnings in 1920. Guaranteed a minimum of half-time pay fifty-two weeks a year while the fund lasts.

Dennison Manufacturing Company, Framingham, Mass.—Fund effective 1920. Factory and office workers of six months' service are guaranteed 60 to 90 per cent of wage loss for lay-offs or temporary reduction to lower-paid work.

Crocker-McElwain Company and Chemical Paper Manufacturing Company, Holyoke, Mass.—Full year's work guaranteed to employes of five years' standing.

John A. Manning Paper Company and Manning Abrasive Company, Troy, N. Y.—All employes of the production departments, having been employed one year or more, receive a benefit, limited to $72 a year, paid in amounts to insure a minimum of $9 a week.

S. C. Johnson & Son, Racine, Wis.—Practically all employes of six months' service receive $1, $2 or $4 a day, according to wage classification, for the first hundred days of involuntary idleness and half these amounts for the second hundred days for a maximum of 200 working days and six holidays a year.

Leeds & Northrup Company, Philadelphia—Fund established in 1924. All employes receiving under $2,600 a year with three months' service are eligible. Employes with dependents receive 75 per cent of wages and employes without dependents 50 per cent for from three to twenty-six weeks a year, according to length of service.

Procter & Gamble Company, Ivorydale, Ohio, and Proctor & Gamble Manufacturing Company, Staten Island, N. Y.—Plan established in 1927. Employes earning $2,000 or less a year with six months' service guaranteed forty-eight weeks a year with full pay.

In a report on unemployment relief issued yesterday, Bailey B. Burritt, general director of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, declared that the organization had been obliged to increase its relief budget by more than $200,000 to relieve distress in families where the wage earner was out of a job.

Mr. Burritt also reported that the peak of the need for unemployment relief, in contrast to experience in previous periods of general unemployment, has continued throughout the month of April.

Family Welfare Conference Today.

A four-week conference to discuss problems of family welfare, called by the Family Welfare Association of America, will begin today at the Russell Sage Foundation Building under the direction of Miss Betsey Libbey of the Family Society of Philadelphia. The conference will be known as the Family Social Work Institute and attendance will be limited to representatives of the family welfare societies in the national organization.

Fechet Flies to Dayton, Back to Capital in 6 Hours

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP).—A conference in Dayton, Ohio, today did not keep Major Gen. James E. Fechet, Chief of Air Corps, from spending the afternoon in Washington.

Accompanied by Captain Ira Baker, he left here by plane at 6:15 o'clock this morning and arrived at 9:30 o'clock at Wright Field, Dayton. After a twenty-five-minute conference with Brig. Gen. B. D. Foulois, Commandant of the station, the pair boarded another plane and landed here in Bolling Field at 12:40 o'clock. The entire trip estimated at 800 miles air distance, took but six hours.

Two days ago the flying General flew from Fargo, N. D., a 1,300 mile journey, in seven hours and twenty minutes.

ROOSEVELT SUBMITS EMPLOYMENT PLAN

"3—The active stimulation of small job campaigns in every city and town in the State of New York, so that the medium of employment can be furnished locally.

"4—The establishment of local employment clearing houses under public auspices in every city and town integrated with the State public employment services, where possible.

"5—The development and opening up of local public works immediately. Road building, sanitation systems, water works, building and building repair are many instances in the control of local officials, and the boards of supervisors should make every effort to begin work on these items promptly.

"In addition, let the local chambers of commerce appoint committees and plan concretely local means for stimulating trade and industry at the same time discussing ways and means for the future stabilization of industry in the local communities. Chambers of commerce must recognize that the prosperity of each town in this State is dependent upon having all of the people in its town at work steadily and so able with their purchases to keep trade alive.

"Any assistance in planning the developing of your programs locally will be given gladly by the appropriate State departments."

PRINCETON, N. J., May 4.—The 118th commencement of Princeton Theological Seminary opened this morning with the baccalaureate service in Miller Chapel, attended by members of the graduating class, other students, and alumni and friends. The Rev. Dr. J. Ritchie Smith, who is retiring from his work as Professor of Homiletics after fifty years' service in the ministry, was the preacher.

Dr. Smith discussed what he termed "the three elemental facts of life—labor, love and prayer." "God is the tireless worker in creation, providence and redemption," said Professor Smith.

"The telescope may seem to thrust God very far away but the microscope brings him very near. The God of the atom and the God of the star: shall he not be my God? In him all things consist, by his sustaining power this universe is upheld, and without him it would fall to pieces."

The Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of the seminary, conducted the baccalaureate service and later presided at the administration of holy communion.

This afternoon members of the graduating class held their "fellowship meeting" at Springdale, home of Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson. Tonight a service was held at the First Presbyterian Church, at which the Rev. Charles D. Brokenshire, Professor of Religion at Alma College, Michigan, was the preacher. Mr. Brokenshire was graduated from the seminary with the class of '10, which is holding a special reunion this year.

Tomorrow there will be reunion meetings and dinners, the annual Spring session of the board of trustees and announcement of election of new officers of the board and new faculty appointments. On Tuesday the commencement proper will be held, followed by the alumni luncheon and annual business meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 4.—George Webber, 25 years old, of Little Ferry, one of the mechanics burned late Friday afternoon in an explosion in a hangar at the Fokker aircraft plant at Teterboro, died early this morning in the Hackensack Hospital. William McQuinn, the first victim, died Friday at midnight.

Edwin Eberle and W. H. Smith, both severely burned, were considered out of danger today and the four others are recovering from small burns and injuries. He and McQuinn suffered in the main blast from the tank they were putting in the tri-motor plane belonging to J. L. McMillan of the McMillan Oil Company of Los Angeles.

Dies on Motorboat in East River.

Edwin Langsdorf, 27 years old, of 290 West End Avenue, died suddenly, apparently of heart disease, yesterday afternoon while in his motorboat with his wife Elsie in the East River off North Brothers Island. His wife called for help and the marine police towed the motorboat to North Brothers Island. Langsdorf's body was taken to Riverside Hospital on the island.

FORD TRUCK

THE Ford 1½-ton truck offers you long, reliable haulage service at remarkably low cost. Many features of the chassis combine to make the Ford truck a value far above its price. Important among them is the new rear axle, which is exceptionally sturdy. It has a spiral bevel gear of special design, with straddle-mounted pinion. Two gear-ratios are optional. The housing is unusually strong. The axle shafts are heavier, and because of the three-quarter floating type of construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

The new wheel and tire equipment is a feature which you will find both convenient and economical. Dual rear wheels can be installed at small additional cost. Balloon tires of one size are used throughout, with the dual equipment, so that all six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare need be carried.

Other features which add to the value of the Ford truck are the efficient four-cylinder engine, which develops 40 horsepower at 2200 r.p.m.; the 4-speed transmission, which gives a wide, flexible range of speed and power; the new front brakes, which have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear wheels, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety; and the new front axle and spring, which are heavier and stronger, as are front radius-rod, king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings.

These and many other features indicate how well the Ford truck is designed for reliable service under every condition. You can inspect the truck at your Ford dealer's.

In addition to the Ford 1½-ton truck chassis, there is a commercial-car chassis to meet light-delivery requirements. A wide range of body-types is available for each model.

JEWISH UNITY URGED AT CONVENTION HERE

Older Groups Must Aid Young Ones if Judaism Is to Last, the United Synagogue Is Told.

EDUCATION IS STRESSED

Called "Only Means for Survival"—Women's League Delegates Join in Discussion of Problems.

Only through education and a process whereby the young congregations will be "adopted" and aided by those more firmly established can Judaism survive on this continent, according to speakers at the opening session of the annual conventions of the United Synagogue of America and its Women's League, held jointly yesterday at the Hotel Commodore. More than 600 delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada were present. The United Synagogue has a membership of 261 congregations and the Women's League has 286 sisterhoods. Each organization will hold separate conferences today and tomorrow.

After brief addresses of welcome by Nathan Levy, president of the United Synagogue, and city and national leaders of the Women's League, the convention discussed problems confronting the Jewish people on this continent.

Urges Mutual Helpfulness.

Dr. Louis Finkelstein, president of the Rabbinical Assembly of the Jewish Theological Assembly, urged the old-established congregations to take a more active interest in the upbuilding of the younger religious units.

"It is impossible," he declared, "for any congregation to stand aloof, on its own traditions, as an island in a sea of atheism. Each congregation should aid the other. Judaism cannot long survive unless it is established on a national basis, the old congregations supporting the young in their efforts to grow in numbers and in strength."

This plea was supported by Mr. Levy in his formal report as president when he said:

"The small community often becomes a larger one. If we are with it at the start, we can guide its Jewish work through a healthy course of development."

Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen, executive director of the United Synagogue, also appealed for the re-manifestation of "the spiritual unity of Israel."

Rabbi Alter F. Landesman, chairman of the educational committee for 1929, said in his report that the primary factor in the preservation of the Jewish faith was the ideal of Jewish education.

"We have no such integrating forces as language or government," he declared. "Certainly we do not want to depend merely upon our continual charity campaigns to keep our people from disruption. Education thus becomes the only means at our disposal for our survival."

Sees Clash of Extremes.

Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary, said America was being shaken by a struggle between two Jewish groups; one representing the movement that "grew up in the intoxication of the new freedom; the other not yet emancipated from the days of the persecution." He said the mainroad lay between the two.

Other speakers were Rabbi Elliot M. Burstein, San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. Eva Levy, president of the New York branch of the Women's League; Magistrate Hyman J. Reit, president of the New York branch of the United Synagogue; Mrs. Samuel Spiegel, national president of the Women's League; Rabbi Max Arzt of Scranton, Pa.; Rabbi A. A. Neuman of Philadelphia and Miss Sarah Kussy of Newark.

Committee chairman were appointed as follows: Rabbi Charles L. Hoffman of Newark, on regional activities; A. B. Cohen, Scranton, Pa., finance; Rabbi Goodman Rose, Pittsburgh, Pa., education; Rabbi Jacob Cohen, New York, co-operation.

This morning the United Synagogue session will begin at 9 o'clock with reports from eight district organizations. In the afternoon there will be addresses by Dr. Elias L. Solomon and Dr. A. A. Neuman. The Women's League session will begin at 10 o'clock with the reading of committee reports and addresses by Mrs. Rebekah Kohut, Mrs. Morris Silverman and Mrs. Estelle M. Sternberger. Both conferences will reunite tonight at a dinner in the grand ballroom.

Five leading Bronx synagogues joined last night in a rally and mass meeting at the Hebrew Institute of University Heights, 1835 University Avenue, in connection with the United Synagogue convention.

MGR. CASHIN HONORED BY MASS ASSOCIATION

Mgr. Lavelle, Whalen and Miller Among Speakers at Dinner of Nightworkers' Group.

Members of the Night Workers' Mass Association, an organization that assembles in St. Andrew's Church in Duane Street on Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock, held a dinner yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin. The event was in observance of the twenty-ninth anniversary of the night mass and also of the recent elevation of Mgr. William E. Cashin, rector of St. Andrew's and spiritual director of the association, to private chamberlain to the Pope.

Mgr. Cashin was referred to by the other speakers as "Father Bill" and received praise from all. The speakers were Police Commissioner Whalen, Borough President Miller, Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle of St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Right Rev. William J. Duane, president of Fordham University, and former Representative William W. Cohen. Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy was toastmaster. Three hundred persons, many of them workers on newspapers, attended.

"I am surprised to see so many newspaper men out of work at this hour in the afternoon," he said jocularly. "I am told that a number of editors are here, and I am glad of that. They need an education—in charity."

He said much criticism came from persons who had no realization of the difficulties that the man they were criticising had to contend with.

Mgr. Lavelle said he had heard very little criticism of the Police Commissioner and praised the work of Mgr. Cashin and expressed the hope that the rector of St. Andrew's would go to the top of the ecclesiastical ladder.

CHILDREN'S DAY PLANS LAID

National Children's Day, which falls this year on June 18, will be observed in more than 200 cities throughout the United States with parades, playground drills, contests and other exercises, according to Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, president of the Childhood League, sponsor of the event.

"National Children's Day aims to focus attention upon the problems of chilhood," said Mrs. Lewis, "especially the proper use of leisure hours. Sociologists agree that most of the juvenile delinquency and crime can be traced to ill-spent after school or play hours. Too many parents fail to realize that character is built outside the schoolhouse when the child is free from the restraint of the classroom."

Lafayette Descendant Here May 26

The Marquis de Dampierre, a direct descendant of Lafayette, has accepted the invitation of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation to be a passenger on the motorship Lafayette, due in New York City on her maiden voyage May 26, it was announced yesterday. The foundation seeks to draw attention to the close friendship between Jefferson and Lafayette. The Marquis de Dampierre will be welcomed here, and will be escorted by the Monticello Guard from Charlottesville, Va., during his stay in New York City.

ASKS MISSION AID OF SODALITY GIRLS

730 AT BREAKFAST HERE

The New York Archdiocesan Union of the Sodalities of the Blessed Virgin Mary held its annual communion breakfast yesterday in the Hotel Pennsylvania. There were present 730 "Children of Mary," as they are commonly called. Their ages were from 16 to 25 years. Not a girl present had paint on her lips or rouge on her face. Most of them had dresses below their knees.

The young women came from St. Patrick's Cathedral, where they had attended the 9 o'clock mass and participated in a corporate reception of holy communion. Virtually every one of the 370 parishes in the archdiocese was represented.

The Rev. William J. R. Daly, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and director-general of the union, was the principal speaker at the breakfast. He said:

"Cardinal Hayes sends you his affectionate greetings. The trouble with the Cardinal is he was not born twins. If he had been, one of him would be here today. But he is dedicating a parochial school in the Bronx this afternoon."

The other speakers were Miss Frederika Farley, a Red Cross nurse and a member of the Catholic Medical Mission Board; the Rev. Thomas J. McDonnell, director of the Propagation of the Faith Society of the New York Archdiocese; the Rev. Cornelius J. Ahern, spiritual director of the Catholic Club of Newark and director of Fordham University Extension in Newark. The toastmaster was Miss Rose Reil, who has just succeeded Miss Mary Alice Deegan as supreme president of the sodality.

Miss Farley suggested that every Child of Mary devote some time to making Red Cross dressings for the Medical Mission Board to be sent to Catholic missionaries. She urged that each parish sodality designate a member in her parish.

Father McDonnell said it was the desire of Pope Pius XI that every Catholic man and woman should aid the Propagation of the Faith Society and he asked the girls to consider how they could help as there were now more than 1,000 American priests and nuns being maintained in the non-Christian world.

Father Ahern said the breakfast was "unlike most New York banquets because Grover Whalen is not a speaker." He recommended that the girls study the life of St. Catherine of Siena and apply it to their own lives.

SEEK TO IRON OUT DRY TRANSFER BILL

Senators of Judiciary Committee Will Take Up Civil Service Objections Today.

ACTION URGED IN HOUSE

With Other Hoover Program Measures Stressed, La Guardia Calls Them Ineffective.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Administration bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, which passed the House nearly two months ago, will be considered by the Senate Judiciary Committee tomorrow.

As the bill was formally reported to the Senate last week, the civil service status of the present employes of the prohibition unit was eliminated since, the Department of Justice was not compelled to take over the old employes under the revised bill.

Advocates of the civil service objected, contending that it would be unfair to rob the older employes of such status, and that it would injure their retirement annuities.

The committee to which the bill was returned will endeavor to remedy these matters and report the bill for early action.

La Guardia Attacks Hoover Program.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP).—As both branches of Congress planned to give attention this week to the law enforcement commission's proposals to strengthen prohibition enforcement, Representative La Guardia today assailed the program urged by President Hoover in a recent message to Congress as "impossible of execution."

"No matter what legislation may be passed," the New Yorker said in a statement, "it is simply impossible to effect the results desired by the President. Nothing to date shows the impossibility of prohibition enforcement more than the recommendations of the Wickersham Commission endorsed by the President."

The statement added:

"In order to clear the congestion of the courts, abolish bargain days, abolish light fines and enforce the Jones law, urged by the President in his message, it would be necessary for Congress not only to pass the legislation requested but to provide for twenty additional Federal penitentiaries."

Attacking the President's message where it pointed out a desire to abolish "the so-called bargain day when light fines are imposed as a result of pleas of guilty," and that they "distinctly undermine respect for law," Mr. La Guardia said:

"It is clear that the desire of the Wickersham commission, as endorsed by the President, is to abolish fines and to impose prison sentences for violations of the liquor law."

Predicts 40,000 in Prisons.

Even if additional Federal judges were appointed, the New Yorker said, the increased number of persons convicted would overcrowd the prisons to be constructed under the new program.

"Instead of providing for a Federal prison population of 11,985 prisoners," the New Yorker continued, "we would have to provide for a Federal prison population of 40,000. Besides additional judges, the plan naturally requires a corresponding increase in District Attorneys, marshals, Department of Justice employes, prison guards and penal institution personnel, a veritable new army of Federal employes to be added to the proposed increase in the border patrol, Coast Guard and prohibition force."

The House Judiciary Committee plans to respond to the Chief Executive's appeal to expedite action on other commission proposals Tuesday. A decision on whether the Christopherson bills to authorize juryless trials before United States commissioners or the Bachmann bills to increase the number of Federal judges shall be chosen as a solution to Federal court congestion is to be reached at that time.

In addition, the House Judiciary Committee is to consider the Stobbs bill to modify the Jones law through the elimination of the provision for Federal judges to discriminate between casual and habitual violators and the fixing of maximum penalties for minor violators who are convicted of the manufacture, sale or transportation of less than a gallon of liquor.

Representative Sparks, Republican, Kansas, a dry, plans to insist that the House Judiciary Committee, of which he is a member, reach a decision on the seven resolutions to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment on which extensive hearings have been held. With drys predominating the committee, Chairman Graham considers it extremely doubtful favorable action on any one could be obtained. Mr. Sparks contended the hearings "proved the people want prohibition."

'Lifer' Who Won Freedom Is Arrested Again, Accused of Passing Forged Check on Pastor

Jordan S. Murphy, song writer and ex-convict who studied law while serving ten years of a life sentence as a habitual criminal and eventually won his release on a writ of error from the judge who had originally sentenced him, fell into the toils of the law again yesterday morning. He is alleged to have attempted to pass a forged check for $103 on the Rev. John J. O'Brien, pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit, 1,940 University Avenue, the Bronx.

Late Saturday evening Father O'Brien received a letter by messenger purporting to be from his friend, Robert G. Neeley of 1,860 University Avenue. It contained a check for $103 and asked that Father O'Brien cash the check, take out $44 for twenty-two tickets to a communion breakfast, and send the money to Neeley at a night club.

Father O'Brien suspected that something was wrong and notified the police. Detectives Cordes, Wallace and Gannon accompanied the messenger to the night club, and then in obedience to a telephone message from a man who said he was Neeley went to an address in the Bronx. Detective Wallace, attired in the messenger's uniform, met Murphy in a hallway at 956 Stebbins Avenue and after getting the signature "Robert G. Neeley" in return for the tickets and marked money, arrested him.

Murphy, who protested that he was the victim of a "frame-up," denied having sent the message. He was held without bail by Magistrate Edward J. Walsh in the Morrisania Court for examination tomorrow on a short affidavit charging suspicion of forgery. The police say that Murphy had been stealing mail to obtain information which would help him pass forged checks. In his apartment at 977 Intervale Avenue, the Bronx, they found about 100 blank checks of the Guaranty Trust Company, all stamped "certified."

Murphy was sentenced to life imprisonment in Brooklyn in 1919 by Supreme Court Justice Norman S. Dike, then a county judge. He had been convicted as a fourth offender after stealing an automobile. He contended that the sentence was an error in that his third offense, passing a worthless check for $27 in Connecticut, would have been only a misdemeanor in New York. After forty-three judges had refused to give him a hearing, County Judge George W. Martin in Brooklyn granted a motion for a review of the sentence.

Murphy argued his own case although Judge Martin had designated two lawyers to represent him. He obtained a writ of habeas corpus which eventually, by a coincidence, came before Supreme Court Justice Dike. Murphy was freed, vowing that henceforth he would "go straight."

WET CONVENTION CHARGED.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 4 (AP).—An alleged wet convention of insurance men in Peoria, March 29, resulted in Federal indictments at Peoria charging an insurance company and its president and sales manager with violating liquor laws, Federal Attorney Walter Provine has announced.

The Reliance Agency Corporation, B. G. Moutier, president of the agency, and William A. Pfeiffer, sales manager, were among those named. They are charged with possession of liquor, conspiracy to violate the dry laws and conducting a nuisance.

The charges are based on a report of prohibition agents who said they attended an "entertainment" session of the convention at which they alleged beer and other alcoholic beverages were sold to them.

TRIES TO END LIFE IN POLICE STATION

TIRED OF LIVING, HE SAYS

Patrolman Rudolph Richter, 26 years old, attempted to commit suicide in view of half a dozen fellow-policemen yesterday afternoon by shooting himself with his service pistol in the East 104th Street police station.

Richter, who lived at 2,124 Jerome Avenue, the Bronx, was appointed to the department two and one-half years ago. He was not married and according to his superiors his record as a policeman was good. He was assigned to what is known as the "station house" post on East 104th Street from Lexington to Third Avenue, and the regulations called for him to report personally in the station instead of making the telephone report.

He reported for his tour of duty yesterday at 4 P. M., and was sent out with the rest of the squad. At about 4:40 o'clock he entered the station and reported to Lieutenant Thomas Gibney, the desk officer. Gibney then went to the rear room.

William O'Neill, John McCabe, Jerome Stevens, Patrick Durkin and Giuseppe Silvio, patrolmen who had just finished their tours, were seated there around a checkerboard. Richter went into a washroom and a moment later the attendant, Fred Finger, came through the rear room and opened the washroom door. As he did so, Richter was revealed with his pistol pointed at his chest. There was a momentary silence and then, before the other patrolmen could make a move, Richter fired and fell.

Dr. T. D. Lehane, police surgeon, was summoned and gave emergency treatment. Dr. Ciscia of Metropolitan Hospital directed Richter's removal to Mount Sinai.

Dr. Lehane said Richter was a victim of a break-down. His superior officers said that investigation had failed to reveal trouble of any sort that might have led to the act.

"I've been despondent," said Richter to Detective Lane before he became unconscious. "I'm tired of living. When I walk in the street people stare at me. I wanted to end it all."

LA GUARDIA CALLS OFF SPEECH TO AID WETS

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—The Philadelphia primary campaign of the wet ticket, headed by Francis H. Bohlen for Senator and Thomas W. Phillips for Governor, received a setback today when it became known that Representative La Guardia of New York had canceled an engagement to speak at a South Philadelphia rally next Saturday night.

Local wet leaders attributed Mr. La Guardia's action to Representative James M. Beck, who, although a severe critic of the dry laws, is a supporter of Francis Shunk Brown and Secretary of Labor Davis, the Vare ticket's candidates for Governor and Senator.

They declared that Representative Beck had "called off" the La Guardia speech here because of the fear that it would take votes from Mr. Brown. Mr. Beck and Representative La Guardia, it was stated, are on intimate terms in Washington, and it was recalled that only yesterday, when the former was unable to appear in the House because of a sprained ankle, his speech attacking the flexible provisions of the tariff bill was read by the New Yorker, despite the resentment of Representative Benjamin Golder and other members of the Pennsylvania delegation.

Representative La Guardia also was scheduled for an address in behalf of the wets in the anthracite region. The wet leaders felt that he was going to fill this engagement, despite the cancellation of the local speech because, they said, the coal region address would hurt Gifford Pinchot, the dry Gubernatorial candidate.

Several of the principal candidates returned to the city today from Western tours, apparently well satisfied with their receptions.

Mr. Brown and Secretary Davis conferred here tonight on conditions in the Western counties. Senator Joseph R. Grundy, campaigning for the Republican senatorial nomination without alliances with other candidates, also returned from a tour of Western Pennsylvania.

FOR THE FIRST TIME

Long famous as "America's easiest riding motor car" the new Franklin introduces another remarkable comfort achievement. Now the rear seat compartment is as comfortable to ride in as the front. Here is an astonishing feature which is one more bit of evidence showing the progressiveness of Franklin engineers.

In addition to outstanding comfort, Franklin offers superiority in its amazing performance. Powered with an airplane-type engine—which has startled the world by FLYING AN AIRPLANE—this brilliant car has captured every major American road record.

As though riding in an airplane the road seems to level out before you, the distance becomes shorter as you smoothly glide along in the new Franklin. A quick advance to 80 miles an hour is no effort for this air-cooled engine—and it hardly seems like 50, so smoothly, quietly and comfortably you FLOAT along. Vibration and other high speed sensations are not part of Franklin's performance.

To see the beautiful Franklin—to drive it—to experience its incomparable comfort and performance—its AIRPLANE FEEL—is to realize the great distance Franklin has progressed ahead of other cars. We invite you to drive the new Franklin.

INCREASING YOUR ESTATE
How to do it—and with CERTAINTY

Like Many Others You Are Not Content With Your Present Provision for Your Family

At age 30 a deposit of $9.55 per month is all that is required to maintain it. Other amounts in proportion.

Better not try stock speculation. In it there is hazard and uncertainty. It may jeopardize what you now have.

Better invest in a Postal Life policy. In it there is certainty; and there is low cost: the Postal Life Insurance Company operates with distinctive economies. By reason of its comparatively small premium payments you can advance your estate without strain. You can do this out of your regular income, from time to time, and finally hold it at an adequate amount. These payments accumulating year by year furnish also a definite cash reserve available to you for emergencies and in old age.

Certainty should be the watchword: certainty added to certainty strengthens one's peace of mind while ample adequacy is being attained. Also the estate, guaranteed with even the first premium payment, assures one of what may be immediately needed: there is daily testimony of this fact.

"How Much Insurance Ought I To Carry?", or "How Much Estate Can I Maintain?" are natural queries. The answer is: they will be in harmony with income, whether moderate, or in high figures.

By no better means than a policy in this modern day Postal Life Insurance Company can an estate, for an adequate, stable amount, looking to the future's important requirements be provided. It gives the certainty and the immediateness which the average citizen needs for his family.

The Company furnishes also through its Non-Agency method of operation distinct economies which lower the cost of policies. In the Postal, you act as your own agent, and as such you earn for yourself a guaranteed non-agency saving dividend—9½% of each year's premium is paid to you.

You will also enjoy taking out and having a policy in the POSTAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY. You will get the glow of satisfaction in acting for yourself as well as saving and earning important money.

The 9½% GUARANTEED DIVIDEND
Is Your Commission and Preferred Dividend. It measures Definitely what you earn for yourself acting as your own agent.

THE CONTINGENT DIVIDEND
Is what the Company earns for you in addition, from Investment Profits, Mortality Savings, and Operating Economies, and is not determinable in advance.

We extend the privilege to YOU to DEAL DIRECT—so you may earn this non-agency dividend. It is not difficult to employ the POSTAL method, as thousands bear witness.

NEW YORK IN SIXTH PLACE

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

All the elements of a happy baseball day were at the Yankee Stadium yesterday. Lovely weather, 55,000 fans terraced at every sector of the concrete ring, a Babe Ruth home run, another victory for the Yankees and another stride up the percentage ladder.

It seemed as if the assembling of that many persons in the ball park of a seventh-place team made that team determined to shake off the stigma of the second division's deep crannies. The Yanks kept ahead of the Chicago White Sox from start to finish, winning 7 to 4, and moved into sixth place.

Ruth's homer, his third of the year, came in the eighth and increased the Yankee lead from one run to three. Padding the lead was its only effect on the day's battletide, but to the crowd it marked the peak of the afternoon's performance.

Drive Made Off Walsh.

As homers go, it was a prodigious drive, even for Ruth. He swung on something thrown at him by Ed Walsh Jr. The ball came down into a vortex of squirming humans near the top of the right field bleachers.

Koenig scored in front of the Babe, giving Pipgras a three-run lead to guard in the ninth instead of the one-run advantage Pipgras was handed by his pitching predecessor, Ed Wells. When Ruth ambled to right field in the ninth-inning transactions the whole terrace, from the screen to the signboards high above, stood up and cheered.

The game, until action became lively along in the seventh and eighth, was a combat of pitching wiles between Wells and Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas. Two breaks and one stalwart hit by the leading Yankee hitter of the current series, Earl Combs, gave the Yanks three runs in the third, all the scoring there was in the first two-thirds of the game.

Dickey Opens With Single.

Dickey led off the Yankee third with a single. Wells bunted and the Chicago catcher threw the ball to the wrong base. Dickey beat the throw to second. Both battery men were safe.

Combs slashed a single to right, scoring Dickey and putting Wells on third. Koenig forced Combs, Wells scoring. Ruth's single to Cissell in short right field advanced Koenig, who scored from second base when Gehrig's grounder rolled through the same Cissell. Lazzeri's pass filled the bases, but Byrd and Chapman elevated tall flies to the immediate infield.

Wells allowed three hits in the first six innings. His support weakened before he did. Koenig's fumble and a long fly by Kamm, which fell safe for a triple after Combs got hold of it at the running track, started the White Sox scoring in the seventh. Smith's single scored Kamm, then Autry bounced into a double play.

The Yanks regained these two runs in their half on hits by Combs and Gehrig, with passes to Ruth, Lazzeri and Byrd. In the eighth, using two pinch hitters and a pinch runner, the Sox scored twice and had the tying run on second base, when Pipgras relieved Wells and held the Sox safe until the end.

Wells and Pipgras stopped the hitting streak of Bill Cissell, White Sox lead-off man and league-leading hitter this past week. Bill hit safely in every game until yesterday's.

Ruth and Gehrig are now tied in homers. Just a week elapsed between Ruth's second and third homer. Number 2 was smitten last Sunday.

ATHLETICS TRIUMPH ON TRIPLE BY HAAS

SHORES VICTOR ON MOUND

DETROIT, May 4 (AP).—George (Mule) Haas, slugging centre fielder, broke up a pitchers' duel between George Uhle and Bill Shores today with a seventh inning triple that scored three runs and started a rally which gave the world champion Athletics their fourth victory in a row over the Tigers.

The three runs broke a 1-to-1 tie which had existed since the fourth inning. The Tigers failed to score again, but the champions made runs in both the remaining innings, winning the game by a score of 7 to 1.

Uhle was retired and Bob Fothergill was sent in as a pinch hitter. He succeeded only in hitting into a double play which retired the side. Whitlow Wyatt went to the mound for Detroit but the Athletics found him easily for five hits.

FLORENCE'S HITTING HELPS ROCHESTER WIN

His Double and Single Drive Five Runs Across Plate as Jersey City Bows Before 10,000.

A crowd of 10,000 persons saw the Rochester Red Wings close the series with Jersey City at West Side Park in Jersey City, yesterday, the visitors winning, 7 to 6. The defeat, however, didn't prevent the home team from taking the series three games to two.

Although outhit, seventeen hits to ten, Rochester bunched six safeties for as many runs on Bill Henderson in the fourth and sixth innings, Florence driving in five men with a double and a single.

Lawrence Irvin hurled effectively for seven innings but weakened in the eighth and Jersey City drove him out with a barrage of hits for four runs. Tex Carleton finished the game and Julian Wera collected a home run from him in the ninth session.

BENTON OF GIANTS FALLS BEFORE REDS

MAY HURLS EFFECTIVELY

By JOHN DREBINGER.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 4.—Not even the keenest eye could detect the slightest improvement in the Giant pitching today and as the Giant offensive, creaking under the strain to which it has been put these many days, also failed to come up to its customary high standard, there was exactly one result which one might except to the encounter between the McGraw forces and the Reds before 15,000 on Redland Field.

The Giants took an inelegant trouncing by a score of 8 to 4 and with this signal triumph the Reds made off with the series, two games to one. The Giants also fell to second place from a tie for the lead with the Pirates.

Larry Benton was today's victim, and as the Reds knocked him off the mound in the fifth inning with a barrage of blows that yielded a crop of five runs, it marked the second successive disastrous start for the once invincible Larry the Red. Also it marked the seventh game in a row in which a McGraw starting pitcher failed to cover more than a fraction of the distance assigned to him.

Still, the Giants have been able at times to overcome some of the glaring shortcomings of their boxmen, but this afternoon even this recourse was denied them when Jakie May spun a highly creditable seven-hit game off the end of his stout left arm.

Meusel Proves Troublesome.

Benton started to bog down early. He fell a run behind in the second when Bob Meusel, a thorn in his side all the day, doubled to left, and Stripp, even a bigger thorn with four hits in a row, punched a single to centre.

In the fourth Benton fell two more behind when Sukeforth and Meusel singled and Stripp shot a hit past Jackson's right which the crack Giant shortstop confidently had thought would pass to his left.

Even this, however, did not look so bad, for in the fifth the Giants began to bestir themselves and counted twice when Hogan drove in Ott and Jackson with a robust two-bagger.

But in the same round Benton had the legs shot right out from under him. May himself started the rally with a surprise triple to right. Came singles by Critz and Sukeforth, a pass to Meusel, another single by Heilmann and then the cruelist dig of all, a three-base smash by Stripp with the bases full.

From that point on Roy Parmalee and then Ray Lucas showed McGraw how the Reds could be stopped most effectually but while their efforts may be of use for future reference it helped today's lost cause not at all. One run in the ninth on a triple by Reese and an infield out was as far as the Giants ever got to cutting this lead down.

Many Batting Order Changes.

Not in many years has McGraw had so much opportunity for exploiting his genius in arranging and rearranging batting orders as this Spring. Due to the continued unsettled condition of the outfield and the fact that he is now alternating Marshall and Crawford regularly at second, according to whether the pitching is righthanded or southpaw, the Giant pilot finds it necessary to readjust his batting order almost every day. Yet he always seems to get the most out of what he has to offer.

Strange things, too, are to be noted in the ranks of the Reds. Meusel is running out his hits at top speed, Heilmann is dragging his aged legs all over the outfield, and right down the line one finds where Dan Howley has inspired more pep in the Rhinelanders than they have shown in many years.

Four-Run Attack at End Falls Three Short of Overcoming the Browns.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP).—The Senators fell off the top of the league today by losing to the Browns, 8 to 6. The defeat was the second of the series with the Browns. A four-run Washington rally in the final inning fell short of victory by three runs.

READING RALLIES TO WIN.

Plitt's Single in Tenth Turns Back Buffalo Club.

READING, Pa., May 4 (AP).—Reading overcame an eight-run lead with rallies in the eighth and ninth innings today and punched over the winning run in the tenth inning to defeat Buffalo, 9 to 8, in the series' final. The victory gave Reading a 3-to-2 edge in the series.

Norman Plitt, relief pitcher, who hurled the tenth frame, won the game when he singled to drive in Krasovich from third.

The Keys were held to one hit in seven innings by Hugh Buchanan, who was forced to retire in the eighth, however, when he injured his pitching hand attempting to stop Jurge's line drive through the box.

MONTREAL BATTERS HIT 5 HOME RUNS

The Royals won another one-sided game in Newark yesterday, defeating the Newark Bears by 16 to 6. It was the fifth straight defeat for the Bears at the hands of the visitors.

The Montreal batters hammered out nineteen safe hits, including five home runs, three of which came in the eighth. Conley, Head and Callaran hit for the circuit in this canto. All of the Bear hurlers were hit hard.

The feature of the game was the batting of Head, who made five hits in as many times up. The Bruins left Newark tonight for Buffalo, where they begin their first trip around the circuit. They will help the Bisons open tomorrow, today being an off day in the league.

ROBINS WIN TWICE FOR SEVEN IN ROW

ST. LOUIS STAGES RALLY

Ties Count at 8-All in 9th of Second With 4 Runs—Victors Get 3 in 13th to 2 for Rivals.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—The Robins extended their winning streak to seven games and edged themselves into fourth place by taking both ends of a double-header from the Cardinals today before a crowd of 19,500. The score of the first contest was 2 to 1, a beautifully pitched game in which Babe Phelps was the master of Lefty Hallahan. The score of the second, which went thirteen innings, was 11 to 10.

Jim Elliott started pitching the second and did a first-rate job for eight innings and then ran into misfortune in the ninth when a wild throw by Al Lopez and a double by Chick Hafey, following a single by Eddie Farrell, tied the score at 8-all.

Watson Clark got credit for the victory, as a concerted attack on Al Grabowski and Jess Haines, during which Frederick, Herman, Wright and Bissonette hit safely, gave Brooklyn a three-run lead.

Morrison Finishes Game.

In the Cardinals' half Clark was removed after two runs were in and the tying and winning runs were on base. Johnny Morrison finished the job with the greatest of luck when Glenn Wright took Farrell's hard smash and converted it into a double play to end the struggle.

Frederick, hitless throughout the first game, opened the second with a double to left and went to third on Warner's sacrifice fly. Herman walked and then Hendrick reached Hill for a home run to the furthest reaches of the right centre field stands.

The first Cardinal run came in their half of the first on Douthit's homer into the left field bleachers. Hill held the Robins well enough until the fifth, when they opened another attack on him that netted three more runs. Warner was safe on High's error and scored when Herman tripled. Hendrick was purposely passed, Wright bounced to the pitcher and on a run down to Herman, Hendrick was out at third.

Herman held the bag and Wright took second in this emergency. Hill elected to pass Bissonette, but Flowers's single scored Herman and Wright.

Flowers Scores Two.

Two more Cardinal runs came over in the sixth on High's double and Hafey's homer. A two-run increase for the Robins came in the seventh and again it was Flowers who drove across the runs, scoring Hendrick and Wright with a double. In the eighth the Cards picked up another run as a gift from Elliott. High and Frisch singled and then Elliott went a bit wild and walked Hafey and Peel to force in the tally.

In the ninth a walk to a pinch hitter, a three-base wild throw by Lopez, another walk, an infield out and a single by Farrell counted three runs for the Cards to make the score 8-7. Then Hafey's pop fly to left finally fell through Hendrick's hands for a double and Farrell came in with the tying run.

Robbie thereupon removed Elliott and sent Moss in. Moss passed Fisher purposely and when Orsatti was sent in to bat for Wilson Robbie countered by sending Clark in to pitch. Manager Street then sent Blades to bat, but he grounded to Warner and the game went into extra innings.

Wright Drives Single.

Phelps's pitching was the outstanding feature of the first game, his support being none too alert. It was Captain Glenn Wright's clean single to centre—his only hit of the game—with the bases full that gave the Robins their only two runs.

Phelps's pitching was equal to any emergency and, after the first inning, when Frisch got a double by alert base running and scored on Watkins's line single to right, the Cards couldn't score, although they got a man as far as third three times.

WILD PITCH IN 9TH GIVES CUBS VICTORY

MALONE WEAKENS AT END

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP).—A wild pitch by Koupal in the ninth inning, which permitted Danny Taylor to score, gave the Cubs their third straight victory over Philadelphia, 8 to 7, today before 40,000 spectators.

Pat Malone went into the ninth inning with a 7-to-5 lead, but blew up for two runs on a walk to Thompson and hits by O'Doul, Klein and Whitney.

Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched only one-third of the ninth inning, but was charged with the defeat. Two hits and an error placed Hartnett and Malone on third and second respectively, and Koupal relieved him. Taylor ran for Hartnett, and a minute later came home with the winning tally on Koupal's wild pitch.

Today was the first time the Cubs played with their first-string line-up, Stephenson returning after a week's layoff because of an injured shoulder.

INDIANS TRIUMPH; GAIN LEAGUE LEAD

L. SEWELL SETTLES ISSUE

Singles to Drive In Averill With Deciding Tally—Cleveland Has Won Last Six Games.

BOSTON, May 4 (AP).—Cleveland came from behind again today, making five runs in the ninth off Danny MacFayden and one in the tenth off Ed Morris, to win, 8 to 7.

Cleveland, which has won its last six games, three in St. Louis and three here, moved into first place, displacing the Senators, as a result of their triumph in the tenth today.

L. Sewell started things for the Indians with a double in the ninth and his single in the tenth scored Averill with what proved to be the winning run. Jamieson also did his share for the Indians with a homer in the ninth that scored two runs ahead of him.

2,000 Greet Schmeling on Arrival Here for Sharkey Fight

IS NEAR PEAK OF CONDITION

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Max Schmeling returned to America yesterday with the world's heavyweight championship as his objective. Accompanied by his trainer and pal, Max Machon, the German heavyweight who aspires to the title discarded by Gene Tunney arrived yesterday on the Hamburg-American Line steamship New York, amid the noisy cheers of about 2,000 men and women assembled at the West Forty-sixth Street pier.

The demonstration of greeting and welcome was in sharp contrast to the first visit of this heavyweight boxer two years ago. The Schmeling of 1928 who came here unheralded and with one modest bit of baggage as his greatest responsibility, was greeted yesterday morning by a volcanic roar from a surging throng, many of whom risked bodily injury for a close-up of the boyish-faced, pleasant-mannered youngster whose resemblance to Jack Dempsey is striking.

This new Schmeling, with victories over Joe Monte, Joe Sekyra, Johnny Risko, Pietro Corri and Paulino placing him in the front rank of the world's heavyweights, had the responsibility of eleven pieces of baggage to emphasize the passing of two years.

Schmeling is here to battle Sharkey on June 12 in the Yankee Stadium for the benefit of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund, in a match which will have the State Athletic Commission's sanction as a world's heavyweight championship encounter. The winner is to have his name inscribed on the Muldoon-Tunney Trophy, emblematic of the championship, and, because of the records of the two men, this title recognition will be universal.

Schmeling's immediate reaction at debarking again on American soil was one of happiness to be again in the land which brought him fame and fortune and now beckons with the opportunity for the realization of a lifetime's ambition, the world's heavyweight title.

His first business will be the Sharkey fight, and his immediate activities will be guided with that objective in view.

Met on his arrival by his American manager, Joe Jacobs, Schmeling, after a private conference with Jacobs, announced that he will go to his training quarters at Endicott, N. Y., tomorrow, prepared to launch a campaign of light training for perhaps a week, or until he has become acclimated. Then will follow vigorous training, and this grind will not end until the day before he is to step into the ring on a journey which will settle his world's heavyweight championship aspirations.

Schmeling looked the conditioned athlete as he greeted newspaper men who went down the bay to board the New York. He waved a cheery greeting from the rail as the cutter bearing officials and newspaper men pulled alongside and then patiently posed for movie men and photographers, meanwhile responding to a barrage of questions.

"I weigh about 190 pounds now," said Schmeling. "I expect to enter the ring against Sharkey weighing about 185 pounds. For the Paulino fight my weight was 187 and that is about my best fighting weight. I feel in excellent condition and I guess my appearance contradicts the reports which have come out of Germany since I left here last August about accidents which were supposed to end my fighting days.

"I'm only 24 years old and have never indulged in intoxicating liquors, nor have I smoked. I make it a custom to take good care of myself because I realize that only so long as I am in my best physical condition will I survive as a boxer.

Schmeling Is Confident.

"As to the outcome of my fight with Sharkey, I can only say that the best man will win. Of course, I hope I will be the best man, and I feel that I will be, but only the fight will determine that. I never like to make predictions in advance of a bout. That is too much like bragging. I come back to America glad to be a guest in your country again and determined to be worthy of the distinction that is mine in getting the chance at the world's title.

"I hope I can win it. Then I will be prepared to face any man regarded as suitable to fight for the title. Of one thing, however, I can assure you. I will be in the best physical condition possible on the night of June 12, unless circumstances over which I have no control dictate otherwise.

"I disagree with the theory that absence from the ring since last June 27, when I fought Paulino, will interfere with my chances against Sharkey. I have not neglected my exercising activities, and in this respect I have had more activity than Sharkey.

"Whereas he has boxed but six rounds in a year, I have engaged in the fifteen hard rounds with Paulino, as well as 104 rounds of sparring on my American exhibition tour which followed that bout, and thirty rounds of similar work on tour in Germany, cut short to come to this country. And, as I say, I never neglect my physical condition, because I can't afford to. I will have ample time to condition myself at Endicott for the Sharkey bout. I will be ready for him, and the best man will win."

Schmeling said he had a pleasant voyage, although at times it was rough. On the way here Schmeling never lost an opportunity to train, running at least eight miles a day, and devoting much time to deck games and workouts in the gymnasium.

Manager Jacobs announced he had engaged George Neron, Andy Wallace, Leo Mitchell and Andy Mitchell, all heavyweights, for Schmeling's early workouts at Endicott. Schmeling, as a consequence of a training siege he underwent at Biesenthal, a resort near Berlin, since last Feb. 28, will require little time to concentrate on really vigorous training here.

Among those who greeted Schmeling on his arrival were Dr. Gustav Adolf Raichel of the German Consulate in this city and Hans Holderbosch, president of the German A. C.

So great was the crush at the dock that an attempt was made to induce Schmeling to leave by a side exit, but he declined, saying, "If the people have come to welcome me, I will be proud to greet them."

This plan came near ending disastrously for Schmeling, for he had to fight his way through the dense crowd to reach the auto which awaited him.

An indication of the excitement attending Schmeling's arrival was a scuffle between Samuel Faber, a taxicab driver, of 845 Longfellow Avenue, the Bronx, and John Castagna, also a taxicab driver, of 547 West Twenty-ninth Street, over the matter of a vantage point from which to view the German boxer. Patrolman Francis Craven of Traffic A arrested Faber on a charge of disorderly conduct, and before Magistrate William A. Farrell later in the West Side court Faber was fined $10 or two days in jail. Faber did not have the $10 with him.

Schmeling paid a duty of $40.35 on dutiable articles which were part of his luggage. These included clocks and an assortment of china. A dachshund also accompanied the visitor.

Vice President Frank J. Bruen of the Madison Square Garden Corporation was one of the early arrivals at the Hotel Commodore, where Schmeling will establish quarters while here. Bruen revealed his visit was associated with a plan to have Schmeling sign a contract binding him to defend the heavyweight title under Garden direction in the event he conquers Sharkey.

Bruen left without this signature, according to the announcement of Manager Jacobs. It is expected that Schmeling, accompanied by Jacobs, will visit the State Athletic Commission tomorrow to pay his respects and to apply for a license before departing for his Endicott camp.

SOCCER GIANTS BOW TO THE WANDERERS

NEHADOMA, ROBERTSON STAR

A large crowd of soccer fans saw the Brooklyn Wanderers defeat the New York Giants in an Atlantic Coast League fixture at Hawthorne Field by 2 to 1 yesterday. The weather was most uncomfortable for players and spectators because of the strong wind which blew dense clouds of dust across the field.

The Wanderers scored in each period, while the Giants reduced the lead after the interval. Nehadoma and Robertson were the scorers for the victors, with Ballantyne getting the tally for the Giants. The Giants led in corners with four to the Wanderers' two.

The Giants started with the sun and wind in their favor and had the better of the play, but could not get by the Brooklyn defense. After ten minutes of play, the Giants gained two corners on the right, which were taken by Grenfeld, but cleared. The Wanderers broke through but a try by Eisenhoffer went wide. A third corner for the Giants on the right received the same fate as the previous ones. At this stage of the game Moore went in for Stirling for the Wanderers.

Nehadoma Kicks Wide.

Midway in the period, the Wanderers gained their only corner. Yule took the kick, but nothing came of it. A splendid try by Moorehouse hit the outside of the upright. The Wanderers missed two chances to score when Nehadoma kicked too wide for an open goal. Eisenhoffer sent in a hot one which Brown saved, and when Robertson took the ball on the rebound the Giants' goalie again stopped it.

Shortly before half time, the Giants gained a corner on the left. Moorehouse kicked, but it was again cleared. The Giants were within an ace of scoring with an open goal when Jim Brown kicked the ball with the side of his boot and it missed by inches.

The one goal scored in the first half came in the last minute of the period. Robertson drove the ball in from the corner and from the scrimmage that resulted, Nehadoma sent it into the net.

Wanderers Increase Lead.

Play started with a rush after the interval. Nehadoma hooked in a fast one, but Jock Brown jumped in and saved it. Eisenhoffer took a shot but it went wide., Nehadoma sent another right over the crossbar. At fourteen minutes the Wanderers increased their lead when Robertson scored a fine goal, sweeping the ball in from the side. During a scrimmage, Moore had a chance to put the Wanderers still further ahead, but Brown saved.

A few minutes later, after a miss by Moore, Ballantyne broke away and scored the Giants' goal. Then Bobby Yule hit the upright and Nehadoma sent in two more that were stopped by Brown.

The line-up:

COCHRAN TO PLAY TODAY.

Will Start Match With Ribas—St. Jean to Meet Seaback.

Two special billiard matches of more than ordinary interest will start today and continue throughout the week.

Isidro Ribas, champion fancy shot player of Europe, will make his début in America by engaging in a twelve-block, three-cushion match with Welker Cochran, former world's 18.2 balkline titleholder, at Dwyer's Broadway academy. In the other contest Andrew St. Jean will oppose Charles Seaback at 1,500 points of pocket billiards, 125 points to a block.

In both instances play will be held afternoon and evening. The Ribas-Cochran match will be held in blocks of 40 points each and after each session the European champion will demonstrate fancy shots. Ribas was a pupil of old Jake Schaefer, and while he has not been seen in action in this country young Jake Schaefer, who has seen Ribas in Europe, has high praise for the visiting cueist.

Many who have seen Ribas perform in Europe say he is the equal of Charlie Peterson of St. Louis, and it is likely that both will meet before Ribas's invasion of the United States ends. Besides his reputation as a maker of difficult shots, he also rates highly as a balkline player.

The St. Jean-Seaback match promises to be a close issue. St. Jean has been considered the nearest approach to champion Ralph Greenleaf of all the pocket billiard stars. He is a rapid shooter and his style of play, like Greenleaf's, seems careless. Yet his ability to compile large runs belies his nonchalant manner at the table.

Seaback forced Greenleaf to his best pocket billiards in a recent exhibition at the Strand, and it is expected he will give a good account of himself against St. Jean.

SHIKAT ON MAT TONIGHT.

Will Wrestle Steinke in Feature at 71st Regiment Armory.

Richard Shikat and Hans Steinke will meet tonight at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory in the first wrestling match since the decree was passed by the New York State Athletic Commission that encounters between grapplers be termed "exhibitions" unless sanction was given to call them matches. The contest will be for the heavyweight title held by Shikat and recognized in New York State and Pennsylvania.

Steinke will have an advantage over his opponent in weight, scaling 240 pounds to Shikat's 222.

The semi-final will bring together Clinkstock and George Hagen. Other grapplers who appear on the card are Rudy Dusek against Gino Garibaldi, Matros Kirilenko against Milo Steinbach and George Calza against Ned McGuire, each being limited to thirty minutes.

STRONG WINDS HALT RACE.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., May 4.—For the second day in succession an attempt to hold a race for six meters was frustrated, the fresh nor'wester splitting the mainsails of two of the three yachts which sailed out for the starting line.

The old international yacht Lea and the two new sixes, Comet and Meteor, were the three which made the attempt today. Lea never reached the line, for her mainsail was torn before she had worked out of the harbor and when Comet's sheet split shortly after the start the race was called off.

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 4.—Patterson's goal one and one-half minutes before the final whistle gave New Bedford, a 1 to 1 tie with Fall River at Marks Stadium today before a crowd of 14,000. High winds made the ball hard to handle. Patterson starred for the visitors, while Gonsalves stood out for the home eleven.

Fall River had the wind at its back in the first half and Patenaude's sensational hook shot gave Harper trouble early. Gonsalves's drive skimmed the cross bar soon after and Harper dove headlong to clear McAuley's attempt just before Patterson missed an easy goal. Gonsalves scored out for scrimmage near half time.

In the second half, Harper cleared Patenaude's header nicely and Blair made two sensational saves. McCleavey hit the cross bars, while Harper was out of his goal. Patenaude drove into the net, but was offside just before he counted the equalizer on a spectacular hook shot.

Fall River, having won, 3—1, from the Whalers at New Bedford yesterday in the first half of the home-and-home series, advanced into the second round of the annual Lewis Cup competition by its 4—2 total goal triumph.

LINGELBACH SCORES FIRST

The third and final trial game of the series to decide the team to represent the United States in the world's soccer championship at Montevideo in July and August was played at the Polo Grounds yesterday between the U. S. F. A. selected eleven and the New York Nationals, with a tie of 3 to 3 resulting.

Among the 2,000 spectators were several prominent soccer men, including Colonel G. Randolph Manning, Andrew M. Brown, Elmer Schroeder, vice president of the U. S. F. A.; Douglas Stewart, Dave L. Gould, all of Philadelphia; President Charles Blampkin of the Eastern Pennsylvania District League and Joseph Barriskill, chairman of the national challenge cup committee.

A bristling game resulted, with the chosen players giving their best in an effort to impress the selectors. The U. S. F. A. took the lead after twenty minutes of play when William Lingelbach, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania and later with Oxford, went headlong into Renzulli, who had caught a wicked shot from Straden, and knocked both goalkeeper and ball into the net.

Straden netted the second goal five minutes later with a smashing drive which gave Renzulli no possible chance to save.

The Nationals managed to reduce the margin before half time when Johnny Nelson connected a great centre by Donald. Nelson brought the score leevl soon after the resumption of play, and for a time the Polo Ground team monopolized the play to such an extent that the best efforts of Sousa, who had replaced Douglas, were required to prevent further goals. Bookie finally broke through from a great pass by Lingelbach and went on to net the ball and put the U. S. F. A. infront.

After Nelson had headed over the bar, Larson, substituting for Chatton, once more made the count even with a sizzling shot.

U. S. F. A. (3).		N. Y. Nationals (3).
Douglas	G	Renzulli
Vaughan	R. B.	Warden
Wood	L. B.	McMillan
Gallagher	R. H.	Chatton

Straden	I. R.	Carlsen
Lingelbach	C.	Nelson
Gentle	I. L.	Lafferty
McGhee	O. L.	Donald

Goals—U. S. F. A.: Lingelbach, Straden, Bookie. Nationals: Nelson 2, Larson.

Greater New York Tennis Quarter-Final Gained by Kynaston

KYNASTON IS VICTOR IN N. Y. TENNIS PLAY

TWO SEEDED STARS LOSE

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Possessor of one of the largest collections of silver trophies held by any player outside of the top flight, Percy L. Kynaston of the Crescent A. C. took two steps toward establishing a claim on another cup yesterday as he advanced to the quarter-final round of the Greater New York tennis championship at the Staten Island Cricket and Tennis Club.

With Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok, the defending titleholder, taking the day off, and while two members of the seeded list, Russell Phillips and Richard Lewis, were going down in defeat along with Pan Pappadopoulos of Greece, Kynaston took on David A. Jacobs and William Reich and allowed neither of them a set.

Jacobs made substantial progress toward taking the first set, but once he had acquired four games Kynaston had corrected his wind allowance, got the range with his cross-court drives from both wings and had clear sailing from there on. After winning the match at 6—4, 6—1, he quickly dispatched Reich at 6—1, 6—2.

Phillips Loses in 3 Sets.

Phillips, one of the best players developed on Staten Island in recent years, caught a tartar in William Clines, one of the numerous young college lads who are putting the South on the tennis map these days, and dropped a love set before he could collect his forces. The second set was a battle, with the verdict going to Phillips, and the third was just as good an exhibition in which Clines's court covering and clean hitting pulled him through to win at 6—0, 5—7, 6—4.

The elimination of Lewis, sixth in the list of favorites, was the handiwork of Jack McDermott, veteran of the New York Tennis Club. Lewis had been in distress in his first round match with L. W. Shaw, who carried him to three sets, and his lack of control got him into trouble right at the start when he faced the steady, well-directed strokes of McDermott.

Although he pulled out the set and was within striking distance of victory in the second he lacked the finality in the pinches and McDermott gained a well-deserved triumph after a battle of almost two hours. The reckoning was 4—6, 7—5, 8—6.

Pappadopoulos, formerly the leading player of Greece, was the victim of the youthful Mitchell Rosenbaum, whose greater severity and accuracy brought him through at 6—4, 6—4.

Appel Defeats Donohue.

Kenneth Appel, former Princeton captain, ran into stiff opposition in his opening match with Thomas B. Donohue of Bayside. Donohue showed a well rounded game under good control and Appel was so bothered by the wind that it looked for a while as if he might lose the initial set. The Jersey youth had to set himself industriously to his task before he was able to gain the decision at 6—3, 6—4.

In the next round Appel was in much better form and disposed of C. E. Alioth at 6—1, 6—3, and to make a day of it he proceeded to take on a third opponent, James B. Greer, whom he accounted for at 6—3, 6—2.

THE SUMMARIES.

First Round.

William Reich defeated C. C. Parker, 6—2, 6—3; Donald McLaughlin won from F. K. McCune, by default; H. M. Kritzik defeated William Bergida, 6—0, 8—6; Mitchell Rosenbaum defeated Milton Lambert, 6—2, 6—1; Pan Pappadopoulos defeated Edward Reese, 6—2, 5—7, 6—4; Selden Noyes defeated John Hicks, 6—1, 7—5; F. A crowd of 12,000 persons scattered along the Oakwood Heights course saw Herman Junk of Queens lead a field of 120 starters over the finish line in an A. A. U. novice run on Staten Island yesterday.

The run was staged under the supervision of the Metropolitan A. A. U. Athletic Development Committee, and the group in charge consisted of Fred Rubien, chairman, and the county commissioners, P. J. Kelly of Richmond, William Rosette of the Bronx, John Flaherty, Hudson; James Hoey, Queens; J. J. McHugh, Manhattan, and Samuel Jacobs, Kings.

Jonash and Haight Lead.

At the start of the race Jonash and Haight went into the lead, with Junk just behind, and this was the order for a quarter of a mile, when Junk went to the front. At the end of the second mile Junk still was leading, but Gerrity had passed Jonash and Haight and was second.

Near the end of the third mile the runners were hidden behind a cloud of smoke from a forest fire on Clark Avenue, and the leaders could not be discerned until less than a quarter of a mile from the finish, when Junk came into view followed by Wasserman. The leader was running easily and increased his lead until at the finish he had a forty-yard margin over Wasserman, who just lasted to beat Gerrity for second place.

Team Race Is Close.

The race for team honors proved very close and was in doubt until Taylor, the fifth Queens runner to finish, came home in seventeenth place to give his team a total of 41 points, 2 less than Richmond. Manhattan took third place in the team race with 65.

MRS. SCHOONMAKER SECOND

BRONXVILLE, N. Y., May 4.—Miss Marion Lloyd of the Salle d'Armes Vince, women's metropolitan indoor fencing champion and former national titleholder, won the women's outdoor handicap fencing competition for the J. Franklin Day cup held on the lawn of the Bronxville Field Club today. A small gallery of spectators saw the thirteen contestants fence for the perpetual trophy, which was in competion for the first time. The event was arranged by the women's committee of the Amateur Fencers League of America.

In capturing the premier honors, Miss Lloyd won all her nine matches during the afternoon, scoring three victories in her preliminary strip, and conquering six formidable opponents in the final strip, for which seven contestants survived from the three preliminaries.

Mrs. Leon Schoonmaker of the Fencers Club, another former national indoor champion, carried off the runner-up honors. Third place went to Miss Dorothy Hafner of the N. Y. U. Fencers' Club. Mrs. Schoonmaker and Miss Hafner each lost two matches in the final strip, but Mrs. Schoonmaker won second honors, having been touched only nineteen times in the final strip, whereas twenty-seven touches were recorded against Miss Hafner.

Four Scratch Entries.

Miss Lloyd was one of the four scratch contestants in the competition, the others being Mrs. Schoonmaker, Miss Joy Magnus of the Salle d'Armes Vince and Mrs. Harold Van Buskirk of the Fencers Club, the present women's national indoor titleholder.

Miss Julia Jones of the N. Y. U. Fencers Club and Miss Dorothy Locke of the Salle d'Armes Vince each had a handicap of one touch, and Miss Hafner was among the remaining seven contestants, each of whom had a handicap of two touches.

Three of the four women in the first preliminary strip, Mrs. Van Buskirk, Miss Nina Wheeler of the Salle d'Armes Vince and Miss Julia Jones, each won two and lost one of their preliminary matches, necessitating selection of the qualifiers for the final strip on the basis of the number of touches recorded against each of the trio.

The result was that Mrs. Van Buskirk, with 10 touches against her, and Miss Wheeler, with 11 against her, qualified. Miss Julia Jones was touched 19 times.

Qualify for Final Strip.

Mrs. Schoonmaker, Miss Magnus and Miss Locke qualified for the final in the second preliminary strip, the first two each winning three matches. Miss Locke and Miss Ann Jones of the N. Y. U. Fencers Club each scored two triumphs, but the former was touched 18 times, as compared to 19 touches recorded against Miss Ann Jones. Miss Lloyd and Miss Hafner qualified from the third preliminary strip, the latter losing only to Miss Lloyd in the preliminaries.

Ed Leader—Yale's Rowing Coach

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

ED LEADER.

THERE are two pictures of Edward O. Leader, head coach of Yale University's rowing, whose latest triumph was scored at Derby on Saturday.

One of them is the legend of the "Iron-Man," the stern-visaged, grim driver who turns out crews with the force of locomotives; who was almost credited at one time with black magic. The other is that of the graduate of law at the University of Washington and the earner of a degree from Yale University.

Neither is exactly right. Somewhere in between is the correct focus on the man who has been and still is one of the most remarkable figures in the modern history of American athletics, the man who set a style in college rowing that threatened for a while to become the single standard of the sport.

In 1922, with the war still fresh in memory, Eastern rowing was the thing. No crew from west of the Mississippi had won at Poughkeepsie and most rowing was the product of the old professional scullers and the former oarsmen of Yale and Harvard, with a strong English accent still on most of the Eastern colleges.

Rowed on the Hudson.

Yale had just finished several years of experiment with English coaching and was looking around for a new coach. That year Washington sent its first crew since 1914 to the Hudson River. It was being handled by a young man new to coaching in the East and pretty new to coaching anywhere.

Ed Leader had been East in 1913, but nobody remembered him. He had been at No. 2 in the first varsity Washington ever sent on to Poughkeepsie, with his twin brother, Elmer, pulling the sweep in front of him. But it hadn't been a sensational crew. It had been a good one, but it finished third behind Syracuse and Cornell.

In 1922 Navy still carried to Poughkeepsie the tremendous prestige of the first Olympic victory ever scored by this country in rowing, the victory of that famous 1920 boatload of Old Dick Glendon's. The last men from that famous crew were still rowing and Old Dick was still coaching. They were heavy favorites and they won.

The Offer From Yale.

But they won only after Ed Leader's first and only Washington Poughkeepsie crew had clung hard to them all the way down and come very close indeed to nipping them at the finish. The Washington crew started back home again, but the tall, thick-set, brawny young man who had coached them stayed on. He went to New York for conferences, and his heavily browed, big-featured face puzzled a while over the offer of Yale. Leader never makes his decisions on the spur of the moment. He thought it over and came to Yale.

He started the following season, and Yale did not lose a varsity race at any distance to anybody until the middle of May in 1927, when a good Princeton crew took a lead on the shallow waters of Carnegie Lake and just lasted to stand off the finishing drive of Yale. In June of that year Harvard won its first victory over Yale under Leader and its first over Yale under anybody since 1920.

Since that year Harvard has not defeated Yale again and on only two occasions has a Yale varsity taken the wash of another shell.

First Coach From Washington.

In the blistering heat of a July afternoon in Philadelphia, the great California crew stopped Yale in the final of the Olympic trials and went on to win over the world at Amsterdam. Last May, Columbia started its string of victories by taking the Blackwell Cup from the Elis.

Leader was the first of the Washington coaches, but by no means the last. During the first years of his success here in the East everything turned to Washington. Leader had brought Dick Pocock east with him to be Yale's shell builder. Dick's brother George remained with Washington and in the next couple of years began filling the orders from other colleges. Today nearly every college that rows has used or is using a Pocock shell.

Pennsylvania, Princeton, Navy, Wisconsin, California and, of course, Washington and Yale have had or have at present Washington coaches. In other places, during the first years of the Washington vogue, it was explained by officials that their coach had had some experience of Washington rowing, even though not graduated from there. It was a mad scramble to get some of the magic which Washington seemed to impart to rowing men.

Played Football First.

When Leader and Yale won the Paris Olympics in 1924, first beating over here the Navy Officers, a boat almost the exact replica of the 1920 champions, the thing rose to its crest. But gradually the colleges found that it wasn't some mysterious quality in the air of Washington. They began to realize that Leader was successful only incidentally because he had been to Washington and mainly because he was himself.

The man who did all this to rowing came perilously close to never being connected with the sport. In college Leader and his twin, now a successful Seattle lawyer, turned naturally to football. They were both huge, strong men, Elmer appearing even a bit heavier than Ed in college, and they hadn't thought of rowing.

Gilmour Dobie was coaching football at Washington. He has said that Ed was a fine tackle and his brother an end of the very first rank. Added to the fact that they liked football was the one that both were working their way through college. But the crew needed candidates; there was talk of trying the Eastern trip, and the two brothers came out. Inseparable in other things, they stuck together in the shell, one in front of the other.

Successor to Connibear.

Through with school, Ed and his brother practiced law. But in 1917 Hiram Connibear, the grand old man of Washington rowing, who had started the sport there, fell from a tree in his orchard. He died of a broken neck, and his college asked Leader to take over the rowing.

Leader's rowing reputation on the Pacific Coast formed more quickly than it did in the East and Yale officials had heard high praise of him before the Poughkeepsie regatta of 1922. They even talked with him before that race. The race itself convinced them and then they convinced Leader.

His success has been due, in a large measure, to his amazing power of concentration. In the closing days at Gales Ferry, when Yale is rounding off its season for the traditional clash with Harvard, there are times when Leader appears lost to his surroundings.

Now and again some one approaching him leaves with the impression of discourtesy, almost surliness. But that is wrong. It is simply that his mind has set to work on some problem that it hasn't solved yet. And that mind follows ideas with the tenacity of the British bulldog that Jock Whitney gave to his old coach after his years of rowing under him.

Respect Wins Discipline.

There is another impression of Leader that is wrong, and this is the idea that he rules his crews with iron, unyielding discipline. His crews have discipline because they know and respect the man teaching them.

Some of the oarsmen have sat next to him in classes as he went through Yale to graduate a couple of years ago. All of them know that he has never once played a favorite in the eight years he has been at New Haven. All of them know that, while he works them hard, he never spares himself. And, in the past few years, when they have been talking about him among themselves, his pupils have taken to referring to him as "the Old Man." That name, conferred by college athletes, becomes an intangible but very real title of rank.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD FOR SCHOOL TEAMS

More than thirty P. S. A. L. and C. H. S. A. A. baseball games, two dozen P. S. A. L. tennis matches, seven P. S. A. L. handball matches, two important track meets and several P. S. A. L. golf matches and lacrosse games are the feature attractions on this week's scholastic athletic program. Numerous non-league contests in various sports are also listed for what will be one of the busiest weeks to date.

Three games on the Brooklyn C. H. S. A. A. baseball tourney, in which Brooklyn Cathedral Prep is showing the way with four victories in as many starts, are among those scheduled for today. Brooklyn and Queens P. S. A. L. baseball teams will see action tomorrow, along with those in the Manhattan C. H. S. A. A. tournament.

Five nines are deadlocked for first place in the Brooklyn P. S. A. L. race, New Utrecht, Boys High, Brooklyn Tech, Thomas Jefferson and Manual Training each having two triumphs and one defeat. Richmond Hill and Flushing lead in the Queens P. S. A. L. with three triumphs apiece in as many games, and Jamaica, last year's city P. S. A. L. titleholder, has lost both of its two league games to date.

P. S. A. L. lacrosse and tennis contests and numerous non-league and suburban baseball games are included on Wednesday's program. Brooklyn and Queens P. S. A. L. baseball teams and Manhattan and Brooklyn C. H. S. A. A. nines are scheduled for league contests again on Friday, with the Flushing-Richmond Hill game to be played on the latter's field as perhaps the feature contest.

Flaherty to Coach at Gonzaga.

YALE WILL PREPARE FOR RACES MAY 17

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—Stolid Ed Leader, whose Yale varsity crews have swept the Housatonic for seven victories in the eight years he has directed Yale rowing, and three of whose eights captured races in the four events scheduled on the river yesterday, relaxed enough tonight to say smilingly that he would admit that all the Yale crews rowed good races in the triangular regatta.

Further than that Leader refused to continue the discussion. He will take up the preparation of the campaign for the next set of races, the triangular contest for the Carnegie Cup, which is scheduled for Lake Carnegie, Princeton, on May 17. This event is the shortest on the Yale schedule.

The demand that a strong sprinting crew be sent to Princeton, of about the kind that rowed the Columbia Lions into second place yesterday, will be scrupulously regarded. It is extremely unlikely that shifts will be made to any extent in the Yale eight which will go to Princeton, although Leader continued making changes in the varsity eight almost daily until two weeks ago, when it became imperative to retain the existing combination and make it a rowing unit.

That Leader selected an eight close to the best possibilities of the material in the squad is attested by yesterday's results. That it is a superb sprinting eight is felt by Yale men who witnessed yesterday's regatta.

Following the races at Princeton, Yale will look forward to the four-mile event at New London, when different facts must be faced, but the Yale first and second varsity eights at Princeton will be but little changed from yesterday's Derby Day line-up.

Leader said tonight that there will be little rowing for two days, but that on Wednesday sharply defined preparation for the Princeton events will be begun. Tomorrow and Tuesday the oarsmen will go to the boathouse, but the work will be either merely conditioning in its scope or else will be devoted toward the elimination of individual defects of style.

The 150-pound eight faces a different program. It will race the eights of Harvard and Princeton on the Housatonic Saturday in their annual triangular event. Don Grant will assemble the Yale lightweight crew tomorrow for routine practice.

The 150-pound crew was not exhausted by its victory over the Pennsylvania and Columbia eights in the race over the Henley distance yesterday and will have hard rowing drills daily until Thursday. Its victory yesterday has won warm tributes for the coaching of Grant, the former University of Washington coxswain, whose crew surprised critics by its finish and form.

Leader and Grant created another surprise yesterday by walking to the observation train, taking seats in it, and watching the races from there. Traditionally college coaches have followed the races in the coaching launches, without communicating with the oarsmen during the race, of course. Fred Spuhn, freshman coach, watched the races from the float at the Yale boathouse instead of following the 1933 crews in a launch. The changes were made wholly on the initiative of the Yale coaches.

All that Leader would say tonight, in discussing the innovation, was that he felt, after seeing the races from the train, that it was a first-class place to see races from, that he liked it better than he thought he would, and intends to sit there again.

GEORGETTI BEATEN AT N. Y. VELODROME

TWICE FORCED OFF TRACK

Passes Letourner for Second Place After Mishaps Cost Him Two-Lap Margin.

Battling the elements and tire trouble proved too much for Franco Georgetti, American motor-paced bicycle racing champion, and he dropped a twenty-mile grind to Charlie Jaeger, Newark star, yesterday at the Velodrome track.

A crowd of 12,000 fans saw the popular Italian star overcome one obstacle after another, only to lose the race in the last two miles, when too great an effort on the part of his pacemaker to regain lost territory made him lose his pace twice and give Jaeger an opportunity to gain a clear margin.

Jaeger went out in front at the first mile and staved off the challenges of Georgetti and Alfred Letourner, who finished third.

At the ten-mile point, Georgetti had trouble with his wheel and had to go to the flat to make a change. He rode but a few more miles before he was forced below a second time, putting him two laps to the bad. Before he could regain his stride the fifteen-mile mark had been reached.

Georgetti Starts Anew.

The race really started anew at this stage. Georgetti went out to make up the ground he had lost. In three laps he had passed Letourner and started after Jaeger. It required but little effort to get by the Newark rider the first time and Georgetti was then battling Letourner for the second time. The French rider made a great effort to hold his position, but Georgetti went by, and, with only two miles to go, started after Jaeger the second time.

He closed a half-lap gap and was trying to pass Jaeger when Hunter forced him high on the boards and he lost his pace and also the race. From then on Jaeger had easy riding to the finish. Georgetti managed, however, to hold off Letourner to finish second.

Devito Takes Both Heats.

Joe Devito of New York defeated Cecil Walker, Australian star and all-around champion for the last four years, in two straight heats of a one-mile match race.

Gym Star to Continue as Captain—Picket to Lead Fencers.

Herman Witzig has been re-elected captain of the New York University gymnastic team and Harold Picket has been named to lead the Violet fencers next year, it was announced yesterday by Professor Giles L. Courtney, chairman of the Board of Athletic Control.

Witzig won the Eastern intercollegiate all-round gymnastic championship at the annual individual championships last March. He was a member of the 1928 United States Olympic team. Witzig lives in Union City, N. J.

Captain-elect Picket, a substitute at the opening of the past season, rose to the front ranks among the Violet foilsmen before the schedule was brought to a close.

KASHDAN IS CHESS VICTOR.

Conquers Steiner in Match by 5 to 3 and 2 Drawn.

By winning the tenth game in thirty-seven moves, I. Kashdan, Manhattan Chess Club champion, won his match with L. Steiner of Budapest yesterday at the Manhattan Club by the score of 5 to 3 and 2 drawn.

The opening selected in the final game was a Ruy Lopez, in which Kashdan had the black pieces. Steiner worked out a combination which lost him a pawn. He then played aggressively, but came out a rook behind in the ending and resigned.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

THERE was a chap who picked six winners at Jamaica last week. He picked them on the same day, too, but he neglected to parlay his winnings, and thus passed up a chance to run a five-dollar bill into a steam yacht with trimmings. But he won some money. Any one who picks six winners in a day should win some money, be it ever so little. There was once a man who picked seven winners in a day and lost money. A remarkable chap. He was a magazine editor. It happened this way:

A banker, a bank examiner, a rural magistrate, a real estate man and the aforesaid magazine editor formed occasional parties to go down from Philadelphia to Maryland on Saturdays during the racing season. The banker usually furnished the limousine. The editor usually furnished the tips on the horses. This time the pilgrimage was from Broad Street to Havre de Grace. The approximate era can be placed by the fact that Crusader was running.

As they rolled along in the limousine on the way to Havre de Grace, the editor regaled them with the tale of how he had picked six winners in one day at Empire City. He had bet but $5 on each race and thus ended the day with only the modest sum of $300. That, he hinted, was going to be a lesson to him. Fortune had knocked, and he had been in a deep sleep. Now he was wide awake. He was going to pick seven winners at Havre de Grace, betting $10 on the first race and parlaying his ill-gotten gains until the day was over or the mutuel machines had cracked under the strain. He invited his companions to stick with him and share his prospective fortune. After some coaxing, they agreed provided he didn't win so much money for them it would be a burden to carry it.

First and Foremost.

On the outskirts of the town of Havre de Grace the auto sustained a flat tire, not a mortal injury but an annoying accident because it was apparent that the party would miss the first race. The editor said:

"This is terrible. I've picked the field in the first race and we must get there. This flat tire will lead to a financial panic in this party. There are two good horses in the field, one of them is Alynette, and my $10 are ready to leap into that mutuel window. Hurry up with that wrench."

But they missed the first race, and Alynette came drifting home in front at $15.90 for $2. The gentlemen did not shake hands all around. A discussion arose in which the party disagreed as to the editor's acumen with regard to thoroughbreds. He was told to keep his tip in his pocket and follow their lead in the second race. He produced $10 meekly and handed them to the delegate who was going to make all the bets for the party.

Then he glanced at his card and saw that Rigel, an old favorite with him, was in the race. He instructed the delegate to change his ballot and put his $10 on Rigel. The delegate forgot to make the switch, and Rigel came in at $40.20 for $2. Woe, woe, unutterable woe!

Sande Wins!

The editor then firmly announced that he was going to bet on Sande's mount in the third. The banker, the bank examiner, the real estate man and the rural magistrate attacked his sanity. They, so it seemed, had it right out of the feed box that another horse would win. The editor yielded. Sande, on Rockman, came coasting home at $9 for $2.

By that time nerves were on edge and there was talk of severing diplomatic relations. The banker announced that Reigh Count would take the fourth.

The editor remarked bitterly:

"Note the post position, my dear sir. Fourteen horses and an outside position. He'll never get up. Happy Time will win. But have your own way."

Easy Picking but No Profit.

The next one was easy. Crusader was running in the Delaware Handicap. For once the party was in general agreement. "But don't bet my $10," said the editor, "unless you can get as good as even money." The first flash of the approximate odds was 1 to 2. "That's out," said the editor. Crusader won at $2.90 for $2.

That brought them down to the sixth race and they were getting desperate. The bank examiner suggested that the rural magistrate commit the editor for some crime or any crime. He wasn't particular. All he wanted was to see the editor lodged in some uncomfortable jail.

So he wrote the name of his horse on a slip and gave it to the "betting commissioner" of the party folded up.

"And don't open it while these wolves are around," he added. "This is my secret. Put it in your vest pocket and don't mix it with those contributions to charity that you have in your hand."

The "betting commissioner" put it so securely in his vest pocket that he forgot it when he got to the window. Thus he was speechless when Homage came in at $10 for $2 and the editor demanded his winning ticket.

The End of an Imperfect Day.

"That's enough," said the editor, "if there's no objection, let's leave these degraded surroundings and return to the saintly city of Philadelphia."

"But the last race?" suggested the banker.

"With this crowd?" said the editor. "We'd never get started home. Furthermore, South Breeze will breeze in at no price at all. You couldn't get 10 cents on the dollar. Where's that limousine the depositors in your bank are suspicious about?"

They wandered out, got in the car and drove back to Philadelphia. It was a gloomy party during the ride, but the gentlemen were more cheerful when they sat down together to dinner at an exclusive club. The turtle soup was good. The fish was delicious. The filet mignon was done to a turn.

Just as the salad came on, the waiter handed a late paper to the editor. He scanned it idly and then suddenly pushed back his chair.

"Be back in a minute," he said. Going outside, he took a pencil from his pocket, put a ring around an item in the paper, instructed the waiter to show it to the gentlemen at the table and took his hat and coat and departed immediately.

The item he marked was the chart of the last race at Havre de Grace showing that South Breeze had won at $32 for $2.

GETTYSBURG'S NINE AHEAD IN THE EAST

Tufts, Rhode Island and St. Lawrence Also Are on the Undefeated List.

PENN IS LEAGUE LEADER

Of the four undefeated baseball teams in the East the chief laurels today go to the Gettysburg nine, which tops the list with eight straight victories. For the past three weeks the Gettysburg nine has been forced to share the uppermost position with other colleges, but it now is alone in the lead.

In second place comes the Tufts nine with six straight victories, while Rhode Island is third with four triumphs. St. Lawrence, which has played only one game, completes the list of undefeated teams. Five nines have passed from the select list since last Monday. Amherst, Union, the Connecticut Aggies, Seton Hall and Trinity all received their first defeats of the season during the past week.

As the season advances the number of undefeated nines grows smaller and it appears that before long there will be no such list, although Gettysburg and Tufts, among the others, have high hopes of continuing unbeaten.

Holy Cross Record Good.

Leading the list of teams which have lost only one game are Holy Cross and Providence, each with seven victories and one defeat. Albright is third with five triumphs. The group which has lost two games is topped by Georgetown with thirteen victories, while the Navy follows with eight triumphs in ten tests.

The Eastern Intercollegiate League standing undergoes sharp revisions with almost every game, and as the teams now are listed Penn is at the top with three victories and one defeat. There are hard games ahead, however, and there may be even more drastic shifts in the standing before the campaign draws to a close.

Batters in the league held a margin over the pitchers in last week's campaign, and as a result averages generally took an upward trend, both for individuals and for teams. At the finish of hostilities at nightfall on Saturday, no fewer than thirty-two players were rated at .300 or better, with Allan Walker of Pennsylvania leading the field with a mark of .636. Closely pressing him was the Dartmouth first baseman, Hank Barber, who rallied to .545. Muldaur of Princeton topped the list with a perfect average, but this represented only one time at bat.

Penn at the Top.

In team batting, Pennsylvania rushed to the top with an amazing average of .333, the result of Red and Blue slugging in victories over Columbia and Yale, which together yielded twenty-seven hits.

Pennsylvania and Dartmouth ended the week in a tie for runs batted in, each having twenty-three, but Penn had a big margin over all the rest of the field in stolen bases, with a total of ten. The Red and Blue topped Dartmouth in runs scored by 26 to 25, and led in hits, with a total of forty-five.

SPENCER CAPTURES NEWARK PACED RACE

MARTINETTI BEATS HONEMAN

With the same speed that earned him victories in two previous motor-paced races this season, Fred Spencer, the converted national sprint champion, won his third straight contest yesterday at Newark before 14,000 spectators by defeating Franz Deulberg, Alfonso Zucchetti and George Chapman in the time of 30:57.

Spencer started off behind Chapman, who is one of the fastest starters in the sport, but conquered the former champion within the first three laps and swept into the lead, to remain there until the finish. He lapped Chapman half a dozen times.

Deulberg came within challenging distance in the last mile, but Spencer repulsed him without difficulty. At no time was the former sprint expert hard pressed.

Aventi Martinetti, who arrived only a few days ago from Italy, defeated Willie Honeman, Newark rider and runner-up to Fred Spencer for the national title last year, in straight heats of a mile match race.

The little Italian showed remarkable speed in his first American race of the season. He allowed Honeman to lead into the last lap and then sped by him in the last twelfth mile, winning by inches at the tape and riding the last eighth in 12 seconds against a stiff wind.

In the second brush he started his sprint entering the final turn and won by a fractional margin at the tape.

Debaets Takes Lead.

GIOVINALE IS FIRST IN ROAD BIKE RACE

Anthony Giovinale, Italian amateur cycling star, who has been riding in this country for a short time, won the twenty-mile handicap bike race held in the Bronx by the Unione Sportiva Italiana Cycling Club yesterday. About thirty riders competed over the Pelham Parkway course.

Starting from the two-minute mark, Giovinale finished several hundred yards ahead of Hanso Omodeo, novice rider, and Louis Barberio. Omodeo, aided by a five-minute allowance, was about half a minute in front of Barberio. Ernest Landis, cycling veteran, who is attempting a come-back, was fourth. The winner's time was 51:08.

THE DEBENTURE DEFEATED.

While the majority of 70 by which the House voted on Saturday against the farm debenture plan, tacked on to the tariff bill, was ample for the purpose, there were some disquieting things about it. No less than 48 Republicans voted to go against the President in this matter. Still more ominous is the fact that 112 Democratic Representatives voted for the debenture, while but 37 were against it. All this indicates a hard fight in the Senate when the measure comes up there again. It also shows that the debenture scheme, like prohibition, cuts deeply into party discipline and is one more threat to efficient government by party.

President HOOVER stood manfully to his guns. He wrote a letter to the Republican leader of the House, Mr. TILSON, condemning the debenture as wrong in principle, rough and unequal in its proposed application, and putting a dangerous strain upon public finance. A careful estimate by the Tariff Commission is that the cost of the plan, on the basis of the present exports of farm products, would be $280,000,000 a year. This would necessarily mean a vanished surplus and the laying of new taxes.

Rather superfluously, the question was asked in the House whether the President's letter meant that he would veto the tariff bill if it came to him tied up with the farm debenture. No one was authorized to answer for Mr. HOOVER, but everybody knew what he would do. If he did not kill a debenture-ridden bill, it would kill him politically. Having again put his hand to the plow, he could not turn back. The firm position which he has taken will show how many Republicans in the Senate are ready to follow his leadership. His great and good friend, Senator BORAH, has already announced that he will not. The chance is too fine to prove once more that the President, whom Mr. BORAH did so much to elect as the best friend of the farmers, has in office turned his back upon them. But in the end there can be no doubt what will happen to the debenture in this session of Congress. It will either die in conference between the two Houses or expire under a Presidential veto.

TALENT IN A DEMOCRACY.

For our lack of dependable statistics on unemployment or crime and law enforcement Professor FELIX FRANKFURTER, speaking at Yale on citizenship, finds the reason to be our lack of "trained capacity" in public service. But lest we hasten to suggest that it is the penalty we pay for government by professional politicians, Professor FRANKFURTER reminds us that professional politicians, of the right kind, are just what we need. "We forget that the most "successful statesmen have been "professionals." The trouble is that the trained capacity which our public life does enlist is so often the capacity of the ward politician and the boss. It is altogether too little the capacity of the educated specialist in a particular field. It is the difference between ability used to seize control of government and ability employed in the business of governing. The complaint is old that in the art of efficient public administration we are not on a level with the leading nations of Europe. In the field of criminal justice our standing, compared with Great Britain or the Continent, is particularly low.

Americans are in the habit of acknowledging the validity of this charge. They plead that the situation, in part at least, arises out of our democratic system; and there is force in the answer. Some one remarked to Dr. JOHNSON that the Lord Chancellors in England were selected on political grounds rather than because of fitness for office:

> JOHNSON: Why, Sir, in such a government as ours, no man is appointed to an office because he is the fittest for it, nor hardly in any other government; because there are so many connections and dependencies to be studied. A despotick Prince may choose a man to an office, merely because he is the fittest for it. The King of Prussia may do it.

Dr. JOHNSON paid tribute by anticipation to the high standards of the Prussian-German civil administrator, bulwarked against interference from politics by the authority of a "despotick Prince." A lower standard of efficiency is part of the price that must be paid for democratic institutions. The thing is to pay no more than necessary. Many delicate factors enter into striking the balance. The "connections and dependencies" of Dr. JOHNSON, the particular considerations native to a country and a governmental system, cannot be overlooked. After all, the reason why we have no decent statistics on unemployment is that we have no unemployment insurance as in Germany or in England. If we had all American workingmen "on the register," we should know at any time how many of them were out of work. Now we are beginning to want to find out.

A SLOW BUSINESS.

Representative WILLIAMSON of South Dakota, chairman of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments, made a rather gloomy address before the National League of Women Voters at their convention in Louisville last week. He said that the Federal Government is "loaded down with "multiplied layers of barnacles that "show a surprising capacity for "hanging on." Repeating many of the familiar charges against bureaucracy, he emphasized the difficulties of accomplishing anything by way of reorganization. "I know of no "case where it might result in "diminishing in the least degree the "prestige of the bureau or its head "where we have secured the slightest "cooperation," he remarked. He was confident that if big-business methods could be applied, one-fourth of the Federal personnel could be dropped and never missed, but he held out little hope that any such saving reform would ever be adopted. President HOOVER'S suggestion that he be given wide powers of reorganization, subject to final Congressional control, he held impracticable; Congress would have to deal with the problem piecemeal.

The picture may not be quite so drab as Mr. WILLIAMSON painted it. There have been recent instances where bureau chiefs did not stand in the way of necessary changes. The transfers of the Patent Office and of the Bureau of Mines from the Department of the Interior to the Department of Commerce are cases in point. That only emphasizes Mr. WILLIAMSON'S other contention, however, that it is easier to make progress step by step than by a comprehensive reform. As the author of the bills providing for the consolidation of Veteran agencies and the transfer of the prohibition unit to the Department of Justice, he has been practicing what he preaches. Both measures appear slated for adoption. Beyond that, little has been accomplished. Next Fall President HOOVER may make another effort to persuade Congress to go further in the consolidation of bureaus and the separation of administrative from quasi-judicial functions.

MINISTER MASSEY GOING.

If Mr. MASSEY had not as Canada's first Minister in Washington represented her with such distinguished success, he would, doubtless, not have been so soon transferred to what a loyal Britisher must consider an even higher post. His going will be felt as a loss not only by Washington, where he and Mrs. MASSEY have been most popular, but also by the country at large; for no one among all the members of the diplomatic corps has been more sought for and honored by cities, universities and learned societies as a speaker on high occasions. It has been said of him as CHAUCER wrote of the clerk of Oxenford in Canterbury Tales:

> Of study took he most care and most heed.
> Naught of word spoke he more than was need,
> And that was said in form and reverence,
> And short and quick and full of high sentence.

Mr. MASSEY has recommended himself to us not alone by his speech of "high sentence," from ancient sources, enriched by the adventurous and commodious colloquialisms of the lands that are still new. He has shown practical sense in dealing with the complexities of border relations in commerce and politics. It has been remarked of a cultivated Englishman that he is either an Aristotelian or a Platonist. Mr. MASSEY is both in the sense that he is an Aristotelian realist, as shown by his business and war record, and a Platonistic idealist, as evidenced by what he has done for art in varied forms. With it all he knows how to guide men's minds to action, which PLATO called "rhetoric."

An English poet of the same surname, GERALD MASSEY, wrote seventy-five years and more ago of England, the "old nursing mother" of colonies that have become as nations:

> Lo! she lifteth a bosom of glory yet
> Thro' her mists to the sun and the sea.

Minister MASSEY in going as High Commissioner back to the motherland that had a part in his own intellectual nourishing will carry, along with the homage of his own country, the asset of good-will which in his own person he has won for Canada and Britain while Minister in the United States. He has established a precedent which will make easier the work of his successors, though his varied talents will make it difficult to find a successor so well qualified. He is uniquely fitted to represent at the capital of Great Britain that portion of its vast empire which has no border defenses between it and its nearest neighbor. While deeply regretting Mr. MASSEY'S leaving America, we can but be glad that we are to have such an understanding friend abroad.

A NEW CITY BUREAU.

In recommending the establishment of a Bureau of Municipal Investigation in the Finance Department Controller BERRY has again shown himself alert to the city's need for protection against extravagance and corruption. It speaks well, too, for his colleagues on the Board of Estimate that they gave his plan their prompt and unanimous endorsement. It will add more than two hundred new employes to the Controller's staff, but without any hint of jobbery, since they are all to be under civil service. Their special function will be to furnish a means of control over contracts by keeping cost data up to date and by looking into projects where there appears to be a wide discrepancy between bids and official estimates. The object will be to prevent the recurrence of scandals like those which recently disgraced Queens Borough.

An era of great public improvements offers peculiar temptation to the grafting contractor and the corrupt politician. The Tweed ring is an instance in point. If the pyramids were built without graft, it must have been either because the kings of Egypt could command the services rendered or because they hired somebody like JOHN DELANEY to do the job for them. It is a credit to the chairman of the Board of Transportation and his associates that municipal subway building has been so free from scandal. Here and there in the other city services, however, it has reared its ugly head. Now that the city has embarked on a new and enlarged program of public works, including bridges and tunnels, by-pass highways and elevated motor roads, schools and hospitals, garbage incinerators and disposal plants, it is especially desirable that officials should be able to maintain every possible check on expenditures. If the new bureau comes up to expectations, it will earn its upkeep many times over.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN.

Edifying, if belated, was the zeal of the House for the consumer last week. The Conference Committee and the House have accepted jauntily a long series of fines upon that mysterious person, so neglected in the making of protectionist tariff bills and yet known to be indued with occasional sharp capacities of resentment. Throw a sop at the poor creature once in a while. He will appreciate it. There is no duty on cement. The House lays one of 8 cents, the Senate of 6. The House consents to the lower rate. The provision for the free importation by public corporations has disappeared. In the shuttlecock game between House and Senate the consumer has not been pilled as much as he might have been.

Friday there was almost a pious uprising of Republicans cooperating with the Democrats. Vaguely remembering "TOM" REED and the revolt of the housewives, the friends of the consumer succeeded in substituting the Senate's 2-cent-a-pound duty on Cuban raw sugar for the House's 2.4. The Fordney-McCumber rate is 1.76. Thus the feared anger of the housewives is to be placated. Evidently the motto of the consumer is supposed to be: "The smallest favors gratefully received." Cheered by this incomparable triumph, the victors, not as one but according to the inexorable geographical or local opinion, put silver, soft-wood shingles and lumber back on the free list, in the teeth of the Senate.

The consumer must be moved almost to tears by this unexpected tenderness. Here and there a sporadic penalty on him is reduced. Here and there an effort is made not to make him worse or not much worse off than he is. But the whole bill, so inconsiderably ameliorated by the House, is a congeries of means to pick his pocket. With all respect to the casual good intentions of Republicans remembering the consumer and the elections, we prefer the unadulterated orthodoxy of our own Representative CROWTHER:

> If we are going to be protectionists, and live up to the fundamentals of our party faith, we cannot play hop, skip and jump with the policy and apply it here and not apply it somewhere else.

At any rate, to apply it mercilessly and generally, and then to expect to curry favor by a few piddling exceptions or mitigations, seems calculated to exasperate rather than to mollify.

THE AVIATION SHOW.

The New York Aircraft Salon show transcends in exhibits of transport, sport and training planes any previous display in this city. Madison Square Garden has the capacity to house such giants as the Fokker F-32, which carries thirty passengers. To examine the seating accommodations of this ship and the facilities for operating it is to realize that the experimental period of aviation is passing. The question now is how many engines shall drive a commercial plane through the air and how large its passenger list shall be. An Atlantic service may be heralded by the coming of a great Dornier plane this Summer. The use of sport machines by amateurs is a development the proportions of which cannot be foreseen. To wander through the diversified exhibits is to have the feeling that aviation for the people is no longer doubtful. High-powered automobiles cost no more than airplanes for private use.

One sure conclusion to be drawn is that profit in passenger services will be possible only by employing big ships. The Dornier that took up 169 persons on a trial flight on the other side of the Atlantic was not a freak. It may be safely predicted that before many years we shall look back upon the F-32 as a small plane. The little Aeronca, exhibited also at St. Louis and Detroit, is driven by so small an engine that it will attract much attention as the kind of craft that commuters to the city may be flying in a few years. Out of the competition will come improved machines. Around the safety prize Tanager of the Guggenheim tests there will always be a crowd, for it is the nearest approach to the fool-proof airplane. The record-breaking Lockheed Sirius in which Colonel and Mrs. LINDBERGH flew across the continent is especially noticeable, because it attained a speed that blazed the way to the 200-miles-an-hour plane. Gliders will surely catch the eye of amateurs who want to get into the air but cannot afford the smallest-engined plane. Nothing can be more graceful than the lines of the Savoia-Marchetti S-55.

An automobile show is made the occasion for dinners and conventions of manufacturers and designers. There can be no better proof of the stability of aviation than the fact that the airplane show is following suit. One of the features will be a celebration in honor of the air-mail pilots of the country, presided over by Postmaster General BROWN. A hundred veteran fliers will attend. During the week there will be the first public showing of photographs taken on the flight of Commander BYRD to the South Pole. In May, 1912, when the Aero Club of America held the "first international aeronautical exhibition," the daily attendance was a few hundreds. About 200,000 people paid admission to the aviation show Feb. 6-13 sponsored by Aviators' Post 743 of the American Legion, although it was not sanctioned by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. The show this year, crowded with the highest class of exhibits, is under its auspices.

DESTRUCTIVE HIGHWAYS.

That stout champion of the New England countryside, Mr. WALTER PRICHARD EATON, has returned, in the May number of The Atlantic, to its defense with suggestions which may be applicable to other regions. For years he has been inveighing against billboards and hot-dog stands and filling stations. At first a voice crying in the wilderness, he soon heard others echoing his protests. But he also found his wilderness invaded by hordes of tourists, and the evils which he attacked added to by desecrations committed by thousands of thoughtless motorists whose only interest in life appears to be motion on rubber tires over highways.

Mr. EATON now makes the point that the highways are rapidly ruining the best of old New England. This may sound like the plaint of a conservative who resents all change. But his case is soundly argued. Highways, he insists, have come to be much like railways. Over them flows an enormous tonnage of freight and passengers that would once have been carried by rail. The roads also carry a vast traffic of transients, whose objective is the ride and not enjoyment of the scenery. They are interested only in the road surface and the accommodations for eating, drinking and obtaining oil and gas. Then there is a small percentage of appreciative sightseers and a few local residents bound on daily errands, who today are at the mercy of the speeding mob.

What is the history of the main highways? Everywhere it is the same. Just as the buffalo trace became the pack-horse path, and this in turn was followed by the cart road, and finally by the railroad and the modern concrete highway, so these main thoroughfares today are undergoing a transformation. The demand for more space for motors is met first by widening roads, and then by "flattening" corners and otherwise cutting into roadside property. Each year the pressure is for broader roads. Each year more of the old landmarks—whether of nature or man—fall before this monster. Century-old elms which gave many a small New England village its character are ruthlessly cut so that more impatient motorists can pass through the "common." Fences that have sheltered lawn and garden for generations are pressed back—in some cases even the houses themselves are cut into—so that more people can speed through more quickly. The result, as Mr. EATON points out, is the loss to many a small place of its character and charm.

What is the remedy? Remove the main arterial highways from the towns.

> Send them over wide rights of way [he writes], radiating from the cities and crossing the States, and three enormous advantages are gained: First, through traffic is greatly facilitated in movement. Second, existing towns are reclaimed to live their local life in accordance with their ancient plan of community coherence and dignity. Third, an expanding population * * * can move in and out daily over these rights of way.

It would cost money. But in the long run it would pay, not only through the advantages named but by saving those natural attractions of the small towns and cities which are today being degraded under the misleading label of "progress."

BRITAIN'S GREAT TEST.

In the year which marks the centenary of France's occupation and government of Northern Africa, Great Britain is facing her greatest colonial test. So far as can be observed, with the exception of small uprisings in Indo-China, France's exterior empire is at peace. The method under which Algerians sit in the Chamber of Deputies and the province is administered on a departmental instead of a colonial basis has thus far proved itself sagacious. Great Britain, dealing with her millions of mixed human wards on the colonial plan, might well be giving extra study to the French arrangement. A map published in the Sunday TIMES, illustrating an article which deals with present challenges to Britain's "world sovereignty," shows in black the vast areas which are giving trouble today to Whitehall. Iraq, Egypt, Tanganyika and South Africa are seething; on the right of the map a vast sable blot marks India, where one-sixth of the human race live. These black spots represent the greatest problem in statesmanship of the present day.

Nature, as has often been said, was kinder to the United States than to any other great Power which has arisen since history was recorded. Her geographical location is ideal. Forced into the World War, her casualties were comparatively slight, and her prosperity has grown enormously. Her only exterior military problem of major size is to guard the Panama Canal, the Philippines and Hawaii from enemies not discernible on the horizon. While in the Philippines there is a move for independence, it does not represent in potential threat to public order one infinitesimal fraction of what the similar movements offer in India, Egypt or even in South Africa. Nor is the United States, for economic or other reasons, in any important particular dependent on the retention of the Pacific islands.

Thus far British statesmanship has been sufficient to keep in harness the wild hordes of imperial dominion. A genius for colonization and the fortitude of millions of British and Irish who are buried in the earth's remote places have supported this statesmanship. Crises have been met and matched before. Under British sovereignty the sunburned peoples have been cared for and have flourished.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Colored Children to Keep Play School.

An agreeable feeling of relief must have come to many on reading the statement of the Children's Aid Society that the Columbus Hill Neighborhood Centre, on West Sixty-third Street, is not to be closed. There was some foundation for the rumor that it was to be, for the building is to be vacant while necessary repairs are made. But activity there for the benefit of the hundreds who have used it is merely suspended.

It is not surprising that there should have been excited protest when some of the teaching staff had been dismissed and there were evident signs that the house was to be turned over to carpenters. No one liked to think that the many colored children who had enjoyed the protection and help of the teachers in their work and play were to be turned into the streets to find their own amusement. The hazards of traffic and the mischief they might get into with no supervision presented an unpleasant prospect.

It is the policy of the Children's Aid Society to turn over its grade-school activities to the public schools, and the boys and girls of Columbus Hill will still have their Summer play school. The house on Sixty-third Street will continue as a health centre. Its limited budget will not permit of certain extensions of its work desired by the directors, and the fact that additional funds are being solicited probably gave color to the report that all of its enterprises would be given up for lack of money.

An Association to Help the Parks.

The appeal of former Senator NATHAN STRAUS Jr. for an increase in the membership of the Park Association deserves the attention of all who are interested in the park problems of Greater New York. Life members pay $1,000; founder members, $100; sustaining members, $25, and the other classes respectively $10, $5 and $1.

With these funds the work of the Park Association is vigorously pushed under the active supervision of its officers. Senator STRAUS himself has devoted much time to its affairs, and, thanks to his thorough knowledge of park problems and his familiarity with the practical aspects of transmuting park ideals into park practices, has been able to do much to help guide opinion along sound lines.

Together with other similar organizations, the Park Association is today active in support of the project to acquire more park lands, and is jealously guarding against all encroachments on existing park areas. Thanks to the increased interest in park problems on the part of the present City Administration, the opportunities for good work by the Park Association are greater than ever.

The Old Men of Sussex.

Sussex County, N. J., may not have a fountain of youth, but it contains springs of the clearest and sweetest water. One of them JOHN BURROUGHS pronounced the largest that he ever saw. This was in the neighborhood of Newton.

There, on May Day, sixty-nine men over 80 sat down to a dinner at a local tavern given by the proprietor, CHARLES HENDERSHOT. A friend of his, Mr. AYRES, 85 years old, had remarked to the innkeeper that 100 men over 80 were living in Sussex. "If you can bring them here, I will give them a dinner," said Mr. HENDERSHOT.

Mr. AYRES actually found 125. They were bidden to the feast by word of mouth, letter and telephone. Of those who came, one was 93, another 89 and many were more than 85. With scarcely an exception they belonged to the old American stock.

Each man was dressed in his Sunday best, and in such togs not every one felt at his ease. Almost all were "fine, work-hardened, tough as whipcord and fresh-colored, with outdoors written all over them." Some were Civil War veterans. ANDREW FOULDS, a Union veteran of 88, bore a strong resemblance to President HINDENBURG, who at 82 looks no more than 65, according to President BUTLER. WILLIAM FREDERICKS, 89, played the fiddle to the diners and ROBERT WESTBROOK danced a breakdown. They proved to be great quaffers of buttermilk.

The Equine Month.

May has had a thousand adjectives applied to her by poets. Laughing, merry, wondrous, flowery—these are but a few. Her sun in these parts sends its rays through usually cool air upon bright emerald swards and sea-water changing from slate to sapphire. Persons too old or too philosophical to think much of the brightening colors of turtle-doves let their fancies run to other things. Among these things, in America, is the turf. For this is the month of great racing in the United States, centring about the Kentucky Derby. This year it is to be run May 17.

Virginia and Maryland, Kentucky's mother and aunt in the relationship of the States, precede the Derby with their cup races for jumpers bestridden by gentlemen riders. Maryland and New York also have flat racing, with professional jockeys, at various tracks in May in the period which precedes the crowning of the 3-year-old that repeats the feat of Aristides in 1875. New Yorkers who never read of sports, and did not realize that the Earl of DERBY was making a special visit to Louisville, are not permitted to forget what is to happen to Churchill Downs. Their mail is filled with railroad folders advertising special trains. The thud of hoofs is in the air, and even the drone of airplane engines cannot drown it during these weeks for an appreciable portion of the American population.

EGOIST.

The day is past
When I shall care
Whether your feet
Go here or there.

You are like ants
That creep the earth.
I crush you with
My feet of mirth.

You pile your small
White heap of sand.
I jostle mountains
With my hand.

You nuzzle crumbs
Of dusty bread.
With wine of stars
My cup is red.

You sleep in holes
Yourselves have made.
My bed with suns
Is overlaid.

Dull-eyed and stagger-
Brained you go.
I teach earth things

GARBLING OUR HISTORY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In my recent letter to THE TIMES I pointed out that the first instalment of the 500-word history of the United States to be engraved in the granite of Mount Rushmore contains manifest errors—which, relying on the news report, I attributed to Calvin Coolidge. I am now assured, on the very highest authority, that Mr. Coolidge is not responsible for them.

The inscription is to say that it was "the people" who declared independence. The Declaration says that it was the "Representatives" of the "States" in "General Congress Assembled." The men who signed the Declaration were thus twice removed from the people—being, in the phrase of the time, doubly "refined" and "filtered." The idea of direct democracy did not emerge until well along in the nineteenth century. It was peculiarly repugnant to Washington, whose portrait is to stand above the inscription, and Jefferson himself was as yet voicing the contrary principle.

As to the Constitution, the inscription as published declares that it was "to provide security for all citizens in their enjoyment of liberty, equality and justice." This is true enough so far as it goes; but, as I pointed out, it ignores the great moral and intellectual aim of the convention, which was ordered liberty under the leadership of highly "filtered" representatives.

Mr. Coolidge's text added "under the law," with the intention of expressing the idea of ordered liberty.

In my letter to you I furthermore took exception to the idea that the States remained "sovereign" under the Constitution, and that "happiness," "security" and "enjoyment" adequately described the moral and spiritual purpose of either Declaration or Constitution. The conscious purpose was the arduous and dangerous one of demonstrating the might of republican self-government.

Your news report of April 10 says that the proposed inscription was made public by "Gutzon Borglum and the North Dakota delegation in Congress," and that it is to be unveiled next Fourth of July. The dignity of Declaration and Constitution, and of the men who gave them validity, cannot be traduced even by imperishable granite; but unless the wording is changed, and speedily, our generation will be written down for all time as grossly ignorant and without vision. JOHN CORBIN.

Convalescent Shop Seeks Aid.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is one distressing angle of the employment situation about which most people know very little, but which must not be overlooked. There are at all times many hundreds of convalescent sick, chronic sick, and aged who are dependent upon relatives and friends for food and shelter. When such friends and relatives are out of work these dependents are thrown upon their own resources, which too often means commitment to almshouses or to the chronic wards on Welfare Island.

Since 1926 the New York City Visiting Committee has operated "The Stepping Stone" at 49 East Twenty-first Street, a shop which employs only persons who are handicapped by sickness. The shop now employs a daily average of twenty persons, each doing work fitted to his special case.

The shop can never be a money-making or even self-supporting institution. It is, however, an actual manufacturing unit, selling to many of the best stores in the city. Its principal products are aprons, neckties and lampshades, but lately it has been doing an excellent business in beach and lounging pajamas. The shop has room for twenty-five workers, but it lacks other facilities. Two additional sewing machines, costing about $155, and an additional $500 for working capital will make it possible to employ the maximum number of persons.

It is hoped that wider public support will be forthcoming for the shop, not only to meet the present crisis, but as a step toward the time when the obligation to provide suitable work for handicapped persons will be as clearly recognized as the obligation to give them medical care.

Purpose of Rockefeller Grant.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The item in this morning's TIMES under the heading "Gift to Enable Study for Community Chest" is incomplete and thereby misleading in several respects.

First I would like to make clear that the grant of $50,000 made available to the Welfare Council by the Rockefeller Foundation was not made for the specific purpose of studying the possibility of establishing a community chest for New York. The Rockefeller grant to the council is made for the general research program of the council, and allocation of funds from this grant to specific studies is left to the council. The Rockefeller Foundation's grant incidentally is contingent on the raising of an equal amount from other sources for the general work of the council.

I am anxious to make it clear also that the council is undertaking a study not "of the possibility of establishing a community chest for New York" but rather of the whole subject of financing social work in this city.

There is no thought, as is implied in the news story in question in this morning's TIMES, of setting up a central office for the reception of funds for charitable purposes.

FACTORS IN POWER RATES.

Many Items, Unknown to Laymen, Must Be Considered.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of May 1 there appears a letter from John C. O'Donoghue on "Power and Light Rates" in which the references and deductions are not on a comparative basis, and the statement can therefore be of no value to any one interested in the ever-discussed subject of municipal and government ownership and operation of public service properties.

Your correspondent's figures for electric light bills in Toronto during certain periods of 1926 and in New York City for specified periods during 1927 are of no value as a basis of comparison, because the number of kilowatt-hours' consumption and the rate charged for current, as well as the size of installation—that is, the maximum number of watts required for the installation when in full operation—are not specified. This maximum power required is called the "maximum demand" for the consumer, and that is one of the most important factors governing the cost of delivering electric power to the consumers' premises.

We will assume that Mr. O'Donoghue requires an installation capacity of 1 k.-w. In Toronto the investment for the power house, transmission, transformation, and meter and service cost may total $250, which at 6 per cent represents a fixed charge upon the State, municipality or public service corporation of $1.25 a month before a single watt of current is charged for. In May and June your writer, while in Toronto, paid less than this amount for service charge and current, consequently the current was sold at a loss.

In New York City the chances are that the cost for the complete plant and equipment for Mr. O'Donoghue if he requires 1 k.-w. "maximum demand" service represents an investment of $1,000 (approximately), which at 6 per cent is $5 a month, which must be paid to the public service company before it realizes a penny on the cost of electricity, &c.

Again referring to the monthly payments for electric current in New York as paid by Mr. O'Donoghue, ranging from $3.32 to $5.49 per month, it would appear that the public service company would be losing money.

It is well known among public service directors, managers and engineers that a large portion of current must be sold at a loss, and generally is, because of the custom or law demanding a maximum rate which the electric company can charge to a consumer, with a sliding scale for large current consumption giving such consumers lower rates. Such a system is unscientific and not financially sound, because it favors the consumer with heavy demand for current at irregular periods with comparatively low current consumption per month, and this applies to large institutions having many lamps and appliances connected, such as churches, public halls and residence lighting in general. The small cobbler or basement storekeeper who requires only a few lamps and uses them all day is perhaps the best customer of all and the most profitable to the electric company.

It is unwise to enter into a discussion on the complex subject of electric light and power comparison by any one not thoroughly familiar with the fundamentals, because it tends to mislead the public, causing it to clamor for public ownership of public utilities, which very seldom if ever proves a profitable venture.

If it were possible to operate public utilities under government or municipal control without the disturbing element of politics, which generally tends to constant change in the operating personnel, it might be possible to give such splendid service as is enjoyed by the citizens of Greater New York at the present time, but even then it is doubtful if there would be any economy to the taxpayers or consumers of electric power.

The foregoing references may not apply to the ownership of State or government water power, and the necessary power plant for converting the water power into electrical energy, as that is a less complex problem terminating at the switchboard of such power house, or at some definite centres of distribution, where the current may be sold on a wholesale basis to the various public service corporations along the main distributing lines for redistribution and sale to the different communities or cities.

DR. ROBINSON'S VIEW.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On April 28 there appeared a statement in THE NEW YORK TIMES regarding the development of the Long Island College Medical School and the proposed project in Brooklyn. In this article I was quoted, and the quotation is distinctly different from anything I said.

I was called on the telephone by a reporter for THE TIMES, who said he was also a student of medicine, and I did say that I felt that the use of the hospitals in Brooklyn for educational purposes would be an advantage to the public as well as to medical education, but I did not endorse the plan, as I am quoted as having done.

I am, of course, much interested in any real progress that may be made in medical education, but I do not wish to have it understood that the program in Brooklyn has my unqualified approval, nor do I feel that it is the ideal method of proceeding toward sound medical education.

MRS. STRAUS DIES; DEVOTED ZIONIST

HER MILK CHARITY FAMOUS

Pasteurization Pioneer, With Husband—Couple Gave Away All of Income and Much of Principal.

Mrs. Lina Gutherz Straus, wife of Nathan Straus, who with her husband had devoted her activities to philanthropy for many years, died suddenly yesterday morning at the age of 76 in her home, Driftwood, at Mamaroneck. Funeral services will be held at 11 A. M. today in Beth-El Chapel of Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street.

For four decades Mr. and Mrs. Straus had worked together in a varied group of philanthropic activities. Since 1914, when Mr. Straus retired as a partner in R. H. Macy & Co., and in Abraham & Straus, they had devoted all of their income and a large part of their principal to these activities. Milk pasteurization was one of their chief interests during all this period, and Zionism was another cause to which they devoted unlimited energy.

Mrs. Straus was born in Mannheim, Germany, on April 20, 1854. She came to this country in 1875, was married that year and had lived in New York ever since. Mr. Straus, who had come to this country from Bavaria as a small child and had spent his boyhood in Georgia, was then with his father's firm, L. Straus & Sons, importers of pottery and glassware.

Charities Become Predominant.

His companion in the early years of business activity, Mrs. Straus found increasing opportunity to work with her husband as his philanthropic interests increased. By 1890 these interests were predominant. It was in 1892 that Mr. Straus's first important piece of work in milk pasteurization, the laboratory and distribution system for the poor of the city, was established. This was always one of Mrs. Straus's interests. Some years later she did the bulk of the work in preparing material on health and pasteurization for publication.

Of late years, while Mr. Straus had been particularly interested in Zionism, Mrs. Straus had been equally active in Hadassah, the Women's Zionist organization. Ten years ago she gave all her jewels to Hadassah, while Mr. Straus was making large contributions toward carrying on the work in Palestine. Another of her favorite charities was the Jewish Hospital, the Women's Auxiliary of which she headed for many years.

Celebrate Golden Wedding.

In 1925 Mr. and Mrs. Straus celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The luncheon at Driftwood was attended only by close relatives, but the couple received messages of congratulation from all over the world, including many from persons connected with the philanthropies they had helped. Shortly before the occasion Mr. and Mrs. Straus had asked their friends to make gifts to charities in their name, rather than to bring them the golden presents which are considered appropriate to such occasions.

Besides her husband Mrs. Straus is survived by a daughter and two sons, Mrs. Irving Lehman, the former Sissie Straus, whose husband is a judge of the Court of Appeals; ex-State Senator Nathan Straus Jr. and Hugh Grant Straus.

Mrs. Straus was eulogized yesterday afternoon in a resolution passed at a special meeting of the administrative committee of the Zionist Organization of America, called for that purpose.

Tribute by Zionists.

The resolution follows:

"The death of Mrs. Nathan Straus deprives America of one of the noblest women in Jewish history. Always self-effacing and profoundly modest, she typified the Biblical virtues of the Jewess. Counselor and guide to her husband, she took a keen interest in the numerous philanthropies which benefited from their joint generosity. But of all the causes which won her sympathy and devotion, none held her so powerfully as the cause of Palestine. With her husband she visited the Jewish national homeland and helped to plan the health centres which have brought healing to the people of Palestine, regardless of race or creed. The buildings for the care of Palestine's health will bear permanent testimony to the racial loyalty of Mrs. Straus, as well as to the greatness of her social vision. The Zionists of America suffer an irreparable loss in her passing, for she not only gave substantial material aid to the rebuilding of Palestine, but she gave abundant moral encouragement to the pioneers in the Jewish national homeland, as well as to Zionists in every land."

FUNERAL IN CAPITAL FOR YOUNG EXPLORER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Funeral services were held here yesterday in St. Matthews Church for Crawford Johnson, twenty years old, youngest member of the Explorers' Club of New York, who was killed on Arlington Ridge, Va., Thursday when his motorcycle was hit by an automobile. Burial took place in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Crawford Johnson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hubert Johnson of 2,517 Connecticut Avenue, this city. He was educated in St. George's School, Newport, R. I. He was the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. George Le Boutillier of 911 Park Avenue, New York City, and the grandson of Mrs. John Crawford of 156 East Thirty-seventh Street, New York City.

When R. R. Bennett, archaeologist and friend of the Johnson family, revisited the Maya ruins in Yucatan last Winter, young Johnson went with him as a member of the party, making himself invaluable because of his skill with the rifle. On his return he began to write an account of the trip and a fortnight ago was honored by election to membership in the Explorers' Club.

It was on a trip to a relative with a completed draft of his wwork on the Yucatan trip that Johnson was killed. His machine skidded on the highway and he was thrown under the front wheels of an automobile. He died soon afterward in Georgetown Hospital.

He leaves his parents and his sister, Miss Ann Johnson, who is now attending school in Italy.

SCOTS SCORE ROYALTY FOR VISITING SALOONS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 4.—Once again British royalty has upset the susceptibilities of a section of Scottish opinion. Recently the Duke and Duchess of York disturbed the "Wee Free" section of the Scottish Church by distributing medals to firemen on a Sunday. It will be remembered the "Wee Frees" admonished Ambassador Dawes and Premier MacDonald for choosing Sunday for initiating their naval disarmament talks at Lossiemouth.

Now Queen Mary and Prince George have caused the executive committee of the Grand Lodge of Scotland of the Independent Order of Good Templars to protest, by their visit to two model saloons—one of which, conducted by a clergyman, has been blessed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

A resolution, passed at Edinburgh by the executive committee, says:

"Prince George visited a so-called public house, stood behind the bar and shook hands with regular customers, thereby countenancing what a royal relative, the late Prince Leopold, declared to be the only enemy England had to fear."

The resolution adds: "We regret this all the more as her Majesty the Queen recently visited another model public house in the same district."

Actually, the Queen's visit to this particular "pub" lasted longer than the organizers of the tour had expected, for the Queen was so interested in the working of the beer pump that the barman had to explain just where the beer came from.

Edinburgh tonight is not certain whether to be amused or exasperated at the Templars' action, concerning which J. Fraser Cunninghame, prominent Mid-Lothian magistrate, said:

"No cause has suffered more from exaggerated advocacy, unbridled language, misplaced enthusiasm and lack of Christian charity than that of the misguided Scottish supporters of the so-called Temperance party."

"The model saloon which the Queen visited was the "Anchor," at Somertown. It is conducted by the Magdalen Mission, of which the Rev. Basil Jellicoe, cousin of the Earl of Jellicoe, is the head. It specializes in the provision of food and ale amid pleasant surroundings.

ALBERT ROHLOFF DIES; DEAN OF POLICEMEN

Had Been in Department for 54 Years at Retirement in February.

Albert Rohloff, who was on the police force for fifty-four years before he was automatically retired last February, died yesterday in his home at 102-04 214th Street, Queens Village, Queens. He was the oldest man in the department, in point of service. His age was 77.

Born in New York on Jan. 28, 1853, he became a patrolman in December, 1875. His first assignment was to the old Union Market precinct, where a "rookie" had to use his fists and his billy to prove to the neighborhood that he had the makings of a real policeman. He was there for twenty years, and then was transferred to Fire Headquarters.

Five years later Rohloff was detailed to Police Headquarters, then at 300 Mulberry Street. He was still on that assignment last December, rounding out his fifty-fourth year of duty. The retirement order came through on Feb. 5, when he returned from a fortnight's vacation in Canada.

Rohloff was one of the organizers of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, which dates from 1892. He was its second president. He was a member of the delegation that went before Mayor Van Wyck to plead for an eight-hour day for patrolmen. Other offices in the association had been held by him.

Four sons and two daughters survive. One of the sons, Albert Rohloff Jr., has been a policeman for twenty-four years, being attached to the Jamaica Precinct. The other sons are Frederick, Frank and Charles. Mrs. Rohloff died twenty years ago.

A daughter, Miss Elizabeth-Ann Tucker, survives. There will be a private funeral service at the house and burial will be in the National Cemetery at Arlington.

After many years of service in the old Twenty-second Engineers of the New York National Guard, Colonel Tucker, then an engineering sergeant, went to Plattsburg and won his commission as a Second Lieutenant. He took part in many engagements overseas, was captured by the Germans and escaped. Since the war he had been a stock broker. He was an honorary member of the French "Blue Devils," a member of the Defendam Association and the American Legion.

RENO DIVORCE QUESTIONED.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 4.—Apropos of Lady Mary Heath's divorce in Reno, it is not generally known that English courts do not ordinarily recognize a divorce granted abroad to persons domiciled in England, particularly when it is granted on grounds which would be considered insufficient here.

As the wife takes her husband's domicile and Sir James Heath is domiciled in England, lawyers say Lady Heath's divorce in Nevada is ineffective here and neither she nor Sir James will be entitled to marry again in England.

DR. FREEMAN ALLEN OF BOSTON DEAD

WITH GEN. WOOD IN CUBA

Risked His Life in Yellow Fever Experiments—Was a Grandson of Harriet Beecher Stowe.

BOSTON, May 4.—Dr. Freeman Allen, one of the foremost authorities on anesthesia and a grandson of Harriet Beecher Stowe, died suddenly last night of heart disease at his home, 200 Beacon Street. His age was 59. He had returned to his duties less than two weeks ago, after being ill for several months. Funeral services will be held in Trinity Church on Tuesday at 3 P. M.

Born in Stockbridge on Sept. 28, 1870, the son of Henry Freeman and Georgianna May (Stowe) Allen, Dr. Allen was graduated from Harvard in 1893, and received his medical degree in 1899, since which year he had practiced here.

He lectured for many years on anesthetics at the Harvard Medical School, and was chief of the department of anesthesia at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He was the first physician in Boston to concentrate on anesthetics.

Dr. Allen worked for nearly two years with the late General Leonard Wood in Cuba. He was a member of a group of young physicians who subjected themselves in Cuba to yellow fever for experimental purposes. He made frequent trips abroad to study.

In July, 1910, he married Miss Mary Ethel Gibson of Boston, who survives him. There is also a son, Henry Freeman Allen, a student at St. Mark's School.

Dr. Allen's favorite sports were riding and mountain climbing. He was a member of the Alpine Club of London, the Swiss Alpine Club and the Harvard Mountaineering Club.

He was the owner of Talk of the Town, a hunter and thoroughbred, now 22 years old, that has won many blue ribbons in riding club shows in Boston. He was a member of the Norfolk Hunt Club at Medfield and the New Riding Club.

DANIEL J. SMITH DEAD.

He Was a Sports Writer on Old New York Herald for 25 Years.

Daniel J. Smith, for more than twenty-five years a sports writer on the staff of the old New York Herald and in recent years an associate of Walter J. Salmon, real estate owner, died on Saturday night at his home, 546 West 150th Street, from cerebral hemorrhage, following an illness of more than a year. He was in his fifty-sixth year. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Church of St. Catherine Genoa, at 153d Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

Mr. Smith was born and educated in this city and joined the staff of The Herald as a young man. He specialized in sports writing, devoting himself especially to boxing. He covered the Corbett-Fitzsimmons battle at Carson City, Nev., when the crown was won by Fitzsimmons, and later reported the defeat of Fitzsimmons by Jeffries. In later years, before associating himself with Mr. Salmon, he specialized in track athletics.

Whereas, during her many years' association with Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, of which she was honorary vice president, her energy, loving personality, sympathy, kindliness and devotion were a precious inspiration and abiding influence, and

Whereas, she was in complete accord with her husband's far-famed humanitarianism and wholehearted devotion to Eretz Israel and shared in his bountiful gifts to Palestine and to Hadassah, and

Whereas, she was to Hadassah a guiding spirit and inspiration and its stanchest and most generous supporter since the very inception of Hadassah's efforts to bring to Palestine healing and health for all its people, without distinction of race, creed or nationality,

Be it resolved, that on behalf of 50,000 American women Zionists the national boards of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America and of Junior Hadassah, in special sessions convened, record their deep sorrow and bereavement and express their heartfelt sympathy and condolence to her loving dear ones. TOMPKINS BOOMED AGAIN FOR GOVERNOR

Friends of Justice Urge Him on Ground Candidate Should Be an Up-State Man.

CITE DRY LAW SITUATION

Assert He Has Taken No Public Position—Jurist Reluctant to Enter Politics.

Friends of Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of Nyack, Rockland County, have started a movement to urge him for the Republican nomination for Governor. This movement has been confined so far to up-State. It is based on the belief of those sponsoring it that Justice Tompkins would have the best chance of election of any candidate who might be named.

At present the movement to name Justice Tompkins is entirely in the hands of his friends. Justice Tompkins at a recent dinner of the Union League Club of Brooklyn checked the start of a boom for him by saying that he had passed beyond the age of political ambitions and intended to withdraw from all political activity when his term as justice expired four years hence.

Discussion of the possibility of nominating Justice Tompkins has been stimulated by the recent growth of a feeling among up-State Republicans that the nominee for Governor should come from up-State and not from New York City. Justice Tompkins has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination for the last fifteen years. In 1924, his nomination was blocked by William L. Ward, veteran Westchester County leader, and Theodore Roosevelt Jr., the nominee, was beaten by Alfred E. Smith. Many Republicans leaders believe that Justice Tompkins, had he been nominated, could have defeated Mr. Smith in that year, and now believe that he would have the best chance of defeating Governor Roosevelt.

According to friends of Justice Tompkins, he and Mr. Ward have become reconciled during the last year, and it is not believed by them that Mr. Ward would seek to block his nomination. It was explained that Mr. Ward had nothing personal against Justice Tompkins in 1924 but refused to consent to his nomination because Justice Tompkins was a close friend of Benjamin B. Odell, former Governor and State chairman, who, Mr. Ward feared, would become the undisputed State leader of the party if Justice Tompkins were nominated and elected. Mr. Odell's death several years ago has removed any such reason for opposition to Justice Tompkins.

Justice Tompkins's supporters have told the party leaders that in their opinion his nomination would remove any issue of religious intolerance completely from the campaign. The Republican party in this State still bears scars from the 1928 campaign, when intolerance had a part in bringing about the defeat of Albert Ottinger for Governor and Harry B. Crowley of Rochester for Controller.

Justice Tompkins, a former Grand Master, is one of the most prominent Masons in the State. He won the friendship of the Catholics of the State by his denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan while holding the office of Grand Master and aided in establishing friendly relations between the Masons and the Knights of Columbus. He has a degree from Fordham University, a Catholic institution.

No Public Statement on Dry Law.

Another point urged in favor of Justice Tompkins's nomination is that as a judge he has not been called upon to take any public position on prohibition and would therefore be in a position to stand on the platform adopted by the State convention without a conflict with previously expressed views.

Many of the up-State party leaders, particularly those from the less populous counties, disagree with the suggestion for a plank favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, which seems to have met with favor recently among Republicans of New York City and the other large cities of the State. The Republicans of the rural and semi-rural counties, it was said, prefer a middle position on prohibition, both in adopting a platform and in selecting a candidate, so as to prevent, if possible, the nomination of a State ticket by Republican drys. Justice Tompkins, his friends are saying, might well be such a compromise candidate, whose nomination would not cause a bolt from the party by either the wets or drys.

Other Aspirants in Field.

State Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse, who declared for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in a recent speech here, is regarded as too wet by many of the up-State county leaders. Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of Chautauqua County, another possible up-State candidate, is regarded by many as too dry.

The remaining aspirants for the nomination, whose friends continue active, are United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle of this city and Attorney General Hamilton Ward of Buffalo. Mr. Tuttle, it is understood, is a receptive candidate and probably would accept the nomination if offered to him, but seemingly has abandoned what appeared an earlier intention to make a fight for it.

Mr. Ward is reported to have the support of Erie County and considerable additional strength in Western New York. The question of Justice Tompkins's candidacy has been discussed with some of the party leaders in the western part of the State, and the latter are reported to have told friends of Justice Tompkins that the Nyack jurist would be their second choice if Mr. Ward should not be a candidate or his nomination should become impossible.

Justice Tompkins is serving his second fourteen-year term on the Supreme Court bench. During his long service he has won a reputation for fairness and ability and has been designated frequently by Governor Smith, Governor Roosevelt and other Governors to preside at important trials and investigations.

ORATION ON BIALIK WINS CITY JEWISH CONTEST

Leo Reinstein of St. John's College Victor Over Six in Speaking Competition.

Leo Reinstein of the Bronx Y. M. H. A., a freshman at St. John's College in Brooklyn, took first prize at the finals of the Metropolitan League of Jewish Community Association's oratorical contest on "A Great Living Jewish Personality," held yesterday afternoon at the Brooklyn Y. M. H. A., 339 Eighth Street, Brooklyn. Reinstein, who spoke on the Hebrew poet Chaim N. Bialik, will represent the Metropolitan League in the national Jewish oratorical contest to be held in New York City this Fall in connection with the dedication of the new Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A. Henry Gezunterman, also of the Bronx Y. M. H. A., who spoke on Chaim Weizmann, and Saul R. Fine of the Williamsburg Y. M. H. A., whose subject was Louis Brandeis, won second and third places, respectively.

Others of the six speakers, winners in the three preliminary contests held in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn, were George Bronz of the Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A., speaking on Benjamin N. Cardozo; Benjamin Brender of the Brooklyn Y. M. H. A., on Stephen S. Wise, and Irvine B. Gilman of the Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A., on Arthur Schnitzler.

Reinstein, explaining the influence and place of Bialik in present-day Jewish life, said he was "one destined to bring the language of Abraham back to the people of Israel; one who could show that the language of Israel was still alive." Gezunterman expressed the belief that Weizmann was the contemporary Jew who most nearly approached the Jewish ideal of learning and service.

The judges of the contest were Dr. Charles S. Bernheimer, editor of The Jewish Centre Magazine; Benjamin Rabinowitz, field secretary of the Jewish Welfare Board, and Dr. Mordecai Soltes, director of Jewish education of the Jewish Welfare Board. Harry G. Anderson, president of the Brooklyn Y. M. H. A., presided.

LEGION LEADER URGES UNIVERSAL SERVICE LAW

30,000 Attend Citizens' May Day Celebration in Brooklyn —Hesterberg Speaks.

O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, urged that "universal service in time of war be made a part of the fundamental law of this country," in an address yesterday at the tenth annual meeting of the Brooklyn Citizens' Patriotic May Day Celebration Committee at the bandstand in Prospect Park, Brooklyn. About 30,000 were present.

Mr. Bohenhamer called for support of a movement being pressed in Congress to devise a plan whereby the property, man power and resources of the country can be made to share proportionately the burden of war, reduce the cost of war, strengthen national defense and intensify the spirit of peace. He declared this would be accomplished by adoption of the Reed-Wainwright resolution, now known as the Reed-Snell resolution, which has passed the House and is pending in the Senate.

Other speakers were Borough President Henry Hesterberg of Brooklyn and Sheriff Aaron L. Jacoby of Kings County. Surrogate George Albert Wingate presided. Rabbi Louis D. Gross offered the invocation and the Rev. John H. S. Putnam gave the benediction.

URGE FOREIGN BORN TO HELP IN CENSUS

TO SPEED WORK THIS WEEK

Many Enumerators Repeat Visits, but Find Rounding Up of Stragglers Is Slow.

A series of advertisements and articles appearing today in foreign language newspapers published in New York will call on foreigners who have not been enumerated to appear at the office of the district supervisors where the necessary census blanks will be filled out.

This action is being taken by the supervisors in an effort to speed up the census work. The week will be devoted largely to urging the foreign-born to communicate with the supervisors in the event the enumerators did not obtain the necessary census information.

Many enumerators were working yesterday in different sections of Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn, in an effort to list those who were absent on previous calls. It was said last night that rounding up the stragglers is slow work, but hope was expressed that enumeration of the city will be completed by the end of the week.

Figures in the offices of supervisors indicate that more than 90 per cent of the city's population has been enumerated. Some census figures for New Jersey made public yesterday by The Associated Press are:

West Long Branch	1,679	966
Avon-by-the-Sea	1,326	647
Sea Bright	900	856

Hainesport	984	...

Columbus, S. C.—49,517; increase 11.93 or 31.9 per cent.

Waco, Texas—52,825; increase 14,325, or 37.2 per cent.

Enid, Okla.—26,331; increase 9,755, or 58.8 per cent.

MACHINE GUN TROPHY WON FOR SECOND TIME

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Company H, Eighteenth Infantry, now at Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn, N. Y., which was the winner in the preceding year, has won the Edwin Howard Clark machine gunners trophy for 1929. The average score per man was 398.6 of the possible 500 points. In addition to the trophy, a bronze plaque to be permanently retained, and a cash award of about $500 will be given to Company H.

The trophy, which is awarded annually to the infantry machine gun company making the highest score in the season's target practice, was first placed in competition in 1927.

While the score made by Company H topped all other machine gun companies of the regular army, the runner up in the 1929 competition was Company D of the same regiment, whose score was 386. Third place was taken by Company D, Twenty-eighth Infantry, also of the First Division, stationed at Madison Barracks, N. Y., with a score of 385. The latter company won the competition of 1927.

Other high scores were:

Company H, Sixteenth Infantry, another First Division regiment, Fort Jay, N. Y., 383; Company H, Fourth Infantry, Fort George Wright, Spokane, Wash., 377; Company D, Eighth Infantry, Fort Screven, Savannah, Ga., 373.

The trophy was provided by a bequest of Captain Edwin Howard Clark, U. S. A., who was shell-shocked in the Bois de Belleau in August, 1918, retired in 1920 for disability in line of duty, and died July 29, 1923.

TO RESUME DIGGING IN CZECH MOUNDS

Pennsylvania-Harvard Group Will Continue Exploration of Relics of 3,000 Years Ago.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—The second American archaeological expedition to Central Europe, maintained jointly by the University of Pennsylvania Museum and the Peabody Museum of Harvard University, will begin excavations in Southern Bohemia in the middle of June, according to Dr. Vladimir J. Fewkes, field director.

The staff will consist of Dr. Fewkes and Arthur J. Tobler of the University of Pennsylvania Museum and Robert W. Ehrich, C. L. Movius and C. McGregor of Harvard University.

"Four months will be devoted to excavations in the various provinces of Czechoslovakia," Dr. Fewkes said today. "Work will start on a group of mounds dating from the late period of the European Bronze Age, about 1500 B. C. These mounds usually contain burials with offerings of metal and pottery.

"A series of small caves which have yielded material known to be 3,000 years old will be explored next. The rest of the season will be devoted to the excavation of three sites which were only partially investigated by the first expedition last Summer."

The expedition will endeavor to secure material representative of periods of culture not found last year and thereby to complete the series of fourteen prehistoric periods in the heart of Europe.

An Interview with Wanamaker's

Explaining Further How an Annual Saving of Two Million Four Hundred Thousand Dollars in Rental Benefits the Buying Public

My husband showed me your announcement that because Wanamaker's is located at Broadway, Eighth to Tenth Streets, it saves annually at least the sum of $2,400,000 in rental in the interest of its patrons. How does this saving benefit me, mother of a family?

It benefits you, when you buy here, in the better values, lower prices, more distinctive merchandise, and better service, you receive because of this saving. The money saved on rental actually goes to the patrons except some 4 cents or less on each dollar, which is the store's net profit at the end of the year. We also have larger area for shopping, because of this saving, and we can be more liberal in our dealings with customers and offer more privileges and hospitalities—no one ever remains unsatisfied at Wanamaker's; that's a tradition.

Yes, I know we always have satisfaction in our dealings with Wanamaker's, but what do you mean by more distinctive merchandise?

Goods not to be found in the common run of stores. Things of character, yet uninflated in price. The originations and studio-created merchandise in our many specialty shops.

What do you mean by specialty shops?

We mean that Wanamaker's is a store of specialty shops, with distinctive merchandise and service. And because these shops are under one roof it is far easier to shop here than in specialty stores often far apart.

Why do you say you are located in CENTRAL New York?

Geographically and by accessibility we are in the heart of metropolitan New York —the 50-mile shopping circle around the city. Ten major transportation lines touch the store directly, bringing people quickly and comfortably from all sections—Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Long Island, Staten Island, New Jersey, Westchester and nearby districts to the north.

Both subways have stations within the store—the Interborough and Brooklyn-Manhattan. The Elevated is at 9th Street and 3rd avenue. The Hudson tube at 9th and 6th avenue. Surface cars land you at our door.

But the time required in getting to you?

I mean by motor—

Even by motor only 15 minutes from 42nd Street. And these few extra minutes are more than saved by the ease of parking here and the procuring of your car promptly—to say nothing of the time saved in buying everything at one place. Fifth Avenue coaches also have a Wanamaker terminal, and the Holland vehicular tunnel from New Jersey brings its traffic right to Wanamaker's.

I see that you are centrally and conveniently located.

Yes, and others are realizing it also—a new residence neighborhood is growing up around Wanamaker's. Within a few years 96 new apartment houses erected, 6,000 separate apartments or 18,000 rooms, costing over 38 million dollars. There's a renaissance in this fine old neighborhood.

You're really not downtown, after all, are you?

No. You recall that when Stewart moved here from City Hall the people said—too far uptown. Then John Wanamaker took the business and other merchants said—too far downtown. But he served so well that he had to erect a new building twice as large as the beautiful old Stewart store, which we are now beautifying and improving in its interior.

What improvements are you making?

Well, here's the Rotunda. Now in colors. Those Italian bas-reliefs on the columns were always there since John Kellum planned this building and John B. Cornell built it for A. T. Stewart, but in monotone gray. Now—

Those grills sheathing the corners we added to make a balanced ensemble—see how luminous they are with the rotating pastel lights—sweeping right up to the roof—a new ceiling, too. A massive modern chandelier of bronze and glass will hang in the center—after the character of those new lighting fixtures all over the street floor.

I have been noticing them. Thoroughly modern, yet not too modern to harmonize with this old building—and what good light on the merchandise!

Yes, very helpful to the shopper. One hundred and ten of these lights on this one floor.

And what have you done with your show windows?

We removed the bulks. The whole main floor is now a show window. Nothing to hide here, we like the passing public to see the activity inside.

Where's the silver moved to?

We've placed that in the center of the south building—a magnificent Silver Court there; you must see it—nothing like it in America.

You mean in the new building?

No, we've stopped using old and new. We now term them north and south buildings. You know this north building is the woman's building, the fashion center, and a woman doesn't like to be called old; it's charm and not age that counts, anyway, and this building is as full of charm as any in New York, young or old.

Well, we have a sentiment about this business and this old neighborhood.

A. T. Stewart put his life into it. John Wanamaker added his pioneering for better storekeeping—and, by the way, a London newspaper recently called him "The man who made the world a better place to shop in." Thomas B. Wanamaker and Robert C. Ogden gave their genius to upbuild it. And then Rodman Wanamaker added the artistic touch that set a new standard in American life. We have a great heritage, and are loyal to it—every one of the many thousands of workers forming the Wanamaker organization.

There is a spirit back of Wanamaker's, isn't there? A personality?

Yes, there is a powerful personality reaching out through all these years to tie the public closely to us in goodwill—a personality and a service. People feel at home here. They like the store. They like our merchandise. And have bought over two billion dollars of goods from Wanamaker's. Two billion dollars of merchandise must be right.

What other improvements have you made?

New Millinery salon, new Ensemble shop, new Sportswear shop. New restaurant service with kitchen. Employees' cafeteria, with recreation rooms and library, that social workers say is the last word. New power plant that reduces the cost of power and light. Forty more motor delivery wagons, supplementing thirty-four added last winter.

Yes, giving new employment to skilled workers, as President Hoover asked business to do. More than 300 have had extra work here on the premises, not counting the resulting employment in workshops outside of the store which runs into thousands.

Does business justify this expenditure?

Yes, America is sound. As President Hoover says: "There is one certainty in the future of a people of the resources, intelligence and character of the people of the United States—that is prosperity." We are serving more people than ever before. More cash customers, more charge customers and a growing list of Budget Account customers finding how safely to furnish their homes out of income.

Well, I guess I'll tell my husband to stop complaining about business. It is better than I thought.

CHURCHMEN SCORE DRY ACT

Postoffice Holy Name Branch Hears Pleas for Repeal—Prohibition Blamed for Crime Spread.

After bowing to an ovation which he said made him feel nervous for the first time in his public career, Police Commissioner Whalen told 3,300 members of the Brooklyn and Queens Police Department Holy Name Society assembled yesterday for their annual communion breakfast at the Elks Club, Livingston Street and Boerum Place, Brooklyn, that the present high state of efficiency of the New York Police Department could be maintained only by the individual loyalty of every man.

"From the day of my appointment I have been trying to make you all understand that your good example means more to the Police Department than any lip service or order that your commander can give," said Mr. Whalen. "I salute you as the finest army in the world for the preservation of law and order."

The breakfast followed reception of the sacrament at St. Augustine's Church, Sixth Avenue and Sterling Place, and a parade from the church to the Elks Club led by Commissioner Whalen, Chief Inspector John O'Brien and the Rev. Lawrence H. Bracken, spiritual director of the society. Prior to the mass the men marched from Brooklyn headquarters, Sixth Avenue and Bergen Street, to the church.

The speakers, in addition to the Police Commissioner, were Father Bracken, Borough President Henry Hesterberg, the Rev. Michael Ripple O. P., national director of the Holy Name Society; the Rev. John A. Gervin, Professor of Scripture at St. John's Seminary; Dr. Philip A. Brennan, executive director of St. John's College School of Law and Patrolman James J. Ryan, president of the society, who presided.

Every reference to Commissioner Whalen brought applause and when Borough President Hesterberg said that the department "was never in better shape," the ovation lasted for five minutes.

Commissioner Whalen referred to the department as a loving and united family.

"Such demonstrations as you have made today cannot help but influence the department for good," he said. "With the trial calendar shot to pieces for the first time since I took command, is it any wonder that I am overjoyed beyond words and none is more pleased with this condition than the two trial deputies. That record proves that every man in the department is out trying to make good and keep out of trouble which is not always easy for the man in uniform, who as a rule is marked for criticism.

"The department is clicking 100 per cent and my heart wells up to you. Through the fine cooperation of the Mayor, no outside influence is molesting the department. The thing that counts today is efficiency."

He paid personal tribute to Chief Inspector John O'Brien, Deputy Chiefs Mulrooney and Sullivan and Deputy Inspectors Cummings and Kelly for their assistance. These men and every other member of the department deserved the praise which has been coming to the department, the criticism, if any, belongs to the commissioner, he said.

CHURCHMEN ASK DRY REPEAL.

More than 4,000 members of the Postoffice Holy Name Society, after receiving communion at St. Patrick's Cathedral, heard clergy and lay speakers assail prohibition and urge its repeal on religious grounds, at the society's annual communion breakfast at the Astor yesterday.

The postal employes received communion in a body, then marched from the cathedral to the hotel. Cardinal Hayes, who celebrated mass, praised the men for loyalty to Church and State and urged them to spread the gospel of Christ and to exemplify in their daily life the principles of the Holy Name Society. Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle spoke on Catholic Charities drive.

In attacking prohibition, speakers blamed the Eighteenth Amendment for the growth of organized crime and for economic unrest. They characterized it a moral problem and they agreed that it should be resolved in accordance with religious principles and settled by the intelligent use of the ballot.

The Rev. John A. McClorey, president of the University of Detroit, attacked science and irreligion as having failed to take the place of religion. Whatever plausibility their arguments originally may have possessed, he said, was effaced by the catastrophe of the war.

The question as to whether religion is a failure can be partly answered by whether irreligion is a failure, Father McClorey said. Asserting that irreligion "has made a pretty mess of things," and that the World War and its consequences "look to all the world like cause and effect," he declared that the faith of even the most enthusiastic defenders of faith in unfaith has been severely shaken.

"Despite our boast of prosperity," he said, "we could not be worse off that we are now, and conditions would be even worse if it were not that the habits of Christianity are still strong."

Catholic action will supply the remedy for the maladies that affect mankind today, said the Rev. Joseph P. Turner of West End, N. J., who referred to the prohibition question as one of the maladies.

"A small group of fanatics put prohibition across," he said in part.

District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin of the Bronx attributed the increase in crime to the decreasing belief in religion, and the growth of organized "racketeering" to prohibition.

"The crime condition was brought upon us by the problem of prohibition," he said. "Prohibition is the daughter of intolerance and bigotry, and has directly produced organized crime. Before 1920 we had crime, but not organized crime — not rackets."

Representative David J. O'Connell of Brooklyn also assailed prohibition. He said many members of Congress are watching the Literary Digest prohibition poll "with increasing anxiety over the results in their districts." The American public, he said, is looking intently at the Canadian solution of the problem by "intelligence, foresight and business acumen. They are the land of the free; we are the home of the brave," he said.

Other speakers were Assistant United States Attorney John M. Blake, who referred to the forty-four-hour week bill for postal employes, which is pending in Congress; Clarence De Witt, president of the society, and the Rev. John J. Kiernan, spiritual director, who presided.

Seeking Smelts, Hooks Salmon; Gets a License, Hauls In Fish

AUGUSTA, Me., May 4.—Harold D. Jennings, treasurer of the Central Maine Power Company and president of the City Aldermen, declares that he was fishing for smelt in the Kennebec River near City Hall.

Smelt may be caught without a fishing license, and Mr. Jennings had no license.

Suddenly there was a mighty tug on the line. Mr. Jennings reeled in his line. He caught a glimpse of a big salmon.

To catch the salmon Mr. Jennings had to have a license. Just then, he says, he spied S. Sewell Webster, City Clerk, at a rear window of the City Hall, and shouted for a fishing license.

When the license had been issued Mr. Jennings hauled in the salmon.

Pilot and Student Burned to Death in Florida—Two Hurt in Petersburg (Va.) Crash.

FORT STOCKTON, Texas, May 4 (AP).—Three men were killed in an airplane crash here today.

The plane had been taking passengers for short rides and was flying at an altitude of about 200 feet when it went into a dive.

The dead were "Smoky" Adams of Ozono, Texas, pilot, and Mangum Johns, Imperial, Texas, and Jack Thorp, Fort Stockton, passengers.

MIAMI, Fla., May 4 (AP).—Johnny Leavitt and Delbert Ashland were burned to death today when the airplane in which they were flying fell into a field at Hialeah. Leavitt, the pilot, was teaching Ashland to fly the plane, owned by Sam Belcher of Miami.

Witnesses said the plane went into a vertical bank and apparently out of control at an altitude of about 350 feet. It burst into flames as it struck the ground.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 4 (AP).—Herbert W. White of Wilmington, Del., the pilot, and S. T. Pyle of Brandywine Summit, Pa., were pulled from the wreckage of their small plane here today and taken to the Petersburg Hospital for treatment of their injuries.

On the way to Florida from Wilmington the fliers made a forced landing here for fuel and their plane nose dived into a tree on an attempted take-off. The fuselage collapsed and the motor partly buried itself in the earth. Neither of the men was thought to be seriously injured.

YACHTSMAN RESCUES THREE UPSET IN CANOE

Special to The New York Times

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—A New York yachtsman tossed ropes to three young men floundering in the Delaware River here today and dragged them to safety after his craft, en route home from Florida by way of the Raritan Canal, had caused a sail canoe to overturn.

Frank Holly of East Rockaway, L. I., vice president of the Long Island Chamber of Commerce, made the rescue. One of the hands on his yacht, the Natalie, apparently steered too close to the canoe and the yacht's strong wash, combined with a sudden gust of wind, flung Jack L. Sterling, 25 years old, and Wilbur McNeil, 22, both of Collingswood, N. J., and Robert C. Duff, 25, of Haddonfield, N. J., into the water.

Mr. Holly, who was on deck, ordered the Natalie reversed and seized ropes and flung them to the canoeists, who were dragged on deck one by one.

Sterling said he and his friends were returning to the Riverton Yacht Club from the Philadelphia side of the river when the Natalie came along.

Canoe Capsizes, 4 Swim to Shore.

Four men in a fourteen-foot canoe overturned yesterday afternoon in the Hudson River near the foot of 158th Street when the swells of a steamer caught the craft. The men swam about 100 feet to the shore and towed the canoe after them. The canoe was owned by Erwin J. Raisz, 417 West 121st Street. Marine policemen sent a launch to aid the men but assistance was not needed.

INQUIRY AT CLINTON PRISON.

Dr. Kieb Sends Major Roosa There on Reports of Mistreatment.

BEACON, N. Y., May 4.—Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, Commissioner of Correction, announced at his home here today that he had sent Major Philip G. Roosa, chief clerk of the department to Clinton Prison at Dannemora to investigate reports that 100 inmates there were being mistreated.

Major Roosa will remain at the institution until May 14, when Dr. Kieb and an official investigating committee are scheduled to arrive there to make their own investigation.

GRAND JURY TO GET CRAIN DATA ON GRAFT

SEES LOSS OF MILLIONS

Declares Inquiry Convinced Him of Conspiracy, but Says Move to Investigate Broke It Up.

District Attorney Crain will appear before the regular May grand jury this morning and present evidence of collusion between a group of contracting electricians and certain leaders of the electrical workers' union, with a view to returning indictments charging grafting of the city's funds.

The District Attorney said yesterday that he would first go before General Sessions Judge George L. Donnellan this morning and outline the reasons for his request to the grand jurors.

"In my recent investigation of the complaint of Mayor Walker and the other members of the Board of Estimate, based on the suspicion that some leaders of the electrical workers' union had combined with certain contracting electricians to boost the cost of work on new buildings in this city, especially in the construction of public schools and other city buildings," said Mr. Crain, "I came across evidence which convinced me that a combination of this sort had been in effect for some time, but but had been broken up when the Board of Estimate started to move against it.

Sees Millions Lost to City.

"There were also indications that millions of dollars had been lost to the city and to private building interests in new construction through arrangements by which the cost of interior electrical work had been fixed far beyond what it reasonably ought to be."

The District Attorney said he had developed what appeared to be satisfactory evidence that certain leaders of the electrical workers' union had conspired with the group of electrical contractors to shut out other contractors from successfully bidding on city work by refusing to supply sufficient union labor with which to fulfill contracts.

Through this alleged conspiracy, he added, only favored contractors were in position to put in bids for the work, and their bids were far in excess of what they should be. He said the conspiracy appeared to have been so thoroughly worked out that the city authorities and private building interests were forced to award contracts on minimum bids, submitted by contractors suspected of being involved in the plot, which were as much as 25 per cent above what the work legitimately called for.

This meant not only an excessive cost of millions to the city and private builders, Mr. Crain continued, but also caused a decrease in building and a consequent lessening of employment, with many members of the electrical workers' union kept out of work when they should have been steadily employed.

Expects Two Bills at Least.

"I am intent on conducting a thorough investigation before the grand jury, through which I expect to obtain immediately no less than two indictments," Mr. Crain announced. "I expect to put an end to conspiracies of this kind for all time. I shall call before the grand jurors, beginning tomorrow, some of the more important of the twenty-nine witnesses I recently questioned in my preliminary investigation at the request of Mayor Walker and the other members of the Board of Estimate."

He intimated that he was hopeful that, before the grand jury finished its investigation, he would have evidence he had been unable to obtain from the witnesses previously interrogated by him, including some of those suspected of having first-hand knowledge of the matter.

"I have no hesitancy in saying I expect this grand jury investigation will be far-reaching in effect," added the prosecutor. "Nothing will be left undone by me to make it so. Conspiracies of this kind must be checked before they become too general. They are clearly criminal in their purpose. We shall not tolerate them in this city."

Mr. Crain, in a letter last April 14 to Peter J. McGowan, secretary of the Board of Estimate, said he had reason to believe, as a result of his preliminary investigation, that up to a short time before "an arrangement existed among a group of electrical contractors who are members of the Electrical Contractors' Association of New York not to compete as between each other and to eliminate from the competition contractors not parties to the arrangement, and that this arrangement accomplished its purpose because of the more friendly attitude of those in control of the union toward the contractors who were parties to the arrangement than toward other contractors." He added that "fear on the part of those most immediately injured by this arrangement, inducing silence and concealment, has so far prevented me from securing legal evidence of this arrangement and definite proof of the parties to it."

The twenty-nine witnesses he had questioned in his investigation, he revealed to Mr. McGowan, were city officials, electrical contractors and electrical union leaders, most of the latter connected with Local Union 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which has an office in Washington.

He added that he had learned that there were about 35,000 electricians in this city, 15,000 of them being members of the five local unions. Of this number, he said, about 7,000 are members of Local Union 3, which does the interior electrical work in all new building projects in the city.

There are about 4,000 electrical contracting firms, he said, forty-two of them being members of the unincorporated body known as the Electrical Contractors' Association of New York, which formerly was affiliated with the Building Trades Employers' Association. These forty-two firms, he continued, employ about 2,000 members of Local Union 3, which he described as "a rich organization," with a capital of about $450,000 at the close of 1929.

At the time the District Attorney sent the communication to the Board of Estimate he made public a statement in which he charged that labor is in "absolute control" of the electrical contracting industry in this city; that the policies of the union are shaped by a few and "there is reason to believe that the union, as now controlled, rewards a small group of electrical contractors, members of the Electrical Contractors' Association, because of their prompt and unquestioning obedience to the commands of the union."

The charges against the labor union leadership were denied at the time by Howell H. Broach, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and James E. Smith, former Assistant District Attorney, the general counsel of the international body.

Crime and Divorce Rise Laid to Coffee, Tobacco and Autos by Georgia Professor

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—There is a distinct correlation between ownership of automobiles and the prevalence of divorce, and coffee and tobacco are contributing factors in the rise in crime, it is asserted by Professor Roland M. Harper of the University of Georgia in The Eugenics Magazine.

These views were expressed in citing results of a study of the social trends and vital statistics of Prince Edward Island, Canada, which Professor Harper contrasts with the United States. He found but little crime and almost no divorce among the Prince Edward Islanders, but also great simplicity of life and very little wealth. He said:

"Our present crime wave and high and rapidly increasing divorce rate are probably due in large measure to too much pleasure-seeking and indulgence in luxuries, although of course the problem is a complex one.

"In the matter of automobiles, there seems to be a fairly close correlation between them and divorce. In the course of a year it costs about as much to own and operate an automobile as to feed, clothe and educate a child; so an automobile used mainly for pleasure generally means one child less in the family, and smaller families mean more divorces.

"In this country wealth, automobiles and divorces have all increased faster than the population in recent years, and they are all the more prevalent in the urban than in the rural population.

"Near one extreme at the present time is California, with about one automobile to every three persons in 1929, more than one car per family; one divorce to every 3.3 marriages in 1928, a per capital wealth of $4,007 in 1922, 68 per cent of the population urban, 67.6 per cent adults, 1.16 families per dwelling and 3.81 persons per family in 1920.

"Near the other extreme is Georgia with about one car or truck in 7.7 persons in 1929, one divorce for every 14 marriages in 1928, a per capita wealth of $1,306 in 1922, 25.1 per cent urban, 49.1 per cent adults, 1.07 families per dwelling and 4.61 persons per family in 1920.

"In this country the annual per capita consumption of tobacco has increased from about six pounds in 1900 to nine in 1920. Nearly every smoker drinks coffee and the per capita consumption of coffee and sugar have both increased about 50 per cent in the last twenty years.

"All this is probably partly responsible for the increase of crime and divorce, although perhaps few smokers would concede that. Some very estimable gentlemen, indeed, use tobacco, but at the same time it can hardly be disputed that the great majority of criminals also do."

FEARS BUS SERVICE WOULD BLOCK 6TH AV.

ALSO SEES INADEQUACY

If Elevated Is Razed Vehicles Would Not Care for Present Riders From Remote Sections, It Is Held.

Substitution of bus service for the Sixth Avenue elevated line and the surface cars during construction of the city's new Sixth Avenue subway will not only prove inadequate but will also block the highway to all other traffic, the Citizens Union declared yesterday in another letter to the Board of Estimate protesting against immediate condemnation and removal of the elevated structure. The union reiterated its belief that the removal should be delayed until the subway is completed and the courts have made a final adjudication in the Forty-second Street elevated spur case, establishing a standard of valuations in such condemnation proceedings.

A bus line on Sixth Avenue, according to William J. Schieffelin, president of the Citizens Union, would fail utterly to give service to present riders on the elevated line who come from remote sections.

"We understand it is the intention of the Board of Transportation, in building the subway, to divide the avenue longitudinally," the letter said, "carrying on construction operations on one side while leaving the other side open to traffic. The buses, therefore, would be operated both north and south on one side of the avenue. Aside from the matter of duplicate carfares involved, it is apparent that under these conditions any use of the avenue by other vehicles would be out of the question."

The Citizens Union aligned itself with Frank Hedley, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, declaring that removal of the elevated line at this time would force many additional riders into the east and west side subways and "add to the congestion at the midtown stations of those lines, particularly at Times Square and Grand Central, where conditions are already intolerable."

"In short," the letter declared, "if the elevated is removed before new facilities are provided, the city will, in fact, be precipitating a genuine hazard—a hazard to the health and safety of those who use the longitudinal transit lines in Manhattan, which are already overtaxed to the danger point."

A campaign for the early removal of the Second Avenue elevated line was opened yesterday at a meeting of the Allen Street Merchants Association, whose 400 members voiced enthusiastic approval of a project to remove the elevated structure from Allen Street, which the city is to widen. Leaders of the association said that the matter would be called to the attention of the Board of Estimate soon. They declared that buses should be substituted for the elevated line, pending construction of the Second Avenue subway projected by the Board of Transportation. Civic and business organizations along the entire line of the Second Avenue structure in Manhattan, they declared, have indicated their sympathy with the removal project.

3 NEW SUITS LOOM IN TAXICAB FIGHT

TWO RULINGS ARE AWAITED

Drivers and Owners Ask Whalen to Stop Issuing Licenses for Six Months, Due to Congestion.

With one lawsuit over cut-rate taxicab operation pending in the Appellate Division and another in the Supreme Court, indications yesterday were that three more suits might be started today by a group of independent taxicab operators opposed to operation at less than the prevailing rate of 15 cents for the first quarter mile and 5 cents for each succeeding quarter. Jack Bregman, editor of The Weekly Taxi Sun, declared that papers had been drawn in three separate actions directed against cut-rate operation, and would probably be served today.

Whether the suits will be started, it was said, depends to some extent upon the outcome this morning of the proceedings before Justice Strong in Brooklyn. They involve the application of Mary G. Morton, Queens taxpayer, for an order barring the granting of cut-rate licenses. In vacating a temporary order of prohibition on Friday Justice Strong indicated that he was not impressed with the application. Another proceeding today will be in the Appellate Division, where argument is scheduled on Commissioner Whalen's appeal from a recent order by Justice Ford, directing him to license cut-rate cabs complying with routine requirements.

In a letter to Commissioner Whalen the Tri-Borough Taxidrivers Benevolent Association and Five Boroughs Fleet Owners, purporting to speak for 20,000 taximen opposed to cut rates, asked that no further taxicab licenses be issued for a trial period of six months.

A survey has revealed, the letter declared, that "there are at present too many cabs on the streets, thereby causing congestion of traffic and additional hardship upon the men who have to make a living driving cabs."

Commissioner Whalen, it was said yesterday, was considering this request. There is some ground to believe, it was said, that under the police power he has the right to suspend the granting of licenses, provided no discrimination is exercised against any special group of operators, or the trial period made too long. The letter suggested that a six months' suspension was desirable "so that a complete study could be made of conditions in the industry and ways and means of regulating and improving the same worked out." Such a study, it was pointed out, will be made by Mayor Walker's Commission on Taxicabs which holds its first public hearing at City Hall on Wednesday.

The granting of a 15-cent taxicab license to Paul Cozzi, a member of the Amalgamated Taxi Association, it appeared yesterday, has precipitated warfare between factions of the independent operators. One group, represented by the Amalgamated, with a claimed membership of 1,800 owner-operators, is leading the fight for the cut rate. The other, of which Mr. Bregman is one of the leaders, desires to preserve the present 20-cent rate as a minimum. Mr. Bregman said yesterday that 50,000 petition sheets are now being circulated among taxi drivers, authorizing him to take the necessary legal steps to block cut-rate operation. They will be filed with the moving papers in the suits soon to be started, he said.

WORK CALLED ONE OF BEST

Original Painting Revealed and Restored by Removal of Overpainting and Cleaning.

The story of how a painting bought at $400 at the auction of the Havemeyer collection a few weeks ago was identified as an original portrait by Titian worth about $150,000 was disclosed yesterday by S. W. Frankel, publisher of The Art News. Mr. Frankel has just returned from Detroit with the first photographs of the restored masterpiece.

The original painting was revealed after overpainting had been removed and the canvas was placed on exhibition at the Detroit Art Institute Friday with a series of paintings by Rembrandt. Dr. William K. Valentiner, director of the Art Institute and an authority on painting, who made the purchase, then revealed that his belief the painting was an original Titian had been definitely established.

Through Mr. Frankel he made public a letter from Sir Joseph Duveen, one of the foremost authorities on art, who wrote of the painting that "it is an undoubted Titian of finest quality painted in the last years of his life." The letter from Sir Joseph was dated April 29, just before he sailed for Europe.

Revealed by Catalogue.

According to Mr. Frankel, belief that the painting might be an original Titian came to Dr. Valentiner when looking over a catalogue of the sale of paintings of the Havemeyer collection by the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The painting was listed in the catalogue as a "portrait of a gray-bearded old man in Doge's dress—School of Titian." The catalogue revealed that the painting originally had been acquired about fifty years ago from the collection of the Duchess of Berry, daughter-in-law of Charles X of France, who at one time owned an art collection in Venice.

From his knowledge of the paintings in the collection of the Duchess of Berry and a remembrance of the painting as he had seen it some years ago, Dr. Valentiner became convinced it was a Titian.

He made arrangements with an agent in this city to bid at the auction, with the result that the painting was purchased for $400. Mr. Frankel stated that Dr. Valentiner made the transaction on his own initiative and that the picture was presented by him to the Art Institute.

The portrait was sent immediately to Detroit, where it was examined by William Suhr, restorer for the institute. After removing the outer layer of paint on the forehead and the right eye, Mr. Suhr found another eye painted by a different hand in a slightly different position.

"Before I went any further," Mr. Frankel quoted Mr. Suhr as remarking, "I knew we had found a Titian.

"Instead of the startling, imperious expression of the painting as we first saw it, here was the expression of that peculiar aloofness of spirit, that intellectuality and personal dignity that mark all of Titian's great potraits."

Work of Best Period.

"As the cleaning process progressed," Mr. Suhr said, "this conviction was strengthened and the portrait emerged as the unmistakable work of the best period of the Venetian master."

Research in regard to an inscription painted over the original picture, according to Mr. Frankel, indicated that the portrait was of Girolomo Pruiri, who was a Doge in Venice from 1559 to 1567. The superimposed painting, he said, had evidently been done by an obscure artist, "who thought he could improve on Titian."

In comparing photographs of the picture as it appeared when purchased by Dr. Valentiner and as it appears after the overpainting was removed, Mr. Frankel pointed out that the painting by Titian shows a more noble and restrained expression of face, with a suggestion of calmness and mellowness. The features are more clear, and the position of the hand is different than in the latter painting.

The first showing of the restored picture, which is the fifth Titian to be acquired in Detroit, occurred on the fiftieth birthday of Dr. Valentiner. He is to sail for Europe on June 3.

CAPTURES 2 AFTER KILLING.

Policeman Sees Fatal Shooting and Pursues Auto in His Own Car.

Patrolman James J. Kelly of the vice squad was off duty last night and driving his automobile through Henry Street when he saw a young man draw a revolver and fire four shots at another young man. As the latter collapsed in the street the man who had done the shooting raced over to an automobile in which a companion was waiting and drove away.

Kelly followed them and in front of the Paris Court Theatre overtook them and forced their car into the curb. Covering them with his pistol, he forced them to climb out of their car and searched them. He was unable to find a pistol, but he took them to the Butler Street station for questioning.

Meanwhile a big crowd had collected at the scene of the shooting in Henry Street. Two small boys notified the Rev. Thomas J. Quinn of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, which is two blocks away. He hurried over to the scene and administered conditional last rites of the church to the dying man. When Dr. Mimmore arrived from Cumberland Hospital a few minutes later the man was dead.

The dead man was identified later as Dominick Iodici, 30 years old, a cement worker of Hicks Street, Brooklyn. Detectives say he was slain by Ralph Guido, 25 years old, of 140 Butler Street, who is the father of five children, one of the prisoners. Guido, they say, told them he killed Iodici because the latter had stolen his wife. They say Guido showed them a telegram from the Chief of Police of Youngstown, Ohio, which read: "Have one Lucy Guido and one Dominick Iodici, Strathers, Ohio. Please advise at once by you or police."

"Any married man," Guido is said to have told the police, "would have done the same thing."

Guido was locked up charged with homicide. The other prisoner, Charles Zredello, 25 years old, of 7-611 Sixteenth Avenue, was held as a material witness.

Mr. Rogers Favors a Change In the Matter of Predictions

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 4.—Poor Mr. Hoover, he was right in the midst of a speech over the radio predicting "prosperity" and telling that we had lived down the Wall Street panic, when just as he sat down another stock market crash fell right in his lap. Mr. Brisbane had just that day told us "that the Federal Reserve had lowered their rates, which meant more buying."

The whole thing shows that there is none of them knows any more about it than Texas Guinan. If we could just persuade our prominent men to stop "predicting"! If they must predict, let 'em predict on the weather, or the first crop, or Russia—something they know about—but please quit guessing at what this country is going to do.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

CIRCUS EATS AGAIN, MUCH TO LIONS' JOY

ELEPHANT DANCES SADLY

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., May 4.—Early this evening, as the sun flickered and died over the Hudson Valley, the Kent Trained Wild Animal Show creaked sadly out of town. It left Haverstraw to the pleasant contemplation of a day that will be told long in song and story. For lions roamed in what is ordinarily left field of the ball park, and a stately elephant danced his macabre steps through the main street.

The circus's departure was quiet. Three days ago it arrived loudly to keep a usual Spring engagement, but since then various things have happened. The tent was seized by the Sheriff, and the band, which proudly led the grand march late last week, left because they thought even musicians should eat. The roustabouts were gone; they were working their forlorn way back to the great city. All that remained were a few performers, the "trained wild animals," debts and memory.

While William Schultz, a partner in the enterprise, spent Sunday trying to raise enough money to settle the bills and move his show, Haverstraw mostly went to the ball park. On left field were the lions. These had broken out last night causing some excitement, but they were recaptured without any loss of life. They were real, wild lions. They snarled viciously when the populace poked them with broomsticks. It kept them awake.

Over near right field were two Australian burros. They were tame enough, so that tying them down was unnecessary. Near right field is where decades of Haverstraw residents have dumped their tomato and shrimp cans; and that is where the burros were. There had been a rumor around Saturday that the animals hadn't eaten in three days, but the burros seemed fat and quite contented. Haverstraw noted the situation, and added it to the mass of truthful legends.

Lindy did not make an appearance until about 5 o'clock, when the circus was nearly ready to move. Lindy is the elephant and he is 9 years old. He was parked last night in a barn overlooking the river, and those residents who happened to be about the main street this afternoon were startled by the view of an elephant dancing along. His mahout, an elderly gentleman named McDonald, was with him, and Lindy was leading him to the ball park. Once there, they sat on first base. MacDonald went to sleep and Lindy gave himself a shower bath of sand.

Near the elephant and his mahout was the wild brown bear. He had tawny-colored hair and a wistful expression. His morning was ruined by a dog which tried to be friendly, and succeeded only in being frightening. He sat on his haunches at the edge of the tomato can area and brooded about the hills. When it came time for him to enter the express truck that was to take the circus away, he went easily. He bit no one; he didn't even snarl.

While the animals were tethered mostly about the outfield, the equipment of the show was spotted near the pitcher's box and second. In fact, immediately over the latter was a tremendous dumbbell, clearly labeled in white lettering—"500 pounds." The strong man was sitting on it; his expression just a little more witsful than the bear's.

"I can't go away," he explained, "or somebody will steal this thing."

Scattered near the strong man and his equipment was the other accoutrement of the circus. There was a chariot, a small ladder, a trestle whose purpose seemed obscure and some hurdles. These latter were because the Kent Trained Wild Animal Show rather specializes in bareback riding and similar wild westeries. The riders were walking around, talking to one another and wondering where they would go next.

When the circus finally met its Waterloo Saturday night, the police and the S. P. C. A. both stepped in. Together they seized Robert Kent, of Beacon, a partner, and locked him up. He was in jail five hours and then paid a $25 fine decreed by Police Judge Morris Maloney. He wasn't in evidence today, for Schultz did all the packing, arranged for temporary financing of the show and finally took it out of town. The chief of police on a motorcycle provided a guard of honor.

Schultz said the circus will open next in Poughkeepsie, at Woodcliff Pleasure Park. Lindy will be there, and the lions, and now that they have been fed pretty well, everything will be all right.

WARNS PROTESTANTS CHURCH IS LAGGING

"FACING OF FACTS" URGED

MISSIONARY AID LESSENS

Total Gifts of $520,000,000 Are Listed, While Philanthropies Got $2,500,000,000.

The Protestant Church in America is not keeping pace with the population, according to statistical conclusions announced yesterday by Charles Stelzle, clergyman and publicity agent, speaking for the research department of Pierce & Hedrick, counselors for religious, social and educational institutions.

"After a century of development, during which American Protestantism increased from a membership of seven in each 100 of the population in 1800, to twenty-four in each 100 of the population of 1900," the statement read, "Protestantism during the past thirty years has not increased its ratio of the population as much as one member more per 100."

As a practical program for the attention of the national religious bodies of the Presbyterian, Methodist and other churches which will hold their annual meetings in various parts of the country during the next week or two, the Pierce & Hedrick Corporation suggests "comprehensive surveys" and "facing the facts," and that "the church should dignify its task by asking for large sums of money with which to conduct its various educational, philanthropic and religious enterprises, and that it justify this by a program which is adequate to the needs of the time."

Philanthropy Getting Money.

The amount of the "large sums of money" needed is not given, but Pierce & Hedrick call attention to the fact that total gifts from living donors for all religious purposes to Protestant churches during 1929 did not exceed $520,000,000; whereas, "There was contributed last year for philanthropic purposes in the United States approximately $2,500,000,000, and there is no doubt that most of this money was donated by members of the church."

"The questionnaire-study of what adults in American cities think about religion, recently conducted by Charles Stelzle," the statement continues, "indicates that religion is already 'sold' to 87 per cent of the readers of American newspapers. Yet the people as a whole are not completely 'sold' on the church as an organization."

The statement called 1928 "the banner year in the history of Christendom," during which the Christian churches in the United States gained 1,000,000 members. In 1929, by contrast, they gained only 300,000. For the first time since the Civil War, it was stated, the Methodist Episcopal Church showed a net loss of nearly 25,000 members. The Roman Catholic also fell from a gain of 360,000 in 1928 to 77,000 in 1929. "It is a striking fact," the statement continues, "that about one-third of the Protestant churches in the largest denominations in this country did not add a single member to their rolls during the year.

Women Members Exceed Men.

Pierce & Hedrick not only reported a steady slackening of Sunday school enrolment and missionary contributions but also that the United States Census Study of the Churches indicates that on the average there are five women members for each four men in the churches in this country, and this ratio was the same for rural and urban churches.

Turning to a study made in 1912, exclusively in cities, by Mr. Stelzle, who found two-thirds of the Protestant city membership consisted of women, the report concludes that "there has been a steady proportionate decrease of interest in religion among women of the United States." The explanation is offered that the Church, which once was the centre of women's lives outside their homes, is now in competition with educational, benevolent and political organizations.

It also was found that only 18 per cent of the country population is in church membership, although it is customary to think of country people as highly religious. In New York City, the church population is reported equally divided among Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews. Only about 8 per cent of the population are members of Protestant churches.

RESEMBLES CAPONE; ANNOYED ON SEA TRIP

Mayor of Garfield (N. J.) Says Many Mistook Him for Chicago Gangster on Way From Havana.

The publication of an erroneous rumor that Al Capone of Chicago had sailed from Havana for New York in the United Fruit steamship Toloa caused considerable annoyance to Anthony Perrapato, Mayor of Garfield, N. J., who somewhat resembles him. Mr. Perrapato arrived here yesterday on the [illegible] with a party of friends and [illegible] trip had been marred because persons persisted in mistaking him for Capone, although he is smaller and has no scar on his face.

When the steamship docked at the foot of Maiden Lane, East River, Lieutenant James Fitzpatrick went on board with eight detectives from Police Headquarters to tell Capone, if he was there, that he had better leave New York quickly. They were accompanied by two detectives from the Brooklyn Homicide Squad who had known the gangster when he lived in Brooklyn.

Mr. Perrapato was accompanied by two friends, Frederick Brodesser, a real estate operator of Elizabeth, N. J., and Ralph Chandless, a lawyer from Hackensack.

"I guess I do look a little like Capone," Mr. Parrapato said, "and my whole trip was spoiled. Some of the passengers knocked at my cabin door and said 'Come out, Al.'" He added that he had seen Capone at a hotel in Havana.

END 'RACKETEERING' BY SONG PEDDLERS

Music Publishers Report 118 Convictions in State for Violation of New Law.

The "song-sheet racket," which was based on the pirating of copyrighted songs and is said to have netted its promoters more than $1,000,000 in the past nine months, has been broken up in New York State, John J. Paine, chairman of the board of the Music Publishers' Protective Association, said yesterday. The conviction of 188 printers and distributers and the arrest of 1,326 peddlers brought about the clean-up, he said.

Until a few weeks ago every crowded street corner was a market place for song-sheet peddlers who, for 5 cents, sold large paper sheets covered with the lyrics of 100 songs. These sheets were printed in violation of the United States copyright law, and it is estimated by the association that at one time twenty-eight printing presses here and in other New York State cities printed the sheets and distributed them to jobbers.

The jobbers sold them for 2 cents each to street-corner hawkers. The sheets cost less than half a cent to print. Gangsters are said to have financed the printing plants.

A month ago Governor Roosevelt signed a new law making it a criminal offense to print or sell any copyrighted songs or literature. Paul Fishhof, head of the investigating bureau of the Protective Association, immediately advertised a $10 reward to any person bringing about the arrest and conviction of a song-sheet peddler, distributer or printer. In several instances peddlers brought about the arrest of rival venders for the reward.

The pirating of songs began in Chicago last year and was one of the many rackets attributed to Alphonse (Scarface) Capone. Capone denies having had any part in this racket, according to Mr. Paine, and recently wrote to the association expressing regret that his name was used by three gunmen who held up a Chicago music publisher and threatened him with a "ride" if he interfered with their operations in Chicago.

Capone said the gunmen were not members of his organization and promised to punish them if their identity could be proved.

Philadelphia is said to be the hotbed of the "racket" now, and Mr. Paine said yesterday that Philadelphia police and public officials are failing to cooperate in curbing the song sheet sales. A squad of special investigators is at work there, he said, and a grand jury investigation of the reasons for non-cooperation by officials will be urged.

Anthony Crevelle of 1,325 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, was arrested Saturday night as a song peddler in Jamaica, Queens. He was arraigned before Magistrate Frank Girogio in Jamaica magistrates' court charged with selling sheets in violation of the copyright laws yesterday, and pleaded not guilty. He was held for examination today with bail fixed at $500.

CHARLES B. STOVER HONORED

Services in memory of Charles B. Stover, Park Commissioner in the administration of Mayor Gaynor and for years a leader in social welfare activities on the east side, who died in April, 1929, were held last night at University Settlement, 184 Eldridge Street, which was founded by Mr. Stover. Memorials of Mr. Stover's life were read by former friends and associates, and plans for the organization of a foundation to carry on his many social welfare activities were discussed.

"What I valued most highly in Charles B. Stover was his pure disinterestedness, combined with native refinement," said a message from Felix Adler which was read at the meeting. "He carried the atmosphere of culture with him. And yet, when I first knew him, he was content to be the janitor of a Cherry Street building."

Other speakers were Meyer Bloomfield, Dr. John H. Finley, Gregory Weinstein, Joseph M. Price, Lillian D. Wald, Jane E. Robbins and Emil E. Fuchs. James Speyer was chairman.

HONORS SISTER GUILLELMA.

St. Nicholas's Church Marks Nun's Golden Jubilee at Solemn Mass.

The golden jubilee of the Venerable Sister Guillelma, O. S. D., was celebrated with a solemn mass at St. Nicholas's Roman Catholic Church, 135 Second Street, yesterday morning. A procession, which included children of the St. Nicholas Parochial School followed by nuns and priests, from the parish house to the church, preceded the ceremonies. The Rev. John Nageleisen, rector of the church, was the celebrant.

The Rev. Edward W. Weigel, provincial of the Redemptorist Order of Baltimore, in his sermon recalled Sister Guillelma's entry into the Order of St. Dominick fifty years ago and gave a brief résumé of her work as principal of the parochial school for the past forty-seven years.

"There are secrets of the heart," he said, "which no curious eyes can set upon, for they belong to the soul and God. Her life has been devoted to Catholic education and she has linked her soul, through the virtues of poverty, obedience and chastity, with the house of God."

Found Shot Dead in Jersey Town.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 4.—The body of Joseph Dvorak Jr., 27 years old, owner of a service station in Little Ferry, was found beside his automobile in Glen Rock this morning with a bullet in his head. A pistol near by led the police to conclude he had committed suicide, but his family can offer no reason. Dvorak was engaged to Miss Helen Macelek of 44 Fourth Street, Passaic, and they were to be married in June.

Police Avert Hanging by Chicago Gangsters Of Man Who Sought to Reclaim Woman

CHICAGO, May 4.—Earl Holmes, whose love for a gangster's sweetheart caused him to be "taken for a ride," was saved from hanging early this morning by the timely arrival of a police squad.

Holmes owes his life to a freak of chance. Chief E. J. Mitchell of the La Grange police and Patrolmen Otto Pilz and William Powells were sitting in a squad car at a lonely spot near La Grange Park when they saw a machine stop at the side of the road several hundred feet ahead of them and its lights go out.

Approaching without being seen, the policemen saw Holmes, his hands and ankles bound, sitting with his back to a tree. A rope had been drawn about his neck and thrown over a limb. A man was pressing a pistol against his head and two others looked on.

"You have half a minute to live and when we're through with you we'll take the girl for a ride."

At that moment the three policemen burst from their hiding place in bushes. Three flashlights suddenly played on the gangsters and a voice commanded, "get your hands up." They obeyed.

At the Chicago Detective Bureau they were identified as John Hennessey, a former policeman twice sent to Pontiac and twice parolled; Samuel Baldino, a convict parolled from Pontiac, and Frank Fabarula, a petty gangster, whose "girl" Holmes sought to marry.

Holmes, a wood carver, 37 years old, met the woman, Anne Larsen, about six months ago, and after a time begged her to end her associations with the gang and marry him. She agreed yesterday and they drove to the reputed headquarters of the gang so she could get her clothes. There Baldino forced both at the pistol point to drive to another house where they met the other two. After beating Holmes they took him for a "ride."

POLICE STOP CHURCH ROWS.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., May 4.—The police were called in twice today to prevent strife at the services of the Mount Olive Baptist Church, a Negro church on Ashland Avenue, the rector of which is the Rev. R. J. Terell.

Some time ago Mr. Terell and his board of trustees quarreled. One thing led to another, but neither side would give in. This morning before service the pastor's side expelled seven members of the congregation—all seven being from the opposition. There was much noise, and the police were called. At the request of the minister, they cleared the church.

Tonight there was another service. Just as it was getting under way the morning cat-calls were repeated, and some books and vases were thrown. Two patrolmen who were on duty summoned four more, and again they cleared the church. When it was all over, Mr. Terell said he thought he would take court action of some kind against the board.

TO PROTEST NEW CODE OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

Women Will Oppose Our Agreeing to Feminine Nationality Clause Adopted at Hague.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—A protest against the new Code of International Law, adopted by forty nations not including the United States at The Hague recently, will be lodged with the House Foreign Affairs Committee on Tuesday when that committee meets to consider the code, the Inter-American Commission of Women announced today on the ground that discrimination against women in independent citizenship, regardless of marital status, is contained in the document.

The committee will consider a resolution introduced by Representative Hamilton Fish of New York and seconded by Representative Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida, urging that the United States refrain from adherence to the code until the provision referred to is changed.

When the code was adopted with the anti-feminist provision, the United States delegation, headed by David Hunter Miller, returned to the United States.

Further conferences are expected soon, the Women's Commission stated, and the United States delegation has recommended that the nations study the equal nationality rights principle adopted by the Inter-American Commission of Women in Havana last February which stated "there shall be no distinction, based on sex, in the law and practice relating to nationality."

Among those expected to speak before the committee are David Hunter Miller, Miss Alice Paul, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, chairman of the National Woman's Party; Mrs. Grace Hayes Riley, dean of the Washington College of Law and Miss Pearl McCall, an assistant United States attorney.

LAWYERS TELL IT TO JUDGE.

Two Erstwhile Partners Accuse Each Other of Malicious Mischief.

Two lawyers made charges against each other in Jefferson Market Court yesterday morning. They were I. Arthur Rosenberg and Herman S. Schwartzman, erstwhile partners, with offices at 1,457 Broadway, who had fallen into the habit of arguing with each other instead of with the judge.

Rosenberg and Schwartzman had been bosom companions and had shared an office for nearly a year, it seems. Something came between them, and they started to squabble. Finally there was a break in the partnership. But that was not all.

On Saturday, Schwartzman was arrested on the complaint of Rosenberg. Rosenberg charged that his former associate had been maliciously mischievous and had scarred the furniture when he departed. Schwartzman came back with a counter charge against Rosenberg, to the effect that Rosenberg had been mischievous himself.

Magistrate Ford heard the charges and counter charges for fifteen minutes. One of the complainants was about to enter upon a burst of oratory when the magistrate cut him short. All charges were dismissed, and the bench advised that the matter be settled civilly out of court.

"It is most unfortunate that two lawyers have to appear in court under such conditions," said Rosenberg, in professing his profound regrets and bidding good-day to the judge.

CONSIDER CIVIC CENTRE.

Philadelphians Discuss Project for Skyscraper Group.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—A civic centre project that might ultimately represent an investment of $80,000,000 is under consideration by a group of prominent men and women representing Philadelphia art interests, it was learned today. For several months United Engineers and Constructors, Inc., have been conducting a survey of possible sites, and the firm of Zantzinger, Borie & Medary, architects, has been cooperating with the engineers.

The centre, as envisioned by its sponsors, is one of tall hotel buildings, ornate skyscrapers to house organizations interested in the allied arts and cultural movements, imposing office buildings, shops, theatres and other places of amusement.

CITY BREVITIES.

John B. Watson, psychologist and author, will lead a symposium on the new generation and problems of modern parents and children, sponsored by the Macaulay Company, publishers, at the Town Hall tonight. Other speakers, all contributors to a volume on the subject just published by the company, will include Harry Elmer Barnes, Mrs. Sidonie M. Gruenberg, Samuel D. Schmalhausen, Lorine Pruette and V. F. Calverton.

Mary Cecil Allen, an Australian artist, will give a private view of her paintings and drawings at Contemporary Arts, 12 East Tenth Street, this afternoon. The Commissioner General for Australia, Herbert Brookes, will open the exhibition at 3:30 o'clock. It will continue until May 17, from 9:30 A. M. to 6 P. M.

TALKIES TO SERVE ALL ARMY POSTS

25 SETS ALREADY IN USE

Talking pictures are soon to eliminate the silent moving picture as the official amusement of American soldiers in army posts, it is indicated in a contract just entered into by the War Department and RCA Photophone, Inc., manufacturers of sound reproducing equipment.

The contract, announced yesterday by Charles J. Ross, executive vice president of the manufacturing company, calls for the installation of thirty-five talking picture sets at army posts. The first will be installed immediately at West Point. The next eleven are to be placed in the following posts: Fort Eustis, Lee Hall, Va.; Fort Clark, Spofford, Texas; Fort Crook, Neb.; March Field, Riverside, Cal.; Fort Oglethorpe, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Fort Robinson, Neb.; Fort Huachuca, Ariz.; Fort Screven, Savannah, Ga.; Fort Des Moines, Iowa; Fort Dupont, Newcastle, Del.; Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala. The remaining installations will be made as rapidly as possible.

Second Contract for Army.

According to Mr. Ross, this is the largest contract for sound picture installation ever made by the government. It is the second such contract, for the War Department previously had purchased twenty-five sets of sound equipment from the same company. Army posts already equipped with sound apparatus include Fort Moultrie, S. C.; Fort Humphreys, Va.; Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Fort George G. Meade, Md.; Fort Monroe, Va.; Jefferson Barracks, Mo.; Fort Sheridan, Ill.; Fort Hoyle, Md.; Fort Bragg, N. C.; Fort Riley, Kan.; Fort Sill, Okla.; Camp Benning, Ga.; Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.; Fort Snelling, Minn.; Fort H. E. Wright, N. Y.; Fort Slocum, N. Y.; Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y.; Madison Barracks, N. Y.; Fort Bliss, Texas; Fort B. A. Russell, Wyo.; Fort Myer, Va.; Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.; Fort Lewis, Wash.; Fort Francis G. Warren, Wyo., and Langley Field, Va.

The closing of one of the largest film contracts ever consummated, including $5,000,000 in bookings, was announced yesterday by Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation and Columbia Pictures. Under this contract RKO takes the entire 1930-1931 Columbia output of twenty feature sound productions, besides Columbia's short subjects, for exhibition in RKO's chain of theatres in all parts of the country with a capacity of nearly 2,000,000 patrons daily.

Feature pictures to be presented under this arrangement include "The Criminal Code," "Rain or Shine," starring Joe Cook; "Brothers," "Subway Express" and several others.

GET "PRINCESS CHARMING."

Connolly and Swanstrom to Give English Musical Play Next Season.

The Messrs. Connolly and Swanstrom, producers of "Sons o' Guns," will make an American production next season of the English musical show "Princess Charming," played in London several seasons ago. It will go into rehearsal in August, and will have Victor Moore as its chief comedian.

The libretto will be made over by Jack Donahue, and new tunes will also will be added to the score. In London the principal feminine rôle was taken by Evelyn Laye, and early rumors had it that Miss Laye would also appear in it here. This now seems unlikely, however. George Grossmith, who played in the piece in London, may be seen in his original rôle.

TRIENNIAL FETE PLANNED.

Intellectual Leaders to Organize Future Delphic Festivals.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, May 4.—At a meeting of international scholars, archaeologists, university professors and authors today at the home of Mrs. Eva Sikelianos, American organizer of this year's Delphic festivals, it was decided to make the celebration a triennial fête. It is hoped to make Delphi the home of a sort of intellectual League of Nations with an international university as its headquarters.

It was resolved to erect a monument in Delphi which shall represent memorials to unknown warriors of all nations and whose eternal flame shall be kindled from those burning over existing memorials.

A committee is to be established from among leaders of the world to organize future Delphic festivals, and invitations will be sent to governments and leading spirits of all nations to participate.

FUNDS FOR NEW GUARD CAPS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The sum of $196,000 has been made available to Major Gen. John L. DeWitt, Quartermaster General, by the Chief of the Militia Bureau, Major Gen. William G. Everson, for the manufacture of 150,000 Pershing caps recently authorized for the National Guard.

Serge cloth will be used for the caps, which will be of latest approved pattern. As soon as the caps are manufactured, issue will be started to the National Guard. As funds become available for the purpose, additional caps will be manufactured and issued with a view to providing the new cap for the National Guard during the next fiscal year.

The old style, short-visored cap heretofore issued detracted from the neat appearance of the uniform of guardsmen to such an extent that many bought Pershing caps from personal funds.

The Captain Belvidere Brooks Post of the American Legion, of which Walter J. Koch is commander, has arranged for "Apron Strings," at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, as its annual benefit, on Wednesday night. The proceeds will go to the welfare and building funds of the post, which does welfare work in the veterans' hospitals and maintains clubrooms at 270 West Ninety-sixth Street. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is a past commander of the post.

"Indigestion" Victim Learns He Was Shot in the Stomach

When Anthony Agrista, employed as a circulation route man by a New York evening newspaper, awoke yesterday morning in his home at 163 High Street, Brooklyn, his stomach pained him so severely that he suspected an attack of acute indigestion. He telephoned for his family physician. The doctor listened to the symptoms and shook his head. It was not indigestion, he decided; more likely the pain was caused by some internal injury.

While he prepared to examine Agrista he asked him if he had met with any accident. Agrista could not recall one. He had had an argument with several men the night before, he admitted, and he remembered that one man had struck him in the face. But beyond that, he insisted, there was nothing. The examination, however, disclosed that Agrista had been shot through the stomach. He was rushed to Shore Road Hospital. His condition is critical.

It is also announced that Rouben Mamoulian's contract with the Guild, which called for his exclusive services, has been dissolved by mutual agreement. Philip Moeller will continue next season as producing director, and Herbert Biberman, who staged "Red Rust" during the past season for the Guild Studio, has been added to the Guild's regular directing staff.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hodshell, friends of the couple, acted as best man and matron of honor. Only Mrs. Ince's two sons, and a few other relatives were present.

The couple left immediately for Del Monte, Cal., where they will spend a honeymoon of ten days. On their return they will leave for a European trip with Mrs. Ince's two sons.

ELSA SHELLEY ILL.

There will be no performance of "Courtesan" at the President Theatre tonight owing to the illness of Elsa Shelley, who appears in the play's only rôle. Irving Kaye Davis, the play's author, said last night that the play would positively resume its engagement as soon as Miss Shelley felt equal to it, and that in all probability she would appear again tomorrow night.

ACTORS' JUBILEE WEEK ENDS IN BIG BENEFIT

Stage, Screen and Radio Stars Appear at Metropolitan in Aid of N. V. A. Sanitarium.

With a benefit performance which found stage, screen and radio entertainers playing to a near-capacity audience, the Actors' National Jubilee Week and the National Variety Artists' campaign to raise $1,000,000 for the N. V. A. Sanitarium at Saranac Lake were concluded last night at the Metropolitan Opera House. The box office receipts for the performance, which were not announced, will be made public today. The results of the nation-wide drive to provide a maintenance fund for the sanitarium will be made known late this week.

Under the direction of S. L. Rothafel (Roxy), last night's program, which lasted until after midnight, was opened by the combined Paul Whiteman and Roxy Symphony Orchestras, who, under Mr. Whiteman's direction and with George Gershwin at the piano, concluded a series of four selections with Mr. Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." Succeeding numbers presented the five Reilly children, the Roxy ballet, Patsy Kelly, Will Mahoney and William Demarest in a scene from "Sketch Book," The Three Sailors, Sophie Tucker, Smith and Dale, Fannie Brice, the Hall-Johnson choir from "The Green Pastures," Jack Pearl, Rudy Vallee and orchestra, Jack Osterman, the Havana Casino Orchestra, Trixie Friganza, Will Osborne and orchestra and the Roxyettes.

Among those serving as masters of ceremonies at different times during the evening were Mr. Rothafel, Lou Holtz, James J. Corbett, Ted Husing, Graham McNamee and Jack Osterman.

Marymount Has May Festival.

TARRYTOWN, N. J., May 4.—The annual May Day festival of Marymount College was held this afternoon on the campus at Tarrytown. Miss Martha Dillon of Raquette Lake, N. Y., president of the Senior Council, was crowned Queen of the May. Twenty-four members of the senior class were her attendants. The students gave a series of old English Maypole dances.

PARIS AGAIN HAILS TOSCANINI TRIUMPH

RAVEL FOUND IN AUDIENCE

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 4.—Tonight will live long in the memories of those music lovers who were fortunate enough to find places in the Théâtre National de l'Opéra, for to very few audiences has been given the privilege of hearing such magnificent music as was produced by the Philharmonic-Symphony Society at its second European concert.

Before one of the most distinguished audiences assembled in Paris in recent years, Arturo Toscanini, brilliant director of what the French have unhesitatingly called "the world's greatest orchestra," convinced critical European devotees of music that he had achieved the ultimate in the organization of which he is now the guiding genius.

If last night's concert—the first of the European tour of the Philharmonic—was notable for the enthusiasm of the audience as well as for the rare beauty of the program, the same may be said with added warmth of tonight's concert.

Choosing five masterpieces which inevitably were destined to arouse the fervor of a French audience, Maestro Toscanini reached one of the high points of his accomplishment in his direction of Debussy's "La Mer." Played even by the most modest of orchestras, this thoroughly French symphony never fails to move the French and especially a Parisian assembly, but tonight, with the full force of the Philharmonic, Parisians had never before heard the great French musician's work so beautifully played.

The storm of applause, which with difficulty restrained itself until the last note, almost shook the Opéra and cries of "Bravo!" resounded from the orchestra seats and the six tiers of boxes.

Opens With Haydn Symphony.

Signor Toscanini, who naturally was pleased with the marked warmth of the first night's concert, directed with an enthusiasm which at once communicated itself to members of the orchestra and served to carry them through the four movements of the opening number—Haydn's Symphony No. 101, "Les Cloches"—with fine spirit.

After the Debussy success, Signor Toscanini selected Pizetti's "Rondo Venitien." It was the first time this work by Italy's leading contemporary musician had been heard in Europe. Written in the Summer of last year, this pleasing selection was received with much applause. Then followed the surprise of the evening and one which the Parisian audience immediately appreciated. "Bolero" by Ravel—best described as a rhythmic Spanish strain—caught the fancy of the audience and the applause was deafening.

Composer Found in Balcany.

When, however, it was discovered that a quiet gray-haired little man sitting in the front row of the balcony was none other than the composer, an outburst of enthusiasm seldom equaled at the Opéra followed. The whole audience of several thousand men and women stood and with it the orchestra, and for five minutes gave itself over to whole-hearted appreciation of Ravel's composition.

The little man bowed gracefully but refused to stand, and waved his hand at Maestro Toscanini as a gesture of recognition of the real hero of the evening.

The Philharmonic concluded with Wagner's prelude to the first act of "Die Meistersinger," the audience remaining for many minutes after its termination to pay final tribute to Signor Toscanini and his musicians.

GLEASON DANCE RECITAL.

Artist Who Calls Herself La Americana Gives Spirited Performance.

Mary Elizabeth Gleason, who was scheduled to give a dance recital at the Gansevoort Theatre last night for the benefit of the Finch School Day Nursery, gave it at the President instead. Miss Gleason now dances under the stage name of La Americana, under which, it seems, she has appeared in Spain. Her program consisted entirely of Spanish dances. Some of them were repetitions from her recital in January, when she made her New York début, and others were new.

There are many good features in Miss Gleason's work, and there is every reason to believe that when she has acquired more subtlety and more variety she will take her place among the best of the American dancers of Spanish dances. At present her heel work, her castanet playing and her general manner of coloring her dancing lack delicacy and nuance, and that warmth of mood which comes only with maturity. She nevertheless is spirited and ingratiating and has an excellent sense of her responsibility to an audience. Her program was run with a minimum of waits.

An assisting dancer, billed simply as Mr. Guzman, served as a partner in a "Fado," an "Argentine Tango" and a Mexican "Jarabe," and presented a Gaucho dance as a solo. Incidental vocal solos were sung by a Spanish baritone billed as Mr. Cordellat, and accompaniments were played by Milford Snell.

THEATRE TOURNEY TONIGHT

Two Weeks' Competition by Little Theatres to Begin.

The Little Theatre Tournament, which has been an annual national event in New York for the last seven years, will open tonight at the Waldorf Theatre. This year for the first time the tournament will extend into a second week, the additional week to be devoted to the production of full-length plays. As in previous years, the winners of the short-play tournament will receive the David Belasco Cup. The Theatre Arts Monthly is offering a cup for the best production of a long play.

Twenty Little Theatre groups will compete in the short plays, which will be presented at the rate of four an evening for the first five days. Tonight's entrants are the Make-Up Box of Hunter College, the City College Players of Brooklyn, the Henry Players (from the Henry Street Settlement) and the Central Players of the Y. W. C. A.

The opening address tonight will be by Kenneth Macgowan.

'INGENUES' SWEEP PALACE WITH TUNES

If one act can make a nine-act bill worth all the trouble, the new program to which the Palace gives hospice this week is at least carried in the direction of par by the "Ingenues," an all-feminine stage band still strangely unweary after 60,000 alleged miles of traveling. For the benefit of customers who somehow did not see and hear them in their "Follies" days of three seasons ago, they are twenty-one maidens in search of a tune, and more often than not they find it. And, since most of the remaining entertainment does not bear too close an examination, their presence may be regarded as first-aid to an otherwise laggard afternoon or evening in the leading variety house.

Seated under what may be taken for a rose arbor, and surrounded by a battery of instruments that challenge enumeration, Mr. Ziegfeld's late charges attack one melody after another with style, speed and saxophones. There are units of girls devoted to violins, and others who play accordions, which can be pleasant enough in brief applications; there is also a dancing specialty or two; but it is when, in full force, they concentrate on a varied and resounding orchestration, that they seem to be the most effective stage band the Palace has known for months, or since the last Ted Lewis visitation.

The nominal headliner of the week, Mae Murray, prefaces her three dance numbers with words in praise of music, the gist of which is that music is a nice commodity because it will take Miss Murray virtually anywhere she wants to go. This is direct cause for an Argentine tango, a gypsy dance and, finally, the Merry Widow waltz, all rendered with the assistance of four young men doing their duty at as many xylophones. In conclusion Miss Murray has profuse thanks for the dear public that never forgets.

Scarcely less pretentious than the twenty-one musical ingenues is the Roxy ballet corps, a set of plumed precisionists bringing their choreography directly from the Rothafel palace. Other acts include the William Nunn Company in a travesty of old-time melodrama; Peter Higgins, the tenor, who comes up for his third week still smiling and with another Irish song; Al K. Hall, by no means an overpowering comedian; a Mr. Robins, who gets his laughs by pulling musical instruments out of his pockets for an indefinite length of time; Christie and Nelson, a roping team, and the Norman Thomas Quintette, featuring what must certainly be the most agile drummer now at large.

Helen Hayes, it was announced yesterday, will again be seen next season under the management of Jed Harris. She will appear in "Mister Gilhooley," which is announced as Mr. Harris's first production of the new season. It is Frank B. Elser's dramatization of Liam O'Flaherty's novel, and its cast, as previously announced, will also include Arthur Sinclair, who has been seen here several times with the Irish Players. The play will open out of town late in the Summer.

The closing of contracts between Miss Hayes and Mr. Harris is of unusual interest by reason of the fact that Miss Hayes's tour in "Coquette" was followed by the now famous "act of God" arbitration. Subsequently it was announced that Miss Hayes would appear in a play entitled "One Beautiful Evening," and it was later reported that she would be the star of a series of Barrie revivals to be produced by Gilbert Miller.

Also on the Harris schedule for next season, although not yet officially announced, is a production of "Othello." Mr. Harris sailed a few days ago for London, and is said to be endeavoring to make arrangements to bring Paul Robeson back here to play Othello. Lillian Gish will probably be the Desdemona and Osgood Perkins the Iago.

Union Sponsoring Goldman Concert.

The Goldman Band will make a pre-season outdoor appearance on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Mall at Central Park in a concert sponsored by Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians as a part of the Music Week festivities, it was announced yesterday by Edward Canavan, chairman of the union, who said that this was the first time his organization had attempted such an undertaking. In the event of rain this concert will take place on Sunday evening at the same place at 8:30 o'clock. The Goldman Band is being augmented for the occasion to 110 pieces from the leading symphony orchestras and bands of the city. Edwin Franko Goldman, who will conduct the program, has arranged special numbers, and Del Staigers, cornetist, is to be the soloist, Mr. Canavan said.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

With the entrance of Frances Williams into the cast of "The International Revue" tonight, in place of Gertrude Lawrence, a partially revised edition of that show will be presented. There will be two new sketches and a number of new songs.

"The Devil's Moon," by William Ford Manley, is announced for production next season by Brock Pemberton. Its principal rôle will be played by Margaret Perry, who went into the cast of "Strictly Dishonorable" on short notice during the past season, and who is now acting in that play in Los Angeles.

"Wound Stripes," a play by Hugh Stange, who wrote "Veneer," is announced for production next season by Herman Gantvoort.

Mrs. George Primrose, widow of the famous minstrel, is about to return to vaudeville. She will begin her tour in Paterson the latter half of this week.

John Marsden will succeed Wilfred Lytell tonight in "Nancy's Private Affair." The play will go on tour after this week.

Maugham's "The Tenth Man" will be revived tonight at Butler Davenport's Free Theatre in East Twenty-seventh Street.

"A Coastwise Trader," by H. A. Archibald, is announced for production by a firm called Canadian Productions. Effie Shannon will be in it.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

In a Film Studio.

SHOW GIRL IN HOLLYWOOD, with Alice White, Jack Mulhall, Blanche Sweet, Ford Sterling, John Miljan, Virginia Sale, Lee Shumway and Herman Bing, based on J. P. McEvoy's novel, "Hollywood Girl," directed by Mervyn LeRoy; Vitaphone Varieties. At the Winter Garden.

Flashes of fun and several interesting glimpses of work on a set and behind the cameras in a film studio are the main assets of "Show Girl in Hollywood," an audible pictorial adaptation of J. P. McEvoy's novel, "Hollywood Girl," which is now holding forth at the Winter Garden.

In film form this story is somewhat puerile, one in which subtlety is conspicuous by its absence. Intended shafts of satire emerge as bludgeon-like humor and when attempts are made to draw a tear or two one is apt to become more aggravated than sympathetic, especially when music is called upon as if to soothe the savage breast of the spectator.

During the unfurling of this production, Donna Harris, played by Blanche Sweet, expatiates upon the fickleness of the film business, and in doing so she suddenly changes from talking to singing. When Miss Harris has taken poison and Dixie Dugan and James Doyle break into her home with the hope of saving her from death, an unseen orchestra offers a tender melody.

Alice White, big-eyed, babyish and busy, acts Dixie, to whom a motion picture director, named Frank Buelow, offers a contract to appear in his next production. He has just heard her sing in a night club following the closing of a stage show in which she was understudy for the principal. Will she go to Hollywood? She will.

In the film centre, Dixie hies herself to the studio presided over by Sam Otis (Ford Sterling) and where Buelow is employed. Buelow has told her that he has written his next story and that he always insists on picking his cast. Sam Otis, however, appears to have some say in such matters and he forthwith pens a note informing Mr. Buelow that so far as his (Otis's) studio is concerned, Buelow is "just a memory."

Evidently Buelow has told the story, for what he presumed was to be his forthcoming film, to Otis, for the latter is heard going over the details of it with several Yes men and one No man. It developes finally that it is the outline of a musical comedy in which Dixie had worked for two weeks. Without any difficulty, they communicate with James Doyle, who is in New York. He wants $20,000 for the rights to the story and a contract for $1,000 a week for himself, but he eventually accepts $1,000 for the play and a contract for $100 a week for himself.

In Hollywood, James searches for Dixie to play the leading rôle in the picture and what might have led to a disagreement between Doyle and Otis is settled by Dixie's unexpected appearance upon the scene.

When the picture is half finished Dixie is told that she must have a fit of hysterics in one scene. She differs with both Doyle and Otis and after a chat with Buelow at a restaurant she decides to become temperamental, only to be informed by a note from Otis that "so far as his studio is concerned, she is just a memory."

This causes her to be really hysterical, or, Miss White's idea of such conduct.

But in the end Warner Brothers produce the film and sections of it are shown as it is being screened before a first-night audience in Hollywood.

A MUSICAL COMEDY FILM.

"Her Golden Calf," at the Hippodrome, is a cinema version of a musical comedy, and has all the failings of one, although some sequences have entertaining features. If the plot were thrown into the discard and the dialogue whittled down to make sense more often, and if it were possible to have more of the singing of Marjorie White and of the comics of El Brendel, the photoplay would be more amusing.

The venerable story of the old-fashioned secretary who, after being taken in hand by a friend and magically changed by the aid of mud packs and silks to a ravishing beauty, is found here. Sue Carol as the girl who covers her pulchritude with unbecoming garments and spectacles, is the one who wins the prize for beauty of form. Her own employer falls in love with her, unwittingly, of course. This is the high point in the picture. Everything ends happily.

For purposes of amusement there are dancing girls who cavort on glossy floors and run up and down staircases. Marjorie White, as the friend, does her best to make the work agreeable, and only succeeds in the episodes in which her buffoonery is paramount. El Brendel, who does the Swede to perfection, is ever present with his comic "ayes" and "yoost." Jack Mulhall appears as the employer and is no more than an audible version of the old Mr. Mulhall who used to take girls on Coney Island excursions in First National pictures.

CONFEREES IN NEWSREEL.

NEWSREELS, a compilation of Fox Movietone and Hearst Metrotone Newsreels, shown continuously at the Embassy Newsreel Theatre.

The American members of the London naval conference are traced by means of the sound cameras on the screen of the Newsreel Theatre from the time they take their farewell of Prime Minister MacDonald to their arrival at Washington and appearance before President Hoover there.

"We have not been able to do all that we should have liked to have done, but I think we have made a very solid contribution to the problem of the making of peace. Others will come after us to finish our work."

There is a thrilling scene of a Malayan tiger being trapped in a bamboo cage and of two of the cats fighting over the bait. Colonel Lindbergh is seen taking off with his mother as a passenger on the start of his flight to open a new mail route.

Bobby Jones and other members of the American golf team, along with Sir Harry Lauder and Douglas Fairbanks, are seen as they sail for England, Mr. Fairbanks to watch the Walker Cup Matches at Sandwich, Sir Harry to fish in Scotland and the others to play golf.

Other views include the conclusion of the air "war" being waged by the army fliers on the West Coast, the Penn Plays, a comedy bullfight in Spain, Heywood Broun asking for work for the unemployed, former President Coolidge being thanked by the delegation of visiting Japanese girls for aiding Japan after their catastrophe and Admiral Byrd's dogs returning with their keeper from the Antarctic.

VILMA BANKY TO RETIRE.

Film Actress Says She Will Henceforth Be Mrs. La Rocque.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 4 (AP).—Vilma Banky, Hungarian actress, who reached stardom in silent motion pictures, has decided to retire from the films and become "once and for all Mrs. Rod La Rocque," she declared tonight.

The actress, who married La Rocque, film star, three years ago, made the announcement and denied a report that she and her husband were about to separate.

"The rumor that we are not happily married originated in Hungary and is unfounded," Miss Banky said. "I have just decided to quit the films and to become once and for all Mrs. Rod La Rocque, housewife. I am an American citizen now and we are ever so happy together."

Miss Banky admitted that the advent of talking pictures influenced her in her decision to retire from the films, but pointed out that she had played a few parts in talkies and said she had been offered others.

The actress was brought to Hollywood by Samuel Goldwyn, motion picture producer, and starred in several silent dramas.

CHILDREN SEE RISE OF FLYING AT SHOW

LINDBERGH DUE TO ATTEND

Postmaster General Brown to Speak Today — First Federal Mail Pilot Will Be Visitor.

Hundreds of children attended the New York Aircraft Show at Madison Square Garden yesterday, the second day of the show.

Special permission to have the exposition on Sunday because of its educational features had been granted to the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and during the afternoon the arena echoed to the shouts of the youngsters as they climbed in and out of the planes.

Lieutenant Commander John W. Eisman Jr., U. S. N. R., outlined briefly efforts being made in schools and colleges to teach the new transportation science.

Professor Roland H. Spaulding told of the necessity of every well-informed person knowing something of aeronautics.

Reports circulated and published yesterday that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh would visit the show and broadcast his impressions last night proved unfounded. It was learned that Colonel Lindbergh had not been notified that he had been scheduled for a radio speech. He will visit the air show during the week and is expected to inform the committee of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce in advance regarding his coming. He said last night that he would probably talk on the radio if invited by the sponsors of the show.

Urges Sane Instruction.

Professor Spaulding emphasized that the aim of a sane aeronautical education "must include all those who do not fly as well as those who do, so all may be prepared and trained to use this new vehicle safely and to the benefit of society."

"This show is a fine example of what can be done in aeronautical education for the general public," he said. "During the days to follow it will be possible to learn much concerning the latest developments in aircraft, something of the possibilities and limitations of this mode of transportation, a good deal concerning the safety appliances that have been developed, as well as latest estimates concerning the cost of air transportation. The aviation show, in other words, rapidly is becoming a means of educating the public concerning aviation.

"In addition to aircraft exhibitions," Professor Spaulding said, "public schools of the United States to the extent of some 300 or more now are giving some form of aeronautical instruction."

Airports in the metropolitan area were busy yesterday. Managers at Roosevelt Field, Curtiss Airport, North Beach and Grand Central Airport near Jackson Heights, Queens, reported that hundreds had taken their first ride during the afternoon. Great numbers went to fields in Westchester and New Jersey and at the Newark Airport 500 persons went aloft. Three hundred went up at Roosevelt Field.

Tickets to the Air Show have stubs attached which provide for reduced rates at certain airports for exhibition flights. This arrangement will be continued throughout the week and Sunday, it was announced.

The big transport planes continued to be centres of interest in the Garden. The largest of the six planes on the floor of the arena, the thirty-passenger Fokker, was open to the public, and a continuous stream of the curious went through the plane.

There was a crowd around the engine exhibits, especially the new Packard Diesel, the Isotta Fraschini booth with its eighteen-cylinder motor which produces 1,800 horsepower, the Pratt & Whitney booth with its Wasps, and the Curtiss-Wright display.

Says Show Equals Britain's.

Among special displays which drew attention was THE NEW YORK TIMES booth where hundreds of photographs, paintings and crayon sketches portrayed air transportation and exploration from the early days of flying to the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. The pictures of Admiral Byrd and his men and their home life during the long Winter night at Little America were viewed by thousands.

Among visitors at the show were Wing Commander L. J. Fiennes, air attaché to the British Embassy in Washington; Captain Edward Rickenbacker, Clarence D. Chamberlin, Captain Frank Hawks, Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, Captain Ugo d'Annunzio and R. B. C. Noordyn of the Bellanca Company.

Commander Fiennes said he was impressed with the development of the large plane in the United States. The New York show, he said, equals in interest the great annual aircraft show in London.

Today the aircraft show is dedicated to the air mail pilots of the United States and the program includes addresses by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Lieutenant James Edgerton, the first pilot ever to carry the mail by air in the United States, and E. Hamilton Lee, who has flown more than 1,300,000 miles in the air mail service.

In addition to the crowds at the show promenaders along Broadway clustered about the little Savoia-Marchetti amphibian of the New York Police Department, which is on exhibition in Times Square. It was estimated that 10,000 persons viewed the plane.

RADIO TO PICK UP HOLLAND

Professors and students of Delft University, Netherlands, together with engineers of that country who are in the United States visiting electro-technical plants, are to carry on a two-way radio conversation with friends in their homeland at 10 o'clock this morning, Eastern Daylight Time, while WGY rebroadcasts the exchange of greetings to American listeners.

The speakers' voices will be transmitted from this country over stations W2XK and W2XAD of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y., while those who reply from the Netherlands will be heard over PHI, the 16.88-meter station of the Philips Company, at Huisen. The waves used by the Schenectady stations will be 17.45 and 19.56 meters, respectively.

President Hoover is scheduled to be heard on Decoration Day during a two-hour broadcast beginning at 2:45 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time, over WEAF, WJZ and WABC nationwide networks, from the rostrum of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg, Pa. The occasion will be the annual memorial services at the Civil War battlefield.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT AS ROCKET EXPLODES

Special to The New York Times.

VALLEY STREAM, L. I., May 4.—Peter Curccia, 2,527 Cruger Avenue, the Bronx, who worked at the airport here, was instantly killed, and Vincent Simone of Roosevelt Avenue, North Bellmore, L. I., who was helping Curccia, was seriously wounded tonight when an aerial rocket exploded prematurely during the weekly fireworks display at the airport.

The aerial rocket had a heavy powder charge and was being fired from a mortar. After Curccia ignited the fuse and tried to load the smoking device into the breech of the mortar, the rocket exploded. Bits of cast iron from the mortar flew in all directions, according to witnesses, striking the two men. Curccia died instantly and his companion was rushed to the Nassau Hospital in Mineola.

Reports from the hospital said that Simone was suffering from badly lacerated legs and it was feared his skull was fractured. Nassau County police are investigating the accident. At the time it occurred the airport was practically deserted. The night force of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service gave first aid and called the hospital and police for help.

Pilot and Passenger Die in Crash.

BASLE, Switzerland, May 4 (AP).—The pilot and one passenger of an airplane were instantly killed today in a wreck near Dornach. Pilot Willy Storrer attempted a forced landing, but one of the plane's wings struck a tree and the three occupants were hurled to the ground. The other passenger was seriously injured.

GOLDSBOROUGH ENDS FLIGHT WITH RECORD

BRAVED BAD WEATHER

Youth Spent 34 Hours and 3 Minutes in Air on Trip From Westfield, N. J.

By FRANK GOLDSBOROUGH.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 4.—Rain held me up at Colton, Cal., until this morning. Then heavy fog and rain made it necessary for me to wait until after 12 o'clock before it was possible to take off for Los Angeles.

At 12:20 P. M. I took off in a heavy rain, went up to an altitude of 8,000 feet, flying above fog and rain, and reached Grand Central Air Terminal at Glendale at 12:40 P. M., Pacific Standard Time. I was greeted here very royally.

I have established a junior transcontinental record of thirty-four hours and three minutes. The ship has been taken care of by the Fleet Aircraft representative here. The motor is being thoroughly checked over by a Kinner mechanic.

I am preparing to make a West-to-East hop as soon as weather conditions and plane are O. K. I hope to make New York not later than next Sunday.

I had a tough battle with weather and high winds all the way from Tulsa, Okla. My success has been due to the aeroplane and motor. The weather has been heavy rains ever since I left El Paso, Texas.

Former Record Was 48 Hours.

LOS ANGELES, May 4 (AP).—Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old flier of Jackson Heights, N. Y., landed at the municipal airport near here today to clip 13 hours and 57 minutes from the transcontinental record for junior fliers.

The youth took off last Monday from Westfield, N. J., and despite considerable trouble en route, spent only 34 hours and 3 minutes in the air on the cross-country trip. The former record of forty-eight hours was set by Dick James.

Goldsborough is the son of Bryce Goldsborough, pilot of the ill-fated transatlantic plane "Dawn." The youth learned to fly only last September, but at several points on his flight from seaboard to seaboard he displayed great skill and daring. Near El Paso, Texas, he came down in the desert and then cracked one of the wings of his plane getting away again. He continued the flight, however, and made repairs at the Texas border city.

The youth took off from El Paso for Tucson, Ariz., later continuing to Yuma, Ariz. There a thunderstorm forced him down for two hours, but finally against the advice of experienced aviators, Goldsborough took off for Los Angeles. He nosed his ship through treacherous San Gorgonio Pass, shunned by all airplanes, and flew over Colton, Cal. Headwinds encountered after he left Yuma, however, had cut down his gasoline supply, and with darkness approaching he decided to land. Selecting a fair-sized bean field, Goldsborough came down successfully, despite the presence of numerous power lines.

FIVE READY TO RACE ZEPPELIN OVER OCEAN

ST. LOUIS, Senegal, May 4 (AP).—Jean Mermoz, French aviator attempting a flight with four persons in a postal hydro-airplane across the South Atlantic, landed here at 3:40 this afternoon.

He expects to be ready for his start across the ocean on Tuesday or Wednesday and will head for Port Natal, Brazil. With four companions he will be piloting the first plane to carry so large a number of persons across the South Atlantic.

SAO PAULO, May 4.—An experimental transatlantic flight by commercial hydroplane from St. Louis, French Senegal, to Natal, Brazil, is expected to be attempted this week, according to a statement given out by the French-owned Compagnie Généale Aero Postale at Rio de Janeiro yesterday. No attempt to break records will be made, but if the trip indicates the feasibility, the French are expected to substitute the plane for the speedy French Government destroyers now used for carrying mail over that stretch.

When Jean Mermoz takes off on his 1,700-mile flight across the South Atlantic he expects to race the Graf Zeppelin to South America with air mail. He estimates that he will arrive at Port Natal in seventy-two hours.

At Port Natal the mail will be picked up by a land plane. M. Mermoz will then fly back with mail for Europe.

M. Mermoz recently set a world distance record for seaplanes over a closed circuit, covering 2,803 miles in 30 hours 25 minutes. He surpassed the record previously held by the American fliers Connell and Hood.

BARSTOW IS INJURED IN SAILPLANE CRASH

Craft Is Hurled Into a Canyon in California, With Pilot Seeking Record for Gliding.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 4 (AP).—Jack Barstow, holder of an unofficial world's gliding record, was resting easily at a hospital here today, recovering from injuries suffered last night when his sailplane was hurled to the ground by a gust of wind.

Physicians said the 24-year-old San Diego glider pilot would be in bed two months, and that he would be forced to use crutches for perhaps another two months. He is suffering from a broken vertebra and superficial cuts.

Barstow had been gliding off Point Loma, near here, for about eight hours in an attempt to officially break the world's record for motorless flight when the mishap occurred.

William Van Dusen, official observer of the flight, said a strong wind was blowing when the accident occurred at 6:30 P. M. Barstow came by a group of watchers at an altitude of about 800 feet. He veered sharply toward the bystanders and then swung his craft quickly away again, disappearing over a small hill, where he crashed in a canyon.

GIRL FLIER TO START ALONE TO AUSTRALIA

LONDON, May 4 (AP).—A 23-year-old aviatrix named Amy Johnson, whose longest flight has been only 200 miles, tonight completed preparations at Croydon airdrome to leave early tomorrow morning in a tiny Moth airplane on a lone flight of 22,000 miles to Australia.

She is not seeking excitement and adventure, she told a reporter from The Daily Mail, but a step forward in her flying career. The only thing worrying her is that because of various delays she has had to postpone her departure until the monsoon period in the Far East and will be flying through the track of the monsoons.

"I am going to make my flight as comfortable as possible," she said. "I have a little cupboard behind the cockpit, where I have packed my bag with changes of dress and other traveling equipment.

"I don't know when I shall reach Australia, nor where. En route everything depends on the weather. I don't intend to do any night flying."

The young aviatrix is the only woman in Great Britain to whom the Air Ministry has granted a ground engineer's license. Her father, J. W. Johnson of Hull, went to Croydon this evening to bid farewell to his daughter. He said there was no need for any anxiety about her trip.

REPUBLICAN STIRS 3 RIOTS IN MADRID

FIGHT STARTS IN THEATRE

By Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, May 4.—Six students, shouting "Viva el Rey," entered the Europa Theatre, where Professor Miguel de Unamuno was addressing a crowd of Republicans tonight, and, hitting Indalecio Prieto, Socialist leader, on the head with a stick, waded into the crowd and started a free-for-all fight against 600 Republican students.

So unexpected was the happening that a large crowd started for the exits of the theatre. When it had recovered itself the audience set about attacking invaders, and so soundly were the latter thrashed before being thrown out of doors head first that spectators feared there would be fatalities.

Police who lined the streets outside the theatre and who almost outnumbered the crowd packing the streets leading to the square where the theatre is located, arrested fifteen in this clash between Monarchists and Republicans.

"We will have no republic except by revolting since the government will control any elections. King Alfonso has proved himself unfit to rule. Abroad he visits low gambling dens, and wherever he is he conducts himself improperly and without dignity. As a boy he cruelly made pigs jump through a hoop and now he tries to do the same with politicians."

Asserting that the Bishop of Santiago had said the monarchy was essential to the Church in Spain, Professor de Unamuno remarked:

"The Pope excommunicated the society of the Action Française some years ago for making similar statements. Every one should unite, if not to end the monarchy, to end this Alphonsoite autocracy."

Reports that shots were fired in the riot of Thursday have not been substantiated, and the fact that the government has allowed all the details and most of the speeches to be printed in the press shows that it is not alarmed by the students. It is expected that the student strikers will return to their classes tomorrow.

Your correspondent has just returned from the south of Spain, where everything is peaceful.

The royal family returned to Madrid today and received the usual loyal reception.

MADRID, May 4 (AP).—Three riots, a number of arrests and several injuries today marked a speech calling for a Spanish Republic by Professor Miguel de Unamuno.

Repeating in a large theatre his appeals for the supplanting of the monarchy by a republic, he again proved himself a storm centre in Spanish politics.

His speech was no sooner ended than excited crowds outside the theatre began to fight and the fighting became general in the streets near by. Mounted and foot police charged several times and order was re-established amid great excitement.

Professor de Unamuno, returning by automobile to his hotel, was greeted by mingled cheers and jeers by a great crowd in front of the hotel. Some shouted, "Down with Unamuno!" and others responded with frantic "vivas." Within a few minutes his opponents and supporters were fighting again.

HAYES DEDICATES SCHOOL.

Cardinal, in Bronx, Says Education Is Needed to Combat Unbelief.

Cardinal Hayes yesterday afternoon dedicated the new three-story brick school building of the Holy Family parish at Blackrock and Castle Hill Avenues, in the Unionport section of the Bronx, in the presence of prominent Bronx clergy and more than 2,000 parishioners and school children. The new structure will accommodate 1,200 pupils.

The Cardinal, at the conclusion of the exercises in the auditorium of the school, bestowed the Pontificial blessing on all present. He had, before that, congratulated the Holy Family parishioners in the name of the whole archdiocese on the completion of the building.

"This is part of the campaign of the Catholic Church all over our country, all over the world," said Cardinal Hayes. "Our Holy Father insists on the education of our children, for they will meet more temptations than any generation in the past. Not only is unbelief increasing through the world, but rampant irreligion, as well."

At the back of the stage were several hundred school children. Early in the exercises one of their number, Daniel O'Connor, in the name of the children, presented the school to the Cardinal. In his address, Cardinal Hayes remarked that this was a beautiful gesture.

Others who spoke were the Rev. James E. Kearney, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church in the Bronx; the Rev. Urban C. Nageleisen, pastor of Holy Family Church, and P. Stephen Noonan, president of the Holy Name Society of the parish, who presided.

WILL LECTURE IN FRANCE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—Professor George H. Nettleton, chairman of the English department of Yale University and chairman of the Yale athletic board of control, has been appointed Hyde Foundation lecturer to the French provincial universities for the year 1930-31.

In 1919 Professor Nettleton was lecturer at the Sorbonne on the Louis Liard Foundation. He served as first director of the American University Union in Europe from 1917 to 1919, and in 1919 received from the French Government through M. Tardieu the award of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor for war and educational service in France.

Professor Nettleton's lectures at the French provincial universities will begin next November. They will take as a general subject the comradeship of French and American universities during and after the war.

Protestant "Overchurching" Found in Up-State Region

ALBANY, May 4 (AP).—East Central New York State has twice as many Protestant churches as it should have, according to the Home Missions Council, which recently surveyed twelve counties in this area. There is a Protestant church for every 454 persons and the average membership a church is only 108 persons. The standard that has been set is one church per thousand population. The communicant membership is 91,136, or 23.8 per cent of the population.

The counties surveyed were Albany, Columbia, Delaware, Fulton, Greene, Montgomery, Otsego, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Schenectady, Schoharie and Washington, which have 840 Protestant churches, the report said. Warren County also was surveyed but was not included in the result announced.

"Overchurching" and "underchurching" will be discussed at a continuation conference at the First Methodist Episcopal Church here on Tuesday.

FAVOR CONTINUING SEMINARY MERGERS

Presbyterian Council Will Recommend to Assembly Further Unions.

BROADER COURSES ADVISED

Committee Says the Major Problem Is to Keep Religious Education Religious.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Continued mergers of the Presbyterian theological seminaries, now numbering thirteen, "in the interest of economy and efficiency," will be recommended to the General Assembly of the denomination at Cincinnati on May 29 by the Presbyterian General Council.

Executives of the seminaries will be urged to organize a Presbyterian seminary union to effect such standardization of methods of instruction as seems desirable and practical, and the addition of courses designed to meet the complaint that the curricula are too theoretical and technical will be recommended.

A committee of the General Council, headed by Dr. Samuel T. Wilson of Maryville, Tenn., made public here today the results of a year's study of the seminary situation. The survey was prompted by an overture from French Broad Presbytery, Tennessee, suggesting possible consolidations of small seminaries, a suggestion in which nearly one-fourth of the other presbyteries concerned.

The committee's report declared it "a disturbing fact that there is comparatively little corresponding increase in the benefactions of the Church to provide the means with which to meet such enlarged expenditures" as those occasioned by enlarged faculties, fuller curricula and the "general high cost of living."

To meet the complaint that the existing curricula are not practical enough, the report suggested courses in evangelism and missions, urban and rural, among exceptional populations and in foreign lands, and also in the modern Sunday school. It urged training in all phases of religious education, but warned against a danger of diverting religious education from religion.

The Church membership at large was advised that "if the Church wishes religious education courses added to the curricula of the seminaries, it will have to contribute added endowment."

Individual presbyteries, the report added, should cooperate with the seminaries in seeking to maintain a high standard of stringent entrance requirements so that candidates for the ministry might be adequately prepared by a full college course to enter upon their professional training in the seminaries. A closer practical coordination of Presbyterian colleges was recommended as desirable.

While suggesting seminary mergers where possible, the committee said that both legal and sentimental obstacles intervened, and that such consolidations should gradually be effected by the seminaries themselves.

"Willing unions," it added, "will be constructive in their effect; unwilling ones might involve the Church in controversy."

TO PRESENT ESSAY PRIZE.

Hoover Will Give Walgreen Award to Youth Next Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Hoover will award on May 12 the Charles R. Walgreen prize of $500 to the high school student whose essay ranks first in the annual Gorgas essay contest.

Essays on the subject, "The Gorgas Memorial: Its Relation to Personal Health and the Periodic Health Examination," were submitted by junior and senior high school students from all parts of the country. From these, State prize winners were chosen, and from the State winners the national judges are now selecting the five national prize-winners.

The presentation will take place at the White House in the presence of a group including the national judges, Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon General of the Public Health Service; Dr. William Gerry Morgan, president-elect of the American Medical Association; Dr. William John Cooper, Commissioner of Education, Dr. Allen B. Kanavel, regent, American College of Surgeons, as well as Mr. Walgreen of Chicago, donor of the prize; Dr. Franklin Martin, chairman, and Admiral Cary T. Grayson, president of the Gorgas Memorial Institute.

LINES HOLD FIRM IN PARKER FIGHT

PESSIMISTIC OVER OUTCOME

Debate Is Expected to End Late Tomorrow—Reed Will Return in Time to Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—According to those favoring Judge John J. Parker's confirmation for the Supreme Court, no additional support for him has been obtained in the lull since Friday's debate, and the Senate will resume consideration of the nomination tomorrow with the proponents pessimistic as to the outlook for a favorable outcome. Senator Borah, leading the opposition, declared tonight that the minimum opposition vote would be 49, sufficient for rejection.

The debate probably will run until late Tuesday, which will give Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, late in returning from the London naval conference, an opportunity to participate.

Followers of the administration said tonight that unless there was an unexpected development, Judge Parker probably would be defeated. They are counting, however, on some Democrats deserting the opposition at the last moment and hoping for support from Senators Deneen and Glenn of Illinois, and Senators McNary and Steiwer. If these Republicans should support Judge Parker, it was said, he would be confirmed.

Republicans Real Opponents.

In case Judge Parker is defeated, it was said tonight by administration leaders that the President would find it difficult to look for another nominee in the South. These reports on the position of the President have reached Southern Democrats.

The margin necessary for Judge Parker's defeat or confirmation will not come from the Democrats, however, as many of them will be found supporting him. The real opposition is within the Republican party, among the insurgent Senators.

Aside from the insurgents, other Senators, seeking re-election, have been influenced by the demands of labor organizations and Negro associations which are opposed to Judge Parker, the former because of his decision in the Red Jacket case, and the latter because of his remarks against the Negro race in his campaign for Governor in North Carolina ten years ago.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP).—Little hope was held out today by leaders of either side of support in the Senate for a motion to recommit the nomination of Judge Parker to committee. There has been some discussion of such a move, but the apparent determination of President Hoover not to withdraw the nomination under any circumstances has about killed it.

The President is represented as taking a most active part in the drive for votes. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, leader of the opposition, is prepared to re-enter the debate if he feels the situation demands.

R. R. Moton Denies Endorsement.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People yesterday announced receipt of a telegram from Robert R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, denying that he had endorsed Judge Parker. Mr. Epp, a North Carolina school teacher, was reported as having written to a Washington newspaper expressing Mr. Moton's approval of Judge Parker.

The association also announced receipt of a telegram from the Monumental Bar Association of Baltimore, an organization composed of Negro lawyers, commending the association's work in opposing Judge Parker's confirmation.

GETS CALL TO BROOKLYN.

Dr. W. C. Schaeffer of Allentown, Pa., Asked to Take Lutheran Pulpit

ALLENTOWN, May 4.—The Rev. Dr. William C. Schaeffer, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, this city, has received a unanimous call to the pastorate of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Fourth Avenue and Seventy-fifth Street, Brooklyn. The latter, with more than 2,000 members, is the largest English-speaking church of its denomination in Brooklyn.

Dr. Schaeffer has not yet announced whether he will accept the call. He is one of the best-known Lutheran pastors in the country because of his work in providing week-day religious instruction for children. A few years ago he erected a large parochial school in his parish. He is a bachelor.

Dr. Schaeffer was born forty-three years ago in Richmond, Va., where his father organized and for many years was pastor of the First English Lutheran Church. He was educated at Newburg College and the Southern Lutheran Theological Seminary at Columbia, S. C., and also studied in Leipzig and Berlin. He is in his twelfth year in his present pastorate and he held his first and only other pastorate, at the Church of the Redeemer, Atlanta, Ga., for ten years.

The Brooklyn pastorate was resigned on Jan. 1 by the Rev. Charles Daniel Trexler to accept a call to St. James Lutheran Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-third Street, Manhattan.

Today the seventy-fifth anniversary of St. John's Church was celebrated and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Augustus Steimle of New York City, who was long the pastor.

English Textile Strike Called.

BRADFORD, England, May 4 (Canadian Press).—The National Association of Textile Trade Unions, meeting here today, passed a resolution asking all trade unionists employed by the firms with whom the woolen and textile workers are in dispute tto cease work next Saturday. This request concerns members of other than the textile unions, such as firemen and enginemen employed in the factories.

Incorporations in State Continue Decline; Drop 1,353 to 8,621 for Four-Month Period

ALBANY, May 4.—Stock companies in New York State continued to show a decrease in April, as they had in the first three months of the year. Up to the close of business on April 30 8,621 stock companies had been incorporated since Jan. 1, as compared with 9,974 for the corresponding period a year ago, a decrease of 1,353.

Thus far this year each month has been below the figures for a year ago. During April 2,107 companies were formed, against 2,417 in April, 1929, a decrease of 310, while April of this year fell off 122 companies from March.

The April distribution of companies outside of New York City was wider than for March, forty-five counties being represented. From these counties 330 companies were incorporated last month, Westchester leading with 62, followed by Monroe with 41 and Erie with 37.

It was noticeable that in April several million-dollar concerns were chartered, mainly from New York City and Erie County.

While 610 of the concerns did not give the amount of their capital stock, but certified that it contained shares of no par value, other companies formed listed their total capitalization at $56,046,260.

The lead which real estate concerns have maintained for months was continued during April, 211 companies being formed to deal in realty. Several concerns were chartered to operate golf courses and baseball leagues were also formed.

Among the purposes of the companies were the conducting of a bureau to develop public speakers, the raising of rabbits, the exterminating of rats, the operating of an automobile driving school and the smoking and preserving of fish.

LONDON DOUBTS SLUMP WILL DISTURB WORLD

LONDON, May 4.—The new slump in Wall Street, which in the opinion of financial London is an open admission by professional traders that the United States business recovery thus far has been a bitter disappointment, is not likely to disturb the international monetary situation, according to the best judges of the situation here, although the London Stock Exchange is bound to open tomorrow somewhat apprehensively.

While the Autumn slump in Wall Street was followed by wholesale repatriation of European funds from the United States, the present secondary slump will have no such consequences, declares The London Financial News, as the arrival of speculative activity was too short-lived to attract any foreign funds. Although New York banks as a whole are at present debtors rather than creditors of their London correspondents, recent developments in Wall Street are not likely to alter that situation, as there is no reason to expect an unusual buying of Sterling on American account. Due consideration has been given here to the "technical" character of Wall Street selling, and it has been observed that Saturday's professional raid was not brilliantly successful.

The Daily Mail holds it is all part of a "secondary" decline which has been in evidence about a month. "Over the past forty years," writes The Daily Mail's Stock Exchange expert, "these secondary declines have usually lasted just one month, though one to two dragged out to two months, and one lasted three. There is a great deal of potential buying waiting for the bottom of this decline, and the market might quite possibly stage a very strong recovery."

EATON EXPECTED TO ACT.

Merger Opponent Likely to Attend Sheet and Tube Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, May 4.—Cyrus S. Eaton is expected to attend a special directors' meeting of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, called for tomorrow morning, to discuss the issuing of a different form of certificate for stockholders who have demanded cash for their holdings in the merger with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, rather than accept Bethlehem common stock.

Officials of the sheet and tube company have stated that such stock will receive no more dividends and will be prohibited from further voting.

One hundred thousand persons were aided with information and public service on health during 1929 by the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association, and thousands more were treated at clinics and institutions, according to the annual report of the association which was to be made public today.

The health education service of the association arranged 585 lectures reaching 67,000 persons, while 232 radio talks and 1,369 motion picture showings reached a total of 648,000.

During 1929 thousands of tuberculosis patients were helped to secure sanatorium or clinic care; children with heart disease were placed in suitable jobs, given vocational scholarships or placed in convalescent homes; mothers and babies were cared for in clinics, thousands of industrial workers and others were helped to secure health examinations, and more than five thousand workers and children were given dental care at cost.

In a foreword, Health Commissioner Wynne says: "No agency in New York City is rendering a more valuable service to the public than the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association."

BOARD WILL REVISE HISTORY IT BANNED

WILLING TO RESTORE BOOK

An attempt is to be made during the present week to decide what passages are anti-patriotic, radical and pro-Catholic in "Modern History," by Carlton J. H. Hayes, Professor of History in Columbia University, and Dr. Parker T. Moon, assistant professor.

The decision will be undertaken by the Board of Superintendents, who admitted "Modern History" to use as a textbook in the public schools seven years ago and quietly barred it last month without a hearing. According to Acting Superintendent Harold G. Campbell, "Modern History" was removed because of objections to it by the Rev. Dr. Lefferd M. A. Haughwout, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal Church at Great Kills, S. I.

Since discovery of the barring of the book last week, however, the objections to such a removal of "Modern History" have grown more numerous than the objections which cause it to be removed. The Board of Superintendents is willing now, Mr. Campbell said, to reinstate it as a textbook whenever it is revised to eliminate objection.

The authors and publishers are waiting, however, for the school superintendents to locate objectionable passages so that they may consider the possibility of revising them.

Will Hear Any One, He Says.

Acting Superintendent Campbell was asked if the board would hear any one besides Dr. Haughwout in deciding which passages were fairly objectionable.

"I will listen to any one who may have anything to say," he replied.

Those who have already indicated an interest in the matter are the Associated Local School Boards appointed by the various Borough Presidents to watch over the schools of their neighborhood, and the executive committee of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Yesterday the Lafayette Council of the Knights of Columbus added its criticism of the expurgation. Speaking to an audience of 250 knights at their annual communion breakfast in the K. of C. Hotel, the Rev. Thomas G. Philbin, assistant pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in West Seventy-fifth Street, contrasted conditions today to those that existed when he was a student in a New York public school. He declared that American histories during his school days practically ignored the contributions of Catholics to the upbuilding of the country and taught that the nation was solely the product of a Puritan-Protestant civilization.

"The textbook that has been barred from the public schools was written by two converts to our faith," said Father Philbin. "They set out to teach some real history. They are accepted authorities on the history of our country. The worth of their book has not been attacked on historical grounds. Its statements of facts are not in question. It has been barred because one man found it offensive. Because of this one objection it has been taken from the class rooms of the public schools. Are we as members of the Catholic Church to submit quietly to a situation such as this?"

John A. Mathews of South Orange, N. J., a Past District Deputy of the Knights of Columbus, said, "I hope the knights will find out why this textbook was taken out." Walter A. Lynch, State Deputy, declared. "We Knights of Columbus are representative of Catholic ideals. We are in the best position to effectively give expression to Catholic thought."

Editors Defend Book.

After consultation with Professors Hayes and Moon, the book editors of the Macmillan Company, the publishers, issued a statement which read in part:

"The book probably does not set forth the Rev. Dr. Haughwout's particular views as to the Church of England. The passage dealing with the origin of the Church of England gives a brief and straightforward statement of the historical facts without either censure or praise. The parts played by King Henry VIII and Queen Elizabeth are mentioned, but history can not eliminate their names.

"The complaint also contains the charge that 'the Roman Catholic Church is everywhere deliberately defended.' Apparently the Rev. Dr. Haughwout did not read pages 101 and 102, in which the abuses in the Catholic Church previous to the Reformation are mentioned as a matter of historical fact, and as a reason for the Reformation. The book is manifestly fair to the Catholic as well as to the Protestant churches, recording only well established and undisputed historical facts, with no attempt to influence the religious convictions of its readers."

Renews Attack on Book.

Dr. Haughwout preached yesterday on the exclusion of "Modern History" in a sermon entitled "propaganda in the public schools." He called upon his congregation of about 300 as well as "upon tens of thousands of loyal American parents in the city of New York, to take the trouble to find out what their children learn in the public schools."

He also challenged the Calvert Society, of which Professor Hayes is a director, to say as a society opposed to religious intolerance, "whether or not they consider it a proper book for use in the public schools."

He repeated some of his citations of objectionable passages which he gave to THE NEW YORK TIMES last Friday, and characterized the book as "an insidious thing that has crept into our schools." "Its avowed object," he went on, "is to trace the social, political, economic and religious developments of the past 400 years; the rise of democracy, the growth of our industrial civilization and the origin of the great religious bodies of the West.

"In the view of these learned writers, the Middle Ages might well be described as a species of social, political, and religious paradise from which our ancestors fell; a paradise which can never be regained as long as we adhere to the false gods of national patriotism, political democracy, capitalism and protestantism.

"Such are the obvious and indisputable implications of the book. They treat of matters for which no consensus of historical opinion can be claimed. The dogmatic assertions of the writers are questionable to the last degree and gravely wound the religious sensibilities of the great majority of the American people."

Westminster Abbey Echoes To Strains of a Spiritual

LONDON, May 4.—For the first time in its history Westminster Abbey this afternoon echoed to soft low Negro spirituals. Three thousand persons remained seated after the afternoon service while two Negro students of Hampton Institute—Ruby Trueheart of Charlottesville, Va., leader of the Hampton Girls' Glee Club, and William S. Mann of Phoebus, Va., president of the Boys' Glee Club—placed a wreath of laurel heather on Livingston's tomb. The wreath was tied with the blue and white colors of Hampton and bore the inscription, "From the Hampton Choir in grateful remembrance of David Livingston."

The great congregation rose as the choir sang, "Don't be Weary, Traveller," with which Dr. Nathaniel Dett, director of the choir, won the Francis Boott Prize at Harvard. Throughout the service the Hampton students had a place of honor in the choir stalls and were warmly welcomed by the Dean of Westminster.

'IZZY' EINSTEIN GUEST AT A DINNER HERE

Former Dry Agent Defends City Against Charge It Is Wettest Spot in the Country.

Isidore (Izzy) Einstein, former dry agent extraordinary, who in his many disguises flourished between 1921 and 1925 as the white hope of prohibitionists and the nemesis of tipplers, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given by the Krynicaer Young Men's Benevolent Society at Central Plaza, 111 Second Avenue. Among the 1,000 persons present were many prominent in the city's political and official circles. Mr. Einstein defended his native city against the charge that it was the wettest in the nation.

"Some people," he said, "especially through the South and West, think New York City is the worst in the country. I differ with those people. New York City is as dry as any other city in the United States. Why, I didn't even see any liquor at this dinner."

The celebration marked Mr. Einstein's twenty-five years of membership in the Krynicaer Society. Incidentally, it was pointed out that yesterday also was the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of his parents, both of whom were present.

Among the guests were Moe Smith, Mr. Einstein's former colleague on the dry force; Jacob Graff, Sol Ullman, Assistant Deputy Attorney General; William I. Sirovich, Representative of the Fourteenth Congressional District; Samuel S. Koenig, Republican county leader; Jacob A. Livingston of Brooklyn, Samuel Mandelbaum, Assemblyman of the Fourth District; Louis Zeltner, former Alderman; Emanuel Goldberg and Edward Ahern, Democratic leader of the Fourth Assembly District.

ALIENS BRAVE NIAGARA.

Pass Close to Whirlpool Rapids in Rowboat—Five Arrested.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 4 (AP).—Five aliens, a man and four women, dared the swirling waters of the Niagara River in a rowboat early today, but were captured by immigration border patrolmen on landing on the American shore. The party crossed perilously close to the whirlpool rapids and were endeavoring to clamber up the steep embankment when the patrolmen appeared.

A man who said he was Paul Dane of Niagara Falls, Ont., was held as a smuggler. He accompanied the aliens, official charge, and was taken to a hospital here, being severely injured when he plunged down the steep embankment in an effort to escape.

The aliens were finns from Hamilton, Ont.

SLAIN ON BRIDAL DAY BY FATHER OF GIRL

Elizabeth Widower, 42, Shot Dead as He Leaves Church Mass With Fiancee, 19.

WEDDING WAS OPPOSED

Prisoner Had Threatened It Would Never Take Place and Daughter Left Home After Quarrel.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 4.—John Kus, 43 years old, a widower of four months, was shot and killed this morning soon after he had left St. Hedwig's Roman Catholic Church, where he had attended the 8 o'clock mass with Miss Bertha Dziobak, 19, whom he was to have married this afternoon. Her father, Feliz, 42, is charged with the crime by the police.

Kus and his intended bride met Dziobak and and his son, Julius, 15, on the sidewalk outside the church at the close of the morning service. Although Dziobak had bitterly opposed the marriage because of the difference in the couple's ages, Kus stopped him and asked him to attend the wedding. Dziobak replied that he would consult his wife about it, according to the story later obtained by the police.

Dziobak and his son then got into the rear seat of Kus's automobile, while Miss Dziobak and Kus took the front seat. They had proceeded about 150 feet along Clarkson Avenue when Dziobak, according to the police, drew a pistol and fired three shots into the back of Kus's head. Then he tried to shoot his daughter, the police said, but the cartridge failed to explode.

Dziobak jumped from the car, followed by his son, who took the pistol from his father and ran to their home at 340 Myrtle Street, where he hid it in a trunk in the cellar, Dziobak, almost hysterical, continued to run about the neighborhood of the shooting until he was arrested by Patrolman John Henry. Kus was rushed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital but died on the way.

Because of Dziobak's excited condition the police were unable to obtain a statement from him, but they learned from his family that he had made threats that the wedding would never take place. The police said Dziobak had not worked since he fractured his skull in an accident at the local Standard Oil plant five years ago. He has received a small pension but the principal support of the family has been the earnings of Bertha, who was employed on piecework in a local factory.

She quarreled with her family over the impending marriage to Kus and a week ago left their home, taking a room near Kus's home at 143 Bayway. Kus, a widower with three sons, was an ice dealer in business for himself. There were nine other children, all younger than Bertha, in the Dziobak family.

Bertha and Julius Dziobak were both held by the police as material witnesses.

NORFOLK, Va., May 4 (AP).—Fire said to have started from an explosion in the forward part of a tug moored at the dock tonight soon after 10 o'clock set fire to Pier 7 at the Hampton Roads naval operating base. At 11:30 o'clock the fire was still raging.

Recently $250,000 was spent on the pier to care for the airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga.

The entire pier appeared doomed. The tug Kewayden, which was moored at the pier, caught fire but was cut loose and escaped destruction.

The Norfolk department sent two companies in response to the first call for aid. At 11 o'clock a call for more equipment was received and a third company and a fireboat were sent to the scene. The cause of the explosion on the tug had not been learned nor was it known whether any casualties had resulted.

BUS CRASHES INTO RAILING.

A Fifth Avenue bus crashed through the mid-street park area at Broadway near Sixty-third Street early this morning. Of the fifteen passengers in the bus four reported slight injuries to the police, but declined medical aid.

The accident happened when the bus, north-bound in Broadway, struck a rut in the paving a bus length north of the Sixty-third Street intersection. The driver, Thomas O'Reilly of 85 Audubon Avenue, lost control and the machine tore up about seventy-five feet of the iron railing which guards the mid-street park area. Surface car traffic was held up as a result of the accident and automobiles were detoured west through Sixty-third Street.

Those reporting injuries were Sylvia Levine, 22 years old, of 558 West 164th Street; Joseph Mullen, 24, of 2,785 Twenty-first Street Jackson Heights, L. I.; Fred Mullen, 24, of 66 Eighty-fourth Street, Jackson Heights, and Susan Wallek, 41, of 246 West End Avenue.

Brig. Gen. Williams Back, Says Conditions Are Improving.

Brig Gen. Dion Williams of the United States Marines arrived yesterday on the Toloa from Nicaragua, where he has been serving for thirteen months. He said conditions in the Central American republic are improving.

"There is still a little banditry," he added, "but there has been banditry there for 100 years. There have been no raids on the coffee plantations for the past five months."

General Williams said that last year there were 3,000 American marines in Nicaragua, but only 1,000 now. He said he believed the force would be there another year. There are 200 American officers and non-commissioned officers training the native army, he said.

Sermons Preached Yesterday in the Metropolitan District

SOME SKEPTICS REVEALED

Many of 575 Regard Him as "Big Man Up in Heaven," but to Others He Is "Magic" or "Nature."

Children in Protestant Sunday schools differ in their opinion of prayer and the meaning of religion, but most of them agree that God is a "pleasant looking gentleman," it is indicated by the results of a study prepared by Dr. Angus H. MacLean for Teachers College, Columbia University, which was made public yesterday. Dr. MacLean tested 575 Sunday school children enrolled in the elementary grades.

A question on what God does brought a variety of opinions from the youngsters. Some of the answers were: "He watches and writes down everything we do." "He keeps us from getting sick when we get our feet wet." "He saves people from drowning and accidents." "He sends the rain and snow." "There was an auto accident in our street; God did it."

"The people in the Mississippi flood were bad, so God sent the flood," one youngster wrote. This stand was opposed by another, who said: "God didn't drown people in the flood. The devil did it. The devil was good once but he got bad and turned all red, and now he kills people." A third youngster answered: "God saves people from being killed. I know, because I fell right in front of an automobile and it never touched me."

Name Their Authorities.

Questioned on their authority in matters of religion, the children named the Bible, the minister, father and mother, Jesus and the angels. However, there was some difference of opinion here, too.

"You have to go to heaven to find out about God," one child wrote. Another skeptical youngster answered: "I wonder how people who wrote the Bible found out about God?" Another answer was: "Thunder is God speaking to us."

When it came time to consider the quality of God's love, most of the children were in agreement that "God loves the good people and punishes bad ones." This interpretation, however, did not satisfy them all.

An eight-year-old was sure that "God tells our mother to punish us," and a second was of the opinion that God "loves poor people a little better."

"If we are sorry for doing wrong, He will love us again," one youngster answered emphatically.

Some answers on the meaning of prayer were: "God talks to us and tells us what to do," "God gives us what we ask for when we pray," "God hears everything we say when we pray," "Even if I get in a dark closet, He hears," "Prayer is getting down, putting your hands under your chin and praying," "Praying is like talking to mother, only I can't hear Him," "God forgives me when I do wrong if I ask Him."

There was one pronounced skeptic here. "It is crazy to pray, because God is right there all the time," he wrote. Two others said, "When I pray to God, I ask Him to save people like fliers from France. I can hear His voice," and "When I do wrong, He talks to me. I talk back to Him."

Locate God Variously.

The children located God variously as "away up in the sky, in Heaven, everywhere, down inside of me, in our church. He has His ear all over, in the hearts of people, especially in the hearts of people who come to church on Sunday; on the cross, in this room, in the air, in our hearts and right here all the time."

Forty per cent of the children thought of God as a man, with flesh and bones and beard. Fifteen per cent mentioned Him simply as "a man," withholding other details. Twenty per cent regarded Him as a spirit, ghost or fairy; 25 per cent made some reference to His kindness and goodness, and 12 per cent showed a consciousness of His power. Two per cent thought of Him as "nature," and one child knew He had a head, but nothing more.

"God is a powerful doctor," was one of the answers. One little girl confided that "mama has a picture of God." A youngster with modernist leanings said, "God doesn't really live, but gives you thoughts to do things to help people." "God is as big as a cloud. He wears a long dress and a blackish beard," was another answer. One of the children refused flatly to describe God. "I just can't tell you," he said.

Jesus was described as a doctor, God's son, God's brother, magic, "big man up in heaven" and "the man who made the snow." Among the things God wants people to do, the children said, are obeying mother, helping old people, fighting for our country, never going to war to kill people, being good in church, being kind to animals, helping mother mind the baby, giving pennies to poor people, getting a good report card and playing fair.

Finds Teaching Dogmatic.

Dr. MacLean reported that most of the teaching was dogmatic and that children were not encouraged to ask questions on lessons learned from the Bible stories.

"No distinction is made between the historic Jesus and the legendary Christ," he said. "There is not even a hint of the difficulties biblical scholars have encountered in the study of records.

"The great mass of material collected consists of dogmatic statements that leave no room for questions or, at least, do not anticipate questioning," he concluded. "Nowhere in elementary texts have children been frankly told of the actual controversial nature of theology.

"There is nothing in the methodology of these texts that would lead children to pick and choose with discrimination. There is no evidence of a consciousness that children need to develop thought habits to this end. This means that children are not being prepared to meet religious difficulties through reliance upon personal judgment, any more than they are provided with an adequate system of thought."

Growth of Knowledge Adds to Life's Mystery, Says Dr. Fosdick, Deploring Fear of Unknown

The growth of knowledge increases the mystery of the universe, and the popular idea that science is clearing up these mysteries is a strange inversion of the fact, the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick declared in his sermon yesterday before the congregation of Riverside Church, worshiping in Temple Beth-El.

"The fact is that modern science is making even the physical universe ever more mysterious," Dr. Fosdick said. "Professor Jeans says that the ultimate realities are probably forever beyond the comprehension of the human mind. Now mystery is dangerous. It can do things to us. Recall the old maps of the sea before Columbus and Magellan; that unsailed ocean was mysterious and so it was peopled with nameless dangers—monstrous sea creatures. Like children afraid of the dark, mankind was always fearful of the unknown.

"The mystery of life is doing dangerous things to people today. Cynicism, disillusionment, anxiety, fear—the thousand and one maladies of haunted and distracted lives are rooted back in emotional reaction to the mystery of life. As a matter of fact, however, we should be thankful that there is mystery. What if there were none? That would mean that we completely understood the universe but that in turn would mean that the universe was so small that it could be completely comprehended by our little minds. We should be grateful that the universe is much too marvelous for that. I would rather live in a world so wonderful that my life is surrounded by mystery than to live in a world so small that I could comprehend it.

"Moreover, wherever the mystery of the universe has at all been cleared up, the truth has always turned out to be more marvelous than men had dreamed. When man thought the earth was flat and stationary, the question as to what it rested on presented a great mystery. The truth that cleared that up was, however, far more marvelous than anything that the questioners ever had supposed.

"This universe is more spiritually significant than we have ever dared dream. To be sure, our thoughts of God are inadequate, but the reason is that the truth lies beyond our imagination, more wonderful, not less. In the meanwhile, for all the mystery that surrounds us we have light enough to live by, decently with ourselves, kindly with our neighbors, courageously in our troubles."

SOCKMAN DEPLORES MODERN 'DEBUNKING'

Swing From Sentimentality to Sophistication Has Robbed Youth of Ideals, He Says.

FINDS SERVICE DISCREDITED

But He Wonders Whether "Showing Up" Process May Not Be an Approach to Reality.

Sophistication, "debunking" and the present-day contempt for the idea of "service" were deplored as leaving the younger generation without any aims and ideals in life by the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman in his sermon yesterday in the Madison Avenue Methodist Church at Sixtieth Street.

"Our day has been witnessing a reaction from sentimentality to sophistication," said Dr. Sockman. "The temper of our time is to look first for the base motives before we credit the better ones. Our eyes are more alert for vices than for virtues. It is a work of cleverness to detect the fingerprints of evil around us; it is evidence of old-fashioned sentimentality to look with Longfellow for the 'footprints on the sands of time.'

"This attack on sentimentalism takes several forms. It has centred its windy gusts on those heroic figures and those romantic institutions around which human emotions gather the most thickly. Hence the debunking biographies. Hence also the cyclonic fury of criticism which has raged around the institution of marriage, for nowhere, it must be confessed, was the old hypocrisy more foggy in its thinking. When the mark of mawkish sentiment is blown away by the cold air of reason marriage is pictured by many as 'a series of frauds.'

"The idea of 'service' or 'uplift' is another focal point for the modern attack on sentimentalism. So hard is it to understand unselfish service that we think there must be some ulterior reasons back of the seemingly noble and kindly deeds which we see. In short, we go around seeking to 'show up' the evil intents of men rather than to 'show off' their good points. And, of course, enthusiasm in any form is subjected to searching scrutiny by this school of sophistication.

"For a decade and more we have been subjected to the 'showing-up' process, with the result that the trend has been to make our literature all surgery and no tonic, our churches the dissecting rooms of dead superstitions rather than clinics of the soul, our colleges the producers of side-line cynics instead of mental and moral athletes who enjoy the game of living.

"But is this post-war reaction from sentimentalism proving an approach to reality? In 'seeing through' the falsities of the old hypocrisies are we coming to see the truth about ourselves? Or may it be that the stressing of the will to disbelieve is as fatal to truth as the over-emphasis on 'the will to believe'? William James once asked a provocative question: 'What proof is there that dupery through hope is so much worse than dupery through fear?' It is a query which the present day might well ponder."

CHURCH ARMY AIMS TOLD.

Work of Episcopal Organization Explained by British Leader.

Captain William R. Davey of the Church Army headquarters, London, England, addressed the congregation of Trinity Chapel, West Twenty-fifth Street, yesterday morning on the work of his organization. With him was C. J. Atkinson, captain of the Church Army training centre at Providence, R. I. They traced the growth of the work in this country.

"The Church Army is an organization of laymen in the Protestant Episcopal Church and Church of England," explained Captain Davey. "It carries on social work throughout the country. We were the first to undertake prison relief and were the first to engage in a wide scope of social work. However, we differ from other organizations doing the same sort of work in that we have kept to the one Church. Starting in England almost half a century ago, our organization has grown as fast as could be reasonably expected and the extent of our duties has grown even more than we believed possible at the beginning."

Scores Entertainment in Churches.

Many churches are nothing more than places of entertainment, according to the Rev. William Lamb, Australian evangelist, who preached yesterday in the Gospel Tabernacle, 692 Eighth Avenue. "I can't understand why so many people go to church for any purpose other than to worship God," he said. "Perhaps the reason is that they are out of touch with God, with so many of our churches holding out entertainment, presenting dramatic spectacles to attract people."

DELINQUENTS HELD IN NEED OF RELIGION

FINDS MORAL EVIL WORST

Genuine religion admits of no unrighteousness and society will be saved only by a true recognition of the brotherhood of man, practiced by Christ when he defended Mary Magdalene, according to the Rev. Dunstan Dobbins, superior of the English Franciscans at Providence, R. I., who was the principal speaker at the eighth annual communion breakfast of the Good Shepherd Auxiliary, Villa Loretto, held yesterday at the Hotel Roosevelt, following a mass in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Lady Armstrong, wife of Sir Henry Armstrong, British Consul General at New York and chairman of the Good Shepherd advisory board, presided. Mgr. John F. Brady, pastor of the Church of St. Francis de Sales and spiritual director of the House of the Good Shepherd, a reformatory for women operated by the religious of the Order of the Good Shepherd at Peekskill, N. Y., announced Cardinal Hayes's official sanction for the formation of plans to establish a House of the Good Shepherd in New York City, to act as a clearing house for young women waiting for their cases to come to trial.

"That moral evil is the greatest possible evil, before which physical evil fades into insignificance, is the great lesson of Christianity," Father Dobbins said. "But you cannot teach delinquents the degradation of moral evil without teaching them the holiness of God and His all-embracing love. Offenders against society must be treated with generosity and Christian humility by the society which produced them and is responsible for them. The work of restoring the fallen to a place in society may not be the most thrilling mission in the world, but it is the most Christlike in spirit. Christ Himself said, 'Lo, I am the Good Shepherd,' and all who join Him in the work of finding the lost sheep join their hearts to His."

CHIDES EARLY LEAVERS AT CHURCH SERVICES

Dr. Norwood Reproves Worshipers Who Depart During Recessional Hymn.

In a plea for reverence and devotion at the church service, the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood admonished his parishioners yesterday at St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Park Avenue and Fifty-first Street, for reaching for their over coats and hats during the recessional hymn.

"The recessional is as much a part of the worship as the communion and other rituals of the service," he told the congregation. "The service is not ended until you hear the choral 'Amen' in the distance. Let us not go away before we settle this matter about St. Bartholomew's. It must be more than a place for public assembly; it must be a place for utter devotion to God."

Dr. Norwood, who observed the completion of his fifth year as pastor of the church yesterday, preached a sermon similar to that which he will deliver May 12 at the annual meeting of the Synod at London, Ontario.

"Though we believe that the Holy Church universal in all the world represents every phase of a so-called Catholicism or Protestantism," said Dr. Norwood, "that the Spirit, the Comforter, has always been present where there have been integrity, sincerity, devotion and love—though we believe all that—we have a right to thank God this morning for the Protestant Episcopal Church, to believe that under the Providence of God it has been used divinely and will continue to be used divinely."

DARLINGTON DENIES THAT RELIGION LAGS

Church Has Kept Abreast of Modern Thought and Needs of Man, He Declares.

CITES THREE EXAMPLES

Views on the Individual, on Sin and on Immortality Have Changed, Says Pastor.

Religion has not lagged behind, but has kept abreast of the progress of thought and the needs of modern man, the Rev. Dr. Henry Darlington contended yesterday in his sermon in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street.

As illustrations of what he meant Dr. Darlington cited the changed attitude of religion with regard to the individual, the conception of sin and the doctrine of the immortality of the soul. In these three questions the church has sought to come closer to the modern mind, Dr. Darlington declared.

Whereas formerly the individual was considered by religion as counting for nothing, today the individual receives the attention from religion which modern concepts of his rights and position in society require, Dr. Darlington said.

"We are getting away from the Puritanical conscience which felt and taught that beauty and harmony and happiness and joy savored of sin because the individual liked them," he declared. "If the definition for sin as 'anything which separates us from God' is accepted, how can we view these things as such? They are the things which draw us nearer to Him in love, when it is realized that He created them for our enjoyment.

"Again we come to another development in modern religion, its concept of immortality. We ask of ourselves, have those who have died been annihilated, or are they existing in some other sphere? The Church teaches and always has taught that there is no death; that we are the heirs of immortality. She still teaches that truth, but she has discarded the old idea as to the place where the departed go. She does not ask us to believe that they have gone where they do nothing for ever and ever and in ethereal dress play a harp on the edge of some cloud, but rather to another sphere where they are able to grow in love and service, until eventually they are able to attain to the stature of Christ.

"These three illustrations serve to show the modern teaching of the Church. Underlying it all is the old, but presented in an entirely new way, the direct purpose of which is to give to each individual a way of life, leading to happiness."

DECLARES RELIGION IS AT LOW EBB TODAY

But Dr. McClorey Says It Has Not Failed to Sustain Man as Has Irreligion.

Religion today has fallen into a state of decadence, but it has not failed as has irreligion, the Rev. Dr. John A. McClorey of the University of Detroit pointed out yesterday morning in a sermon at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

"The sensualists scorn religion because it limits their pleasures," Father McClorey declared. "The modernists have turned away from it because they say it does not fit in with the modern scheme of life. The freethinkers have severed their connection because they cannot find sufficient independence in religion."

Dr. McClorey asserted that in addition to the adherents of these groups there are thousands who go to church hungering for the "meat of truth" and receive only weak food of speculations and personal opinions. It is very evident, he averred, that the religious zeal which caused so many Christians in past centuries to surrender their lives has reached a very low ebb today.

He pointed out that these martyrs were as truly normal as the people today. They were neither fanatical nor callous. He said that one big deed is better than a thousand thoughts and that one test of religion is sacrifice.

"Religion tried to make men think for themselves and has made a pretty mess of things," Dr. McClorey asserted. "Men have thought for themselves and have pulled down the pillars of faith, and now they have plenty of time to meditate on their foolhardiness.

"True it is that the Christian era has not been a heaven on earth," Dr. McClorey emphasized. "However, paganism gives man no hope nor happiness. Despite our boasted prosperity we could hardly be worse off than we are."

What is history, he asked, but a revelation of wars, a story of blood and tears? He said that life at best is but a makeshift. He said he believed that happinesses are very few and that we tend downward as the gravity of a stone. Men of reason cast away reason and boast of their power to destroy life.

He pointed out that this would all be monstrous if we did not know it were true. By reason, he said, we realize that at some time there has been a sweeter existence. Reason indicates that we are a fallen race. He asserted that religion is a necessity of life.

MARKS 75TH ANNIVERSARY.

The services yesterday morning at the Second German Baptist Church, 407 West Forty-third Street, formed part of a four-day celebration, ending last night, commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding and marking its reopening after extensive alterations.

Established at its present location in 1855 by the Rev. Charles Gottfried Gayer as the French-German Baptist Church of the City of New York, it became, with the dissolution of the First German Baptist Church, the oldest German Baptist church in Manhattan. May 1 also marked the thirty-fifth year of the ministry of the pastor, H. Frederick Hoops. Dr. Benjamin T. Livingston, superintendent of evangelism of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, was the special preacher.

City's Gayety Masks Dread, The Rev. Henry Howard Says

"God could have created man in the manner of a clock, whose life is guided in a certain regular manner," said the Rev. Henry Howard in his sermon yesterday at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street. "But instead of doing this he created man as a moral agent, who is master of his own destinies.

"Our thoughts are molded around three dreads, many of us: dread of life, dread of death and dread of the beyond. A man has control of his destiny in a direct proportion as he has control of these dreads or fears.

"Gayety is often simply a mask, which we wear in order to make others believe we do not possess the dreads and fears which are really in our hearts. The gayety of this city, at least the majority of it, is purely an affectation of this sort. It is to many a solution to the problem of keeping their minds devoid of fear."

DENOUNCES LAXITY IN CHURCH WORSHIP

SEES FINANCIAL EXPANSION

Asserts, However, That Loyalty of Members Has Not Kept Pace With the Material Growth.

Absentee membership in the Church was denounced yesterday in the sermon of the Rev. Dr. Nathan R. Melhorn of Philadelphia, editor of The Lutheran, weekly publication of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, at the Lutheran Church of the Advent, Broadway and Ninety-third Street. Dr. Melhorn held the pulpit in the absence of the regular pastor, the Rev. A. Steimle, who preached the seventy-fifth anniversary sermon yesterday in his former parish, St. John's of Allentown, Pa.

"To participate in the belief," Dr. Melhorn declared, "people must belong to the Church literally. The great difficulty at present in all denominations is the effort of Church members to spread the Gospel by proxy. One cannot lease his gifts of grace to another. He either uses them himself or they lie dormant.

"The Church does not arise from the common consent to doctrines, nor from associations formed by a group of people in the same community, nor from reverential devotion to shrines and heroes of the faith. The Church is an organism because Jesus Christ, its head, planned a means whereby the gifts of grace in individuals could articulate with each other."

Dr. Melhorn declared that in a recent conversation with Dr. F. H. Knubel, president of United Lutheran Church, "it became apparent that there has been a very great expansion in the sphere of denominational finances during the past ten years."

"Capital investments trebled, annual income more than doubled," he continued. "But loyalty in membership has not kept pace with the expansion in material strength. The net gain in membership for the United Lutheran Church was not more than 10,000 despite the fact that more than three times that number were confirmed. This is true of all other denominations. The next ten years will witness a straight-out bitter struggle for the fundamentals of the faith. During the coming decade we must restamp the truths the Lord revealed to us in the minds of Church members."

LIBERAL EVANGELISM GAINS, SAYS DR. SIMONS

2,000,000 Persons in Philippines to Become Unitarians This Summer, He Asserts.

Speaking on the revival of the unity of liberal evangelism in his sermon yesterday before the All Souls' Unitarian Congregation worshiping in the McDowell Club, 166 East Seventy-third Street, the Rev. Dr. Minot Simons declared that 2,000,000 persons in the Philippine Islands, organized for twenty-five years into the Independent Church, are coming into fellowship with the Unitarians, and that about half the people of Iceland have become Unitarian-minded.

Fellowship is to be extended to them this Summer by delegates from All Souls' Church and other Unitarian churches attending the 1,000th anniversary of their continuous free parliament, Dr. Simons said. Later these delegates, with similar delegations from all over Europe, will reorganize the International Congress of Religious Liberals, which was disrupted during the war.

"The motive of liberal evangelism is not to convert but to confer—not to convert to a traditional 'ism' but to confer in the spirit of a broad and free, scientific and philosophic approach to the religious problems of modern life," Dr. Simmons said. "The aim is not to force modern ideas upon an alien people and civilization, but to await an invitation to explain the liberal point of view, to try to put it in native form, and then in due time to leave it to the people themselves to carry on and to adjust still further to new ideas. Such liberal evangelism is a dynamic thing. It is not static, frozen into tradition. It is alive and communicated from person to person by the very spirit of the times. The liberal habit of mind is now coming into fellowship the world over and the result will be a hastening everywhere of the readjustment of religion to modern science and philosophy."

CALLS PREVISION TASK OF PROPHECY

Rev. Dr. J. M. Versteeg Assails Trends in Education and Behavioristic Psychology.

CITES NEW YORK PUBLIC

Prevision—not precision—is the ultimate task of prophecy, which enables us to see things through in achieving our goal and in perceiving the unseen, the Rev. Dr. John M. Versteeg, minister of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, Pa., said in his sermon yesterday at the Collegiate Church, West End Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street.

Assailing the present trend in education and behavioristic psychology, Dr. Versteeg said "the present tendency is that men are telling us there is no use in further investigation. The old questions remain unsolved. Why bother about them?

"On the face of it, it looks as though nothing could be finally solved. John Dewey has made the significant point that we learn to know by doing. But when this point is pressed long enough, other philosophers protest for all they are worth.

"A short time ago behaviorism was all the rage. 'Are we free?' it asked, and answered 'No' with a vengeance. But today Wolfgang Kohler comes to smite behaviorism hip and thigh, and it looks as if it is done for.

"What has religion to say to all of this? Religion is concerned not so much with precision, which is the task of science, as with prevision, which is the task of prophecy. It urges us to see straight, to look through things, to reach a goal and to see the unseen."

Citing the people of New York City as examples of fear obsessions, he said that we are afraid to see things to their ultimate goal. Certain habits and mental reactions do not let us be free. Only faith, he said, and Rooseveltian grit would enable us to achieve the success for which we aim. "We must see fearlessly and without prejudice."

Today there are miracles exposed to the gaze of science. Even scientists are profound believers in the unseen, and devote their time and energies in behalf of science, which, he said, works through other channels to better man in his material and humanitarian world. Dr. Versteeg, who is known nationally as a Methodist preacher, is the author of "Perpetuating Pentecost." He preached for the first time at the Collegiate Church.

ASKS $300,000 TO SAVE CHURCH BUILT IN 1665

A plea for the preservation of historical monuments in the United States was made by the Rev. W. Harold Weigle Jr. in his first sermon yesterday as the new rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Eastchester, which dates back to 1665. Plans for the reconstruction of St. Paul's were announced by the rector, who pleaded for a fund of $300,000 for this purpose.

"Who will deny that in our industrial era, with every phase of our lives and institutions rapidly changing and assuming new valuations, there is a need of the preservation of what few monuments are left to us in the nation?" Mr. Weigle said. "Descendants of the original pew holders of St. Paul's, Eastchester, patriotic groups, members and friends have resolved to reconstruct and preserve this historic monument. We are resolved to do this because there are few cognate monuments of a world that used to be. The register of St. Paul's stands forth in bold relief with the names of many of its noblest souls who have ever graced the pages of American history.

"Here is a church established in 1665 with as glorious a history as any religious shrine could ask for. Its services have continued throughout this long period without interruption except during the revolution, when the church was used as a hospital by the British. It has never publicly enumerated its services and mission to mankind, yet it would require the labor of statisticians and secretaries to catalogue its accomplishments for our nation.

"To make sure of reconstructing the church the village green and cemetery from the encroachments of the industrial order it will be necessary to raise $300,000 in the immediate future. We are asking that public-spirited citizens will come to our aid and help us to carry out the simple but dignified plan which the architects have completed."

Brief addresses were also made by the Rev. George Reid Andrews, executive director of the Church and Drama League, and Walter Chalaire, New York lawyer.

LAUDS COMMUNITY CHURCH.

Bishop F. J. McConnell Admires Its Freedom From Convention.

"Any kind of a religious training must include a search for essential values," Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Churches of Christ in America, said yesterday morning in a sermon on "The Appeal to the Best," in the Community Church, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, of which the Rev. John Haynes Holmes is the pastor.

The Bishop said "Jesus had that power of mind to hail a man at his best, just at the moment when the eternal and essential in a man stood forth. He could detect the essential man that comes out in the glance of an eye, the turn of a word, or the change of an expression in all of us."

Commenting later on his presence, as Bishop of a Methodist Episcopal diocese, in the Community Church, Bishop McConnell said: "I have a great admiration for this liberal church. Its freedom from convention gives it a chance to see some things that other churches might be blind to."

Conservatism as Trustee

THE most practical and satisfactory method of providing for the welfare of a dependent—a wife, child, relative or friend—is through the creation of a trust fund, the interest from which will give the desired income.

With a trust fund so established in the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company the beneficiary is assured of a steady allowance, uncertainty is eliminated, and the benefactor is relieved of the routine that so often becomes an annoyance.

The sound principles of banking that are so rigidly adhered to by the Corn Exchange are expressed no more strongly than in its conservatism as Trustee, and the results of such policy have been of the utmost advantage to both creators and beneficiaries of the Trust Funds over which it has been appointed.

There are 68 branches of the Corn Exchange in Greater New York, at any of which a conference may be arranged to discuss the full requirements of any trust that may be desired.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Paradox of Last Week's Events—Falling Bank Rates Along With Falling Stocks.

The decline in last week's stock market at the moment of the cut in home and foreign bank rates to the low level of many years—the lowest since 1924 at New York, since 1923 at London and since a date sixteen years before the war at Paris—caused great and not unnatural perplexity. Some Wall Street watchers were inclined to remark that if last week's reduction of the New York bank rate to 3 per cent, traditionally a cheerful incident for the Stock Exchange, was greeted by the most sweeping decline in the "averages" since the middle of December, so also the rise of the same bank's rate to 6 per cent last August, traditionally a warning of trouble ahead, was followed shortly by the most violent rise in stocks that last year's markets witnessed. The inference rather generally drawn was that even so striking an incident as the money market developments of last week and nine months ago is sometimes powerless to arrest the momentum of a sweep of speculative prices.

When the 6 per cent rate was announced, last Summer, the nationwide speculative mania was at its highest pitch of violence. When 3 per cent was fixed, last Thursday, the retreat from an ill-judged professional speculation for the rise was in full swing. Yet the very fact that the high money of nine months ago, though its implication for finance and industry was ignored by the markets of the day, had impressive influence a few months later, caused the question to be put last week, whether the influence on business of the present very easy money market may not similarly have been only deferred. That question calls for re-examination of the whole position.

The position last midsummer was simple enough; stock speculation was stripping trade and industry of its normal capital supplies, threatening the stability of foreign markets, and injecting into the field of consumers' purchases a stimulus of so unstable a character that its early and sudden disappearance was a certainty. The existing position is more complicated. We do not yet know—it is never possible to know in the immediate sequel to a financial readjustment of such violence as last Autumn's—just how much of the preceding "boom" in trade was itself of an unreal nature. Also, in the later sequel, the action of staple prices has thrown into the controversy a consideration whose meaning is not yet clear.

But it is distinctly not true that all the traditional weather-signs are unfavorable. On the contrary, this year's absence of progressive and uninterrupted shrinkage in business activities, its recurrent indications of moderate speeding-up of some lines of trade, and such reassuring company statements as Tuesday's quarterly report for the United States Steel, have given ground for at least conservative hopefulness. Furthermore, no one doubts the eventual return to full industrial activities. The main question in the financial mind is when the turn will come, what will immediately bring it, and what we have to expect during the interval before it comes.

Last week's incidents cast a particularly strong light on certain illusions concerning return to easy money. It is beginning to be understood that it is one thing to argue that sound business conditions cannot be restored until an abnormally high money rate comes down, but quite another thing to assume that return to easy money will instantly restore pre-existing conditions. The stock market, when it was acting very recently on the last-named presumption, shut its mind to such facts as the prolonged chapter of 2 and 3 per cent time money rates on Wall Street after the panics of 1907 and 1893. In the sequel, this abnormally cheap money had to be recognized as effect, not cause; as the result of an economic readjustment whose completion could hardly be the achievement of a season, not a guarantee of immediate recovery.

The stock market's excessively violent decline of last week was the price which had to be paid for very rash ignoring of these historic principles. The downward plunge on the Stock Exchange was itself no more the exact foreshadowing of trade conditions later in the year than was the ill-fated rise in stocks at the end of March. By this time the whole community ought to have learned that the stock market invites these severe readjustments purely by its own excesses, and that trade pursues its course without reference to them.

MORE CHEERFULNESS ON BRITISH MARKET

BANK AND MONEY MARKET

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—Although open market discount rates on Lombard Street are still a long way below even the reduced bank rate, it is expected that a tendency will soon be shown for outside rates to come nearer to the bank's figure. The basis for this expectation is that the present low rates will probably result in a larger supply of bills, in more active trade and in increased flotation of new loans. Also, the British Treasury usually puts out more bills at this period of the year than at others.

The effect of Thursday's reduction in the bank rate was favorable on the Stock Exchange. Investment stocks made a sharp response on the ground that cheaper money will help to remove the unfavorable impression created by the higher taxation imposed by the budget. Industrial securities have responded because of belief that real esay money, if maintained for any length of time, must have a stimulating influence on business. The low money rates are admitted to be the result of depressed trade, but it is also felt that they should help to cure that condition.

Discount rates on the open market have for so long a time been out of touch with the bank rate, despite the successive reductions at the bank, that this week's lowering of the Bank of England rate was largely ascribed to that fact. Other causes assigned, however, are the depressed state of trade and the heavy fall in commodity prices. It is also well known that important international financial loans are impending and that their flotation would be materially assisted by the lower bank rate. Although further reduction in the official bank rate is improbable, no upward movement in money rates is likely until trade revives and general demand for credit expands.

The Continental demand for gold in London continues, but it is confined to purchases in the open market, therefore does not affect the Bank of England, which has still to receive a substantial quantity of gold from Australia and will shortly take in fairly large quantities consigned directly to it from South Africa. Since the last previous reduction in the bank rate, which was made in March, the bank's gold holdings have risen from £154,245,375 to £164,283,793. Compared with a year ago the increase is £5,517,630.

STOCK MARKET AT LONDON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The Bankers' Magazine index of 365 representative securities on April 17 on the London market was 124.2 per cent, comparing with 123.3 a month before, with 127.3 a year ago, and with last year's high record of 129.6, touched in January.

The Financial News index of 30 industrial shares at the end of April is 88.1. This compares with 89.3 at the end of the preceding week, 86.6 at the beginning of the year and 107.6 a year ago, which was the highest of 1929.

Germany's Exports to America, Holland and France Increase

BERLIN, May 2.—Although Germany's monthly foreign trade reports do not give countries of destination, it is considered certain that exports are increasing to the countries receiving reparations payments and to the more prosperous neutral countries. The detailed return for 1929 shows that Holland had replaced England as the largest buyer, taking particularly German manufactured goods, though in large part for transit trade.

France increased its German purchases last year enormously, but 52 per cent of her imports of German manufactured wares was in the form of reparation deliveries in kind. Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Switzerland also increased their purchases in Germany materially. The increase in American purchases of German goods was proportionately greater that that of Europe, both continents were taken as a whole.

In addition to last year's 195,000,000 marks increase of German exports to the United States, Chile, Argentina and Brazil increased their purchases heavily. Chile bought large quantities of machinery, electrical wares, iron goods and cotton manufactures.

CENTRAL EUROPEAN MARKETS STILL WEAK

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 2.—The stock markets of Central Europe have of late grown still weaker. At Budapest and Prague there was confident expectation that foreign purchases would come into the market after the settlement of the reparation disputes at Paris, but this has not happened. Compared with the beginning of 1927, the latest index of Boerse prices at Vienna is 76, at Budapest 82 and at Prague 96.

Offer of dollar credits to Vienna banks are continuing, however, with the interest rate on dollar loans dropping to 4⅛ per cent and even the dollar exchange rate at Vienna slightly lower. The nominal private discount rate is unchanged at 5⅛ per cent. Since the beginning of April, the ratio of reserve cover against the Austrian national bank's note issue has risen from 72½ to more than 75 per cent. The note issue itself, which recently exceeded 1,000,000,000 schillings, has now fallen to 847,000,000, while the metal reserve has risen to 728,000,000.

BERLIN MARKET UNCERTAIN.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 2.—The Berlin Stock Exchange moved uncertainly early in the week, although rayon shares rose after the formal signing of an agreement obliging textile manufacturers to cover 90 per cent of their requirements from native producers. On Friday the cuts in foreign bank rates occasioned a sharp advance in stocks.

A further good impression was made by the decision of Farbenindustrie to pay, out of assets released by the United States, a supplementary bonus dividend of 2 per cent in addition to the expected 12 per cent regular dividend. The Frankfurter Zeitung's index of Stock Exchange prices on April 25 is 111.03, as compared with 112.52 on April 11, with 109.68 at the end of March and 111.64 in January.

PARIS MAY RESUME IMPORT OF GOLD

Sterling Has Moved to Rate Permitting Engagements Again at London.

MONEY RATES VERY LOW

PARIS, May 2.—The possibility of gold imports from London has not been wholly removed by the lower Paris bank rate. Sterling weakened Friday morning to the neighborhood of the gold import point, leaving one to suppose that, although the interest rate is higher at London than at Paris, sales of sterling were made against francs. These sales of sterling appear to be for the account of French banks who wish to convert sterling balances into home credits in view of the impending subscription to share in the Bank for International Settlements.

Financial circles think it will be necessary for subscribers to apply for a considerable number of shares in order to obtain one. Since cash must be paid on application, banks wishing to obtain shares for themselves or for their customers must be in possession of fairly large liquid resources. Since payments made on application for the shares will be tied up for at least one or two days, the money market is expected to feel its effect in the form of a rather marked tightening of rates. The week's sales of sterling had more effect on exchange rates from the fact that the exchange market was already tending to rise on purchases of francs made against tourist account.

The reduction of the Bank of France official discount rate from 3 per cent to 2½ fixes the lowest rate since 1898. This was naturally the outstanding feature of the week's markets. The measure caused some surprise in financial circles, because money market conditions had not recently changed to any great extent. It is true, however, that outside rates are slightly easier despite the month-end requirements. Outside discounts declined from 2⅝ per cent to 2½, and call money from 2½@2¾ to 2 per cent flat, this being the status even while the official rate was held at 3 per cent.

STOCKS REACT AT PARIS.

PARIS, May 2.—The lowering of the Paris discount rate had not much effect on the Bourse this week. Trading was very dull, and in the middle of the week a sharp setback occurred, ascribed by bankers to mass sales by professional operators who had hoped that the reduction of taxes on Stock Exchange dealings and securities would incite capitalists to take renewed interest in the stock market.

Since the capitalists refused to interest themselves, the professionals were obliged to liquidate. They were all the more anxious to get out of the market when news came in of the great weakness in Wall Street during the last few days. The tendency of foreign markets generally was not of a character this week to give encouragement to speculation at Paris.

CUT IN BANK RATES A CONCERTED POLICY

LONDON, May 2.—In the view of financial London, last week's simultaneous reduction of bank rates at the principal money centres was not regarded as mere coincidence. The change was thought to be part of a concrete policy adopted by the banking authorities, here and abroad.

Thursday's reduction in the Bank of England rate came as a surprise to the City. As recently as a week ago financial London had definitely made up its mind that, owing to the unfavorable position of the foreign exchanges and to the keen Continental competition for gold arriving in the London bullion market, no further decline in the bank rate could be expected unless there should be resumption of the downward movement in central bank rates of other countries. Nevertheless, in the few preceding days there had been indications of a more favorable turn in the international money situation. Italy and Belgium had lowered their official discount rates, and the downward tendency at the Reichsbank was pronounced.

Paris Rate Followed London's.

PARIS, May 2.—It was thought here last week that the decision of the Bank of France to make a still further reduction in its official discount rate was necessitated by the Bank of England's decision to cut its own rate from 3½ per cent to 3. It is thought not to be impossible that the action was a concerted measure by Paris and London; but the general feeling is that the initiative was more probably taken by London, where open market interest rates had fallen far below the bank rate and the Bank of England had practically lost control of the market.

The Bank of France, which is now endeavoring to avoid fresh gold imports such as would entail further increase in the note circulation, was obliged to follow the Bank of England. Otherwise, if the official rate had been left identical at Paris and London, there would certainly have been withdrawals of French capital from London and probably gold imports.

Berlin Was Taken by Surprise.

BERLIN, May 2.—The week's new reductions of the London and Paris bank rates came entirely unexpectedly. They caused all the more surprise, because this time the New York Reserve Bank had not first set the example. After the announcement of New York's bank rate cut on Thursday afternoon, Berlin bankers came to the conclusion that the Reichsbank will immediately or very speedily follow suit.

Further, it is believed that the rate cuts at the London, Paris and New York banks are the first links in a chain of international reductions which will include even the minor money centres. A belief existed at the week-end that agreements to that effect have been concludd between the central banks.

LONDON, May 3.—Receipts of gold by the Bank of England during the past calendar week were £2,251,891, of which £2,000,000 came from Australia and £250,000 represented release of gold previously set aside for foreign account. Withdrawals were £525,155, of which £510,559 is believed to have been for Paris.

This latter movement was due to the sharp fall which has occurred in French exchange since the bank rate was reduced. An upward reaction of discount rates will probably follow that unexpected development. Next Tuesday £837,000 in bar gold and £300,000 in sovereigns are due to arrive from Africa. In the following week arrivals will be £434,000 in bars and £502,000 in sovereigns.

Vicissitudes of the London Bank Rate in Past Years

LONDON, May 2.—Thursday's 3 per cent Bank of England rate is the lowest since July, 1923, when, after being left at 3 per cent for about one year, the rate was advanced to 4. At that time, as now, trade was greatly depressed. To find a lower rate than the present figure one has to go back to 1909, when it stood at 2½ per cent during the six months following the end of March.

In 1898 it went to 2 per cent, a figure below which the London bank rate has never fallen. Immediately after the outbreak of the European war it rose to 10 per cent, but remained at that figure only a few days. Since then the highest has been the 7 per cent of 1920. The 6½ per cent rate of last September was the highest since 1920.

GERMANY'S NEW LOANS SLIGHTLY INCREASED

BERLIN, May 2.—The home market for new securities has improved. Loans placed on the German market in April exceeded four times the figure of March. The total of 39,000,000 marks, however, is still small. The majority of home loans were issued on severe conditions, such as 8 per cent interest with an issue price of 93½.

The total of foreign loans in April was 95,000,000, which is practically the same as in March. In addition, however, the Reichsbank received an advance on account of the first installment of $50,000,000 due on the Swedish Kreuger loan. Foreign loans in the first four months foot up 348,000,000, as against 198,000,000 in the same months of 1929.

BERLIN, May 2.—Balance sheets of the German commercial banks as of the end of March fully reflect the revolutionary change of the past few months in money-market conditions. Discounts have fallen heavily, while advances on the security of goods, which usually increase in the Spring months, have remained stagnant.

On the other hand, Stock Exchange prolongation credits increased, owing to the impulse toward speculation given by cheaper money.

Paris Expects 6½% Rate, Prefers 5½ and Bonus.

PARIS, May 2.—The exact amount of French shares in the mobilization loan is still unknown. Official circles generally favor a rate of 5½ per cent, with a bonus rather than 6½ per cent, which it is thought will be the actual rate.

The vote of the Chamber ratifying the Young agreement provided also that the mobilization loan should be exempt from French taxes.

PARIS, May 2.—The only foreign loan actually issued in France during the present year was a Chilean 6 per cent gold issue, the French share of which was 172,000,000 francs. This loan was not a success, however, being only partly subscribed by the public.

Foreign issues still remain subject to authorization by the finance ministry. Apparently they are not encouraged so long as the German mobilization loan remains unissued.

STOCK AVERAGE DOWN.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, May 2.—Professor Irving Fisher's index of Stock Exchange prices, based on the 225 most important stocks on the market and reckoned on their average of 1926 as 100, shows an average of 157.3 for the past week, as against 162.0 a week ago, 164.1 two weeks ago, 164.3 three weeks ago and 160.9 four weeks ago. The average of three weeks ago was the highest of the year to date; the lowest was 138.8 in the first week of January.

Another index number compiled by Professor Fisher and based on the fifty most active industrial stocks of the week is 998.3. This compares with 1005.7 the week before, 992.0 two weeks before 987.3 three weeks before and 949.9 four weeks before.

For the full month of April the average for the 225 stocks was 162.3, comparing with 154.2 for March, 148.3 for February and 186.4 for April, 1929.

REICHSBANK'S RATE MAY BE CUT AGAIN

FRENCH MONEY FLOWS IN

BERLIN, May 2.—It is generally agreed that the Reichsbank can easily reduce its official discount rate again. A fortnight ago, despite its repeated and very recent rate reductions, the Reichsbank had lost touch entirely with the open money market, yet since that time outside interest rates have continued to descend. The Berlin private discount rate now stands seven-eighths of 1 per cent below the official figure. This is partly a matter of waning trade. While the Reichsbank reports show continued dwindling of discounts and increase of gold holdings and foreign exchange, trade also shows no sign of recovery.

These aspects of the situation were emphasized by last week's Reichsbank return, covering conditions of April 30. It shows the smallest increase for the last week of any month during the past two years, with only one exception. The April month-end settlements were financed with exceptional ease, though the day loan rate still held relatively high at 5½@8 per cent. Monthly loans stood at 6@8 per cent, private discount at 4⅛.

The reduction of bank rates on Thursday at London, Paris and New York had practically no influence on the Berlin market for foreign exchange. This was apparently due to expectation of further central bank rate cuts at other points. Reichsmark exchange at present seems to be insured against weakening by virtue of the large inflow of French funds this past week.

Bankers here differ on the question whether the bank rate reductions of the week were made deliberately in order to facilitate the placing of the German mobilization loan. But opinion is unanimous that the effect will be extremely favorable.

NEW LOANS IN APRIL SMALLER AT LONDON

LONDON, May 2.—New capital issues on the London market in April, according to the Midland Bank statistics (which do not include government borrowing), amounted to £21,271,000, as against £26,384,167 in March and £34,767,000 in April last year. The last-named figure was, however, exceptionally high for April, the average for that month during the past five years being approximately £22,000,000. In the four completed months of 1930 capital issues have been £90,735,275, comparing with £149,014,216 last year and £121,968,189 in 1928.

The feature of last month's issue was the substantial increase of foreign loans, which aggregated £9,264,000, as against only £3,720,000 in March and £3,675,000 in April, 1929. San Paulo accounted for the bulk of last month's increase in such loans. The month's domestic issues aggregated £11,890,000, as against £16,948,000 in March and £28,756,000 in the preceding April.

Impending issues include £5,500,000 from New Zealand in 5 per cents at 99. Some of this money is designed for repayment of temporary advances at London.

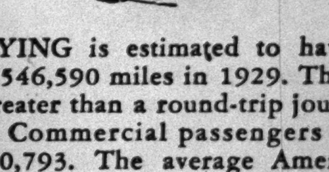
The Dominant Power of Air Transport



FLYING is estimated to have covered 197,546,590 miles in 1929. This distance is greater than a round-trip journey to the sun. Commercial passengers numbered 3,160,793. The average American state does not contain so many people as that.

Oil Shares Incorporated has invested its funds exclusively in petroleum and allied corporations. Shares of more than 50 leading companies are owned. All branches of the business are included. This Company devotes its capital to petroleum, because the industry's record for many years is one of continuous growth and satisfactory profit.

AMERICAN OUTLOOK OBSCURE TO EUROPE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The position of the United States still seems obscure to London observers. This is especially so inasmuch as the American commodity markets seem to be feeling the greater pressure in the present reaction of staple prices.

The opinion was rather widely expressed, this week, that premature optimism in the American markets may itself tend to delay return to normal conditions.

BERLIN, May 2.—In German banking circles the American trade outlook for the next few months is not regarded favorably. The prevalent view is that the United States is in practically the same condition as Europe.

This is taken to mean that trade revival on both continents will be simultaneous and will have to be accompanied by substantial recovery in commodity prices.

Bankers commented this week on the new weakening of numerous European dollar bonds in Wall Street after the large rise in the first quarter. The present reaction is considered abnormal, having regard to the extreme cheapness of credit. Stock Exchange experts mostly expect another upward movement of stocks on Wall Street once the mobilization loan is out of the way.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 2.—The Neue Freie Presse writes retrospectively that it is not surprising that the continuous rise in prices at New York should have been watched with mixed feelings at all Continental places. Sober judges had thought that a revival of exaggerated speculation might upset the recovery which was beginning to show itself on all investment markets.

BRITISH TRADE REVIVAL EXPECTED TO BE SLOW

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The Federation of British Industries, in its trade forecast for the second quarter of 1930, says that considerable readjustment has still to be effected in finance and industry before anything in the nature of a sustained upward movement in world trade can again occur. The precipitous fall in prices of commodities, has, the Federation thinks, already embarrassed so seriously many important raw-material producing countries, that, even if it were possible to assume that the fall in prices has now been arrested, a long time must elapse before those countries will have regained a position enabling them to purchase foreign manufactured goods on anything like the previous scale.

The reduction in money rates at the principal world centres continues to be the most encouraging feature. It is remarked, however, that so long as the world's production remains out of adjustment with world consumption, relaxation of credit alone cannot make much headway as an influence.

PARIS STILL PERPLEXED ON TRADE OUTLOOK

PARIS, May 2.—Opinion is generally reserved here concerning the prospect of French industry. Although the domestic market remains on the whole fairly good, exports are considerably restricted, and apparently will remain so until the world's economic situation shall have cleared.

The very considerable decrease in value of both imports and exports during the first quarter, as compared with 1929, is ascribed almost wholly to lower prices. The tonnage figures showed large increase, weight of goods imported during the quarter being nearly 2,000,000 tons over the same period last year with an increase of 114,000 tons in weight of exports.

Austria's Trade Balance Improves.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 2.—The report on Austria's foreign trade in March shows an adverse balance of only 216 millions for the first quarter as against 268 millions in the corresponding period of 1929. Imports decreased by 60 million schillings, exports by only 7½ million.

RECOVERY IS IMPEDED BY THE FALL OF PRICES

BERLIN, May 2.—German trade has not improved. Coal production during the first quarter was practically the same as in 1929, but demand was declining at the quarter's end. Home and export markets for iron and steel continue very dull. Export of dyes exceeds in weight that of 1929, but, owing to the fall in prices, the money yield was lower. Export of cotton yarn and cotton goods is now being injured by the rapidly increasing export of rayon, owing to the very heavy fall in prices of rayon goods. All three corporations in the Salzdetfurth potash trust report increased net profits for 1929, but leave dividends unchanged.

In a long report on the world-wide fall of prices, the official Institute for Studying Trade Statistics says that, while the decline is probably near bottom, the action of prices, both in Germany and abroad, does not yet indicate speedy recovery in trade. Out of 130 stable commodities in Germany, 85 have fallen in price this year, 18 have risen and 27 have remained stable. The Deutsche Bank report calculates that, since the highest price level was reached here in the first half of 1928, the smallest fall to date in the price of any staple commodity has been 30 per cent and the largest 60 per cent.

Numerous commodities of international importance have now reached the pre-war German level; others, such as sugar, jute, zinc and copper, are even lower. While attributing the fall in prices generally to overproduction, this report considers that the attempts by various countries or by groups of producers to hold up prices by artificial measures have merely aggravated the collapse. The fact that retail prices have hardly fallen is the main obstacle to any satisfactory adjustment of prices, because high retail prices prevent wage reductions and, therefore, make it impossible to reduce production costs in proportion to the fall in prices.

TO SPEND $6,500,000 EXTENDING STEAM LINES

New York Corporation to Add 25% to Its Capacity in the Next Two Years.

The directors of the New York Steam Corporation have authorized expenditures of about $6,500,000 between now and April 1, 1931, for enlargements of its generating plants, important extensions of street mains and distribution system, and other improvements. This expense exceeds the amount spent last year for similar purposes by about $2,000,000, and will result in an increase in the company's steam generating plant and street steam distribution facilities of more than 25 per cent in the next two years.

The company is undertaking service extensions to almost 100 blocks in New York, making its service available as far north on Fifth Avenue as Eighty-ninth Street and on Central Park West to Seventy-second Street. The latter main will serve as a nucleus for future expansion in the district west of Central Park. The expenditures will also extend steam supply to buildings being erected in the upper east side and lower midtown sections of Manhattan, and the districts north of City Hall Park.

The capacity of the Burling Slip plant has been increased almost 30 per cent through the installation of two boiler units in the past year.

ATTACKS INJUNCTION BILL.

J. A. Emery, Manufacturers' Counsel, Files Senate Committee Brief.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, has submitted to the Senate Judiciary Committee a brief urging the rejection as invalid of the Shipstead anti-injunction bill as revised by Senators Norris, Blaine and Walsh of Montana.

Mr. Emery stated that the bill, if enacted and held valid, would deprive the Federal courts of authority to issue injunctions for the protection of property rights against irreparable injury whenever the case in any way arose out of a labor controversy, unless actual fraud or violence could be shown, in which case a limited and wholly indequate protection might be afforded. No injunctions could be issued under any circumstances, he said, against nine sets of acts, including strikes and the support of strikes, even when accompanied by threats of violence.

"The so-called 'yellow dog' contract would be denied legal or equitable protection in all cases, notwithstanding such contracts, when supported by consideration, have been held valid by many State courts, including New York, and have three times been declared valid by the Supreme Court of the United States," Mr. Emery said.

Trial by jury would be provided for so-called "indirect criminal contempts," which, Mr. Emery contended, would include jury trials for violation of "padlock" injunctions under the Volstead act, of which 21,551 were issued up to June 30, 1929.

Earnings for Twelve Months Are Reported—Dividends Received and Paid.

American Cities Power and Light.

A net income of $8,656,554 has been reported by the American Cities Power and Light Corporation for the twelve months ended on March 31. This is equivalent, after deducting dividends on Class A stock paid either in cash or Class B stock, to $3.25 a share on the 2,500,166 shares of Class B stock outstanding at the end of the period.

The report shows a total income of $9,634,123, made up of $5,487,838 in profits realized on sales of securities, $1,035,108 in cash dividends and interest received, and $3,111,177 in stock dividends. The last figure is reached by taking the stock dividends received in the last nine months of 1929 at closing market prices on Dec. 31, 1929, and taking those received in 1930 at market prices following record dates.

Expenses, taxes and interest during the twelve months amounted to $977,569. The company reports in connection with the payment of dividends on Class A stock in cash and Class B stock amounting to $508,729 that the maximum net cash option would have amounted to $954,516. The capitalization at the end of the period was 273,368 shares of convertible Class A preferred, optional dividend series, and 2,500,166 shares of Class B stock.

Electric Shareholdings.

Net income of the Electric Shareholdings Corporation for the twelve months ended on March 31 was $5,871,299 after expenses, taxes and interest. This is equivalent after preferred dividend requirements to $3.57 a share on the 1,499,456 common shares outstanding at the end of the period.

Total income was $6,746,587, including profits on sales of securities amounting to $3,183,605. Regarding this item the company notes that a reserve of $1,916,204 applied toward the reduction of the book value of investments to market prices of Dec. 31, 1929, was deducted from the income realized in 1929.

Stock dividends received during the year amounted to $2,391,427, valuing those received in 1929 at closing prices on Dec. 31 and those received in 1930 at market prices following the record dates. Cash dividends received were $1,171,555.

Dividends paid on the 195,500 shares of $6 preferred, optional dividend series, amounted to $564,055 in cash and common stock. The company reports that the maximum net cash option requirement would have amounted to $1,158,013.

STOCKS EX RIGHTS TODAY.

"If some of my crowd knew what genuine satisfaction I'm getting out of this, they might be doing something like it . . . and I've never been rated high for sentiment."

learns how it feels to be a BENEFACTOR

MR. T. came to New York from a small college town forty years ago to take employment in a fast-growing chemical company. He is unmarried and has no near relatives.

Although he has had no incentive to save, he has accumulated a fortune of nearly half a million dollars—largely through an extraordinary increase in the value of his company's stock, a block of which he has received each year as a salary bonus.

Two years ago he paid a visit to his old home and was much impressed by the poverty of the college. On his return to the city he determined to make the college the beneficiary under his will. "They need so many things they can't make many mistakes in spending the income," he told his attorney. "Yet they have had almost no investment experience, and I would feel better about leaving the principal in the hands of a large bank to administer."

In the course of working out this plan with his bank, it was suggested to Mr. T. that, since he was soon to receive a retirement pension from his company, he could, if he wished, establish a Trust Fund with his securities and make a portion of the income immediately available to the college.

This he did, and has recently returned from a visit to his home, where he was much affected by the reception he received. "I didn't know it felt like this to be a benefactor," he remarked. "It's a good feeling—and I thank you for the advice that made it possible."

If you wish to promote a worthy cause—

. . . do not let imaginary difficulties stand in your way. Investigate how the broad range of services offered by the Irving Trust Company may enable you to remove them. You will find any officer of the Irving sympathetic and helpful, no matter how indefinite your plans may be at present.

PITTSBURGH, May 4.—Six months after the collapse of the stock market the course of the steel industry may be reviewed in its relation to that event.

While the sharp break in stocks began late in October and was unexpected, except in a general way, steel production had been declining for four months up to October, when normally it would increase after July, and there had been a marked drop in October, which month usually is the peak of the second half of the year. This decline had been independent of stocks. Then production was extremely light in December and January, attributed to the added influence of the stock market. There was a large recovery for February, since which time production has been virtually steady, compared with its previous great fluctuations. Normally March and April run above February, and those months were further removed than February from the stock market break.

The story that steel tells is that the influence of the stock market break was rather small and quite temporary. There was a general recession, beginning about the middle of last year, and steel has not fully recovered from it. If one could gauge the deficiency in steel tonnage from "normal," he would have a measure of the recovery, but "normal" cannot be determined.

Various trend lines have been computed. They vary widely, according to the years taken for the computation. One, based on production from 1921 to 1927 inclusive, shows all of the last two years far above normal, and recent and present production somewhat above normal. Another computation, based on 1923 to 1929 inclusive, shows present production about 5 per cent below normal when seasonally it should be a trifle above.

Conclusions from Operations.

The conclusion is that if heavy production of steel from the middle of 1928 to the middle of 1929 was not an abnormality, then steel is now about 10 per cent below normal, but if that heavy production was exceptional, then steel now is approximately at normal.

As to general and progressive recovery in business, if steel furnishes any testimony, it is quite faint along the line that production increased slightly during April, when usually the seasoned peak has been passed by the end of March. That may have been due to buying having been postponed somewhat. It is difficult to find anything definite in steel to show that general business is engaged in a long-term recovery.

Steel production has turned downward a point or two in the last week, with small losses in the Chicago district, at Buffalo and in the East, the output being fully sustained in the Pittsburgh district. By precedent this decline should continue into July and be followed by a recovery. There are indications that the decline will be milder than usual, but by the same token increases after July may be correspondingly difficult.

Backlogs Lacking in Mills.

It is said that the mills have no backlogs and must make up rolling schedules almost from day to day. While this is technically true, Class I railroads installed only 6,716 freight cars in March, but had 35,181 cars on order at the end of the month; fabricated structural steel lettings have been running somewhat light, but the order book was very large six months ago and is only slightly reduced; the automobile industry has done so poorly to date that it hardly can do worse and may do better, and the agricultural implement industry is doing such an enormous export business, particularly in tractors, that it may be affected little by the condition of the farmers or by the usual seasonal factor.

YOUNGSTOWN RATE AT 70%.

Iron and Steel Operations to Continue Firm This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 4.—Iron and steel capacity in the Youngstown district will continue at a firm 70 per cent operating rate during the week, schedules indicate, with some improvement in the schedulings of mills producing flat-rolled steels required by the automobile industry. Of 120 valley sheet mills, ninety-five are rolling, representing a gain of 5 per cent over the preceding week. Strip mills are maintaining 80 to 85 per cent operations in the hot-rolled product, but cold-rolling strip units are still below normal.

The Republic Steel Corporation averages 70 per cent, Carnegie Steel from 65 to 70 per cent; Youngstown Sheet and Tube 65 per cent, and Sharon Steel and Hoop 85 per cent.

Ascribed to Increasing Capacity Along With Decreased Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 4.—The present downward trend in prices for steel products is ascribed at Pittsburgh fully as much to increasing mill capacity as to decreasing demand. Prospects are that steel ingot capacity will be at least 67,000,000 tons at the close of this year, against which last year's exceptional production would be only 82 per cent and production in 1928 only 75 per cent.

The American Steel and Wire Company has formally reduced prices $2 to $3 a ton on wire and certain wire products to recognize extensive cutting in progress for quite a while, and has reduced wire rods $2 a ton to $36. Bars, shapes and plates are easier, with a question about just where the market should be quoted, when cutting is greater in some areas than in others, and leading mills are still trying to hold old prices.

MAY DEALS SHAPING FUTURES IN COTTON

300,000 BALES IN MARKET

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—Although the great bulk of the tenders on May cotton contracts appeared on the first notice day last week, the cotton market was more or less under the influence of the final disposition of May deals during the whole week. The July option came in for a good deal of attention, and all indications seem to be that the interests that were back of the May squeeze are shaping matters to treat the July position in a similar manner.

All cotton tendered on the first notice day was delivered on Thursday to the extent of 227,000 bales on New York contracts and 19,000 on New Orleans contracts. Additional amounts were delivered on Friday, and further deliveries to a considerable amount may be looked for.

The certificated stock here exceeds 100,000 bales and is being increased daily. The certificated stock in New York is about 100,000 bales. Houston has nearly as large a certificated stock as the two other markets, so that there already are available for delivery on May contracts more than 300,000 bales, and it is believed deliveries will reach that figure.

May Ship to Liverpool.

What the new owners of all this cotton will do with it is now the problem that interests traders. There was a report that some of the cotton will be shipped to Liverpool, and there is no good reason why some of it may not go to other foreign destinations as well as to domestic mills.

The question now being asked generally is about the July short certificated stock delivered on May contracts. Without doubt all the ⅞-inch cotton available was delivered on May contracts, which will make it necessary to liquidate the July position mainly with high-grade staple cotton at some loss in premium. This is not a pleasant prospect for the July shorts.

The extent of the July interest is causing considerable speculation. It has been said the total short interest runs about 400,000 bales. This would mean an even more acute situation confronting the July shorts than was in the case of May. One development of the week was that the July option in New York rose above the corresponding month in Liverpool and the differential widened to a degree that may make it possible to bring cotton back from Liverpool to deliver on contracts. This has been done. Cotton has even been brought back from Liverpool to New Orleans for a similar purpose.

Fluctuations Erratic.

With the near months holding so commanding a position fluctuations in prices have been erratic and irregular. There has been considerable liquidation at times in both May and July, either by transfers to later months or by actual selling of the near months themselves. This liquidation has been almost exclusively by so-called traders and speculators. Moreover, there has been more or less price-fixing by the trade and by mills. Price fluctuations have been governed by considerations connected with the final disposition of the old crop months rather than by ordinary market influences and developments.

It is true that there has been some selling of the new crop positions on the part of traders who take a more cheerful view of crop prospects since the breaking of the drought in the West. There has been also some buying of the new crop months by operators who believe that they are selling too low. October traded on Friday at a discount of slightly more than 150 points compared with July. This is rather an abnormal state of affairs, hence it is not surprising that some people should regard the new crop months as cheap.

The recent rains in the West were sufficient to break the drought in Texas and Oklahoma and in the section west of the Mississippi River generally, but it has been rather too dry for the good of the crop over large stretches in the Central and Eastern belts. Moreover, the nights have been too cool, but the opinion prevails that the crop is making fair progress. Just how much the acreage has been reduced remains to be seen. The prevailing opinion is that about 5 per cent reduction is all that can be expected. It is becoming evident, however, that there have been less liberal purchases of fertilizer than last year, which may have an important influence in reducing acreage.

In the meantime the peculiar conditions prevailing in the market have checked the demand for spots and have slowed down the manufactured goods trade, as there is a natural tendency to adopt a hand-to-mouth policy until existing conditions in the market have been smoothed out and normal conditions restored.

WHEAT PRICES FALL TO NEAR 1930 LOWS

CORN MOVEMENT HEAVIER

Trading in Futures of Oats Is Light—Eastern Syndicate Takes Big Rye Deliveries.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Wheat prices finished last week near the lowest levels of the season, and seldom were they down further in recent years, although May wheat here dropped to 93¼ cents in the drastic liquidation at the close of that delivery in 1929. The entire range for the week was 5 to 6 cents, the finish being close to the dollar level. Expectations are that it will go below that mark unless better buying support is given or the character of the news changes sentiment.

All markets finished heavy in tone. Net losses on wheat for the week were 2¼ to 3 cents, on corn ¼ to 1⅝ cents, on oats ½ to 1⅜ cents, and on rye 2½ to 3¾ cents.

Semi-demoralization in stocks in Wall Street, combined with activities of the Farm Loan Board's corporations, has driven speculation out of the wheat market from the standpoint of the large professionals, making it mainly a fair-sized pit affair. The market was a liquidating one virtually all of last week, with cash deliveries of about 16,000,000 bushels of contract wheat in Chicago and the various markets, of which the government is credited with having taken nearly all.

Week's Sales of Futures Rise.

Sales of futures here for the week of 297,636,000 bushels compared with 279,863,000 in the previous week and 239,461,000 a year. Open interest at the close was 132,638,000 bushels, against 155,065,000 a week ago. The open interest in May, which was 66,020,000 bushels the previous week, was reduced 22,591,000 at the close of last week, to around 44,000,000 bushels. At the same time, July increased 7,000,000 bushels and September gained 6,000,000 bushels.

Government support was reported in May wheat in all markets of the country on the breaks, with Chicago in the lead. Traders seem to have lost their nerve because of uncertainty regarding the next move by the government through its Grain Stabilization Corporation. The latter is handling an immense volume of cash wheat, making sales to millers and for export.

It has sold virtually all its wheat at Eastern Atlantic ports, although an Eastern cash handler said the quantity held was not much above 1,500,000 bushels. Its holdings at the gulf have been worked off, and probably 500,000 bushels are headed for New Orleans and Galveston from Kansas City and Omaha, two of the leading railroads having contracts to move 200,000 bushels from Omaha to New Orleans.

How much wheat has been sold to millers is not known, but business has been large, and prices attractive where the flour is to be exported.

Discussing Grain Board Prices.

There is a great deal of discussion in the trade regarding prices made in wheat by the Grain Stabilization Corporation in its export sales of wheat at the seaboard. Exporters here contend that No. 2 hard Winter had been sold at 3½ cents over Chicago May at the seaboard, which they figure equaled about 93 cents in Chicago, or a large discount under the May and a good loss. On this basis individual exporters here say that it is non-competitive, although good sales were made by independent exporters at Newport News last week, though prices were not given.

The government is understood to be taking cash wheat in various markets in exchange for the May and is moving out the wheat delivered in carlots on track, considering the track grain deliveries as an advantage, as it saves inspection and handling costs. The situation is different from any that the trade has ever experienced.

May wheat closed at $1.01½ to $1.00¾; July, $1.02¼ to $1.02¼; September, $1.05 to $1.05¼, and December $1.10 to $1.10⅛.

Primary receipts of wheat last week were 3,762,000 bushels, the previous week 3,642,000, and the week last year 3,829,000. Shipments last week were 4,009,000 bushels, the previous week 4,713,000, and the week last year 5,018,000. Primary receipts since July 1 aggregated 393,000,000 bushels, against 487,000,000 in the period last year.

Erratic Movements in Corn.

Corn traders are unable to understand the erratic action of the yellow grain. The market is largely professional, with outsiders apparently seeing nothing to induce them to take hold to any extent. Their operations are influenced mainly by the action of wheat, although occasionally pit traders are caught long or short and prices move contrary to wheat.

Average consumptive demand for the cash grain is good. The movement is larger than in recent weeks and at the corresponding time last year, but a good percentage of receipts at Chicago comes from other terminal markets and goes mainly to industries. Planting is well advanced over a large part of the belt and farmers are expected to sell more freely as soon as Spring work is over.

Stocks in Chicago are too light to permit large deliveries and the few small lots were readily absorbed. Prices ranged around 4½ cents for the week, with a close at the bottom and at nearly the season's low, May being 78¼ to 78⅜ cents, July 80½ to 80⅝, September 81⅞ to 82 and December 76⅜ to 76½, the last named being new crop.

Primary receipts last week were 4,988,000 bushels, the previous week 3,827,000 and the week last year 2,659,000. Shipments last week were 5,522,000 bushels, the previous week 4,629,000 and the week last year 3,282,000. Since Nov. 1 primary markets have received 155,000,000 bushels against 181,000,000 in the same time last year.

Public Trading in Oats Is Small.

Trading in oats is largely between professionals and carriers. Local interests are said to be long of the May delivery and Northwestern cash handlers have their holdings hedged and are changing into the July and September.

Trade in futures is not large, averaging around 2,000,000 bushels daily, and deliveries and open interest are light, the former having been 20,742,000 bushels in all futures at the close. In May alone it was 8,070,000 bushels. May closed at 40⅞ to 41 cents, July 40⅝ to 40⅞, September 40¾ and December 43¼.

Deliveries of rye on May contracts aggregated about 6,000,000 bushels, well taken by the Eastern syndicate, which is said to have sold out. Of the eighteen cargoes of rye afloat here less than two months ago, with an aggregate of 4,000,000 bushels, nine cargoes have been unloaded and the remainder has been shipped out. Virtually all of these cargoes have cleared for Buffalo and Georgian Bay ports. Buyers have been carriers who consider the price and the wide spread between the May and the deferred futures a most attractive carrying proposition from an investment standpoint.

Prices are down to the lowest of the season on May, touching 57½ cents at the close, or ¼ cent under the previous low made during the previous liquidation, and closed at 57⅝ to 57¾ cents. Widening of the spread between May and distant futures prevented the latter from reaching previous low levels, excepting December, which finished at 71¼ cents after touching 71 cents, while July closed at 62⅝ to 62¾ cents, and September at 67 cents.

New Grain Tariffs Demanded In Austria as Prices Drop

VIENNA, May 2.—The fall in grain prices is providing a fresh cause for uneasiness in the tariff policies of Central Europe. In Austria, where the index for wholesale prices as a whole stands at 121, the wheat index is 85 to 88. There is widespread demand for revision or notice in the matter for commercial treaties with agrarian countries.

Harvest prospects in Central Europe are favorable, but owing to the smallness of stocks prices are as yet declining only slightly.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Crop prospects improved last week with liberal rains over a large part of the Southwest. The four Southwestern States probably will harvest 265,000,000 bushels of Winter wheat, as estimated by Nat C. Murray, compared with 274,000,000 bushels last year and an average of 259,000,000 bushels. Kansas has lost about 6,000,000 bushels in the last month, largely through drought and abandoned acreage.

Total abandonment of acreage is heaviest in the Middle West, losses being 22 per cent in Ohio and 18 per cent in Indiana, with 19 per cent Illinois, 3 per cent in Michigan and 10 per cent in Wisconsin. These exceed the ten-year average. All States east of the Mississippi River, including the South, as estimated by Mr. Murray, have an average abandonment of 4 per cent against the ten-year average of 10.4 per cent, losses in the Southern States being light. Production estimates are for 153,000,000 bushels, against 174,000,000 bushels last year, and an average of 167,000,000 bushels.

Spring wheat acreage is estimated at 19,456,000 acres, against 20,079,000 acres a year ago, a loss of 1,523,000 acres, or 7.3 per cent.

This reduction is not as great as was recommended by Chairman Alexander Legge of the Federal Farm Board. Another week of good weather will see corn planting well advanced over a large area of the leading producing States.

Fjord Bottom Sinks Thirty Feet.

COPENHAGEN, May 4.—It has been established that Friday's landslide at Trondhjemfjord was not a local phenomenon, but was part of a general sinking of the fjord bottom. In some places the botom sank as much as thirty feet, breaking telephone and telegraph cables.

HUGHES TO ADDRESS THE LAW INSTITUTE

RECEPTION BY HOOVERS

Progress Made in "Restatement" of Common Law as Guide for Courts Will Be Viewed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Progress made in the work of preparing a "restatement" of the law will be discussed at the annual meeting of the American Law Institute, under the chairmanship of George W. Wickersham, president of the institute, here this week.

The "restatement," the preparation of which was the purpose of the formation of the institute, is said to be designed as a guide in the principles of law with its conclusions on decisions in actual cases.

The institute will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, although the formal opening session will occur the following day, with Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes scheduled to deliver the principal address. On that afternoon the members will be received by President and Mrs. Hoover. A dinner on Saturday evening will conclude the annual meeting.

Organized as a voluntary committee of lawyers under the chairmanship of Elihu Root, the institute is engaged in "promoting the clarification and simplification of the law and its better adaptation to social needs, securing the better administration of justice, and carrying on scholarly and scientific legal work," an announcement stated, adding:

"During the past seven years the institute has been engaged in preparing a so-called 'restatement,' of the law. It is not intended that this 'restatement,' when completed, should be adopted by Legislatures as a code; but that it shall provide a clear and simple statement of the fundamental principles of common law.

Uniformity Is Sought.

"The institute has been founded to preserve the system of developing law through the judicial determination of actual cases. It is realized that the multiplication of courts and decisions makes it desirable that the tendency toward uncertainty and unnecessary complexity be checked by an agency whose statements regarding the principles of law will command the respect of the courts and bring about more uniformity and certainty. It is this formidable undertaking upon which the American Law Institute is engaged."

Preparation of the "restatement" has been divided among selected groups of institute members. Each group was assigned to a particular phase of the law and was headed by one or more "reporters" who were experts in that branch of the profession. The "restatement" studies were made possible through donations from the Carnegie Corporation.

Several drafts dealing with the "restatement" of several different phases of the law have been prepared, it was said, and these will be submitted for discussion at the annual meeting.

Criminal Code Compiled.

The institute also has compiled a code of criminal procedure, made possible by a grant of the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial. Begun in 1925, the first draft of this code was completed a few weeks ago and will be presented in full to the members of the institute this week.

It is estimated that at least ten years more will be necessary to complete the "restatement." Drafts of each phase of the law as they are completed are submitted to recognized scholars and authorities for criticism and revision. They are also distributed among State court judges and State bar associations througout the country for further annotation.

During the three days of the annual meeting drafts on several completed portions of the "restatement" will be discussed in detail. The completed criminal code will also be subject to final revision before it is declared effective.

SEES LOSS AS MERGERS DISPLACE EXECUTIVES

WASHINGTON, May 4.—An incalculable loss to industry is caused when senior business executives are thrown out of positions through mergers or other conditions beyond their control, Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, said tonight in a radio address on "Squandering Business Experience." He spoke over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Declaring that the employing agencies which specialize in placing men capable of earning from $10,000 to $50,000 a year were crowded with applicants during the recent depression, Dr. Klein said the question, "Shall the most vital, dynamic element in commerce, namely, business brains, be permitted to go to waste?" was acute.

"Possibly you think that you are not interested in the problems of such men," he continued, "that they are 'out of the class' of the ordinary strivers and strugglers like you and me. But any such feeling on our part would be utterly unjustified, because the trained intelligence of one far-seeing, enterprising executive is capable of rearing splendid industries and creating jobs for untold thousands."

Aside from the question of personal hardship encountered by men with obligations based on their former large earning capacities, Dr. Klein suggested that business organizations might profitably organize agencies to aid experienced executives in finding new places where their previous experience and contacts might still be of value.

"I feel that it is rather strange," he added, "that business organizations such as trade associations, which have accomplished so much in other ways, have done so little to advance this deeply vital aim."

CONSIDER ACTION TO BAR SOVIET COAL

IMPORTS ARE GAINING

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Officials of the Treasury Department are giving consideration to the question of submitting to the Tariff Commission the demand of the Anthracite Cooperative Congress that an embargo be placed on importations of Russian coal under the anti-dumping clause of the 1922 tariff act.

Since the conference in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury on April 16, in which Secretaries Mellon, Lamont, and Davis participated, department officials have been making a study of the situation.

Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Representative William R. Coyle, and George F. Brumm of Pennsylvania were present at the conference, as was also Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor. All spoke in favor of the embargo. Other speakers were Roy C. Haynes, executive secretary of the Anthracite Cooperative Congress; Noah H. Swayne, vice chairman of the Anthracite Institute of New York, and Joseph E. O'Toole of the Retail Coal Dealers' Association.

According to those making the protest, the Russian coal in question is being produced under conditions of forced, or at least semi-compulsory labor, and in some instances convict labor is used. They assert that through the subsidizing of carrier vessels, the Soviets are able to transport coal from Port Marisopol on the Sea of Azov, through the Black Sea, the Dardanelles, the Mediterranean and across the Atlantic for nearly a dollar a ton cheaper than the rail rate from Pennsylvania to New England.

The ocean freight rate for the 7,000-mile haul was said to range from $3.25 to $3.90 a ton, while the rail rate in the United States is about $4.25.

Thus far importations of Russian hard coal have not been great, but they have aroused protests from mine operators, retail dealers and the United Mine Workers of America. In 1928 there was no coal imported from Russia. In 1929 there were 113,000 tons, and during the first three months of this year about 65,000 tons were imported, mostly to New England.

However, there have been increasingly large shipments of Russian coal to Canada, an important market for American anthracite, and last year the Pennsylvania mines shipped only 3,000,000 tons to Canada instead of the customary 4,000,000 tons, it was related.

Russian anthracite coal comes from the Donetz Basin. It is said to be one of the finest coals in the world, surpassing either the Welsh coal or the anthracite of Pennsylvania. In 1913 Russian coal production was about 35,822,740 tons, of which the Donetz Basin furnished 25,287,280 tons. In 1928-1929 the production was 30,800,000 tons, most of which came from that region. Under the five-year plan adopted by Soviet Russia, it is expected an annual production of 75,000,000 tons will be attained.

RESIDENT OFFICES REPORT ON TRADE

Warmer weather served to increase the volume of business placed at wholesale last week. Retail turnover is now improving and the outlook favors expanded buying activity in the period directly ahead. Lightweight coats, chiffon and cotton dresses were outstanding items called for by retailers. Lines of travel coats are now being shown by manufacturers and a substantial volume of immediate delivery business is anticipated. The demand in chiffon dresses is largely concentrated on the sleeveless types. Ensemble styles retain their popularity. The dress trade is scanning developments for suggestions as to Fall styles and indications from the mid-season openings point to little change in the silhouette. Reorders for Summer millinery continue to favor large and medium size straw hats. Silk yard goods sales have met with a good reception, leading to good buying at wholesale of printed flat crepes in pastel shades. Prystal dominates in novelty jewelry. Orders for men's and boys' furnishings for quick delivery showed a considerable gain during the week.

Shift in Popular Dress Demand.

McGREEVEY, WERRING & HOWELL—"The demand for popular price dresses last week shifted almost entirely to sheer fabric types. Floralace has been adapted for use in the $10.50 garments. Embroidered dresses are much in demand. Manufacturers of better dresses have lowered price standards. At present there is a keenly favorable reaction to cotton dresses. Sweaters have been superseded by silk blouses. Organdies are outstanding in children's lines. Flowered georgettes are also strongly stressed. In the coat lines some of the higher price operators are concentrating on new and advanced Fall travel coats. The new baccarat bag is attractively made of an imported fabric woven in France in jacquard weaves."

AFFILIATED CLOTHIERS, INC.—"There was a decided increase in the number of orders received last week for practically all men's and boys' furnishing goods. The total was far larger than in the preceding week. Men's and young men's suits were purchased liberally at concessions in price for May sales. Tropical worsted suits were in fair demand for June business. Southern accounts have been reordering white flannel trousers. Outstanding in the demand for boys' suits was the duplicating on blue cheviots in all retail ranges from $10.75 to $25. We predict widespread interest in boys' sailor pants made in the broadfall model. They are made in solid white duck and also in white duck with a contrasting half-inch band along the outer seam. Rayon polo shirts are now as popular with boys as they are with men, and it is difficult to obtain immediate delivery."

FELIX LILIENTHAL & CO.—"Many stores are enjoying an excellent fur trimming business and a great many orders for fur strips in collar lengths have been received. The market offers excellent values in collar strips of assorted furs which can be retailed profitably at $1 and $1.95. An increased demand for this type of fur is probably due to the fact that so many of the suits and Spring coats have just a small touch of fur at the collar. In laces there have been many reorders on 36-inch lace allovers and flounces in all pastel colors, including beige. Printed cotton nets are being called for to a large extent. Narrow bretonne as well as alençon edges and bands are receiving a good response over the counter."

JOHN M. BIGGINS, INC.—"The advent of favorable weather has caused a demand for pastel silk printed flat crêpes by the yard, as well as a very strong demand for white flat crêpes. A considerable call was also experienced for white and eggshell in sports cloths, including piqué, shantung and honan. Pastel pearls continue to be the leading item in the novelty jewelry field. Imitations of crystal are also in demand in colors to match sports outfits. Crystal and pearl combinations in white and pastel colors are being promoted for May and June events. The demand for bubble pearls continues very strong."

Changes Slight in Fall Silhouette.

JAY, FLANAGAN, MESIROW COMPANY—"Fall dress styles, gauged by imports from the midseason openings abroad, show very little difference in the silhouette, although skirts are straighter and pleats are very much in evidence. A slight sprinkling of semicircular skirts is noted. Lightweight wool fabrics are expected to be popular in black, with touches of white or other contrasting shade for trim. Cotton blouses with wool suits are seen and cotton piqué linings are noticed in wool jackets. Dresses of the lightweight wools, belted jauntily and with swinging little capes lined with prints, are also seen. Tucks, pleating and godets are prominent. Flat crêpes with organdy trim are emphatically added to fashion features."

WILLIAM M. VAN BUREN—"Travel coats are the most interesting item at the moment. Several manufacturers have started to show their lines and we have seen attractive tweed coats with fur collars and untrimmed types with scarf and capelet treatments. Outstanding are the semi-fitted silhouette with the slight flare treatment from waistline and the modified princess type coats. Almost every coat is belted at normal waistline. Badger, lynx, beaver, cross kit, caracul and wolf are being used. Colors shown include blues, green, rust and tan tones. Cotton dresses are in demand and promise to be very strong. With warmer weather we expect calls from all parts of the country for immediate delivery on this type of merchandise. Chiffons, printed and plain, continue big, particularly in ensembles. Pastel crêpes are being ordered."

MERCHANDISE REPORTING CO., INC.—"Navy dresses in solid colors, and combined with white in all materials, are very good items in better dresses. Sports dresses in pastel colors with bright contrasting trim are also prominent. We are having a great many requests for chiffon dresses in pastel colors, semi-dress type. Ensembles are wanted consisting of the short cocktail coat and sleeveless dress rather than the dress without the coat. Plain chiffons are more in demand than the printed chiffons in the better type dresses at the present time. No doubt as the season advances there will be more of a demand for the printed chiffon."

BEN F. LEVIS—"We have had a number of requests for combination ensembles consisting of pastel chiffon dress and transparent velvet jacket in the popular priced dresses. Demand continues for pastel georgettes in plain and prints. Detachable sleeve models have been especially popular. In basement dresses georgettes in the $3.75 range are still the most important items. Printed georgettes in sizes from 14 to 44 are being reordered. Most of the call is on the 14 to 20 sizes. New silk prints are being shown now in the dark grounds with light prints and pastel colors. Chiffon is the most popular fabric for better frocks. Plain shades in high colors, pastel shades and flowered patterns dominate most of the lines."

JACK HARTBLAY, INC.—"Buyers seeking merchandise for sales purposes have been numerous in the men's and boys' clothing and furnishings markets this week. Boys' knickers in light shades of tweeds and in washable fabrics such as linens, crashes and various Summer fabrics have been purchased liberally for sales. A scarcity of merchandise of this type has been noted in the market and because of this fact many stores purchased Summer merchandise when filling Spring requirements. Other items purchased freely were men's white serge striped trousers and flannels in pastel shades. Men's tweed and washable plus-four knickers and men's four-piece tweed sports suits were also in demand."

BUSINESS GAIN PREDICTED.

Credit Men's Bulletin Sees Signs of Revival, With More Employment.

Retailers should soon find themselves in a more comfortable position and manufacturers and wholesalers may look forward to improved collections, with more people at work and purchasing power at least partially restored, according to the May Bulletin of the National Association of Credit Men, issued yesterday.

"Manual and machine workers should fare better from now on," the bulletin says, "as the countrywide construction program outlined in President Hoover's conferences seems to be getting underway.

"The building industry shows signs of the hoped-for revival. Contracts in thirty-seven States for March aggregated, according to Dodge figures, $459,119,000. This was the largest monthly total since August, 1929, and showed the full seasonal increase of 45 per cent over February of this year."

MARSHALL FIELD SALE STIRS RETAIL TRADE

CHICAGO, May 4.—Bargain sales of dry goods and general merchandise were held here and all over the country last week as a result of the purchases made at Marshall Field & Co.'s removal sale in the week ended April 26. Regular business was disturbed, but reached a good average. For the first four months of this year it is estimated that wholesale dry goods sales have declined 10 to 12 per cent. Retail sales have suffered about the same loss, but have had a good recovery.

Business for the second quarter so far shows a better tone, with a fair improvement in volume of distribution of merchandise and employment, although there is more idleness than a year ago in practically all lines of trade and industry.

Steel mills in the Chicago district maintain their operations at 90 to 95 per cent of capacity, with implement makers and railroads the best buyers. In the automobile industry most activity developed both in sales and production. Price-cutting has been an important factor, with $1 reduction in bars, shapes and plates on purchases made by railroads. This cut was made to meet Eastern competition, and expectations are that there will be a general lowering of values to a more healthy basis for consumers. Profits for the first quarter in practically all lines of trade are said to be smaller than last year.

Chicago's building operations in April aggregated $6,490,000, an increase of 41 per cent over March, yet construction was the lowest in April for the past five years. Aggregate in April last year was $25,049,000 and in 1928 it was $29,345,300, while in April, 1927, permits issued were for $42,484,200.

REDUCES RAYON PRICES.

Viscose Company Cuts Fine Deniers 5 to 50 Cents a Pound.

Reductions of 5 to 50 cents a pound on the finer deniers of rayon, ranging from 50 to 125 deniers, are announced today by the Viscose Company, leading domestic producer of rayon. Second quality yarns of the same deniers are reduced from 5 to 25 cents a pound. The revised prices are effective as of May 1.

The new prices on outstanding deniers of "bright" yarns, with those for second qualities in parenthesis, are as follows: 50 denier, 14-filament, $2.40 ($2.00); 75 denier, 30-filament, $1.95 ($1.75); 100 denier, 40-filament, $1.50 ($1.40); 125 denier, 18-filament, $1.30 ($1.20), and 125 denier, 36-filament, $1.30 ($1.20). Dulesco (dull) yarns are priced 5 cents a pound higher, with cones quoted at 10 cents a pound additional for both first and second qualities. Inferior skeins in all deniers are quoted at 80 cents a pound.

On 150 deniers and all other coarser sizes there has been no change in price, nor is any contemplated, from the prevailing levels which have been in effect since June 18, 1929, according to company officials. The revisions on the finer deniers, it was added, have been made to bring the finer deniers in line with the 150 deniers, the prices of which heretofore have not been proportionate to the difference in size.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Cattle supplies in Chicago for April were the largest for that period since 1926, and those for last week were the heaviest for a week since the middle of January. Beef steers, cows and heifers declined 50 to 75 cents and at one time were off $1. Feeders dropped 25 cents and calves 50 cents for the week. Top price on beef steers was $14.65, with most sales at $10.25 to $12.65. An average of $11.45 equaled the lowest since June, 1927, a drop of 55 cents for the week and of $2.25 from last year. The dressed beef trade apparently was overstocked.

Hog raisers did better than cattle men, as prices closed 10 to 30 cents higher for the week, with the top at the last $10.30. The week's average was $9.95, practically unchanged from the previous week but a loss of $1.35 from a year ago. Receipts were rather below expectations and practically the same as the previous week, and 18,000 less than a year ago. Packers were good buyers and shipping interests took 21 per cent of the receipts, against 18 per cent in the previous week and a year ago.

After a long period of unusual depression and in the face of larger receipts than a week and a year ago, demand for fat wooled lambs improved with an advance of $1 to $1.25, the week's average being $9.50, or a gain of 5 cents for the week. A year ago the price was $15.50. Top prices were made at the close, $11.10, against $14.50 a year ago. Sheep averaged $5.10, a loss of 15 cents for the week and $3 from last year. Colorado and California Spring lambs were $13 to $18.

Fresh dressed lamb prices in the wholesale market were unchanged at 12 to 20 cents, against 20 to 30 cents a year ago. Dressed beef was lowered to a range of 14 to 21½ cents, a loss of one-half cent a pound, or 1½ cent under a month ago. Pork loins advanced one-half to 1 cent, ranging at 16½ to 23 cents, against 19 to 25 cents a month ago.

	Cattle.	Hogs.	Sheep.
Last year	43,841	145,957	77,089
Estimate for week	45,000	120,000	82,000

PROVISIONS IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Liquidation in May lard by Eastern and foreign holders was absorbed last week by packers and carriers who sold the deferred futures as a hedge. Traders were inclined to consider the position of the lard market as regards supply and demand as healthy, although stocks at Western points at the end of April were 66,475,000 pounds, an increase in the month of 3,181,000 pounds, against 1,673,000 pounds for the same time last year. With the exception of the large stocks at this period in 1929 and 1928, present supplies are above the average.

There is a good domestic and foreign trade in cash lard, with May not far from the season's lowest and a close at $10.27½, a gain of 10 cents for the week, while July finished at $10.42½ and September at $10.52½, or both the same as a week ago.

Packers and distributers bid May bellies up from $13.20 to $14, where they closed, a net gain of 75 cents, making the highest prices of the season so far. July advanced 42½ cents and closed at $13.77½, also the best of the season. Stocks are small and in strong hands, with a good consumptive trade.

There have been rumors in circulation in the rayon market that a general reduction in Crown Brand yarns would take place, which have not been based on fact. The revision we are now making is being done to bring the fine deniers in line with the 150 denier, which heretofore have not been proportionate to the difference in size.

No further change in price is in hand or contemplated on any size or grade, and with the exception of the above change, prices will remain in force in accordance with our last list of June, 1929.

HAIL NEW LIEN LAW AS AID TO INDUSTRY

HIGHER STANDARDS SEEN

Provisions of Amendments Becoming Effective Oct. 1 Are Analyzed by C. H. Levitt.

Building construction interests throughout the metropolitan area expressed great satisfaction last week with prospects for their industry as a result of Governor Roosevelt's signature of the amendments to the mechanic's lien law. The law becomes operative Oct. 1 and as a result standards in the construction field are expected to be raised considerably.

Charles Howard Levitt, special counsel to the Association for the Revision of the New York State Lien Law, explains, in collaboration with A. A. Alles Jr., the association's secretary, in the architects' weekly building material price supplement of the Dow service building reports just what the new law may be expected to do.

"The new law provides," says Mr. Levitt, "that all moneys obtained pursuant to a building loan mortgage and all moneys received under every mortgage recorded after the commencement of an operation, and within four months prior to the completion thereof, shall constitute trust funds in the hands of a borrower and shall be applied to defray the cost of the improvement.

"All funds received by an owner, pursuant to a building loan contract, and all funds received by an owner under every mortgage containing the covenant hereinafter described are declared to constitute trust funds to be applied first for the purpose of paying the cost of the improvement, and any owner and any officer, director or agent of any owner, who applies or consents to the application of such funds for any other purpose prior to paying the cost of the improvement, is guilty of larceny and punishable as provided for in Section 1302 of the penal law, which section provides for a prison term not exceeding ten years and in addition, for the imposition of a fine in the discretion of the court not exceeding the value of the property misappropriated, with interest from the time of the misappropriation and 20 per cent thereon, and to imprisonment for an additional term of years, unless the fine is sooner paid.

"The cost of the improvement, under the new law, includes: (1) moneys paid to contractors, architects, engineers, surveyors, subcontractors, laborers and material men; (2) fair and reasonable sums paid for obtaining building loans and subsequent financing (second and subsequent mortgages); (3) sums paid for premiums on surety bonds; (4) sums paid to take by assignment, prior existing mortgages which are consolidated with building loan mortgages, and also the interest on such mortgages; (5) sums paid to discharge mortgages and other encumbrances existing prior to the time when the lien may attach; (6) sums paid to discharge building loan mortgages whenever recorded; (7) taxes, assessments and water rents existing prior to the commencement of the improvement and those accruing during the making of the improvement (8) interest on building loan mortgages, ground rents and premiums of insurance accruing during the making of the improvement.

Compared With 1929 Law.

"The important distinction between the 1929 law and this law is as follows: (a) Under the 1929 law the trust provision was confined only to moneys obtained from building loan mortgages, which gave the borrower an opportunity to exhaust this money by placing subsequent mortgages for his own benefit and paying off these subsequent mortgages, taking the money for his own use; under this law the trust provision is applicable not only to building loan mortgages, but to all mortgages recorded subsequent to the commencement of the improvement; (b) Under the 1929 law a misapplication of such fund was made a misdemeanor triable by a magistrate, and the only ones who could take advantage of it were lienors who had filed liens prior to the misapplication; under the 1930 law the misapplication is made larceny, subject to indictment and triable by a jury, and can be invoked by any one having a claim in connection with the operation.

"While the cost of the improvement or operation under the new law includes sums paid to discharge mortgages and encumbrances existing prior to the time the lien may attach," Mr. Levitt points out, "this part of the definition will unquestionably be construed in the light of the pronounced intention of the Legislature to make all moneys obtained from mortgages recorded after the commencement of the improvement applicable to the cost of the improvement. This intention is found not only in the legislative hearings but in Subsections 2 and 3 of Section 13 (as finally amended).

"Subdivision 2 provides," Mr. Levitt says, "that no mortgage recorded subsequent to the commencement of the improvement and before the expiration of four months after the completion thereof shall have priority over liens thereafter filed, unless it contains the covenant required by Subdivision 3 hereof.

"Subdivision 3 provides that every building loan mortgage and every mortgage recorded subsequent to the commencement of the improvement and before the expiration of four months after the completion of the improvement shall contain a covenant by the mortgager that he will receive the advances secured thereby as a trust fund to be applied first for the purpose of paying the cost of the improvement before using any part of the total of the sum for any other purpose. In other words, every mortgage filed after the commencement of the operation will have to contain the clause provided for in Subdivision 3 or it will be subordinate to the lien whensoever filed. In so far as mortgages recorded after the commencement of the operation are concerned, the lien will attach as of the date of the commencement of the operation. The definition 'cost of improvement' is therefore qualified by and will be construed in the light of Subdivision 3 as now amended.

Contractors and Subcontractors.

"The larceny provision, under the new law, is made applicable also to contractors and subcontractors. A contractor, receiving funds from an owner, must use that money to pay claims of subcontractors, architects, engineers, surveyors, laborers and material men, premiums on surety bonds, and a misapplication of the moneys for any other purpose makes the contractor guilty of larceny, punishable as above described; a subcontractor, receiving money from a contractor, must use the money to pay laborers, material men, premiums on bonds and for no other purpose, and a misapplication makes him guilty of larceny, punishable as hereinabove described.

"With respect to contractors and subcontractors, the law provides that they may commingle the funds received, provided, however, that their books of account show clearly the allocation to each and every contract of the funds deposited in his general or special bank account or accounts.

"The foregoing changes in the law will insure the application of funds borrowed on the strength of a building operation to be erected, or obtained on the strength of a contract in connection therewith, to the payment of the improvement and permits little room for evasion.

"We believe that these provisions will eliminate the shady practices of the shoe-string builder and contractor, thereby reducing the cost of building and benefiting the honest builder and contractor, subcontractor and the public generally. A reduction in costs will manifest itself in a reduction in rents.

Insurance Funds.

"The law further provides that insurance funds received by an owner, contractor, or subcontractor, shall be received as a trust fund to be applied to the cost of the improvement. A misapplication of the fund renders the owner, contractor, or subcontractor receiving this fund guilty of larceny.

"The law further provides that where a notice of lien is defective on the face thereof, either by reason of the fact that the character of the labor or material does not justify a lien, or because the lien does not comply with the provisions of the law, the lien may be discharged by an application to court. This will offer a much needed relief to builders, owners and contractors against whom liens are quite often unjustifiably filed.

"Heretofore a lienor had the right to file as many liens as he pleased and, although defective, each had to be bonded and none could be discharged excepting by a bond or by an expensive litigation.

"The act further provides that where a lien is willfully exaggerated it is void, and if upon a trial, the court should find that such lien has been willfully exaggerated, the lien will be vacated, and the lienor will have no right to file any other or further lien.

"Quite often lienors deliberately exaggerate their liens, thereby compelling an owner or contractor to pay larger premiums in bonding such liens. Moreover, under the new law, where a lien is declared void on account of such exaggeration, the owner or contractor, as the case may be, may recover from the lienor damages which should include the premiums paid on bonds and attorneys' fees.

Building Loan Agreements.

"A very important amendment is found in Section 22, which provides that a building loan contract shall contain a statement showing the consideration paid, or to be paid, and the expenses incurred, or to be incurred, in connection with the loan and showing also the net amount available to the borrower for the operation.

"Heretofore even an examination of the building loan agreement or mortgage did not enable an investigator to ascertain how much of the amount mentioned was actually available; in other words, you could not tell how much of the sum named was to be deducted for expenses and other charges. This provision will enable a material man or contractor, about to go on an operation, to find out how much of the building loan moneys will be actually available to defray the cost of the operation.

"Under liens on public improvements, the law provides that every assignment due, or to become due, under a contract for a public improvement, shall contain a covenant by the assignor that he will receive any moneys advanced thereunder by the assignee, as a trust fund to be applied first to the payment of claims of subcontractors, architects, engineers, surveyors, laborers and material men, and further provides that the funds received by a contractor under any advances made pursuant to an assignment, shall be a trust fund, a misapplication of which shall make him guilty of larceny, punishable as hereinbefore provided.

"Under public improvements, a provision is found that where a contractor has on deposit a sum of money by reason of an estimate, and where payment of such estimate is withheld because of a notice of lien, the contractor may leave on deposit a sum sufficient to pay the lien and withdraw the balance upon application to the court.

"From the foregoing it may be seen that a great step forward has been taken by the Legislature in an endeavor to combat the evils inherent in the building trades. In addition, material men and contractors may derive a great deal of satisfaction from the knowledge that the commission has been continued for another year with broader powers. We can be confident that under the leadership of Senator Fearon the commission will continue their research and will, if they find it necessary, suggest such additional amendments as their investigation may warrant."

TO LAUNCH NEW SHIP FOR CUBAN SERVICE

BUILT UNDER SUBSIDY ACT

New Vessel Is Expected to Reduce the Running Time to Havana From 72 to 60 Hours.

The turbo-electric liner Oriente, being built for the Ward Line's New York-Havana express service and second ship of a $13,000,000 building program of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Steamship Lines of which the Ward Line is a subsidiary, will be launched Thursday, May 15, at the yard of the Newport News Shipbuilding Company, it was announced yesterday by Franklin D. Mooney, president of the parent company.

Miss Virginia Hoyt, fifteen-year-old daughter of Richard F. Hoyt, vice-president of the Agwi group and a member of the banking firm of Hayde, Stone & Co., will act as sponsor of the ship. Her maids of honor will be the Misses Martha Allen and Katherine Clark. Miss Hoyt is a granddaughter of the late Galen L. Stone, many years chairman of the board of directors of the Agwi Lines.

The Oriente is a sister ship of the Morro Castle, which was launched March 5. She has a gross tonnage of 11,300, is 508 feet long, 70.9 feet beam and has a loaded draft of 26 feet. She is built to make twenty knots an hour. The Oriente and the Morro Castle will reduce the present running time of seventy-two hours maintained by the Ward Line Ships between New York and Havana to about sixty hours.

The Oriente will carry about 400 passengers in first class and ninety in the tourist class. The ship has two funnels, one of which is a dummy to be used for ventilating purposes. Nine bulkheads divide the hull into water-tight compartments, meeting the requirements of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service and following the rules of the Conference of 1920 for Safety of Life at Sea. Ten lifeboats and two motorboats are carried.

Both the Oriente and the Morro Castle are built under the terms of the merchant marine act of 1928 to encourage and assist the construction of American tonnage. The Ward Line now holds an ocean mail contract under this act and has obtained from the Shipping Board a loan of 75 per cent of the cost of the ships. The Agwi group is also building the liner Borinquen at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company plant at Quincey, Mass., for its Porto Rican service.

The Oriente is named for the province in the eastern part of Cuba which is rich in agricultural productiveness and its scenic beauty.

The Hamburg American Line has made an arrangement with the German Government to expedite the landing of passengers at the German terminal by executing customs and immigration formalities before the ships reach Hamburg, it was announced yesterday. This system, which was in effect there several years ago, provides for Germany what many critics of the United States customs service have suggested here for speeding up passenger traffic in rush seasons.

Officials of the immigration and customs services of the German Government will board the liners at Cherbourg and continue to Cuxhaven, the Hamburg port, examining baggage and passports during the passage. This service will allow the forwarding of first-class passengers and luggage on the special train from Cuxhaven to Hamburg within a half-hour after the ship is tied up. Special trains with second-cabin, tourist third-cabin and third-class passengers will follow at half-hour intervals, it was said.

GALE DELAYS THE CARONIA.

In Port Twenty Hours Late, Liner Reports 500-Foot Iceberg.

The Cunarder Caronia arrived yesterday from Liverpool via Belfast, twenty hours late because of a heavy northwest gale with high head seas last Wednesday, Captain B. B. Oram, the master, said.

On the following afternoon the Caronia passed a big iceberg, 500 feet long and 250 feet high, about eighteen miles away. Captain Oram said he had received warning of the approach of the ice and was on the lookout for it. In his opinion the iceberg was drifting at the rate of forty miles a day. The position was Lat. 41:30 degrees N. and Long. 46 degrees W.

Among the passengers was Lieut. Col. J. R. Lord, delegate from London to the Mental Hygiene Congress in Washington.

A stowaway, Patrick Morgan, 40 years old, who hid in the after hold at Belfast, was found twenty-four hours after leaving port and will be sent to Ellis Island this morning to await deportation.

CATHOLIC TOURISTS TO SAIL

First Group in Students' Travel League to Go to Europe May 15.

The first group of tourists who will go to Europe this year under the auspices of the Catholic Students' Travel League will sail May 15 on the Cunard liner Tuscania. This tour will last forty-five days and in the party will be representatives of many parts of the country.

The passengers will visit France, Italy, Germany, Austria and Switzerland. The itinerary includes an audience with the Pope during a five-day stay in Rome and attendance at the Passion Play in Oberammergau. Similar trips will be made throughout the Summer by groups under the direction of the league, whose work is endorsed by Cardinal Hayes and Cardinal O'Connell.

MORRISONS SAVED AT SEA.

Portland-to-Portland Voyagers' Small Boat Is Nearly Swamped.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 4.—With the tiny craft in which they had hoped to sail from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., nearly submerged in a heavy sea in Buzzards Bay, and their voices hoarse from calling for help, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Morrison of New York City were rescued from the sea this morning and taken to Providence by an oil tanker.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison were numb from cold and were about to slip into the ocean after clinging to their boat for more than half an hour.

After partaking of warm food, neither appeared the worse for the experience. Both agreed they would not resume their trip until they obtained a larger boat.

LAKE ERIE GIVES UP DEAD.

Bodies, Believed Two of Three Missing Coast Guardsmen, Recovered.

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 4 (AP).—The bodies of two of three Coast Guardsmen believed to have been lost in a storm which swept the western section of Lake Erie Thursday and Friday nights were recovered near the Maumee Bay Harbor late today.

The bodies were thought to be those of Captain Gardner D. Young and Master Mechanic's Mate Pratt. Chief Motor Machinist Hay, known to have been with Young and Pratt, is missing.

The three left the CG-173, of which Captain Young was in charge, three miles northwest of the Detroit Harbor light Thursday at 2:20 P. M. in a speed boat to cruise the bays and inlets of the surrounding waters for rum-runners. They failed to report back.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES ON PAGE 47.

But now the flame she had kindled must sear the man she loves! And the freedom she had won for others makes her the slave of the man she hates!

Here is the drama that remade the world, told, and sung, and pictured in Full Color in—

A First National and Vitaphone production. With Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Noah Beery and Alice Gentle, famous opera star. Vitaphone pictures are produced exclusively by Warner Bros. and First National. "Vitaphone" is the registered trade-mark of The Vitaphone Corporation.

The Last Word in All-Color Spectacle—
With Thousands of People—Hundreds of Thrills!

Never has any screen spectacle approached the cosmic quality of "SONG OF THE FLAME"!

It will catch you in the current of mass emotion . . . sweep you on the shoulders of its surging mobs into profligate palaces where a people drunk with the new wine of freedom trample the dead glories of departed kings in abandoned bacchanalia and voluptuous debauch.

Think of a "Sea Hawk" or a "Passion" photographed throughout in Technicolor and humanized by Vitaphone . . .
